Trouble Ahead.

Mr. Editor:—I notice in your paper of the 18th instant an editorial copied from the Atlanta Constitution in regard to Gov. Smith's statement about railroad conditions in Georgia compared with other states.

It seems that Clark Howell and all you other supporters of Joe Brown contend that the railroads in Georgia must make money regardless of the general conditions of the country, a sort of divine right and royal blood infused in railroad magnates which don't belong to the balance of us. Now, all of us know that the only reduction in tariff was only a fraction of a cent on most of them and that the tariff on freight was not changed at all and as for throwing men out of employment, that was done all over the United States by all railroads and other industries and thousands are still out. It seems that there is a coterie of cranks in Georgia who are trying to make a scapegoat of Governor Smith and the railroad commission to push the sins of Wall street and the money power on Georgia officials.

Now, Mr. Editor, a man with a thimble full of sense knows if it had not been for the panic we would have gotten at least 25 cents for our long cotton and 12 to 13 cents for short cotton for the crop of 1907 and a better price for this last year's crop. Europe is in as bad a condition as the United States and do you think the railroad legislation in Georgia affected Georgia, too? No. I tell you what is the matter with these fellows, especially here in the South. They will fall on their knees and kiss the big toe of the Yankee to get on the good side of them, and that is the reason so many down South vote the republican ticket to protect their pocket. If they had shown their feathers directly after the war they would have been obliged to hunt the swamps, for the old Johnnies would have made it too hot for them. Look how the Georgians slobbered over Harriman and notice the contempt he showed for Georgia as much as to say: "If you will behave yourself I will invest ten millions in C. of Ga, but don't interfere with my divine right in your legislation against railroads." Let the people of Georgia wake up and vote for their rights and see that their laws are carried out, for as sure as the sun shines our republic is doomed, just like all other republics before us, when the wealth of the country drifted into the hands of the few a stronger government arose upon the ashes of the republic and that is what these little imps of the devil are clamoring for—a government by divine right and royal blood counted by the dollars, but woe be unto them when that time comes. It will be like the French revolution in 1792, when nothing but blood satisfied the downtrodden populace.

Our Mr. Zetterower has just returned from Atlanta where he bought the best car of mules we have had this season. They are expected in to-day. Come and see them.

Camel steaks are said to have made an appearance in the cafe. This delicacy, if such it be, sells for 20 to 40 cents, while the choice cuts bring $1.35 to $2. These Paris connoisseurs have certainly got a hump on themselves.

The latest freak to put in an appearance is cobble corn. This seems to be a cereal crop, tracing back to the original type of corn from which present types were developed, in which each kernel was incased in a little husk of its own, the cob being a minor matter. This new corn is said to have little to commend it from the practical standpoint.

It is cause for an exclamation when a Doodle, a prize winning black bull, sells for $10,000, but what shall we say when the same enormous price is placed on a white hen, a thoroughbred White Orpington, Peggy by name, owned by a St. Louis poultry fancier? This particular hen is said to score the highest and be the most perfect specimen of domesticated fowl ever exhibited.

While it is generally conceded that the per cent of butter fat in milk is affected in but slight degree, if at all, by the richness of the food ration given the cow, it is a well established fact that the different portions of the same cow's milking yield a great deal in percentage of butter fat. Tests which have been made show that the first half pint of a cow's milk may contain as low as 1.07 per cent of cream, while the last half pint may show as high as 10 per cent.

In the year 1901, before the federal law was passed which prohibited the coloring of oleomargarine or butterine to imitate real butter, the sale of oleo was 120,000,000 pounds. The year following the passage of the law the output of the butter factories fell to 40,000. Within the past two or three years a special effort has been put forth to advertise the merits of butterine, its cheapness and wholesomeness, with the result that the sale of the product has been considerably increased. Butterine contains chiefly beef fat and cottonseed oil, both of which when properly handled are wholesome and nutritious food products.

As giving further proof of the view which is coming to be quite generally accepted by corn growers—that a type of corn should not be planted in a section too far removed from the place where it was grown—recall the remark of a central Nebraska farmer who got seed corn from a grower in Indiana, where it produced between seventy and eighty bushels to the acre. The corn seemed to be vigorous and gave much promise at the start of a bumper yield, but when earing time came it simply failed to do business for the same or other reasons and did not produce an ear. This is an extreme case, but illustrates a fact that corn growers who wish to get seed from other localities should take into account.

With most corn breeders a definite effort has been made for years past to reduce the cob to the smallest possible size, and an abundance of sunlight, air and rain really only object in view. In certain sections of Missouri, however, a different standard prevailed. Here a type of corn is raised in which the largest cob possible has been developed, an important, if not the primary, object in the growing of it being to furnish material for the cobs of commerce. An interesting exhibit of ears of this description are shown in the Missouri experiment station at St. Louis. That is the main point. Your chum in a pan of hot water and churn until it quits foaming, then take it out of pan and finish churning, and you will have good butter. I use a little butter coloring. It looks like May butter.

A Dairyman's Herd Book.

Counting the wrinkles on a cow's udder is one way to tell how old she is, but if she is a conservationist, you work a cow. So it is a good plan to keep a birthday book for the stock. Have a name for each. Give the name of the father and mother and date of birth. In a little while you will have a very interesting herd book of your own, whether your stock is registered or not.

Value of Clean Milking.

The first milk drawn from the cow's udder is very poor and thin, while that drawn last is thick and rich. Also a cow that is milked clean and stripped of the last drop at each milking will maintain a high flow of milk for a longer period than one which is not. It not only pays to strip the cows and get the last and richest of the yield at each milking, but it keeps them from drying up. Careless habits in finishing milking will soon make the cows go dry and cut off profits. Extract the last drop from each cow and at every milking. That is the way to sustain the flow and to get full richness in the milk.

Records Tell the Tale.

There are highly capable men who have given their best thought to the breeding of the dairy cow and to feeding her profitably for milk. None of these men have been able to conceive any plan by which the best cow is to be known, either for the purpose of determining her value in dollars and cents per year or for the purpose of weeding out the poor cows without keeping a record of their performance. The necessity of knowing what each cow in the herd is doing is apparent. There is no plan by which this can be done except by keeping a record. This record is only kept by the use of the lead pencil, a pair of scales and the Babcock test.

DOGS AND SHEEP.

Breeding Essex Seldons Recover When Chased and Worried.

A bulletin issued by the Virginia experiment station says of the loss of sheep from dogs: The dog nuisance is a great detriment to the sheep industry. The direct loss from severe chasing and worrying is often not so great as the loss that follows. Breeding Essex Seldons Recover When Chased and Worried.

A dog proof sheep fence.

ing ewes that have been badly worried and frightened rarely, if ever, entirely recover. The result is usually weak and inferior lambs at the next lambing season. Many breeders of registered sheep consider their breeding flock almost ruined after having been severely chased by dogs. Frequently a number of ewes will not breed for some time after having been chased and badly frightened. The efficiency of any dog law depends largely on its enforcement, but too frequently it is never enforced, many worthless dogs being allowed to run at large that would be controlled or destroyed if a rigid dog law was enforced.

The illustration shows a dog proof fence on the experiment station grounds, constructed as follows: The seven wire fence consists of seven vertical wires and six horizontal wires. The wire is fastened to posts set twenty-five feet apart, the bottom wire being three inches from the ground. One barbed wire is set midway between the bottom horizontal wire and the ground. One barbed wire is fastened to the posts three inches higher than the top wire. Two barbed wires are attached eight inches apart to pieces of 2 by 4 scantling nailed to the posts above the wire with twenty-penny nails. These pieces are set outwards and upward.

Ventilation of Stables.

Stables should be thoroughly ventilated without being drafty. A stuffy, foul atmosphere and drafts are equally detrimental. The temperature in the stable must be equal to the outside temperature and to keep horses in the best condition. Ventilate thoroughly, but avoid drafts.

THE DAIRYMAN.

Very important things in raising a dairy cow are plenty of pure air and an abundance of sunlight. Arrange the calf pens so that they will be flooded with sunlight. The use of masonry windows instead of the dairy construction is said to have materially aided in the fight against tuberculosis.

All in Heating Cream.

There can be good butter made in winter, says a dairyman. I can make it as good then as I can in summer. It just takes caution in heating the cream. That is the main point. Put your churn in a pan of hot water and churn until it quits foaming, then take it out of pan and finish churning, and you will have good butter. I use a little butter coloring. It looks like May butter.

BOWEN'S

Guano Distributor

Is the most successful machine of its kind ever used for distributing Commercial Fertilizers.

In covering the fertilizer it makes a bed any width from 9 to 25 inches, and any height desired.

The machine is low in price; Simple; Strong; Convenient.

Read these Testimonials from those who have used it.

The Adabelle Trading Co., of Adabelle, Ga., used one of the Distributors in 1904; the year following they used 14, and last year (1907) they used 24 on their various farms. This sufficiently expresses their opinion of the Distributor.

Statesboro, Ga., November 18, 1907.

This is to certify that for several years I was employed by the E. F. McGee Co., in this country, as their superintendent, and that they were exclusive users of farm machinery, and that they used a good many makes of guano distributors, and that the Bowen Distributor, used with a Planet Jr. cultivator was one of the best they used and gave better satisfaction for general use, and did not cost as much.

I consider them the very implement for the farmers, as he can catch the Distributor and have a good plow for almost all purposes in the cultivator.

Bell a Man of Sensations.

Milledgeville, Ga., Feb. 20.

Whether George H. Bell of Emanuel county is insane or not will be passed upon by a jury next Thursday in this city, and a case which has excited state-wide interest will probably be settled by the verdict.

The case of Bell is unusual, and this finds solution in the circumstances, probably that Bell is a man of more than ordinary talents, accomplishments and advantages.

More than twenty years ago Bell left Emory college, and joined a comedy company. He was then but a boy and his act in this instance was undoubtedly a cause for regret and disappointment to his father, Dr. Green Bell, of Swainsboro, and many of his friends.

But Bell was talented, he loved the stage and it wasn't very long after having served an apprenticeship on the stage under others, that he organized a company of his own. He took the leading part in a repertoire company and traveled very well over the country, but later yielded to the solicitations of his family he quit the stage life and settled down at his home town and established a paper, which became known throughout the state for its sparkling paragraphs and bold stand on public question. It was known as the Wiregrass Blade, and here it was Ernest Camp, who later bloomed forth into one of Georgia newspaper writers did his first work.

Bell was feverish and restless, however, and the business of editing a country newspaper was altogether too quiet for him. It wasn't long until he entered the political arena and in one of the most picturesque fights ever waged in his home county he won a seat in the Georgia Legislature.

Bell was just about 25 at this time, and he enjoyed the distinction of being the youngest member of the House. But that was not the only distinction that he won for himself. The same spirit that had led him against the opinion of his family and friends to go on the stage when he had every prospect of an honorable professional career before him, caused him to create a stir in the Legislature. Bell was attracted on the street by a plucky newboy who engaged in a successful setto with a larger and formidable opponent on the streets. Bell took the part of the youngster and after hearing a pitiful tale from his lips, told him that he would get him a place in the Legislature that would relieve him of the necessity of selling papers for a living. So Bell took his ragamuffin to the capital and in spite of much opposition from members who had clean little boys from their own precincts winning positions, succeeded in placing the boy as page of the House. The newspapers in Atlanta gave much attention to the incident, and published pictures of Bell and his diminutive protégé, and everything that Bell did during the session was given notice. In his own way Bell had been a philanthropist.

After the Atlanta incident when the session was over, the little fellow went home with Bell, and when Bell went on the road again as an actor the boy went with him as a member of the company. A valuable member he proved to be, too. He was the press agent for Bell's company when the latter went to Jacksonville to manage Phoenix Park the summer of 1904. Phoenix Park was a resort there at a popular suburban place on the St. John's river and during the season the little fellow looked after his part of the show with much interest as if he was the proprietor, and with him it was just the same for Mr. Bell who had been his benefactor, was the proprietor, and he loved him loyally all the while. It was shortly after this experience however, that Bell returned to his home town and was tried for lunacy and sent to the State Sanitarium.

It is not strange that Bell should create a sensation at the sanitarium just as he did in the Legislature. He asserts that he was kidnapped at Swainsboro after his trial and taken unawares to the asylum.

Ever since that time he has devoted his time and energy to getting out.

He claims to have written hundreds of letters to state and federal officials an to editors of newspapers setting forth that he is not insane and that he is held in confinement without the due process of law which is guaranteed by the constitution to all persons.

His letters have been published by some papers, and they have created widespread comment. Some persons assert that the letters alone are sufficient evidence that the man's mind is unbalanced, but in spite of that fact the impression upon others has been that Bell is not only not insane, but that he is in possession of more than ordinary sense. His faculty of expression remarkable, and his hold on current topics is unusual.

One of these letters fell into the hands of Thomas E. Watson, who made it a subject of two editorials in his paper, The Jeffersonian, stating that Bell should be released, or at least should be given an opportunity to prove his sanity. The chance came more than a week ago. Through the efforts of a woman, whom Bell had befriended during his days on the stage, and those of L. J. Kilburn of Macon who served in the Legislature with Bell, and W. D. McNeill a young lawyer of Macon, a hearing was had before a jury in Baldwin county, where the asylum is located. Bell was permitted to address the jury, and witnesses were introduced in his behalf, but the jury determined that he was un

Dickinson of Tennessee

Goies into the Cabinet.

Columbus, O., Feb. 20.—J. M. Dickinson, of Tennessee, will be secretary of war in the Taft cabinet.

Charles, Nagel, of St. Louis, will be Taft's secretary of commerce and labor; R. A. Ballinger will be secretary of the interior.

The statement is not made upon the announcement of Mr. Taft, but its correctness may be accepted without question.

Mr. Nagel was a caller upon the president-elect Friday, and Mr. Dickinson had a conference with him today.

Mr. Taft will permit of no announcement from him upon those conclusions.

It has been known for some time that he had practically decided upon Mr. Nagel's appointment, however, and the interview yesterday bears all the earmarks of having been arranged for the express purpose of an offer and acceptance.

Mr. Dickinson came to Cincinnati from Chicago today. He has not been under consideration as a cabinet possibility for so long a time, but has been personally and favorably known to Mr. Taft for many years. His eminent legal record and his acknowledged ability are such as to commend him peculiarly to Mr. Taft.

Mr. Dickinson is a Tennessean, although temporarily residing in Chicago, where his duties as general solicitor for the Illinois Central railway require his presence. He is a democrat, although always having opposed Mr. Bryan.

At Xenia, Ohio, Mr. Taft's car was surrounded by an eager crowd and he came out on the back platform and asked for the people that the duties of the responsible position he is about to assume may be discharged for the best good of all.

Mr. Taft will reach Philadelphia in the morning and will be the guest of Dr. S. Weir Mitchell. Mrs. Taft will join her husband there, coming from New York, where she has been spending a few days.

On Monday Mr. Taft will make an address before the Pennsylvania University and will leave for New York Tuesday.

In sickness it is a certain hidden nerve goes wrong, the organ that this nerve controls will also surely fail it may be a Stomach nerve, or it may have given strength and support to the Heart or Kidneys. It was Dr. Shoop that first pointed to this vital truth. Dr. Shoop's Restorative was not made to dose the Stomach nor to temporarily stimulate the Heart or Kidneys. That old-fashioned method is all wrong. Dr. Shoop's Restorative goes directly to these failing inside nerves. The remarkable success of this prescription demonstrates the wisdom of treating the actual cause of these failing organs. And it is indeed easy to prove. A simple five or ten day test will surely tell. Try it once, and see! Sold by W. H. Ellis.

Base Ball Game.

The first base ball game of the season was played here Monday afternoon. The Agricultural school boys together with the picked players from the Statesboro Institute met defeat at the hands of the Statesboro Sluggers.

As Monday was a legal holiday a good crowd attended the game. There were several of the number present who desired to see the shape of those members of the local club who are going to take try-outs immediately.

If the boys make good there will be about six missing from the regular lineup next summer, Grady McLean going to Columbia, S. C.; Grady Smith and Jack Biggs going to Savannah, and Richard Proctor going to Chattanooga, Tenn.; all of the South Atlantic League, and L. L. Fordham going to Spartanburg, S. C., with the South Carolina State League. Another valuable player will be missed in Cliff Brannen who will play with the University of Georgia this summer. The Statesboro team came out as the champions of Middle Georgia in the game last summer and we expect several of the boys to make good. Arrangements have been made for a good practice game every week for the benefit of the boys who are going to take try-outs and for the Institute boys who are going to compete in an athletic association that convenes here in May.

The Savannah Augusta & Northern Railway is doing a heavy business now. The freight and passenger traffic is increasing every day, the fertilizer shipments are pretty heavy and a great many saw mills and turpentine stills are located on their line, 16 saw mills are now on the line or near it, and others preparing to start up. The people are beginning to call for a double daily service and hope that the patronage of the road will justify the putting on of another train.

To be Greatest Inauguration in History of Country.

Washington, Feb. 22.—"I want the finest inauguration in history," said William Howard Taft, just after the inaugural committee under Chairman Stellwagen began to get down to business.

It looks now as if this utterance would be transformed into a prophecy and Judge Taft's wish fulfilled. Certainly the ceremonies attending his induction into the highest office in the land will be carried out this year on a grander scale than ever before, according to the reports of the chairman of the several sub-committees made yesterday to their chief, the head of the general committee.

In the great afternoon parade there will be 22,000 soldiers, sailors and marines and 9,000 citizens, members of the clubs and associations—a total of 31,000 paraders.

The attendance at the ceremonies also promises to be a record-breaker. Better yet, the arrangements made by the proper committee with the proprietors of hotels, boarding houses and the like, will not permit visitors to be charged exorbitant rates.

"A man or woman of moderate means may plan to spend three or four days in Washington during the inaugural period at a cost for lodgings and food of $2.00 per day."

The above statement was made today by Chairman Weller of the inaugural committee on public comfort. Mr. Weller explained that good lodgings in a private family or boarding house at $1.00 a day during the inaugural period, while the meals will not cost more than an additional dollar. There are many moderate priced lunch rooms and dining rooms in Washington where meals will be served from twenty-five cents up. In private houses, lodgings and board can be obtained at $1.00, $1.50, $2.00 and $2.50 per day. These will be the ruling rates.

"And," Chairman Weller said, "the owners have agreed in writing to abide by the rates quoted to the committee. The rate is usually based on a visit to Washington of four days, which will enable the ordinary visitor to see Washington properly after he or she has witnessed the greatest inaugural ceremonies ever held."

Folks who stop at the hotels will find the ruling rate to be $2.00 per day for room and board American plan, and $1.00 a day European plan. Those visitors who come here in parties of from two to four can make the best arrangements, Chairman Weller explained. He also said that not all the quarters that have been registered at headquarters of the public comfort committee, will be taken. There will be many left over and the competition will be too great to permit of gouging.

There are still available quarters for ten thousand military or civic organizations, while fully twenty-five thousand more individuals can be accommodated with rooms and board from the registry of the committee, not to mention those available places which are not registered. All the quarters registered at headquarters are rigidly examined by inspectors as to their cleanliness and sanitary condition.

A public comfort station will be established in the union-railroad station where there will be a number of committees to give advice and directions to visitors. Cadets of the Washington High School regiment will act as guides to direct strangers to their quarters already engaged or to find places for those who come here taking chance of finding a place to lay their heads.

Picture Show.
Parties were in town this week for the purpose of opening a moving picture show. It is their intention to lease the Opera House, and open there at once. The property being out of the city the deal was not consummated for the time being, but when Mr. Brannen gets back from Cuba it is thought that the building can be secured. A representative of the company called on the News Tuesday afternoon and assured us that the show is to be an up to date affair, clean and moral in every particular. They say it is their intention to locate here permanently if the patronage will justify it.

Hail Storm At Brooklet.
Brooklet and vicinity was visited by a heavy hail and wind storm Tuesday afternoon. The hail fell sufficiently heavy to cover the ground in a few minutes, making the earth look as if a heavy snow had fell. The wind did no damage and the hail only lasted a short while.

Mr. Kelley May Win Fortune.
Mr. W. A. Kelley, who will celebrate his 101st anniversary on March 10th, may in his mature years fall in possession of a great fortune, which is said to be left unclaimed until now in Ireland. Mr. Kelley's ancestors came from Ireland years ago and the parents who were left behind left a large estate. At their death the whereabouts of the heirs could not be established, and it seems that after all these years, if he has passed the century mark, the old gentleman, about whom so much has been published lately, will become an heir to this great fortune.

The wide circulation given his great age together with a published report of his life's history seems to have unheated the relationship and the large fortune about which he had lived so long in total ignorance. The newspapers all over the country have taken up his life story and published it.

The birthday dinner will be given at Clito on March 10th. The News acknowledges an invitation to be present.
