There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven Catarrh to be a constitutional disease and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by E. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

Gives Statesboro a Write-up.

In another column of this issue appears a write-up of Statesboro clipped from the Manufacturers' Record, published in Baltimore.

The Manufacturers' Record is America's greatest and most influential trade and industrial journal, and what it says carries more weight in these lines perhaps than any other publication in the entire country. It is considered an authority in the industrial and commercial world, and reaches that class of men we need most in this section—men of means to come here and develop the great natural resources of this favored section.

Mr. Fields, the staff representative of this publication, came here some time ago, dropping by enroute to Florida and was so struck with the possibilities of this city and section that he has been moved to call attention to them in the Record. The article is reproduced in this issue and we invite perusal of the same.

A failing tiny nerve—no larger than the finest silken thread—takes from the heart its impulse, its power, its regularity. The Stomach also has its hidden or inside nerve. It was Dr. Shoop who first told us it was wrong to drug a week or failing Stomach Heart or Kidneys. His prescription—Dr. Shoop's Restorative—is directed straight for the cause of these ailments—these faltering, faltering, inside nerves. This no doubt clearly explains why the Restorative has of late grown so rapidly in popularity. Druggists say that those who test the Restorative even for a few days soon become fully convinced of its wonderful merit. Anyway, don't drug the organ. Will Smith Back

Candler for Governor?

"Whenever I reach any determination with reference to my future, which in any sense concerns the people of Georgia, I will very promptly take them into my confidence by public announcement."

In addition to being a tacit announcement that he has outlined no definite political course for the future, the foregoing statement, given out by Governor Smith Monday afternoon, constitutes a very interesting portion of an emphatic denial of a recent article appearing in the Macon Telegraph to the effect that he "will either be the next governor of Georgia or will name the man who is."

The article in question was sent out from Atlanta and quoted the governor as having said to a friend, "I will either be the next governor of Georgia, or I will name him. It looks as if I've got to be a candidate again."

"Unless all sides join in making Murphy Candler Mr. Brown's successor I will be in the race."

The governor classes the interview as a "fake" and says that while he cannot take time to contradict all the newspaper stories about him, he feels called upon to deny the rumor appearing in The Telegraph.

Although the governor denies that he has said that he will either be the next governor or will name him, it has been constantly rumored about the capitol that unless he does enter the race to succeed Mr. Brown he would like to see Mr. Candler elected to the office, and it has been further rumored that in that event he would throw his support to the recently appointed railroad commissioner.—Atlanta Georgian.

This is the most dangerous time of the year to catch cold, and it is the hardest time to cure it. If you should take a cold a few doses of Kennedy's Laxative Cough Syrup will act very promptly. Its laxative principle cures the cold by driving it from the system by a gentle but natural action of the bowels. Children especially like Kennedy's Laxative Cough Syrup, as it tastes so good, nearly like maple sugar. It is sold by W. H. Ellis Co.

THE BERKSHIRES.

Considered by Professor Hoffman the Most Profitable of All Breeds.

There are hogs, big, little, red, black, white and mixed, a large field to select from, says Professor E. C. Hoffman of the Iowa Agricultural college, but to the thinking farmer it is often a question as to which breed is the best. First one kind is tried, then another, then perhaps an overseas, with the result that correct impressions regarding the final results are impossible. The only correct way is to try the different breeds and crosses under like conditions and for two or three years in succession. This is absolutely the only way to determine the best hog.

My own experience of seven years with hogs has led me to breed the Berkshire hog as the most profitable of all breeds. Six years ago it was my pleasure as well as profit to have in charge the six different breeds of hogs at the Iowa Agricultural college. Here the hogs were given the same care and feed. In my observations of the Berkshire I found that the Berkshire hog was always ready for the market, good at taking care of himself with cattle and made the most of the pastures. They always looked the sleekest, and the scales showed that they were the best.

From the college I went to Illinois and took charge of one of the largest and best herds of Poland-Chinas in the world. This herd contained some of the finest and highest priced Poland-Chinas in the country, but six months of actual contact, day and night, with this herd only fixed more firmly in my mind that the Berkshire hog was the best of them all.

Since farming for myself I have had in the feed lot Poland-Chinas, Chester Whites, Duroc Jerseys and the Yorkshires alongside of the Berkshire hog. My own breeding, I never had a Berkshire that went down on his back, trampled by the steers or run over by the wagon, and when it came to marketing I found that the Berkshire hog was the first that was ready for the market.

Counting Farm Animals.

The number of animals on the farms of the United States on Jan. 1, according to a report issued by the department of agriculture, shows an increase compared with the previous year, with two exceptions—swine and cattle other than milk cows. The average price of milk cows shows an increase of 50 cents. Comparisons of this year with last year show the following changes: Horses increased 948,000 head, mules increased 184,000, milk cows 520,000, other cattle decreased 684,000, sheep increased 1,432,000, and swine decreased 1,937,000.

Clean Hoggens.

One of the surest signs of improved agriculture is a dry, clean hogpen. The up to date farmer has discovered that a pig wallows in mire only when he cannot help himself.

THE VETERINARY.

An abundance of sunlight in the cow stables so arranged that it may reach every part of the stable is one of the best preventives of disease. When possible the cow stables should be separate from the barn in order to secure proper ventilation and the necessary sunlight which it is impossible to obtain in any other way.

Cure For Mange. Mange is a distressing affection that should never be permitted to retain a place on any farm, as it is easily cured. Rub on oil of tar, one ounce, and white oil, two ounces, or one-half pound each of tar and sulphur and one pound each of soap and alcohol. In all cases boil all blankets and treat with a strong solution of caustic potash all wood-work, harness, brushes, combs and whatever is possibly infected with the germs of mange.

Blood Purifier For Horses. A good blood purifier for a horse that is run down is an ounce of hypophosphite of soda twice a day. Feed the horse well. Another remedy is two ounces each of powdered copperas, ginger, saltpeter and fennugreek and half a pound of ground ginger. Mix and give a teaspoonful in each feed.

Sours in Calves. There is no surer cause of scours than dirty feed pails. Be scrupulously clean as to pails, troughs and the food used in feeding young calves. It will save a lot of the trouble that comes with carrying calves through the scours.

Removal of Warts. Warts on calves and other young stock are nothing more or less than skin tumors, often due to overstimulation of the parts, says a veterinarian. You can twist them off with your thumb and fingers, after which you may apply tincture iodine to the parts for two or three days in succession. Then keep the parts pliable by rubbing with sweet hog's lard occasionally.

GEO. BELL CUTS HIS OWN THROAT

Ends His Life in Presence of Conductor--Was on His Way to Attend Trial For Divorce.

Savannah, Ga., March 25.—While the Central of Georgia train No. 4 was on its way from Atlanta to Savannah and had reached Toombsboro early this morning at 2:50, George H. Bell, of Swainsboro, formerly representative in the state legislature, committed suicide by cutting his throat, after having inflicted a stab wound slightly beneath the heart.

The act was committed in the presence of Conductor Robert L. Burke, who, though standing beside the unfortunate man, was unable to prevent the suicide. Bell had previous to the coming of the conductor stabbed himself beneath the heart and was lying upon the floor of the smoking compartment of a coach when found by the conductor.

Thinking that the man had suffered from a hemorrhage, Conductor Burke lifted him from the floor and placed him upon a seat and while standing up after his effort was astounded to see Bell take a pocketknife and pull it across his throat from left to right, and immediately under the jaw bone.

Bell sank into a collapse immediately, and expired at once. An examination of the body showed the stab under the heart, from which he had bled profusely, though the evidences were covered by his clothing. The body was kept on the train until Wadley was reached, and from there sent to Swainsboro to his relatives.

That Bell intended suicide after he left Macon is undoubted. He had purchased a ticket from Atlanta to Swainsboro and was due to change trains at Wadley for his destination.

He first occupied a seat in the smoking car, where he was found when the conductor went to take up tickets. Bell was sleeping apparently and though an attempt was made to rouse him he seemed in such a state that the conductor refrained from further inconveniencing him and returned to the other coaches without troubling him any more. At the time his actions had been noticed by several on the train and were thought queer.

After the conductor had left him Bell went into another coach and asked a passenger to lend him a knife with which to peel an orange which loan was readily made. He went to the smoking compartment of another car, and it was there that he stabbed himself in the proximity of the heart. When the conductor again passed through the coaches to collect tickets he found Bell lying upon the floor and the suicide followed as described.

Bell's movement after he was picked up from the floor and placed upon the seat were so unexpected that Conductor Burke had no opportunity to interfere before the suicide had been accomplished.

Bell has only recently been given his liberty from the state sanitarium and was on his way to Swainsboro to attend the divorce proceedings instituted against him by his wife.

It is presumed that the impending suit and the fact that his mind had been previously unbalanced are the direct causes of the suicide.

FOLEY'S HONEY AND TAR for children, safe, sure, no opiate.

One month ago, to the day

George Bell was released from the state asylum after a sensational fight in which he was aided by Mrs. Blanche Burton, a former actress, now the wife of a wealthy Indianapolis man, whom Bell had once befriended.

In his petition for release from the asylum Bell contended that he had been illegally held. From the beginning of his fight he claimed that he was kidnapped without having been regularly and legally adjudged insane.

He was placed in the asylum on April 18, 1906. He was given his release February 25, 1909.

Several weeks ago Mrs. Bell who is now a stenographer at Waycross filed suit for divorce, alleging cruelty. Bell announced that he would not take any legal steps to contest the suit, nor would he oppose her taking their only child. Mrs. Bell is prominently connected with one of the best families in the state.

During his confinement in the asylum Bell wrote a number of articles to the newspapers of the state, which attracted great attention. In these articles he claimed that he was illegally committed to the asylum, was held against his will and should be released. He was a brilliant writer and hundreds of people, after reading his letters, were apparently convinced that he was sane.

One of the articles attracted the attention of Mrs. Blanche Burton, whom he had once befriended, and she determined to help him. She was aided by Hon. L. J. Kilburn and W. D. McNeil, a well known lawyer of Macon. Mr. Kilburn was a colleague of Bell when he was a member of the legislature. Mrs. Burton was visiting in Macon at the time she enlisted her efforts in behalf of Bell.

Bell was arraigned for a hearing at Milledgeville some weeks ago, but was at its conclusion sent back to the asylum.

Not discouraged, friends of Bell went to work and by habeas corpus proceedings succeeded in having the case again brought up. This time the hearing was before Judge Lewis at Greensboro, who ordered Bell to be held for 30 days and released unless legal steps were taken. The asylum authorities, however, at once freed the former legislator.

Bell was termed a "paranoiac" and declared to be suffering from delusional insanity by Superintendent Jones of the state sanitarium, and Drs. Green and Little, attending physicians.

It was brought out in their testimony that this form of insanity was believed to be persecution and it was stated that Bell had repeatedly declared that his father had tried to poison him by injecting morphine into him against his will. Dr. Green Bell, father of Bell, who is a well known Swainsboro physician, showed that such injections had been made from time to time to make his son sleep as he had practically wrecked his body and mind by the use of intoxicants.

Swainsboro, Ga., March 25.—The town is greatly wrought up over the tragic death of George H. Bell, who committed suicide on a Central train at Swainsboro, at an early hour this morning. The parents of Bell are prostrated with grief and there are hundreds here who have shed tears over the sad fate of the young man who was one of the favorites of the town and the county.

It was just thirty days ago that he came back to the town from the state asylum and was received with open arms by the citizens, all of whom knew and loved him. His homecoming today was as tragic as the first one was happy. It was two weeks ago that he left here for Macon. While here he received a great deal of attention and there was at no time a suggestion that his mind was not what it should be.

The knife with which he cut his throat was obtained from Mr. W. L. Coleman, a friend. After receiving the knife he went into the forward car where he committed the deed, first stabbing himself in the throat. He will be buried tomorrow afternoon.

Thirteen years ago Bell was an actor in a company doing one-night stands in the middle-west. At that time while the company was at Terre Haute, Ind., the manager attempted to leave behind a pretty blue-eyed, golden-haired girl who was ill. Bell forced the manager to take the sick actress with the company and she finally recovered. This girl, now Mrs. Blanche Burton, never forgot the act of kindness and when she came South recently she learned of Bell's plight and worked for his freedom. When George Bell quit the stage he came back to Georgia. He ran a newspaper at Swainsboro, served in the legislature from Emanuel county and later ran a store in his home town of Swainsboro.

He was about 35 years of age. Beside Bell on the seat when he took his life was a newspaper which contained an account of his wife's petition for divorce.

Bell lived only thirty-five minutes, praying all the time to die. His father, Dr. Green Bell, was notified at once and his body was met at the depot by a number of his friends, who just one month ago met him to congratulate him upon his release from the sanitarium.

Dr. Bell has wired Mrs. Blanche Burton. She did so much to effect Bell's release. It is possible that she will come to Swainsboro to attend the funeral.

$25,000 Mailed to Each

Agricultural College. Atlanta, Ga., March 25.—Checks for $25,000 each were mailed out by State Treasurer Park today to the eleven district agricultural colleges. The money was that collected from the sale of fertilizer tags, all of the same, outside of the expense of collection, having been appropriated by the last legislature to the schools.

It is said that some further provision will have to be made for these institutions by the incoming legislature. When they were established it was believed that enough money would be collected from fertilizer and pure food inspections to sustain the schools, even after the department of agriculture was taken care of by the fund. It developed that the law gave the schools only $4,000 a year each. The last legislature provided that the agricultural department be supported from the general treasury. This increased the income of the district school to about $7,000 each.

Published by THE STATESBORO NEWS PUBLISHING COMPANY.

Death of Geo. H. Bell.

The sad death of Geo. H. Bell which occurred by his own hand on a Central railroad train Thursday morning has been published and commented upon by the newspapers in all sections of the State.

The death of Mr. Bell is the rounding up of a strenuous career, one full of adventure and tragedy.

He had been all the way through life, was brilliant and tender-hearted to a fault, yet he had his faults like many others of mankind.

His efforts to free himself from the State lunatic asylum, accompanied by the charges brought by him against that institution, have attracted attention all over the United States.

Mr. Watson read what he had to say and took his part, and perhaps it was more due to the fight waged through Mr. Watson's paper than any other one agency that Bell was freed from the asylum.

There are those who now point to his suicide and say that it shows he was crazy. It appears to us that sitting alone at 3 o'clock in the morning, traveling on a lonely smoker, going to attend the trial where his wife was seeking a divorce, his entire life came before him and under the strain and in the desperation of the moment he did what thousands have done before him, who never entered the walls of an asylum.

A gentleman who was here yesterday states that he was along at the time of the sad tragedy and talked with the dying man, who, in his opinion, was perfectly sane, and coolly and calmly courted death, that he might be freed from his earthly sorrows. As sad as it is, it does not show that George Bell was an insane man.

Nothing in the way of a cough is quite so annoying as a tickling, teasing, wheezing, bronchial cough. The quickest relief comes perhaps from a prescription known to Druggists everywhere as Dr. Shoop's Cough Remedy.

And besides it is so thoroughly harmless that mothers give it with perfect safety even to the youngest babies. The tender leaves of a simple mountain shrub give to Dr. Shoop's Cough Remedy its remarkable curative effect. A few days' test will tell. Sold by W. H. Ellis Co.

The Status of The S. A. & N. By reference to our news columns it will be seen that Messrs. W. J. Oliver Co. have obtained a judgment for nearly three hundred thousand dollars against the Savannah, Augusta & Northern railway. The verdict was rendered by Commissioner Talley Wednesday.

The cause of the action brought by Messrs. Oliver Co. is based on the contract for the construction of the road and the sum awarded was not altogether for services actually rendered but Mr. Oliver sued for damages in addition to his work. He alleged that he came here with a large force of men and teams and that it entailed the expenditure of a large sum of money to set up here for work, that he expected the work of constructing the entire line to Chattanooga and that the stopping of the work at a little beyond Garfield cut the contract so short that it caused an actual loss of about sixty thousand dollars in addition to the work on the road bed. The management of the road were forced to suspend work that year on account of the panic and the law suit followed. They dispute the claim of sixty thousand dollars loss in moving here as set up by the Construction Co., and we understand will file exceptions to the Masters report and the case will continue in the courts for a long time yet.

Leecher Indicted on Murder Charge.

Indictment charging murder was found on Wednesday by the Fulton county grand jury against Charles Leecher, who was ordered held by the coroner on a charge of having assaulted Mrs. John Wittles, of 44 Bell street, who died as a result of the attack.

Leecher is now in the tower, where he will be held without bail until the next session of the superior court, criminal division.

The evidence before the grand jury practically the same as that given the coroner's jury, and was to the effect that the man who attacked Mrs. Wittles, who was taken money from her, showed a resemblance to young Leecher, who was employed by Wittles at one time, and who is said to have been afraid of him.

Tene Wittles, twelve-year-old daughter of Mrs. Wittles, was the principal witness. She testified as to having seen a man, with a rag on his head, attack her mother. That man, she said, bore a strong resemblance to Leecher.

The sum of $65 was taken from Mrs. Wittles, and $41 was afterwards found on Leecher.—Atlanta Journal.

Commission and Governor Inspect Farm

Macon, Ga., March 24.—Governor Hoke Smith, together with Prison Commissioners Wiley Williams, A. S. Turner and C. A. Evans, are at the large farm of W. A. Grier, in Turner county, today, making an inspection of a tract of 6,800 acres that has been offered as a site for the prison farm. The price, it is reported, was $12.50 per acre. The farm is one of the best in this section and, it is said, has already pleased the officials very much.

Governor Smith and the commissioners spent the night with Mr. Grier, having gone from here on a special car with General Passenger Agent C. B. Rhodes, of the Georgia Southern & Florida railway. The train was held an hour for the party to come over from the farm of Minter Wimberly, of Macon. The party, accompanied by Mr. Wimberly, went to his farm early this morning and made a thorough inspection. No announcements of result are likely before the official return to Atlanta.

The governor and commissioners yesterday accompanied Minter Wimberly, of this city on a trip to the Wimberly farm and returned yesterday afternoon to go to the farm of W. A. Grier, at Dakota, Ga., in the northern portion of Turner county. Trains were held in Macon, and General Passenger Agent C. B. Rhodes, of the Georgia Southern and Florida, accompanied the party.

While here Governor Smith told newspaper men that he did not intend to allow white men to work on the roads, if he could avoid it. The effort will be made to keep the white convicts off the roads where the counties will engage negroes.

The Recent Assault on Cannonism.

The smoke having somewhat cleared from the battlefield where-on democrats contended over Cannonism, calm and dispassionate discussion of the incident may well follow.

The democratic caucus and the twenty-three congressmen who left it, six of them Georgians, have spoken; the merits of the cause of each are known to all whom they may concern.

In that dispassionate spirit and irrespective of the ultimate merits of the situation, it may well and pertinently be suggested that a democratic caucus is too serious and important a thing to be called at the eleventh hour, when opportunity for conference and discussion are gone.

The presentation of a previously prepared plan—prepared by comparatively a few members—in a caucus called at 10 o'clock to map out a plan of campaign just two hours before attack was to be made at 12, and the shutting off of debate and discussion by the call for the previous question as soon as it had been presented, is a procedure which savors about as strongly of Cannonism as anything which can be charged up to "Uncle Joe" himself.

There should be no more of it! A caucus is a conference which contemplates free expression leading ultimately to harmony and unity.

Is it not, therefore, unjust, not to say undemocratic, to cut off free speech therein?

If the caucus is to be resolved into a hasty meeting called simply to hear and endorse an ipse dixit in regard to which the views of many members were never sought nor permitted to be expressed, does not the proceeding border at least upon Cannonism—the very abuse it was sought to check?

In other words, whether the action of the so-called "bolters", considered in the abstract, was right or wrong, is it not now apparent that the caucus management went off somewhat half-cocked?

The courtesies of conference and discussion was due the constituencies of those six Georgians and their associates as well as to the members themselves.

How could it be known what they had to propose? How could it be known but that their plan was at least worthy of serious consideration?

In fact, the circumstances indicate that the "bolters" had a reasonable and plausible proposal to communicate—to attack Cannonism by striking at the very root and branch of the evil, Cannonism itself.

They proposed to test the sincerity of the republicans by calling on them to vote against Cannonism—to cut off the snake's head rather than its tail.

If that had carried, well and good; the work could not have been better done. But there never was a time when the republican "insurgents" were brought to the point of declaring their willingness to vote against the man; and support of a man is inconsistent with antagonism to his deeds.

The Georgians, therefore, looked upon the situation as one in which to seize upon present advantage rather than defer action to a time when those same insurgents would have been whipped into line and the minority would have been left to a lone-handed and useless fight.

Cannonism and Cannonism are inseparable; the detronement of the former would have meant the end of the latter.

It is there the real fight should have been made.

But that is now past and gone; the incident, for the present, a closed one. But the event has its lessons. One of them is that the freedom of caucus conference and discussion shall not be abridged or denied.

It is due the constituency of each member that he shall have the right to be heard before he shall be called upon to vote yes or no upon a prearranged program, in the making of which he has not been considered, and compelled to abide a result his conviction does not sanction.

By all means maintain the integrity of the caucus, but let it be maintained upon a basis of equity and justice to each member, not upon a foundation of Cannonism.—Atlanta Constitution.

Severe rain and hail storms are reported all over north and west Texas, extending as far as Dalhart, in the Panhandle. While much damage has resulted the rain was badly needed for crops and live stock.
