Truman Talks of the Central of Georgia.

Chicago, June 17.—The Central of Georgia railroad is to be made an important link in the Illinois Central system, according to President J. T. Harahan, who returned to the east today, where the deal for the transfer of the seaboard was consummated.

The cause for the purchase of the road is to be found in the fact that the development of the south has been so rapid of late years that the Illinois Central desires to place itself in a commanding position with respect to rates and traffic. Mr. Harahan stated that there was to be no immediate change in the management of the Central of Georgia, which would continue for the present, at least, to be operated under a separate management.

"In actual condition of traffic and operation," he said, "there is to be no change. Our road has always sustained close traffic arrangements with the Central of Georgia, and has through train service in connection with that road. The road gives us an outlet to the seaboard and places us in a position to keep in the fore rank with respect to southeastern traffic. In time there will be a great improvement in the through freight and passenger service between the middle west and the larger centers of the southeast."

The acquisition of the road by the Illinois Central bids fair to have an important effect upon the business relations between Chicago and the markets of the southeast. The Illinois Central is now in position to dictate freight rates and to place Chicago on a parity with the eastern manufacturing centers with respect to business to the southeast.

Men Past Fifty in Danger.

Men past middle life have found comfort and relief in Foley's Kidney Remedy, especially for enlarged prostate gland, which is very common among elderly men. I, E. Morris Dexter, Ky., writes: "Up to a year ago my father suffered from kidney and bladder trouble and several physicians pronounced it enlargement of the prostate gland and advised an operation. On account of his age we were afraid he could not stand it and I recommended Foley's Kidney Remedy, and the first bottle relieved him, and after taking the second bottle he was no longer troubled with this complaint." School Closing Exercises.

The school at Statesboro closed yesterday. The features of the closing exercises were a basket dinner, speeches, recitation, etc. Hon. Alf Herrington and Prof. Hendrix delivered speeches to the large crowd of parents and friends who were gathered to witness the closing exercises.

The school was taught by Prof. T. A. McGregor.

No one could have made a sale, ointment, lotion or balm to compare with Bucklen's Arnica Salve. It's the one perfect healer of cuts, corns, burns, bruises, sores, scalds, boils, ulcers, eczema, salt rheum. For sore eyes, cold sores, chapped hands it's supreme. Infallible for piles. Only 25c. at W. H. Ellis & Co's.

SUMMER EXCURSION RATES

Railroad Commission

Will Not be Abolished.

Atlanta, June 17.—A report printed by a local afternoon paper to the effect that a strong movement would be made by the next legislature to abolish the railroad commission and to replace it with a board of three, to be appointed by the governor, created some comment here today. Just what substance there is in the report could not be learned, as no one about the capital could be found to give authority to it, and none of the probable leaders of the new house of representatives were in town.

Judge W. A. Covington, of Moultrie, a leader in the first house, who is here in attendance upon the commencement exercises of the State School of Technology, did not believe that such a movement would succeed.

"If a bill to abolish the railroad commission is introduced into the next legislature," he said, "it will be defeated. I do not believe that the people of Georgia will stand for the destruction of the board now for a change in its present mode of election."

Death of Annie McDougald.

The sympathy of the friends of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. McDougald will go out to them in the loss of their little daughter, Annie, which occurred at their home on South Main street at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon. She was a sufferer from fever and her death had been expected for several days.

The funeral will be held this morning at 10:30 o'clock at the Presbyterian church, and the interment will be made in East Side cemetery.

Any lady reader of this paper will receive on request, a clever "No-Drip" Coffee Strainer Coupon privilege, from Dr. Shoop, Racine, Wis. It is silver-plated, very pretty, and positively prevents dripping of tea or coffee. The doctor sends it with his new free book on "Health Coffee" simply to introduce this clever substitute for real coffee. Dr. Shoop's Health Coffee is gaining its great popularity because of first: first, its exquisite taste and flavor; second, its absolute healthfulness; third, its economy—1½ lbs. 25c; fourth, its convenience. No tedious 20 to thirty minutes boiling. "Made in a minute" says Dr. Shoop. Try it at your grocer's, for a pleasant surprise. Oliff & Smith.

Rheumatism

I have found a tried and tested cure for Rheumatism. Not a remedy that will eliminate the disordered limits of chronic rheumatism, nor turn back the clock to each age. That is impossible. But I can now easily kill the pains and pains of Rheumatism. I found the best treatment with Dr. Shoop's Rheumatic Remedy. It is a perfect, dependable prescription. Without that ingredient, I repeatedly treated many, many cases of Rheumatism, but in vain. I found that I could cure all curable cases of this horrible, most dreaded disease. Those men like Francis Wagner, found in Rheumatic blood seem to disperse and pass away under the action of this remedy as freely as does sugar when added to pure water. And then, when dissolved, these rheumatic wastes truly pass from the system, and the cause of Rheumatism is gone forever. There is now no real need of actual cures to suffer longer with old pain.

WOMEN WHO ARE ENVIED.

Those attractive women who are lovely in face, form and temper are the envy of many, who might be like them. A weak, sickly woman will be nervous and irritable. Constipation or kidney poisons show in pimples, blotches, skin eruptions and a wretched complexion. For all such, Electric Bitters work wonders. They regulate stomach, liver and kidneys, purify the blood, give strong nerves, bright eyes, pure breath, smooth velvety skin, lovely complexion. Many charming women owe their health and beauty to them. 50c. at W. H. ELLIS & Co's.

A TALE, THE HEBREW, AND THE HOLY CITY.

It is said that no Hebrew will enter Rome through the shattered Arch of Titus for by so doing they are reminded of the destruction of their loved Jerusalem, for in the broken panels of the arch are discernable the spoils of the second Temple, which speak to them not of liberty, but of the sorrows of Judah. The intellect of man cannot portray a picture of fealty stronger or more true.

If our people were actuated by such a sentiment, and their impulses were guided by such a love for home, for Greater Georgia, where would we be today, would our money seek alien investment, Nova thousand times not would not Georgia be the Empire State of the Union, and the Empire Life the greatest company in the country? For our money invested in insurance premiums, would aid her industrial resources.

Georgians, when by your actions you show your confidence in home institutions you will have the wealthiest state in the country.

Be as sincere as the Hebrew in his love for Judah, and build up Georgia, by insuring with the Empire Life.

CLASH OF POLICIES IN NEW LEGISLATURE.

The Outgoing and Incoming Regimes Will Find the two Georgia Houses a Battlefield.

Atlanta, June 19.—The Legislature of 1909-10 will convene for its first session at the State Capitol Wednesday next, June 23.

Naturally there is much interest in this session, not only because it is a new Legislature, but largely because it was elected in a measure, upon a platform antagonistic in many respects to that of the administration which is now about to retire from office.

The new Legislature goes in with Gov. Joseph M. Brown, who defeated Gov. Hoke Smith. It is generally believed, therefore, that its attitude will be somewhat different from that occupied by the Legislature which went in upon the tidal wave of "reform."

Some of the friends of Gov. Smith have expressed the belief that the new Legislature will prove more strongly representative of his ideas than those of the Governor.

While this is regarded generally as extremely doubtful, it is interesting to note that there will be several pieces of legislation proposed which will offer opportunity for a direct test.

The Legislature will have before it when it meets, or shortly thereafter, two messages, the final message of Gov. Brown. A comparison of the two will prove highly interesting, it is thought, and it is understood, in some respect, they will be found a study in contrasts.

One of the most interesting opportunities for a test of the legislative attitude upon the views of the retiring and incoming governors, will be presented in the proposal to decrease the number of members of the Railroad Commission from five to three.

A Railroad Commission of five was almost a sine qua non of Gov. Smith's official policy, if it may be so repressed. In other words, it was an essential. When it was thought the proposal to increase the board to five members might be defeated in the Senate, Gov. Smith called certain members of that body to his office, and brought them around to his way of thinking. It was that fact which led Senator J. J. Flynt, on the last night of the session, in a semi-memorial vein to charge the Governor with "lobbying."

The platform upon which Gov. Brown was elected distinctly calls for a reduction in the number of members of the commission from five to three. It characterizes the increase in the board as a useless and unnecessary expense to the state. It also contemplates the abolishment of the office of special attorney and rate expert to the commission.

The question is going to be fought out in the result will be written the status of the Legislature in so far as the executive policies of the two administrations are concerned.

It is quite likely, however, that it will not be necessary to await the determination of that question to ascertain how the Legislature is going to stand; there will be abundant opportunity for it to put itself on record.

It is said that the proposed legislation does not contemplate legislating any member of the commission out of office, but that it will probably provide that the commission shall be reduced to three members as the terms of office of its members expire.

No authority for the report that this legislation contemplates removing street railroads and other municipal public utilities from the control of the Railroad Commission can be found.

State-wide interest centers in the inauguration of Gov.-elect Jos.

Will Change Charter of Town.

By reference to our advertising columns will be seen a notice signed by the Mayor giving notice that a bill will be introduced in the present session amending the charter of the City of Statesboro, fixing the term of office of the Mayor and Councilmen at two years instead of one year as now provided.

Unfortunately for this piece of legislation it will be late in the session before it can be introduced, and it will go in at a time when there will be a rush of business.

The law requires that notice be published in a paper carrying the Sheriff's advertisements and posted before the Court House door thirty days before the bill can be introduced. Notice had been given but not in a paper carrying the sheriff's ads, and hence amounted to no notice at all.

If there is anything wrong with your stomach today, get a bottle of Kodol and try it. Take it just at the time when you know that your stomach is out of order, and the food is not digesting. That is the only time you need to take Kodol—just once in a while. Every tablespoonful of Kodol will digest 2-4 pounds of food. Kodol will digest what you eat, and in that way will cure you of dyspepsia, and indigestion. It is sold by W. H. Ellis & Co.

There has been widespread request for something about the plans of the inauguration. This inquiry can best be answered, perhaps, by the statement that there are no plans. The inauguration is going to be one of the plainest and simplest official functions that has ever taken place in the state.

Somehow the people have been unable to get used to this fact. They persist in marking back to a inauguration of two years ago, when an extensive platform was erected in the Capitol grounds and the Governor drove up in a carriage and pair, escorted by the military and numerous civic bodies.

There is not going to be anything of the kind on June 26. There will be plenty of people here; they are coming from all parts of the state. Joe Brown Clubs from many counties have arranged to be in Atlanta for the inauguration. There will be other visitors, too, but all that can be promised them is a pleasant excursion to Atlanta, with baseball games and summer theaters going full blast and for some of them a seat in the House of Representatives gallery while the simple inauguration ceremonies are in progress.

Gov.-elect Brown will reach the city from Marietta about 11 o'clock and walk over to the Capitol. When informed that the Legislature is ready for him he will proceed under escort of the committee to the hall of the house, take the oath of office administered by Chief Justice W. H. Fish of the Supreme Court, receive the great seal of the state from Gov. Smith, turn it over to Secretary of State Phil Cook for safekeeping, deliver his brief inaugural address and then go to the executive office to begin work.

That, so far as any programme is concerned, is all there is going to be of it.

Of course, there will be the usual cheering and applause for the new chief executive and there may be little impromptu spasms of enthusiasm here and there which cannot now be foreseen.

But the new Governor is dodging the spectacular and he has made it pretty clear to his friends that he does not wish it.

GOOD ROADS CONVENTION AT BROOKLET, GEORGIA.

On Thursday, June 24th 1909. There is no place better suited, no people more liberal, no citizens more friendly than the people in and around Brooklet, and we want you to come and see our town and enjoy a day with us. We will have plenty to eat, plenty of the best talent to deliver addresses, plenty of refreshments, plenty of seats, and a jolly good time. Forget your troubles, leave your long face at home and come. Bring your wife and your best girl and let her select a future home for you in the healthiest, most beautiful little country town in Georgia—a town of 500 inhabitants without a police; a town fifteen years without a cemetery. Come and see for yourself and bring your friends.

Special trains will furnish convenient transportation both ways to Savannah and Statesboro, making connections both ways at reduced rates. Good, lively speeches on the following subject:

Good Roads and their results. Good schools and their results. Good farms and their results. Game of base ball for the amusement of the young people. Brass band from Savannah. Meat barbecued.

Dr. J. I. Lane, J. W. Robertson, R. H. Warnock, L. A. Warnock, Jake Ellis, P. B. Lewis, P. C. Waters, C. B. Griener and James Bland, Committee.

Mr. Donaldson is one of the most popular preachers in the city, and has, hitherto, been regarded as among the most orthodox. In recent sermons, he has announced the rather novel doctrine that Christ, when he descended into hell after his crucifixion, made an atonement for the lost souls there.

Was the end of Christ's sufferings in hell only as a substitute for the sufferings due a fallen world? Did he not thus suffer a substitute also for the 'lost spirits in prison' and for the time become their coequal fellow sufferer, that he might sympathize with them and be able to present their case before the Father? No atonement could be complete which does not involve in the substitute, suffering equal, if not greater than the ultimate suffering of the soul in any stage of existence.

"To concede that Satan shall reign forever over a realm of lost and suffering souls, souls from the creative land of God and His image is to discount the atonement of the omnipotent love and sovereignty of God. Either I must believe the above or accept the doctrine of 'conditional immortality'; and that is, that the soul by creation is not immortal, and out of Christ simply dies with the body, its 'eternal life' being conditioned on union by faith with Christ. With my conception of a God of love and justice I cannot and will not think of Him reigning in a realm of eternal bliss and love and beauty, while elsewhere, in His perfect and glorious universe, there reigns a being opposite in nature in a realm of darkness and death."

Notice. There will be a picnic on July 3d at Akin school house, near Mr. Sol Akin's. Everybody invited. Bring baskets. E. A. Akins.

Congressman Edwards Home. Congressman Chas. G. Edwards is home for a few days. He has been at his post of duty continuously since the opening of the present session, and has had an eye on the interest of his constituents all the time. There is probably no harder worker in the entire body than the young member from this District.

When a sufferer from stomach trouble takes Dr. King's New Life Pills he's mighty glad to see his dyspepsia and indigestion fly, but more—he's tickled over his new, fine appetite, strong nerves, healthy vigor, all because stomach, liver and kidneys now work right. 25c. at W. H. Ellis & Co's.

Back From North Georgia. Col. L. M. Speer returned on yesterday from Whitfield county where he spent several days at his old home. He says they have had so much rain in that section for the past two months that the farmers are a long ways behind with their crops. They are not yet done planting corn and have not finished chopping out cotton.

If you have dyspepsia or indigestion or any stomach trouble, you must help the stomach do its work by taking something that can and will digest the food for the stomach. Kodol will do this, and it is the only thing we know that will. Kodol is made of the natural digestive juices. It will digest the food you eat. Every tablespoonful will digest 2-4 pounds of any food that you may ordinarily eat. Kodol is pleasant to take. It is sold by W. H. Ellis & Co.

Lost. On Tuesday, either at the S. & S., Depot or on East Main Street, one gold necklace. Finder will please leave it at store of Messrs. W. B. Martin & Bro.

Bargains in Coffins.

One of the most unique advertisements that we have seen lately is an advertisement in a neighboring paper of a bargain sale in coffins and caskets. In the advertisement it is held out that great discounts and bargains are to be had in both coffins and caskets.

Our idea has always been that a fellow never wants a coffin till all the other efforts have failed. That it matters not how cheap they are offered they are dear at any price till that sad time arrives when we all need these luxuries and necessities.

This advertisement reminds us of the time when the editor of this paper engaged in the manufacture of coffins and caskets. The year we were in business was the most distressing healthy period ever known in this section of the country. All manner of means were adopted to push off some of the stock, but they wouldn't go. Folks who were not dead didn't want them, and there being no other classes to appeal to our stock lay dead on our hands. Inducements were offered, but it wouldn't work. So we are in a position to sympathize with our friend who resorts to printer's ink to push the sale of a line that will not bear pushing, and we are inclined to admonish him to just wait till the fellow dies then he will have to have it at the other fellow's price. No, there is no need to rush bargains on folks till they get ready to take advantage of them.

SAVANNAH AT THE INAUGURATION.

It is unfortunate for a newly elected governor to be compelled so early in his administration to call out, "God save us from our friends!" Governor-elect Brown has time and again expressed, both in print and in private conversation, a desire that his inaugural day be attended with no demonstration. He has turned down an offer of escort from an old organization of life long friends or his father; he has expressed a desire that the ceremonies on that occasion be in keeping with the life which he has lived and with his idea of an administration that he intends to launch whose ambition will be the greatest good to the greatest number. He has expressed his disapproval of the pomp and great that attended an occasion of this kind not long since, and it is to be regretted that his wishes in this matter are not to be respected.

The announcement comes that his friends from "the State of Chatham" are going up on a special train with the Fort Screven brass band—thirty-two members of the band and two hundred shouters besides—and make things lively around the capitol. For fear the balance of the State has forgotten the important part played by "the Republic of Chatham" in the contest that made Mr. Brown governor they are going up and with the tooting of horns and the glare of trumpets remind the natives that "the Republic of Chatham" is still on the map, and that she is strictly IT. They want to be present and witness, and that she is strictly IT. They want to be present and witness, and that she is strictly IT. They want to be present and witness, and that she is strictly IT.

Gov. Brown was voted for by thousands of good law abiding citizens all over Georgia. Men who have no sympathy with a community that openly defies the laws of a State in which they live, and who may feel a sort of resentment at one county spreading itself all over the entire affair, especially so when it has been made plain that this is not wanted.

There are hundreds of "Joe Brown" supporters all over Georgia, who are ready to back up his administration in all that is good, to uphold his hands in his efforts to better the conditions of affairs of the State, to whom his election means something more than the hogging of a few political plums. Who are not falling over each other and a few political plums. Who are not falling over each other and a few political plums. Who are not falling over each other and a few political plums.

When the Chatham delegation marches down Whit hall street with their brass band conservative people will be inclined to turn sick and sympathize with the man who really in good faith intends to give this State the best administration it has had within the past few years, or at least improve on the one we are just now getting rid of.

Blasting at the Rock of Ages.
Dr. John D. Hammond, president of Wesleyan college some years ago, an eminent educator and minister, took the ground in an alumni address at the University of Georgia the other day that the great Universities are "blasting at the Rock of Ages," as has been charged.

In an editorial the Savannah Press agrees with the learned doctor and takes issue with a writer in a recent number of the Cosmopolitan who takes the pains to show that in the great universities of the country men are becoming shockingly unorthodox both as regards the sanctity of marriage and the authority of the Bible. He had attended these lectures himself and he makes quotations from these learned professors in the different colleges of the North and West to show in what light they handle the great truths which we have been accustomed to accept. Marriage is a matter of convenience. It all depends upon the way we look at it, he says. In the east more than one wife is allowed. In some parts of Iceland a plurality of husbands is permitted. Professors are quoted as speaking airily of divorce. The Sermon on the Mount is held as a code of morals which may or may not be practical, and slurs are cast upon the Decalogue. The improbability of "Moses becoming a stone mason and chiseling out the Ten Commandments for the Children of Israel" is seriously presented. The whole burden of the series of articles goes to show how far the colleges are getting away from the safe standards of life and how unsettled are the foundations of faith in the citadels of culture and thought.

In accordance with this author in the Cosmopolitan in hundreds of classrooms it is being taught daily that the home as an institution is doomed; that there are no absolute evils of immorality, it is simply an act against society's standards; that conceptions of right and wrong are as unstable as styles of dress; that the Decalogue is no more stable than a syllabus. Those who are not in touch with the great colleges of the country, the writer insists, will be astonished to learn the creed being fostered by the faculties of our great universities. The writer insists that the change from one religion to another is like getting a new hat. The Press agrees with Dr. Hammond that this writer is wrong. The Telegraph wishes it could also shut its eyes and agree, or with its eyes open see that the writer in the Cosmopolitan is unduly alarmed; but it cannot. Perhaps he overstates the case. Perhaps the extent of the infidelity, at least the agnosticism, which is learning in the higher schools of learning in the country. Perhaps both are judging by particular cases under personal observation which may not be the rule. But that infidelity, at least agnosticism, crops out boldly sometimes in the classrooms in some of our great universities is a well known fact. The writer hereof knows of a case which may be exceptional. It was in a great institution of learning in one of the educational centers of the North. The instructor made no bones of his unbelief in a state of life after death, and rather challenged the "young gentlemen" before him for a discussion of the subject. A Georgia boy asked permission to speak in defense of Revelation, and a lively debate followed.

That powerful influences, and in our great institutions of learning, too, are "blasting at the Rock of Ages" is a fact too well known to be ignored by the religious world. There also evidences that it has invaded the pulpit itself in some instances. We shall not undertake to discuss the whys and wherefores, or propose remedies. But we are sure that it is a mistake for the religious world to shut its eyes before the forces which are undermining Revelation. "The fool saith in his heart there is no God;" but the "fool" is worldly wise, and he uses the weapons too often put in his hands by those he combats.—Macdon Telegraph.

No stronger illustration of the silent revolution which has been working in the minds of the people could be offered than the warm greeting given Mr. Brown in Elbert county, one of the last counties to be reached by him. As this county has been regarded as a stronghold of the other faction and as it gave Mr. Smith almost majority in the primary last year, the friendly disposition manifested towards Mr. Brown by the people there, must be taken as a strong indication on the part of the masses to forget former differences and to unite in support of the new administration.

One of the speakers at the banquet tendered Mr. Brown in Elbert was Dr. A. S. Stovall, representative-elect from the county and heretofore strongly aligned with the Hoke Smith faction. When Dr. Stovall declared that, although he had opposed Mr. Brown in the past, he now offered to support the new administration on all points that he thought were right. Mr. Brown said, smiling, that he was under the impression that Mr. Stovall voted for him, meaning, of course, in the election, not in the primary.

His hearers were quick to catch the point of this little pleasantry and warmly applauded, taking it to mean that Mr. Brown would hold all who voted for him in the election as his friends, and would lend all his influence to assuage the bitterness of factional differences that have divided the state and given rise to much hard feeling in recent years.

Among those who went from Atlanta to hear Mr. Brown's Elberton speech was Capt. Robert F. Wright, the popular assistant commissioner of agriculture. In detailing his experiences of the trip Capt. Wright said:

"It was certainly a case of 'veni, vidi, vici,' with Mr. Brown. I never imagined that in a county which had opposed his candidacy he could be given a greeting that was so spontaneous, so hearty and so unaffectedly sincere. The truth of the matter is that Mr. Brown has such a mild, modest way of working himself into the affections of the people that they cannot resist him. When they see and hear him they trust him; and after that they love him.

The people of Elberton were particularly interested in what Mr. Brown had to say about the schools. Everybody in that part of the state is anxious to see the teachers better treated and more promptly paid. It was with real joy that they learned that Mr. Brown actually proposed to do something, having a feasible plan which he would at once set about carrying out."

Any lady reader of this paper will receive on request, a clever "No-Drugs Coffee Strainer" Companion privilege, from Dr. Shoop, Racine, Wis. RAIL STORM DOES GREAT DAMAGE.

Fields Near Aaron Station and on The Ogeechee River Suffer Badly.

Reports from the hail storm of last Thursday continue to come in. A stalk of cotton from the field of Mr. John Fields near Aaron Station was on exhibition here Saturday. The stalk was of the long staple variety and seemed to have been above the average before the hail struck it, every limb was cut from it and the top literally beat off like a man had gone into the field with a frame pole and beat it off. Mr. Fields had a large field which was left in this condition. His neighbors escaped a little better than he did, but further on the Ogeechee river about the Sharpe place, the hail beat up the crops again.

In that section around Portal and all North west of this place the rains have been extra heavy, the crops and roads are washed to pieces and the streams are almost impassable. The farmers are pretty blue in that section of the county.

Ellis Raises Fine Cabbage.

John Ellis colored, one of the successful men of his race, living in the Pulaski neighborhood brought us a fine nine pound cabbage yesterday for which he has our thanks, he says he has a lot of fine spring chickens but failed to bring us along a sample of them. Ellis owns his own farm and is doing well.

Finch Will Fight On.

Mr. D. C. Finch was in town yesterday concerning with his attorneys. He is resting under a three months sentence in jail and a fine of a thousand dollars in cash. The Court of Appeals confirming the sentence of the lower court in his case, leaves him right up against the court's sentence. His attorneys announce that they will fight on.

Death of Mrs. Hodges.

Mrs. Louise Hodges died at the home of her son-in-law, Mr. W. R. DeLoach, on Friday last. The deceased was one of the oldest residents of the county, being in her 92nd year at the time of her death. The funeral was held at Upper Lott's Church on Saturday, where the remains were interred.
