NO NOMINATION MADE.

The convention to nominate a candidate for congress met in Savannah last Friday and adjourned at midnight on Saturday until next Wednesday. The proceedings were warm from beginning to end. On Saturday night Hon. E. K. Overstreet made a hot speech and overpowered the Sheppard force for refusing to nominate some one. The Brannen delegates offered many good men from the country and city but they were all turned down by the Sheppard crowd, and it was then that Overstreet said that he had no more names to offer but would meet them at the polls in November. The Brannen men did every thing that was fair and honorable and have done all that they could to nominate some candidate, but Sheppard refused to get out, even after his delegates had requested him to withdraw. As matters now stand Brannen and Sheppard will make the race in the regular election on Nov. 6.

On account of the fact that Brannen and his delegates have made every reasonable offer many people who voted for Sheppard before have become disgusted and will vote for Brannen. Even in Savannah many say that Brannen can beat him in that city.

The Brannen men do not propose to offer another name, as they have already offered about thirty good men. If Sheppard will not get out of the way the chances are that the contest will be settled in November and that Mr. Brannen will win, as he did in the primary.

Now the council can take that fifty dollars collected for the circus plus another hundred and fifty and put the streets in passable condition.

It has come to the pass that Statesboro can entertain ten thousand people offhand. She did it Friday the day of the circus.

Now the season for fairs is on all the counties will have this honor, on paper of claiming that they have the best agricultural lands in the state.

Probably the convention wants to suspect all the hotels in the district before making a nomination. A better one than the Jaekel cannot be found and we suggest that the convention return to its first love.

Russell, Powell, and Hill are men who will do honor the Appellate Court. A better selection could not have been made. All are able jurists and thoroughly conversant with the finer points of the law.

The indications are that the convention will celebrate the national day of thanks giving without having made a nomination. They can celebrate it in good form if some of Savannah's famous artillery punch is still available.

Once again we would suggest that that committee appointed to raise funds for the agricultural school that the time has come when something must be done. It is a prize worth working for, and some of the other places that are working for the prize will now us out of it unless some action is taken at once. Let that committee get busy and see what can be done about it.

No Retrenchment.

What was said editorially in these columns a few days ago about certain Savannah politicians and Savannah machine politics will not be retracted. There will be no crawling on the part of this paper at this or any future time. The charges were made openly and aboveboard. They are irrefutable. They were not as strong as they can be made if occasion requires. The half was not told; only part of the truth was revealed. The corruption and rottenness of Savannah machine politics and politicians are too foul and black to be brought to the attention of decent people. It is like pulling the scab off of an ulcerous and running sore.

That votes were bought in the election in Savannah referred to in the editorial in question there can be no doubt. The day after the election every daily in the state told of the buying of votes and of the corrupt on. The press reports said that votes were bought openly at from $30 to $40 each.

That the Citizens Club was defeated by the People's Democratic League was the biggest sensation of the year in state politics. It was talked of everywhere and the press of the state roundly condemned such shameful abuse of the ballot box.

Everybody knows who was the power behind the throne in the election. They know who furnished the sinews of war and who furnished the cash necessary to purchase votes enough for a winning ticket. But now that the election is somewhat removed and the convention is on and as both of these politicians want to pose as purists and moralists the better to lead the country delegates of the Sheppard forces they object to having the plain truth told in this paper. We are going to tell the truth as we see it, no matter who it offends. Things have come to a pass where one must fold his hands, shut his mouth and not raise his voice in protest against such corruption. What was said in this paper will stand. If Jake Collins and Abe Guckenheimer do not like what we have said and will say about them in the future whenever we see fit, it is up to them. We have not gone anywhere and can be found at almost any time. We are in the right and not one word will we retract. If the plain truth was told as it really is and if they were stripped of all influences and tried before an impartial and untrammeled court Jake Collins and his pal, Guckenheimer, would to-day be convicted as criminals on the charge of vote buying and sent to the penitentiary. This is fact, not fancy. We know whereof we speak.

When the stench of their political corruption is held up before their noses they get awfully mad. It is no doubt a most offensive odor. Let them rant till the earth shakes the skies and the mountains are overtopped by the sea. Then let them rant some more. No statement of ours will be retracted. We have more to add and at the proper time it will be given out.

We do not like to put ourselves on a level with these two old politicians who are rotten and gangrenous to the core. It is neither pleasant nor profitable to get mixed up with such affairs as this. But we have rights and they must be respected. When any man or set of men with a record as black as the two worthies whose spleen has been aroused, begin a censorship of the press, we, for one, think it the limit, and we do not propose to stand any abuse as long as there are means of redress at hand.

Section Houses for S. & S.
Contractor A. J. Franklin is engaged in building new section houses for the Savannah and Statesboro railway. The house of the former will be a four room structure while those of the laborers will have only two rooms. They are very neat and attractive in appearance. This is a forward step that will be very much appreciated by the employees of the railroad and it has the added value of filling a long felt need. The one at Cuyler is already completed and the force of laborers are now engaged at work at Blitchton, from which point they will come on to Statesboro.

I have for sale about forty head of hogs, small and large size. R. H. Warnock, Brooklet, Ga.

Naval Stores Operators Meet.
Messrs. J. A. McDougald, F. E. Fields and W. J. Williams returned last week from the convention of Naval Stores Operators at Savannah. Messrs. Fields and McDougald are officers of this organization, the purpose of which is the control of prices for laborers. Started last year with a membership of five, all from this county, it now embraces the whole state and has a large membership. Business of importance was transacted.

Result of Neglect.
In most cases consumption results from a neglected or improperly treated cold. Foley's Honey and Tar cures the most obstinate coughs and colds and prevents serious results. It costs you no more than the unknown preparations and you should insist upon having the genuine in the yellow packages. W. H. Ellis.

Notice.
The fall term of Lyndon High School, near Pretoria, will open Monday, Oct. 22d. Good board at reasonable rates can be secured near the school. All the patrons are requested to be present. Jas. H. St. Clair, Prin.

Advice to Housewife.
No home is so pleasant, regardless of the comfort that money will buy, as when the entire family is in perfect health. A bottle of Orino Laxative Fruit Syrup costs 50 cents. It will cure every member of the family of constipation, sick headache or stomach trouble.

The cool winds of the last few days are a gentle reminder that persimmons are reddening overhead and the season for possum and tater will soon be here.

News Editorial

Bone of Contention.
Some time ago this paper printed editorial enumerating some of the low and dirty practices of Walter Sheppard and his delegation during the recent campaign. That editorial invoked the wrath of Jake Collins and Abe Guckenheimer, two of the Sheppard delegates to the convention. At Waynesboro some time ago it was read at their instance before the convention and denounced freely in the absence of its author. The editor of this paper, who is an alternate to the convention, has been too busy with his agricultural displays, as stated before, to attend a meeting of the convention until Saturday night he happened to have time to drop by on his way to Macon. He being in Savannah naturally called upon the convention, and being an alternate was entitled to the privileges of the floor.

The editor of this paper, who is an alternate to the convention, has been too busy with his agricultural displays, as stated before, to attend a meeting of the convention until Saturday night he happened to have time to drop by on his way to Macon. He being in Savannah naturally called upon the convention, and being an alternate was entitled to the privileges of the floor.

No sooner had he taken his seat in the convention than Abe Guckenheimer rose to a question of personal privilege and stated that said editorial had insulted him, and Jake, and as he had noticed that Mr. Miller, the editor, was on the floor of the convention, demanded that he explain or leave the convention.

This was met by Mr. Miller rising at once to his feet, advancing towards Guckenheimer, stating that he was the editor of the Statesboro News and was the author of the article referred to, and was present to back up each and every word that he had printed. While the editorial in question seemed to need no explanation at his hands, it was couched in language so plain that he who reads might read; it said what it meant and meant exactly what it said. For fear that Guckenheimer and Collins couldn't understand clearly the meaning of plain words printed in cold type, they were informed by Mr. Miller that he had come by for the express purpose of telling them to their face exactly what he had said to their back. They were told that the charge that members of the Chatham delegation, sitting in that convention had been guilty of the crime of buying votes by wholesale; that their conduct in a recent primary election rose like a stench in the nostrils of the people of the state; that a man who will traffic with money in ballots of American citizens was a criminal in the sight of God and in the sight of man and had no right to sit in judgment on the rights of decent people; that on a certain election day during the past summer these men were party to the wholesale purchase of votes on the streets of Savannah, where votes were bought in the open market like so many sheep, and done under the shadow of the steeple of the church that stood across the street from the court house. If its foundations had tumbled its steeple would have fallen on the men who were debauching the ballots of their fellow citizens and crushed them out of existence.

They were told to their faces and in their teeth that the trail of their candidate, Walter W. Sheppard, in his race for congress through the First district, had been drenched with red whiskey and strewn with innocent blood. They were told that the truth of each and every charge could be proven, and its author would take pleasure in doing so.

At this juncture the convention hall was in such an uproar that all order was lost. Chairman Miller was vainly rapping for order, while a dozen men were on their feet all trying to talk at one time. Among those who took part in the proceedings at this time was Mr. J. G. Blitch of the Bulloch delegation, who stood up at the back of the News editor and told him to say what he pleased; that he, too, would be in the scuffling when it came. Finally order was restored so that Jake and his bunch could caucus on the situation. They retired to their ante room and soon fled back in and proceeded to ballot on Judge Taylor's nomination. They evidently had gotten all the explanations they wanted with a shovel full thrown in for good measure. They seemed to be so thoroughly satisfied on this point that no other attempt was made by Abe and Jake to eject the editor of The News from the convention floor. What they had taken to be a soft case of running a country editor out of town proved to be a boomerang on their hands. They evidently didn't know the proposition was loaded. It is safe to say that these two "injured innocents" will be a little more careful the next time they make an attempt to put a hay seed editor to flight.

CATARH VANISHED, NAY FEVER CURED

Don't Trifle with Catarrh! Don't Court the Icy Hand of Consumption, of Which Catarrh is Advance Guard.

Summer catarrh is a term that originated with Col. Dillingham. The prevalence of catarrhal disease in summer is not generally understood. Of course the catarrh of summer differs from the catarrh of winter. But it is the atmosphere that furnishes the occasion for catarrh in the winter season, and which is taken into the system through the respiratory organs—the nose, throat, bronchial tubes and lungs. It follows that in the winter these organs will be most affected. However, in summer it is altogether different. The use of unripe fruit or green vegetables or other improper food often produces catarrh in other parts of the body, especially the alimentary canal. Thus it is that contract catarrh of the stomach, bowels and pelvic organs.

There are three sets of organs liable to catarrh, each set of which is liable from a distinctly different source. These organs include the nose, throat and lungs that come in direct contact with the atmosphere, and so acquire catarrh. The most unfavorable season for these is winter; so called winter catarrh.

Catarrh of the alimentary tract is called summer catarrh because it is more frequent during the summer than the winter, as these organs are exposed to the effects of improper food and drink, and are greatly influenced by sudden heating and chilling.

Then there is another group of organs, which comprises the pelvic organs, including the bladder, womb, follicular tubes and vagina. Catarrh of the bladder is often caused by acidity of urine and many causes conspire to produce catarrh of the womb and vagina.

We have not space to go into details of this class of catarrh; we simply desire to call attention to the different kinds of catarrh, and to point out to you a remedy that will reach the diseased parts where the germs are forming, kill the germs and expel them with the mucus and at the same time heal the sore places and arrest the progress of the disease.

Hundred of patients have been cured by Plant Juice Cough Cure after they had been pronounced hopeless. Their names and addresses will be cheerfully given upon application.

A STITCH IN TIME TO HAVE NINE

A slight cold, catarrh, bronchitis or asthma, are the forerunners of consumption. If the people would only realize this, thousands would be saved from an untimely grave.

VOL. 6 NO. 38

CONVENTION ENDS STORMY SESSION.

Closing Scenes the Liveliest Ever Seen in Georgia.

The First congressional district democratic convention, which adjourned at midnight last Saturday in Savannah, was the warmest convention ever held in Georgia. During the past thirty days or more, since the convention first opened at Statesboro, on August 30th, Jake Collins, better known in Savannah as "72 Cents Jake", has endeavored to dictate and boss the deliberations of this body of what is supposed to be representative citizens of the First district. In so far as the Sheppard side of the house is concerned, he seems to have been a roaring success with the wh-p lash. We regret to say, too, that the Brannen faction has been guilty of allowing "Old Jake" to wallop his lip into every utterance of the convention." He has been on his feet continuously from the start to the finish; so much so that he had become an eyesore to the public if not to the convention itself.

Degrading the convention the Brannen men have sought to settle this matter by giving to the district one of its deersong sons, and as many as thirty from the different counties and from the Citizens' club faction in Savannah have been turned down as a result of the maneuvering of Jake Collins. He has fought under the black flag. No man from the country counties is big enough to hold this position, as was boldly and brazenly asserted by Boss Jake on the convention floor. No man from any other faction in Savannah was acceptable except from Jake's own faction, and last he capped the climax by denouncing the Brannen side for having belittled for certain men in the district who, in bygone days, had belonged to the populist party—who, by the way, are democrats, and have been for the past six or seven years.

It was after the names of Judge Twigg, Pleasant A. Stovall, R. J. Williams, Enoch Giles and Wm. Clifton were turned down, and after having been given the eighteen votes from the Brannen side of the house, that Col. E. K. Overstreet obtained the floor and delivered one of the strongest speeches that was ever heard before a political convention in this state. Mr. Overstreet called a spade a spade. He talked square into meeting, and delivered himself on the situation in a manner that the Morning News stated caused the audience to stand aghast. He enumerated the many rotten and corrupt charges that are laid at the door of the dominant faction in Savannah. They had acted so during the past campaign and during this convention that they were a disgrace to the state of Georgia; they were more corrupt than the Chicago ward heisters or the Tammany thugs of New York. Mr. Overstreet called attention to the fact that certain Savannah politicians were doing all in their power to see that no man from the country should ever hold this office. They were arraying the country against the city, and he put them on notice that he had offered his last man and he declared that from then on it would "Lay on McDuff, and damed be the man who first cried, Hold, enough." He declared then and there that the only hope for the people representing the majority votes of the District was to go direct to the polls in the November election which they proposed to do, and that Lonnie Brannen would be running until the last vote was cast and counted; that the people from the country counties who had been outraged in this matter would rise up in their might and be felt from one end of the district to the other; at every polling place where honest men were accorded a privilege of registering their disapproval of the practices of the gang representing the minority in this election. That we would meet them at every point and whip this fight and land Lonnie Brannen in Congress." Mr. Overstreet came near losing his temper in a number of instances, but in the main he handled the question in a manner which the occasion demanded. At the conclusion of his address which was scathing from start to finish at least fifty of the best citizens of Chatham county rushed up to him and shook his hand, congratulating him on what he had said.

At the conclusion of Mr. Overstreet's speech, Collins asked for a caucus of his delegation to see if they were willing to go back to the people. After being out some time, they came back in and asked that the convention not adjourn sine die; that they now be given an opportunity to accept some of the men offered, or to agree on some settlement of the matter, so as to avoid going before the people again. They thought for the first time it was the duty of convention to nominate a man and not refer the matter back to the people. Collins was afraid that the Brannen men had been trying to array the Citizens' Club faction in Savannah and the friends of the various gentlemen cominuted with the 18 Brannen votes against Walter Sheppard.

He was evidently afraid that these efforts had borne fruit, and shivered like a leaf when the Brannen side proposed to go to the people again. He declared that the Brannen men had intended to run this race over again all the while, and seemed to think that he had been hood-winked, and had lost out. He was afraid that the crack of his whip would be resented not only at each and every polling place through the first district, country counties but in Chatham county as well. He was given until next Wednesday to offer some solutions that would name a man and break the dead lock, satisfactory to the people of the entire district. No one however has any confidence in Collins' manifestations. His side repudiated their own proposition on Saturday afternoon when they proposed that a committee be appointed by Brannen and Sheppard to try to reach an agreement, and if neither could be agreed upon then both be asked to retire from the convention and a new man selected. No agreement was reached. Mr. Brannen flatly refused, and his Sheppard ally refused, and his delegation had the humiliating task to come into the open convention and say they were repudiated by their candidate who refused to comply with the terms of their own motion.

The sessions of the convention this week are much tamer than the deliberations of that body last week. The feeling that is injected into the convention at its last weeks session, like things have cooled off considerably and a calm and deliberate spirit pervades the convention. Caution is the watchword of both delegations who realize that a most serious duty confronts them.

Successful Meeting of Knights of Pythias

The convention of Knights of Pythias that met here Tuesday was one of the most successful in the history of that organization. Everything passed pleasantly and it is the consensus of opinion that a more enthusiastic and enjoyable occasion was never attended. There was a large crowd present, being at least an hundred members of this noble organization, whose purpose is the true exemplification of the brotherhood of man.

Seven lodges from Savannah, one each from Guyton, Ludowick, Sylvan, Register and Statesboro, were represented at the convention. Three delegates from each lodge were present. The attendance from the local lodge was particularly large. There were addresses of welcome by Col. A. M. Deal and Mr. J. G. Blitch. They were responded to by Mr. W. G. Sutlive of the Savannah Press.

Several distinguished visitors were present. W. H. Leopold of Savannah, G. K. of R. and S. of the state of Georgia, was present and was one of the speakers. Sick-ness in the family of District Deputy Henderson prevented his attending.

After transacting the business that was to be disposed of the lodge adjourned at 10:30 o'clock and repaired to the Jockey hotel, where a banquet was held. Mr. J. G. Blitch acted as toastmaster. Every lodge in the district reported with a good speech.

The new officers elected for the coming year are as follows:

President, W. G. Sutlive, of Savannah;

Vice-president, J. D. Arnett, of Sylvan;

Master at Arms, L. D. Chedel, of Guyton;

Secretary and Treasurer, W. S. Brinkley, of Savannah;

Outer Guard, J. H. Parker, of Register.

The next meeting will be held at Nyxville, in April of next year.

An Awful Cough Cured

"Two years ago our little girl had a touch of pneumonia, which left her with an awful cough. She had spells of coughing, just like one with whooping cough and some thought she would not get well at all. We got a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, which acted like a charm. She stopped coughing and got stout and fat." writes Mrs. Ora Bassard, Brubaker, Ill. This remedy is for sale by all Druggists.

Rountree-Moye.

Miss Gertrude Rountree and Mr. S. L. Moye were married at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Kennedy on North Main street Tuesday evening at nine o'clock. Rev. T. J. Cobb officiating. The bride is the beautiful and attractive daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Rountree. The groom is a graduate of the Atlanta College of Pharmacy is the popular daughter of Dr. S. J. Crouch. Both of the young people are popular in social circles. The marriage, though expected for some time, came as a surprise to their many friends. It was a very quiet affair, being witnessed by only a few of their most intimate friends, after supper the couple walked out, apparently for a usual stroll, but there was a deeper purpose behind their motives.

Going to where the minister was in waiting they were united in marriage as stated above. They were attended by Miss Ophelia Nevils and Mr. Wade Hodges.

When a horse is so overworked it lies down and in other ways declares its inability to go further, you would consider criminal to use force. Many a man a humane impulse, who would not willingly harm a kitten, is guilty of cruelty, where his own stomach is concerned. Overworked, overworked, when it needs something that will digest the food eaten and help the stomach to recuperate. Something like Kodol for Dyspepsia that is sold by W. H. Ellis.

Death of Mr. Elsie Summerly.

Mr. Elsie Summerly died at his home in Savannah Monday and was interred at lower Lot's Creek church Tuesday. He had been ill for a year or longer with acute indigestion and a few days ago he contracted typhoid fever and this was the immediate cause of his death.

The deceased had formerly lived in this county, moving to Savannah about a year ago. He lived at Register before he moved away from this county. The deceased leaves a wife and family.

Council Meeting.

The city council met Tuesday night and while no business of importance was transacted yet some things were disposed of that are of interest.

The tax rate for the present year was fixed. It will be ten mills on the dollar or ten dollars on the thousand. This considerably higher than the rate last year which was only six mills on the dollar. The city's finances are in good shape and the indebtedness incurred for electric lights and waterworks is being paid off as fast as practicable.

Mr. R. M. Williams has bought the business of J. W. Olliff at Metter and will take charge of it as soon as practicable. This was the stock of merchandise recently bought by Mr. Olliff from M. J. Bowen and Company and is considered to be one of the best investments in that growing town.

Mr. O. H. Bedenbough happened to a serious accident while out hunting a few nights ago. Returning from a possum hunt he was carrying his axe in a careless manner when it fell and hit him on the knee cutting a gash about an inch and a half in length, making a very painful wound.
