When Diaz Dies.

What will happen in Mexico, most wonderful of the Latin-American countries redeemed from the uncertainties of opera bouffe government, when President Porfirio Diaz is gathered to his fathers?

That question is agitating friends of Mexico and a republican form of government in the United States, not to mention the large and little American holders of Mexican securities and investments, aggregating in the neighborhood of $700,000,000.

The issue is given immediacy by the present unsettled status of Mexican politics.

While Diaz is nominally president of the republic, in reality he is its absolute dictator, a role in which has demonstrated the most benevolent and constructive tendencies. Like Cipriano Castro, he rose from obscurity by a series of brilliant victories over rival "generals," and ambitious conspirators. By sheer force of military genius and executive talent, he pacified his country and placed it on so sane a business plane as to gain Mexico the respect of civilization.

There are not lacking tales of Diaz's ruthless cruelty and brutality in the earlier days, before the government had become well established. To this it may be answered that it was desperate and difficult men and conditions with which he was dealing.

Whatever was his beginning, and however he attained power, he has made of the latter only the most beneficent uses. Without his personal influence, it is doubtful if Mexico would be any farther advanced along the road of development and stability than the remainder of the turbulent states in Central and South America.

Now that extreme old age threatens at any moment to put a period to his activities he is casting about to find a successor in whose hands the maintenance of an orderly government may be safely entrusted. He has selected Ramon Corral as vice president and understudy, and is expending his ending days in buttressing this able, but somewhat unattractive Mexican in office.

Latterly, strong disaffection has arisen against this plan of succession. The friends of Bernardo Reyes, a brilliant soldier and popular politician, are urging him as vice president and logical successor to Diaz. The latter's reasons for disliking and distrusting Reyes are not made plain, but there is no doubt of the fact that he still retains his fertility in expedients that further his own ends.

The most influential military supporters of Reyes have been given difficult and isolated posts in the republic, practically exiled from the capital city and deprived largely of ability to make their plots effective.

Meanwhile, Reyes is threatening to stand for vice president at the next election and uncertainty broods large over the entire country.

So long as Diaz lives, it is fairly certain that his wonderful individuality will control the situation. Whether his death will precipitate a civil war, is anxiously debated by the thoughtful American diplomatists, who realize in what an awkward predicament such a development would place this nation.—Atlanta Constitution.

Relief of the School Teachers

One of the most important and far-reaching suggestions yet made by Governor-elect Joseph M. Brown, involving a feasible plan for the relief of the state school fund and provision for the prompt payment of the Georgia teachers, was presented yesterday in his Elberton speech.

It must be admitted that increased taxation for the purpose of raising the necessary amount in one, or even two years, is practically out of the question.

The suggestion of closing the schools for a year in order to catch up would scarcely find a corporal's guard of supporters. Not only would it involve untold hardship upon Georgia's army of teachers, who would be forced temporarily to turn to other pursuits, perhaps difficult to find, but the result would be a vast and unfortunate addition to the accumulation of delinquency.

Georgia's schools must not and will not be closed!

And yet the state cannot go on indefinitely upon the present basis, months behind every year in meeting its obligations to the teachers, who are patient and long suffering, and to whom justice and humanity demand payment for services rendered shall be made immediately it is due.

That there is a way out of this difficulty, and which should meet the commendation and support of every Georgian, Governor-elect Brown has admirably pointed out in his Elberton speech.

The governor-elect proposes a state bond issue of approximately $300,000, it being estimated that this sum, together with its available income, would enable the state to meet promptly every obligation to the common school teachers.

This bond issue, which can only be authorized by amendment to the state constitution, voted by the people, he proposes shall be made a permanent loan fund, which shall be used solely for the purpose of supplementing the common school fund in the spring and summer, when the money is needed, the loan fund to be reimbursed in the fall when the taxes are collected.

Such a bond issue, it is not doubted, can be floated at 3 per cent, and by placing the money in the state's depositories when not in use for the purpose stated, from which institutions the state receives 2 per cent, the interest charge would be reduced materially, probably one-third.

The state can easily make preparation for the gradual retirement of this loan in such a manner as will create no burden and will make unnecessary any increase of taxation.

The loan fund would then remain intact and the state would have made ample provision for meeting the obligations to its teachers when they are due.

It is the announced purpose of Governor-elect Brown to embody this suggestion in his first message to the general assembly, and to urge the prompt submission to the people of a constitutional amendment providing for a bond issue to meet this emergency in the manner stated.

It is difficult to see how a simpler or more satisfactory plan for relieving the distressing condition can be devised.

It involves nothing more than the use of the state's credit at the lowest possible interest rate, with provision for repayment made in such manner as to create no slightest noticeable burden.

Georgia must arrange to meet the obligations to her teachers. If anyone can suggest a better plan than this, there is no question that it will receive prompt and careful consideration, both by the new governor and the legislature.

Just at present this proposal appears to fit the case better than any yet suggested or which can be devised.

In the interests of the Georgia teachers, who are entitled to this measure of relief, it can scarcely be questioned that it will receive cordial and practically unanimous support from the people of the entire state.—Atlanta Constitution.

NEED OF A MOTHERS' CLUB.

This subject is of such importance that it should have our most earnest and thoughtful attention. In some parts of our State the name of a mothers' club has not yet been mentioned.

By a mother's club we mean, that the mothers of a community have banded together to work primarily, to the interest of the children of the community and secondary, to the interest of the people in the community. They elect a president, vice-president, secretary and treasury with these the members heartily cooperate.

The need for a mothers' club is very great. We may visit many of our school communities and we will find the teacher trying to teach without the co-operation of the people in the community.

The fathers are busy with the task of maintaining his family, therefore he is not mentioned in this connection.

So when we see a teacher struggling without the hearty support of the mothers, we see one with a care worn face and often a physical and a mental wreck.

We see many of our children attending school who are not properly dressed, whose food is not properly prepared, all this being due to the lack of knowledge on the part of the mother.

A mothers' club, after it is organized has a certain time and place to meet. In these meetings questions of all sort are discussed not only discussed but acted upon.

They discuss the importance of drinking pure water and of having individual drinking cups. They find that water is made pure by boiling. They also discover that disease germs are carried from one person to another by using the same vessel for drinking purposes, hence the individual cup.

They also discuss the care that should be given the children in regard to dress, food, habits, work, play, sleep, study and rest. When we go in a community where the mothers are banded together in a club we find the children going to school with a cheerful face and a happy heart. Instead of wearing clothes that are binding to the child he is wearing them loose thereby giving the blood free circulation. Instead of carrying dinner in a tight tin bucket he has a nice basket that prevents the food from becoming stale and unpalatable. They also look fresh because they have not been allowed to eat too much of the wrong kind of food and that they are required to retire at night in time to get a plenty of sleep which is essential to the health of a child.

We also see the children forming right habits of living. They are taught that punctuality in everything is a good thing to learn.

We see so many of our boys in the country forming the habit of smoking cigarettes, chewing tobacco, drinking cider, and sometimes whiskey.

But where there is a mothers' club we find that the mothers have studied out the evil results of such habits and that they are united in blotting them from the child's life. So much is dependent upon the association of the children that the mothers give a great deal of attention to proper raising of children. In their meetings they agree upon some standard to place the training of their children.

As play is a great instrument in education the mothers' club gives a great deal of attention to that subject. They see that the children have every opportunity to play to the best advantage at home and at school.

The club also discusses the question of beautifying the home and making it healthful for them to live in. They discuss the importance of fresh air and sunshine and find out that it is essential to good health. Therefore, the people begin to have their windows up and the doors open to let the messengers of health in. The club also sees the importance of having a flower garden and shade trees, hence the people begin to set out trees around the yard and flowers in the yard. Thus the influence of the home becomes healthful and soul cheering; therefore, the children's dispositions take on a healthful and soul cheering look.

As a great deal of the children's time is spent in school the mothers see the necessity of making the school as healthful and as soul cheering as the home. Therefore, they cooperate with the teacher and help him by planting trees around the school building, also shrubbery, and flowers. They help to supply the teacher with sufficient equipments. They do this in various ways; they give box suppers, make up money by asking for voluntary subscriptions and almost other way possible.

The club sees the need for a library and for the sake of which it will make many sacrifices. Mothers' clubs are often the salvation of a school by lending to it all their aid and aid advice.

Before a teacher can properly teach a set of children he has to know about their individual instinct, the environment under which they are brought up. He has to also know their ability, temperament and disposition.

Therefore, the mothers meet with the teacher and discuss what is best for the child that is brought up under certain circumstances and environments. For instance, if a child is deficient in a study from a natural cause the work is somewhat changed to suit the deficient one. Thus you see the problem which would require a thoughtful teacher a long time to solve himself would be solved in a very short time.

With the co-operation of a mothers club the teacher emerges from that isolated position often occupied by them and becomes one of the community, though a leading one. The children take a greater interest in school, the school spirit becomes more like the home spirit, a place of joy, happiness, peace, love and contentment, instead of a place of discontent and hatred.

Thus seeing the need of the mothers club let us have them in our school communities.

When this is done in all the school localities of Georgia then Georgia will begin to be worthy of being called the empire state of the south.

$600,000 ISSUE OF BONDS TO PAY GEORGIA TEACHERS

Is Gov.-Elect Brown's Plan. Wants the State to "Catch Up."

Elberton, Ga., June 12.—Gov.-elect Joseph M. Brown, in an address here today, presented an interesting plan for the relief of the state school fund which has been close to a million dollars behind; the teachers being paid in December and January for work done six months previous.

The governor-elect proposes a bond issue of $600,000 to be known as the permanent loan fund and to be preserved for the sole purpose of meeting school payments in spring and summer. Then when the taxes come in in December the loan fund is to be reimbursed and held for similar use the following year.

Gov.-elect Brown was given a hearty and cordial reception here today, many hundreds of people turning out to hear him.

In the course of his remarks Gov.-elect Brown stated that this proposition regarding the relief of the state school fund will be embodied in his first message to the Legislature, and he will strongly urge its enactment. Upon this subject the governor-elect said:

"One of the matters of greatest concern to the future welfare and prosperity of our state is the proper support and maintenance of our common school system. While it is by no means a perfect system, we should not lose interest in it, but should carefully adopt such means and plans as may be necessary for its betterment. One of the greatest drawbacks is our manner of paying the teachers. The state is one year behind in making these payments, that is to say, in the main, the money for paying teachers' salaries for this year will not be collected until the latter part of December, when the taxes are paid into the treasury.

"Our teachers are faithful servants of the people and should be paid with the same regularity that the state pays all of her other officers. All agree as to this proposition. It has been before the public for many years, with the result that our teachers have received fair promises, but not prompt payments. They, alone, have been denied that governmental keyword, equality.

"It does seem to me that the application of a few business ideas might relieve the situation and accomplish the desired end. The teacher alone of all the officers of the state is required to discount his or her salary account against the state and lose from 8 to 20 per cent. This is a great wrong upon these officials and one we would allow no business man to perpetrate upon his employees.

"I suggest that we take at once the necessary steps to catch up with our school fund and pay every public teacher in Georgia his or her salary monthly. It is impracticable for us to collect in one year the necessary sum from taxation and accomplish this result, and it would be almost criminal for us to stop the schools of Georgia to enable us to catch up with our funds. What, then, must we do? What will first arrest itself to every business man who calmly considers this condition, should he be confronted with like conditions in his own business affairs? He would at once take the necessary steps to raise the money by the use of his credit.

"I propose that we handle in like manner for the state and for the teachers the situation that now confronts us, and utilize the credit of the state to relieve the condition. The legislature at its coming session should propose and submit to the people of this state an amendment to the constitution authorizing the issuance of about $600,000 of bonds, the proceeds of which to be used to create a permanent loan fund to be loaned every spring to the school fund for the payment of the teachers' salaries, and returned to this loan fund in December when the taxes are collected. This fund should be sacredly guarded and not used for any other purpose.

"The state could raise this money upon a 3 per cent. basis. The bonds so issued might be retired in a few years at the rate of $100,000 per annum without the necessity of any increase in our tax rate.

"I feel quite sure that the people of this state would heartily incoorse such an amendment and gladly ratify it at the next general election, for every good citizen feels and believes that we should be fair and just to our teachers."

Corey A. Atteberry, the infant son of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Atteberry, was born July 21, 1907, and died May 14, 1909. For three weeks this little boy had been sick with brights disease, day after day and night that loving father and mother sat at his bedside trying to comfort him, friends and neighbors, one and all, contributed respect and lent every helping hand but all efforts to relieve him failed and with one gap then in peaceful slumber crossed over the river of death into that land where sickness and sufferings are no more, but all is peace and love, leaving a father and mother. Oh, it was hard to give him up to see him have the last sight and fall asleep in Jesus and as we looked in his pale face for the last time and bid him good bye, our heart seemed to burst with grief, still we could not wish him back in this weary land of trouble and temptation, but try to be reconciled with the consolation that he is at rest and prepare ourselves to meet him and be ready for the summons should it come soon or late.

The funeral was conducted at Clito in the presence of a large crowd by Rev. Brantley, the Lord given and the Lord taken away, blessed is his holy name, another dear one has gone to Jesus, the angels throw on light and love forever.

Rheumatism

I have found a tried and tested cure for Rheumatism! Not a remedy that will straighten the bowed limbs of a chronic cripple, nor turn long growth back to birth again. That is impossible. I can now cure all the pains and aches of this terrible disease.

Germany with a Chemist in the City of Darmstadt found the last ingredient with which Dr. Shoop's Rheumatic Remedy was made a perfect, dependable prescription. Without that last ingredient I successfully treated many cases of Rheumatism; but now, at last, I can cure all cases of this terrible disease. These and like granular matter found in Rheumatic blood, seem to dissolve and pass away under the action of this remedy as they do under the action of the remedy. And then, when dissolved, these poisons are washed free from the system. And the cause of Rheumatism is gone forever. There is now no need to suffer from Rheumatism any longer. We will, in confidence, recommend and help. We will, in confidence, recommend and help.

If you have dyspepsia or indigestion or any stomach trouble, you must help the stomach do its work by taking something that can and will digest the food for the stomach. Kodol will do this, and it is the only thing we know of that will. Kodol is made of the natural digestive juice. It will digest the food you eat. Every tablespoonful will digest 2-4 pounds of any food that you may ordinarily eat. Kodol is pleasant to take. It is sold by W. H. Ellis & Co.

A TALE, THE HEBREW, AND THE HOLY CITY.

It is said that no Hebrew will enter Rome through the shattered Arch of Titus for by so doing they are reminded of the destruction of their loved Jerusalem, for in the broken panels of the arch are discernable the spoils of the second Temple, which speak to them not of liberty but of the sorrows of Judah. The intellect of man cannot portray a picture of fealty stronger or more true.

If our people were actuated by such a sentiment, and their impulses were guided by such a love for home, for Greater Georgia, where would we be today, would our money seek alien investment, No; a thousand times no! Would not Georgia be the Empire State of the Union, and the Empire Life the greatest company in the country? For our money invested in insurance premiums, would aid her industrial resources.

Georgians, when by your actions you show your confidence in home institutions you will have the wealthiest state in the country.

Be as sincere as the Hebrew in his love for Judah, and build up Georgia, by insuring with the Empire Life.

THE TWO THINGS NECESSARY TO POSSESS A BANK ACCOUNT

The first, is the Desire or Inclination. Everyone has a wish for money—it is human nature, for it takes money to possess the comforts and necessities of life.

The second requirement is One Dollar or more. The first deposit need not be large, and after the first money is deposited, you have a bank account.

The size of your bank account rests with you.

RECEIVERS MAY EXTEND LINE

Strong Possibility That S. A. & N. Will Be Extended to Louisville, Ga.

Mr. Bowdre Phinizy, receiver for the Savannah, Augusta & Northern Railway, thinks that it is in the line of possibilities that the road may be extended to Louisville under the direction of the United States Court.

Mr. Phinizy stated to a News reporter while here this week that it often happened that a new line would be completed by the receivers, giving as an example the case of the Macon & Northern Railway, where the receivers finished the road.

Receivers certificates could be issued if it met the approval of the court, and floated to borrow money with which to finish the property, these certificates would become a first lien on the property even ahead of the claims now outstanding, and would therefore be desirable securities. Mr. Phinizy pointed out the fact that under present conditions a great proportion of the road's assets were not available, lying dormant in the shape of a graded roadbed between Garfield and Louisville, and it would be good business policy for
