Great Sacrifice Sale!

In order to reduce my large stock of General Merchandise at once, we have decided to put on a

GENUINE BARGAIN DAY

At Arcola on Saturday, Sept. the 15th, will be the day when you can buy from the undersigned anything in their store at actual Cost. This stock consists of a full line of staple dry goods, notions, dress goods, shoes, clothing, hats, drugs, hardware, tinware, groceries, etc.

These goods are all new and first-class in every particular. They were bought before the rise in prices and the price we put on them will be less than they can be bought to-day at wholesale cash prices.

We will have plenty of Clerks to wait on you and see that your wants are attended to. We have the goods that you will need and you can get them now at less money than you can at another time or place in this section during this Fall.

A dollar saved is a dollar earned, and if you will adopt this motto you will find yourself coming to Arcola Saturday, SEPTEMBER 15th. At actual wholesale cost these goods are going. You take advantage of this sale which lasts only One Day, and you will serve your best interest. Cash will be required for all purchases on this occasion, on account of the extreme low prices. 414 Ballots, and Still There's Nothing Doing.

The First district congressional convention, after being in session five days, adjourned Friday afternoon until Thursday of this week, the reason for this being that a good many of the delegates were called to Jenkins county superior court and it was thought that a rest might bring a different spirit over the dreams of the delegates. The session Friday had been a stormy one and at the end of it the best of feeling did not prevail. It is hoped that the recess may bring forth a better feeling all around. Four hundred and fourteen ballots were cast and the vote still stood, 18 for Brannen and 18 for Sheppard. It is believed that there will be a nomination before the convention is in session much longer. Just who will be the nominee no one knows at the present time.

More Rail Road Talk.

Statesboro is yet to become a great railroad center. If all the roads are built to and from Statesboro that are talked of then the Indianapolis and Chattanooga and other great railroad centers will have to take a back seat. With this as a center it is proposed to cover wiregrass Georgia with railroads so thick that it will resemble a spider's web on a frosty morning.

The latest talk along this line is a railroad from Statesboro to Wrightsville to be known as the Statesboro and Wrightsville Railroad company. The proposed railroad will extend from Statesboro via Portal Summit and Swainsboro to Whitesville, a distance of about sixty miles. The principal office is to be in Statesboro. A petition for charter has been filed with the secretary of state. The following names appear on the list of petitioners: E. Daugherty, J. A. Daugherty, A. Williams, M. M. Monroe and T. L. Lanier of Bulloch county, W. J. Williams, Penton Willson and Alex. Coleman of Emanuel county, and Gerald Conkling of New York.

Within the next few weeks the handsome residence of J. P. Williams, on South Main street, will be ready for occupancy. This will be, perhaps, the finest residence between Macon and Atlanta. The building, which is costing $80,000, will, when completed, be fitted up with every modern convenience. It presents a beautiful appearance already, but will be much prettier when the finishing touches have been put to it.

No Candidate for

Statesboro will offer no candidate for the court of appeals. This will be welcome news, as every nook and hamlet in the state has put forward its favorite son for this place. The candidates seem to be good, bad and indifferent, with probably a majority of the latter class. Statesboro has a number of good men for this office and would no doubt make a strong race were they to enter. Hon. G. S. Johnston, Col. R. Lee Moore and Col. A. M. Deal are men who would fill this office with honor to themselves and credit to their constituents.

We have not interviewed these gentlemen on this question, but we feel sure they would rather continue to practice their profession than enter a race when the field is already full of frisky candidates.

INTERESTING CARD BY R. F. D. CARRIER.

Statesboro, Ga., Sept. 10.

Editor News: As the nomination has passed and political questions claim the people's attention no more for while, I decided to ask you for space to discuss something that is of much importance to your subscribers and to be able to get at least a few people interested and get an expression from some others. The subject on which I shall attempt to write is Rural Free Delivery and its untold benefits to the farmer and the great good it is accomplishing in removing the inconveniences of country life.

Rural free delivery is indeed one of the principal causes of our great progress at this day. Ten years, or even five years, ago, the average farmer had to lose a day's work of a horse and hand to get his mail from the post office. He sent after his mail once a week. If he took a weekly from his nearest city and his county paper they were at least three or four days old when he received them. He got his cotton reports three or four days after publication and the market had changed possibly several times since the reports were issued before they reached him. A friend or relative would be dead and buried before it would be possible to get a letter delivered.

What is the condition today? The farmer living ten miles from town reads the city daily of date while he is taking his noon rest and his county paper before the printer's ink is dry on it; gets his market reports on day of issue; writes a letter to New York or Chicago and gets a reply in three to five days; keeps up with the current events and can converse intelligently with his city friend; sells his products for top prices, because he knows what the market is doing; his land has nearly doubled in value because of these improvements, and country life is losing its undesirableness because it is nearly as convenient to live in the country as in the city. Now, this rural free delivery appropriation has given the farmer some practical benefit—something he could see and realize. Appropriations for ports, rivers and harbors benefit all citizens, but in an indirect way and the farmers never realize the good, because it is so far removed from him. Rural delivery is a home institution, and is appreciated as such.

Now, a few words to patrons. Uncle Sam has given you this great improvement in mail service and you should give him and his carriers your hearty co-operation. One of the first requirements in obtaining a route is that the road over which the carrier is to go daily is to be kept in at least passable condition. Each patron signing petition for the establishment of a route agrees to help keep roads in shape for carrier to travel. Many people remember this pledge and do their part in keeping roads up or passable; others seem not to care how much trouble the poor old mail carrier has to get over the road, fill up a hole or cut a rut out for pay, and delight in hanging the box where it will be as much trouble as possible to serve.

The carrier is faithful in discharging their duties and would like for the people to take hold and help them to make the service the very best possible. I hope some enterprising patron will answer this, and if you have anything to say to the carrier that will help them or for neglect say on and we will try to improve. We certainly appreciate all kindnesses extended by our patrons. We have many that are very kind to us.

An R. F. D. Carrier.

Rural Route Roads.

Washington, Aug. 20, 1906.

The Postmaster, Sylvania, Georgia.

Sir: Replying to your letter of August 10, enclosing one from carrier on rural route 6 reporting that roads over which his route is laid out are in bad condition, you are informed that the Department requires that all roads over which rural service is laid out shall be maintained in condition to be traveled with facility and safety at all seasons of the year, and if the roads are in the condition, stated by the carrier the department will seriously consider the permanent withdrawal of service therefrom, unless some definite action is taken by the patrons and road officials looking to the repair of the affected portion and placing them in such condition as to be readily traversable by the carrier.

You will give the matter as much publicity as you can without expense to the Department and report what, if any, action has been taken in the matter not later than September 15. Very respectfully,
C. A. Conrad,
Acting Fourth Assistant Postmaster General.

Sanitarium for Statesboro.

One thing that Statesboro is very much in need of is a sanitarium. No one enterprise would be more profitable and beneficial to the growth and prosperity of the town than this one. In fact, the time has come when it can no longer be done without. It has been the custom here for a number of years when anyone became seriously ill to take him or her to a hospital or to secure trained nurses from the cities. This is expensive. It is inconvenient. With a hospital here one could get the same or better treatment for one-third the cost.

The cost of buildings and equipment would not be over fifteen thousand dollars. This is a very liberal estimate, and the cost in all probability would be much less than that.

We have known of several cases in the last few weeks that should have been treated here instead of sending them away to other places. Other cities no larger than Statesboro have their sanitariums, which they run very successfully. Why not have one here? Let the people get together on this proposition and have an institution that has long been needed, and one that will mean much to the future of the town.

Starting to Death.

Because her stomach was so weakened by useless drugging that she could not eat, Mrs. Mary H. Walters, of St. Clair, Ala., Columbus, O., was literally starving to death. "She writes: 'My stomach was so weak from useless drugs that I could not eat, and my nerves so wrecked that I could not sleep; and not before I was given up to die was I induced to try Electric Bitters, with the wonderful result that improvement began at once, and a complete cure followed.' Best health tonic on earth, too. Guaranteed by W. H. Ellis, druggist."

NOTICE.

On leaving the Baptist church last Sunday I made a mistake and brought away an umbrella not belonging to me in the place of mine. It is a self-opening one, and owner can get it by calling at the News office. If owner has mine please return.

Lynchers Go Free

Salisbury, N. C., Sept. 7.—The trial of the alleged lynchers of the negroes who were accused of the murder of the Lyster family, at Barbers Junction, was concluded yesterday afternoon and all were acquitted. This concluded the investigation, with the exception of one case—that of the alleged leader—who had been convicted and sentenced to a long term in the penitentiary. This latter one has been granted a new trial and will probably come clear.

Sentiment here is in favor of the lynchers. The trial was attended by hundreds, and when the verdict of acquittal was announced a loud cheer went up from the crowded court room, before which all efforts from the officers were ineffective.

Atlanta Gets Its First Bale.

Atlanta, Sept. 8.—The first bale of the new crop of cotton to be brought into Atlanta was sold this morning to Smith & Higgins. It was raised by W. F. Reeves, of College Park, and weighed 508 pounds. The cotton was of a fair grade and brought a good price. Smith & Higgins, who purchased it, have bought the first bale of the season for the last five or six years.

Decide On 10 Cents As Minimum Price.

Little Rock, Ark., Sept. 7.—Ten cents has been fixed by the Southern Cotton Association as the minimum price of cotton. This action was taken at 2 o'clock this afternoon.

The executive committee of the Southern Cotton Association spent all the morning and part of the afternoon going over this matter and finally arrived at ten cents as a minimum price.

Chamberlain's Cough Remedy acts on Nature's Plan. The most successful medicines are those that aid nature. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy acts on this plan. Take it when you have a cold and it will loosen the cough, relieve the lungs, aid expectation, open the secretions and aid nature in restoring the system to a healthy condition. Thousands have testified to its superior excellence. It counteracts any tendency of a cold to result in pneumonia. Price 25c. Large size, 50c. For sale by all druggists.

Thousand Dwellings Needed in Waycross.

Waycross, Ga., Sept. 7.—A recent telegram to Mayor Knight from an official of the Atlantic Coast Line, stating that from 500 to 1,000 dwelling houses would be required in Waycross for employees of the new shops, has stirred up many of the property owners here, but little has so far been done toward arranging for their construction. While probably 150 dwellings during the past twelve months, they have done little to relieve the congestion which already existed.

Beautiful Entertainment.

The Baracca class gave a delightful entertainment to the young people of the town Monday evening. The guests assembled at Gilson's cafe, where card games were played and a phonograph concert given by Master Otis Lucas. Refreshments were served. Practically all the young people in town were invited.

Cotton Market.

The cotton market stays close around nine cents, there being but little variation either way.

Miss Bernice Brannen Dead.

Late Friday afternoon, Miss Bernice Brannen, the fourteen-year old daughter of Mr. Edward A. Brannen, living near Statesboro, died of typhoid fever. Miss Brannen had been ill for some time with that dread fever and the physicians were unable to stop the fatal ravages. During her illness Dr. Wannell of Excalibur, and Dr. McEachern of Statesboro were the attending physicians.

Miss Brannen was a peculiarly sweet and attractive girl, and her death is all the more sad as she was just entering upon the threshold of womanhood. The funeral occurred Sunday morning at Bethlehem church. It was largely attended. The funeral exercises were conducted by Elder J. L. Smith. The deceased has a large family connection and a host of friends who mourn her untimely taking off.

Attempt to Wreck Train

Montgomery, Ala., Sept. 7.—It has just come to light here that a daring effort was made to wreck the Louisville and Nashville passenger, south bound, near Speiglers Tuesday night. This train usually carries a large number of passengers and why the effort was made to wreck it is not known. Two cross ties were placed upon the rail a mile above Speiglers and the engineer did not see them in time to bring his train to a full stop, and his engine hit the ties and they were thrown from the track.

The trucks were badly damaged and the train was three hours in getting ready to move on. The Louisville and Nashville officials wired for the state bloodhounds at Speiglers and they were put upon the track and soon two negroes were captured and looked up. They deny being guilty.

Special officers of the Louisville and Nashville are still busy at work on the matter and further developments are expected.

Bribery Charges

Proved False

On the floor of the congressional convention on last Friday afternoon, Delegate J. S. Collins, of the Chatham delegation, made the bold and open charge that the Brannen delegation were trying to bribe votes to Mr. Brannen, or, in other words, that a Brannen delegate had been forced into the room with a Sheppard delegate who was sick to sleep, notwithstanding the fact that the hotel was not crowded and that said Brannen delegate had offered the said Sheppard delegate $500.00 to change his vote for Brannen.

Mr. Collins emphasized his words by saying that if this was true Mr. Brannen, under the McKinley bill, could not take his seat in the national congress.

The proof of the charge was instantly demanded of Mr. Collins by the Brannen side of the House. The name of the delegates who had tendered the offer, and the man to whom it was tendered was demanded. Then Mr. Collins stated that he did not know of this of his own knowledge, but had been so informed, and that the man who informed him was in the room. "Give us his name and submit proof," was the rejoinder from Judge S. L. Moore, of the Brannen side. Mr. Collins sought a conference with his associates, all the time of which were demands of "show your proof, or make an apology."

Finally Mr. Collins stated he did not propose to apologize; he had only heard about this matter third-handed, but Mr. Poppell, a delegate from McIntosh County, was the man alleged to have been approached. "Show us your man was again repeated." Then after repeated calls for Poppell the young man in question arose, and in a broken excited manner began to tell of a conversation he had held. He stated that he came in the night before the convention opened on Thursday, ahead of his associates, and registered at the Jaekel.

After supper he became acquainted with gentleman he afterwards learned was a friend to Mr. Brannen. They talked together until a late hour on the front veranda of the hotel. Mr. Poppell had been a very enthusiastic supporter of Mr. Brannen, and so had his friend. They became intimate. About this time a porter came up and asked them if they knew where their room was. Poppell answered in the affirmative, and his friend answered that he had not registered, but would do so and get a room. Poppell stated that he then invited his friend to share his room with him as there was two beds in it. The offer was accepted. After the room was reached, and being undressed, each man on his own bed, the conversation turned to the congressional deadlock. His friend expressed himself as hoping Mr. Brannen would win, Mr. Poppell agreeing with him, he, Poppell, stating that he thought that Mr. Brannen having received a majority of the votes ought to be elected, and he expected to cast his vote for him next day. If only one vote was needed to elect him that vote was forthcoming. He said his friend then remarked that he would be glad to see Mr. Brannen get it, and felt so much that way that he would be willing to give his personal check for $500 to see him elected. Mr. Poppell stated that no money or check was ever tendered him, and no suggestion ever made that it would ever be.

The Democratic Ticket

The only new names on the State Democratic ticket for State House officers are Hon. Hoke Smith for Governor and Mr. S. G. McLeiden for Railroad Commissioner. The other nominees are honored officials, most of whom have served the people in their present positions long and faithfully.

Both Mr. Smith and Mr. McLeiden are well known to the people of the state, the former, particularly so, because of his recent campaign. Both are men of recognized ability and are in harmony in their views on most, if not all, of the questions which were discussed in the gubernatorial campaign. There is no doubt as to where either stands in respect to the railroads. Within the last year Mr. McLeiden has written a number of articles, the purpose of which was to show that railroads are over capitalized and that they should not be permitted to charge rates that enable them to pay dividends on this capitalization.

In his campaign speeches Mr. Smith favored the domestication of foreign railroad corporations doing business in the state and also a reduction of rates. The outlook is, therefore, that during his administration the affairs of the railroads will occupy a pretty big share of the public attention.—Savannah News.

"To Cure a Felon"

Pain From a Burn Promptly Relieved by Chamberlain's Pain Balm

A little child of Michael Strauss, of Vernon, Conn., was recently in great pain from a burn on the hand, and as cold applications only increase the inflammation, Mr. Strauss came to Mr. James M. Nichols, a local merchant, for something to stop the pain. Mr. Nichols says: "I advised him to use Chamberlain's Pain Balm, and the first application drew out the inflammation and gave immediate relief. I have used this liniment myself, and recommend it very often for cuts, burns, strains and lame back, and have never known it to disappoint." For sale by all druggists.

Last Sunday Excursion.

Breath easy once more. The agony is all over. The week-end Sunday excursion, for the season of 1906, is a thing of the past, so far as Statesboro is concerned. The last excursion of the season was run Sunday. The people along the Central between here and Dublin took advantage of this chance to go to Tybee cheap and the train was literally packed. Quite a number from here went also.

We are glad these excursion are over. Personally we do not believe in them for a number of reasons. Since the lid has been on in Savannah large crowds have not gone down on Sunday as they did earlier in the season.

Let us hope that next year they will be done away with altogether. The taking of off this Tybee special gives us a better mail service for which we are sincerely thankful.

Cured Hay Fever and Summer Cold

A. J. Neumann, Batesville, Indiana, writes: "Last year I suffered for three months with a summer cold so distressing that it interfered with my business. I had many of the symptoms of hay fever, and a doctor's prescription did not reach my case, and I took several medicines which seemed to only aggravate my case. Fortunately I insisted upon having Foley's Honey and Tar and in the yellow packages, and it quickly cured me. My wife has since used Foley's Honey and Tar with same success." W. H. Ellis.

Fire at Stilson.

The store of Mr. W. R. Smith, at Stilson, caught fire Monday morning about 2 o'clock and was burned to the ground. There was no insurance. The loss is about $1,000. The origin of the fire is not known.

Petition for Charter.

To the Hon. Philip C. Oak, Secretary of the State of Georgia.

The petition of J. A. Daugherty, J. A. Daugherty, A. Williams, M. M. Moore and T. L. Lanier of Bulloch county, Georgia, and W. J. Williams, Penton Wilson and Alex. D. Coleman, of Emanuel county, Georgia, and Charles C. Lee of Stanford, Conn., and Gerald H. Conklin of the state of New York, most respectfully show:

First, That they desire for themselves, their associates and assigns to become incorporated under the laws of the state as the Statesboro and Wrightsville R. R. Company.

Second, That the period they desire to be incorporated for is one hundred years.

Third, That they desire to incorporate and railroad company with a one hundred thousand dollar capital stock, with the privilege of increasing said capital stock from time to time not exceeding one million dollars.

Fourth, That they desire to incorporate said railroad company, and to operate same between Statesboro, and running through the western section of Bulloch county, Georgia, at or near Portal in said county, and through Emanuel county, Georgia, touching or running near Summit, in Emanuel county, Georgia, and thence in the north-western direction to or near Swainsboro, in the county of Emanuel, and then running in the northwestern direction at or near Kite, in Johnson county, Georgia, and to Wrightsville in the county of Johnson.

That the length of the said railroad according to route above indicated will be about sixty miles, and that petitioners do intend in good faith to go forward without delay to do all things necessary to build said road, and to operate same and maintain same.

Sixth, That they wish to issue common stock in said company up to the amount of its capitalization.

That the principal office of said company will be in the city of Statesboro, Bulloch county, Georgia.

They therefore desire to become incorporated as above set forth.

E. Daugherty, J. A. Daugherty, J. A. Daugherty, A. Williams, M. M. Moore, T. L. Lanier, W. J. Williams, Penton Wilson, Alex. D. Coleman, Charles C. Lee, Gerald H. Conklin, Augustus F. Lee, Attorney for petitioners.

How to Avoid Appendicitis.

Most victims of appendicitis are those who are habitually constipated. Only Laxative Fruit Syrup cures chronic constipation by stimulating the liver and bowels, and restores the natural action of the bowels. Orino Laxative Fruit Syrup does not nauseate or gripe and is mild and pleasant to take. Refuse substitutes. W. H. Ellis.

Throw Away Over Six Hundred Dollars

Well Known Traveling Man Tells What He Saw Col. Dillingham Do.

"I was in Detroit a few months ago and was an eye-witness to one of the most novel sights I have ever seen. It was the parade of Col. Dillingham, which took place on the principal streets of that city, and the spectacles of a man, apparently in his right senses, throwing money into the streets, followed by a shouting, howling mob of small boys, fighting and scrambling, sometimes under the very feet of the horses that drew his carriage, was worth going miles to see. This was the first glimpse I had of the world-famous Col. Dillingham and his unique methods of advertising. For block after block along the entire route of his parade, which was several miles in length, he tossed handfuls of silver money from his carriage, and I was told that over six hundred dollars was cast to the winds by the advertiser in this fashion during that one parade. That amount would certainly make a great many youngsters happy for a few days, as some of the boys followed from the time of the parade started until it closed, and in this way managed to secure four or five dollars each. If Dillingham intends to get rid of money in each town he visits at the same rate he did during that parade, he will certainly need the mines of Africa at his command."

"I also saw in this parade the celebrated and much-talked-of electric band wagon, supposed to be the only thing of its kind ever built. It is indeed a very handsome and novel vehicle, a triumph of the wagon-builder's art. I heard while there that Col. Dillingham is quite an enthusiast in regards to automobiles and other electrical machines, and that this wagon was built from his own design. In traveling about I have often heard of this man, but this was the only time I ever had the pleasure of seeing him.—For sale by The Simmons Co., Statesboro, Ga.

Why the Vagrancy Law Should be Enforced.

In last Tuesday's issue of the News I saw a piece on vagrancy, a subject in which I am interested. The vagrancy law is one which should be enforced. If we have a law but do not enforce it, what good is it to us? Why, it isn't any good. If we always talk about doing something and never do it, it goes undone.

Just see the big strapping buck negroes walking the roads with a valise or something of the kind, while the poor white children are at work in the fields. Is there any justice in that? I hope to see the day come when we can take our muskets and drive the rascals out of our territory into their own. We wouldn't have them to contend with them. Ever since Reed and Cato killed the Hodges family I have hated them.

It is to be hoped that after Mr. Hoke Smith goes into office he will teach them a lesson. But in the meantime let us enforce the laws that we now have. J. K. B.

Facts and Figures

Is what it takes to convince an intelligent public. Advertisements that prove to be "hot air" advertise the advertiser as a "faker" and not as a business man. We only employ in our advertisements facts and figures.

In our last ad. we stated that notwithstanding the advance of from 10 to 35 per cent in wholesale prices of goods caused by the advance in the price of cotton, wool, silk, leather and labor, we are now selling goods as cheap as you bought them when cotton was 4 to 6 cts. per pound, and when labor was almost nothing.

Did you ever see such prices as these when cotton was 4 cts. per pound and when the old line credit merchant had every thing his way? Think over the matter and see if we are not "public servants," as we profess to be, and are doing the public real service.

CONVENTION

STILL TIED.

Third Session—462d Ballot Taken Yesterday and no Nomination Yet.

The congressional convention met here yesterday for the third time and was called to order at 12 o'clock by Judge Miller, the chairman.

The convention was opened with prayer by Rev. Mr. MacDonald of the Methodist church.

The 415th ballot was taken and resulted in a tie. After five or six more ballots had been taken Judge Miller read a telegram, sent to the convention in his care, from J. H. Burns, of Fairfax.

It proposed to break the deadlock by nominating Robt. M. Hitch, and in the words of the telegram "to eliminate from Georgia's history its darkest page," probably referring to the lynching of Cato and Reed, with which Capt. Hitch was prominently connected as commander of the troops at Statesboro.

The motion was made and carried to have the telegram referred to Mr. R. Simmons. This was afterwards reconsidered and the telegram was tabled. The balloting continued until the 428th ballot was taken, when the convention adjourned until 2 o'clock.

The personnel of the convention is very much the same as the convention that was in session here last week. Of course, there are some changes in delegates, but in the main the same delegates are here this time that have been present at the former sessions.

In the afternoon the balloting continued along the usual lines until the 433d ballot was taken, when Mr. Collins moved to renew the resolution of Mr. Green to refer the matter back to the people.

"The people are tired," he said, "the people are done to offend that rather remained undone. A hastily eaten meal and resultant headache may cause us social or financial loss. The wise man or woman is the one who relieves little ills of this sort by a little dose of Kodol For Dyspepsia. It digests what you eat and puts your stomach back into shape. Sold by W. H. Ellis.

SEVEN DIE IN WRECK

Trains Were Moving at a High Speed When They Met Head-On.

Ringgold, Ga., Sept. 12.—Seven trainmen, members of crews of two freight trains on the western and Atlantic railroad, were killed in a head-on wreck here at 2 o'clock this morning.

The collision came without a moment's warning to the victims of the disaster who went to their death in the twinkling of an eye. Northbound train No. 8 was said to have been running fifteen miles an hour, while southbound train No. 19 was speeding at an estimated rate of thirty-five miles an hour. The impact of the trains was frightful and the crash of engines and roar of destruction of cars was heard several miles away in the still morning air.

The dead are: T. Y. Whitehead, conductor, 150 Central avenue, Atlanta. C. W. Fisher, engineer, 111 Simpson street, Atlanta. C. H. Clements, engineer, 89 Markham street, Atlanta.

W. J. Kinnaman, fireman, Kennewas, Ga. N. B. Skelton, fireman, Kennewas, Ga.

W. M. Slaughter, fireman, of Atlanta.

Walter Smith, apprentice fireman, Winchester, Tenn.

At noon five bodies had been taken from the debris and two wrecking crews were heroically at work to recover the other two bodies which were at the bottom of the wreckage.

The tragedy occurred about 2 o'clock, and though the night was dark, instantly following the collision the fire from the burning wreckage lit up the very heavens and made the scene gruesome and ghastly in the crimson glare.

When day light dawned the whole scene grew into exaggerated proportions in the gray dawn of the early morning.

The giant locomotives, gripped in death, lay dismantled and bent, and torn in every piece of steel and bar of iron. Like monster duellists, they dashed head-on in desperate conflict and both had been vanquished.

Tenders and freight cars were strewn in all directions, some on end, others prone upon their sides, with trucks and places of running gear cast about in haphazard fashion as though some giant hand had caught up both trains, twisted them into bits and hurled them down again in anger upon the ground.

And beneath the wreckage white faces lay cold in the death, their countenances distorted with agony and horror.

North bound No. 8, with Engineer Clements at the throttle, is blamed for the disaster. It is believed that he overlooked orders which cost him not only his own life, but the lives of six others who depended upon him.

The two trains were to have met at Grayville siding, according to orders sent out earlier in the night, but later on, it is reported, the meeting point was changed to Ringgold and both crews were given copies of the new orders.

It is believed that the first order still remained fresh in the mind of Engineer Clements when

Well Worth Trying.

W. H. Brown, the popular pension attorney, of Pittsfield, Vt., says: "Next to a pension, the best thing to get is Dr. King's New Life Pills." He writes: "They keep my family in splendid health." Quick cure for headache, constipation and biliousness. 25c. Guaranteed at W. H. Ellis' drug store.

The Circus.

Jones' show came and has gone. It was here Tuesday, when two performances were given; one in the afternoon and one in the evening. A large crowd was in town on that day, and both performances were well attended.

The show was fairly good. We have seen better. The scenes of western life were the chief features. We suppose the crowd got what they wanted and were satisfied. There is a great deal of truth in that dictum of Barnum's, that the American people like to be humbugged. It is luxury that they enjoy and will pay their money for.
