A GREAT Auction Sale of Lots

IN ITS BEST RESIDENTIAL SECTION WILL BE HELD AT

STATESBORO, GA. THURSDAY, NOV. 18, '09

By C. H. DORSETT, OF SAVANNAH, GA., AUCTIONEER.

These lots are located in that section of Statesboro that is growing the fastest in all that makes for desirability from the standpoint of present excellency and future value.

Statesboro is generally recognized as in the eyes of the observant public.

It is the growing City of South Georgia, with no successful rivals.

It is the greatest Cotton mart, especially Sea Island Cotton, in Georgia.

It is the recognized headquarters of the best producing section of the world's famous cotton, known, variously, as "Sea Island," "Long Staple" and "Black Seed"—that article that comes so near to silk—and must be had for many purposes of the manufacturer.

Statesboro is where land values are on the jump all the time, and where investors have only to sit still and listen while the profit grows.

ROGUE IS CAUGHT AFTER LONG HUNT

Man Who Stole $107,000 Arrested in Berlin.

Berlin, November 4.—Martin Kaufman, of New York, was arrested last night by former United States Postoffice Inspector Henry C. Hill on the charge of frauds amounting to $107,000 in connection with the Cotton Goods Converters' Company of New York.

Kaufman for a long time was considered a trustworthy business man of New York. His partner, M. A. Isaacs, had such confidence in Kaufman's integrity that, according to Hill, he induced a number of his friends to take shares in the business.

The business proceeded satisfactorily until a customer was asked to settle an account which the customer declared was not due. An investigation of the company's accounts followed, and resulted in the discovery of a number of falsified entries amounting to $107,000. Kaufman, in the meantime, had disappeared.

Some of the shareholders, who were practically bankrupted, held Isaac not morally responsible, but he gave his check for the total amount missing.

It was known that Kaufman had sailed for Europe, but no clue to his whereabouts could be found until his wife, who is in business in Lawrence, Mass., dropped a paper containing a photograph of a hotel. Neither the name of the hotel nor the name of the city was mentioned, but a window was marked and above it were the words: "This is my room," in Kaufman's handwriting.

After many difficulties the hotel was located in Vienna, where Kaufman resided under the name of Marvin Kent.

5000 PEOPLE GREET AUTO RACERS. FAST TIME IS MADE

Between Statesboro and Savannah.

Bulloch County Turns out in Force. Statesboro Car Making Great Lead. Driven

by D. P. Averitt Jr.

The automobile racers were greeted in Statesboro by at least five thousand people. The crowds began to gather on the streets along the route through the city at seven o'clock, at seven fifteen the path finding car driven by Mr. F. C. Battey struck the city limits, followed closely by four others. They came in unexpectedly and made practically no slow up in making the sharp turn at the walnut tree, in the center of the city. Mayor Strange had taken some precaution and patrolled the route through the city with extra policemen urging the people to keep off the streets along the route of the race but it seemed to be almost impossible to do this, there was such a large crowd gathered until it would have taken a force of fifty police to have kept them off, though fortunately there was no accident.

A feature of the show was the presence of Mr. John H. Woods, an old gentleman living only two miles from here, but had not been to town in eleven years, he was brought in and given a seat by the side of his daughter, Mrs. Pelot, right where the turn was made, he was a little late in getting in and met some of the big racers up North Main St. as they were going out running some forty miles an hour, the old man who had never seen one before looked around at one of them as it went by like a streak of greased lightning and remarked, "Them fellows are running like the very old devil was after them." He is ninety one years old and the sight was a great one to him.

Percy Averitt in his 18 horse Buick left Savannah occupying the 27th place in the line and passed Statesboro about 7:50 this morning, having run ahead of 8 cars, which placed him in 10th place. Since dinner, he sent a message back that he arrived at Tonnsville at 11:30, having forged ahead to the 9th place, his car being in perfect condition.

About 8 miles out from Statesboro this morning the car in which Mayor Tideman, of Savannah, was riding, while going at a rapid rate, struck a gully across the road and threw Mr. Tideman out, breaking two of his fingers and otherwise bruising him. This was the only injury to any of the party of which we have heard.

L. Smith joined the Statesboro party here and went through with them in the same car.

The first car came through at nine twelve three minutes short of two hours passing through. The streets of the city were lined with people from the eastern limits on Savannah Avenue to the Northern limits out North Main St. The speed limit had been lifted and the sight of the monster machines racing through the city was appreciated by the large crowds present. All business was suspended during the two hours the racers were going through and everybody took in the show.

Harvey Granger's car ran against a telephone pole near Pooler and knocked the body off, it was one of those giant Stevens Duryea cars, and after some repairs quickly made was put back in the race again, came to Statesboro made some hurried repairs, took on gasoline and went whirling on the race again, leaving here going out North Main at making forty miles an hour. In the car was Mr. Harvey Granger, H. H. Bacon, W. H. Wright, Judge George T. Cann, Hon. W. Osborne and Mr. Edward Thompson. The escape from injury of these men was simply miraculous, if the telephone pole had not been struck the chances are that there would have been some lives lost. The party left here in good spirits determined to win the race.

This car was followed close by the White Steamer owned and driven by Mr. L. H. Hilton of Sylvania this car had the misfortune to have one of its tires blown off at Blitchton, losing forty minutes, and a little further up the road, got out of water and lost forty minutes more at a farmer's house filling the tank. Judging from the rate of speed Mr. Hilton was making they will run over the path finding car before Atlanta is reached. In the car with Mr. Hilton were Mr. F. C. Wallis and Dr. Gibson the latter from Macon.

PELLAGRA IN HORSES.

Mouldy Western Corn Causes Disease in Animals.

Atlanta, Ga., Oct.—Pellagra, the newly discovered disease which has proven fatal to so many in the south after eating bread made of corn meal, has invaded the ranks of the southern cattle through western corn, according to a pamphlet on the subject of Pellagra by Dr. J. J. Watson, of Columbia, S. C., an authority on this subject.

Dr. R. E. Stallings, State Chemist of Georgia, connected with the department of agriculture, has received a copy of this pamphlet and is most interested in this new phase of the situation, in view of the decided interest which is manifested throughout the state in cattle raising industry.

In writing specifically on the presence of pellagra in horses and cattle Dr. Watson says: "I therefore believe that western corn goes through a heat before it reaches its destination, and it is during this heating process that the pellagra fungi develop, and when this corn is sold it is infected with the fungi, as the samples I have secured from the market would plainly show. Horses suffer from the disease, which is manifested in many ways. If large quantities of the diseased corn has been fed them, they die suddenly with what is ordinarily called 'blind staggers.'" The symptoms that are produced by corn not so much infected or fed in smaller quantities are paresis or rigidity; the horses manifest symptoms of tetanus, except there are no convulsions; they lose their hair and become very thin. When proper food is supplied to animals recovery commences but convalescence is very protracted.

In view of the greatly increased consumption of cotton seed meal as a feed for horses, mules and all classes of live stock in Georgia, Western corn is being eliminated from the market. It is on account of this that no specific existence of pellagra in Georgia has yet been reported to the department of agriculture.

The pamphlet referred to is creating widespread interest throughout the south, and has resulted in the call of a meeting to discuss this disease at Columbia, S. C., next month.

The Statesboro News says that Hon. Rafe Simmons is in the race for congress. Rafe Simmons is a character that all men admire. He is a self-made man, has very little education, but he has that business judgment that usually counts. He has been a friend to the farmers of Bulloch county and the News says that he will sweep it in the race for congress. He is as yet an unknown quantity in many of the counties of the district, and it is hard to tell what effect his candidacy will have on the race.—Lyon Progress.

Simmons Will Get Warm Support.

That Hon. R. Simmons will get a rousing send off from the people of Statesboro and Bulloch county there can be no question on the part of those who have gone to the trouble to look into the facts.

A few nights ago at a conference of citizens held in the office of Judge Brannen, of the city court, Mr. Simmons' race was discussed at that conference containing men representing every faction in Statesboro. They were men who had differed on all other political lines, but they assured Mr. Simmons that should he go into the race they would pull off their coats for him. Among them were the mayor of the city, the president of the chamber of commerce, the judge of the city court, the solicitor of the city court and the ordinary of the county, besides others of like standing. The matter was discussed and it was decided that Simmons had a good show and he was advised to go into the race.

The conference being represented by every faction in the city means that Statesboro will present practically a solid front.

The farmers coming into town are almost a unit for Rafe Simmons, and why shouldn't they be, he is their friend and has always been. He has been worth thousands of dollars to the farmers of this and adjoining counties. He has always been on the bull side of the cotton market, and has frequently risked every dollar he owns when it was needed to hold up the market.

Such men as Redding Denmark from the Bay district, D. A. Brannen, from the Emul neighborhood, and hundreds of others have been in and stated that they were for him and that the others in their community stood the same way.

Mr. Simmons is a strong speaker, a successful business man and a friend to the common people to which he is closely related. He is regarded as the best educated man in this section of Georgia, holding a diploma, in the language of Col. R. Lee Moore, from the highest school in the world, the University of Life. He is endowed with that which is necessary in the make up of a successful man, either in private or public life, viz: common horse sense. He is perhaps the best judge of human nature of any man in the state. He is in the prime of life, active and energetic, and a tireless worker, a stickler to duty and true to his friends.

He has always stood for protective tariff of the importation of Egyptian cotton into this country, bringing the product of the pauper labor of Europe into competition with that of the farmers of Southeast Georgia. He has made several trips to Washington on this line, and while he has not succeeded in accomplishing this his efforts show that his heart is in the right place.

If you hear any one say that the manhood and intelligence of Bulloch county is not back of Rafe Simmons tell them they are nursing a delusion. Of course there will be folks here who will support other candidates; that happens everywhere, but what we mean is the great bulk of people here will support him.

A clergyman writes: "Preventions those little sandy red cure Pills are working wonders in my parish. Preventions will surely check a cold or the grippe in few hours. And Preventions are safe and harmless. No quinine, no medicine, no sickening, no loss of appetite, no loss of sleep. Box of a dozen, South W. B. H. Co."

Saturday a Record Breaker.

Last Saturday all records were broken in Statesboro as far as the amount of cash paid out for cotton is concerned.

Three hundred and thirty-eight bales of cotton sold on the Statesboro market at an average price of over one hundred dollars per bale, the most of the cotton that was sold here on that day being sea island—bringing from 28 1/2 cents to 29 cents per pound.

It was a busy day with the merchants, the stores being crowded all day long. Every merchant wore a worried but satisfied look on Saturday night, each bearing that appearance that comes only from a successful, hard day's work.

The farmers were broad smiles, too. They said: "Why, the price was off a little, but then, it could be worse." They bought buggies and wagons and new clothes and cloth to make their daughters some new Sarah Jane dresses, the kind the town girls have learned how to wear and, last, but not least, a great many of them took in the show and bought some of the soap and patent medicine.

Taking it up one side and down the other, Saturday was a great day. It was one of those days in which there was something doing every hour in the day. The long rows of cotton reached from the cotton warehouses around up South Main street into the court house square, up North Main street and stopped out on West Main street.

Our News Service.

Have you ever stopped a moment and thought what it means to receive three papers every week—one every other day—at the low price of one dollar a year? Have you ever wondered how the management could afford to do this? It is because we get pay for every paper we send out and every man pays for his own service and nobody else's. In other words every tub sits on its own bottom in this shewbang.

We don't print a large paper but we get there often. What the people want in this busy age is a paper that brings the news before everybody in the community has heard about it from some other source. They want a newspaper and not a magazine.

Here are a few examples of how fresh we get there with the local happenings: The grand jury presentments were turned over to us Friday at noon of court week and the same came out next morning and reached two-thirds of the people of the county by noon; Mr. Simmons' announcement for congress on Saturday a week ago told his next door neighbor the first news he had heard about it; Friday night a passenger coach was burned at 9:40 o'clock in the yards of the Savannah & Statesboro railway, after the train came in on a late schedule from Savannah. At 7 o'clock next morning the account of it was in print in the Statesboro News. Not that the little fire that had caused some excitement the night before was so important, but what we want to stress here is, no matter how important or how insignificant it may seem, if it is worth putting in print at all it is worth printing while it is fresh; give it to the people while it is news.

The above specimens are only mentioned to illustrate what we are doing all the time. If anything happens, we are on the job. Of course, we all miss an item occasionally—the biggest papers in the whole country do that—but we are generally there with the goods. The News stands for the advancement of the affairs of the town and the county. When we have to take out an existence by playing to the prejudices of people who want the community knocked, we will knock off and go elsewhere.

The Elliott Case.

There is quite a lot of speculation throughout the state over the case of Dr. J. M. Elliott, of LaGrange, who is resting under a death sentence in the jail at that place. While we have not kept up with the case, yet we were in Atlanta last week, when his wife and his mother made that memorable appeal to the governor to commute his sentence and save him from the gallows. We waited in the reception room for them to come out from the governor's private office. The man was condemned to be hanged on Friday, only three days later, and the appeal was just such a one as only a wife and mother could put up. It was hard for the governor to turn them down, but "Little Joe" stood firmly by what he thought to be his duty.

The night before he was to have been hung he attempted suicide by taking a dose of bi-chloride of mercury. He was found in an unconscious condition and, by the hard work of a number of physicians, he was saved—saved for the gallows. Why in the world a physician or anyone else would work to save a man to be hanged a few days later on the gallows, we cannot understand. Saving him was doing him a low down, mean trick. The governor resented him for two weeks on account of his condition. This is the fourth time he has been respited, and it may be that something will happen to save him next time, but there is one thing certain: We are sure the governor would not like to again undergo the terrible ordeal that he did last week in Atlanta, when the wife and the mother of the condemned man made that appeal to him.

Vidalia Refuses to Give up Dickens.

Mr. Perry Kennedy has just returned from Vidalia, where he spent the most of last week looking after his business interest at that place.

Mr. Kennedy states that he was in Vidalia when the news reached there to the effect that Hon. E. C. J. Dickens, editor of the Vidalia Advance, had been selected as principal of the agricultural school at that place. Mr. Kennedy says that he never witnessed in all his life more evidences of devotion on the part of the people of Vidalia for Mr. Dickens. He says that the leading business men of the town say that he will not be permitted to leave them if inducements will keep him.

Mr. Dickens is a hard worker and has done much for the building up of Vidalia, which is becoming one of the best towns in South Georgia. A few years ago it was a wilderness waste; today it is a bustling young city with several lines of railroads and all other things necessary to make a hustling city. Mr. Dickens has contributed his full share to this great work. He has been with the town from the beginning, and now that he has been tendered this position and is preparing to move away. His people realize what it is to lose a man who has done so much for them.

The Need of More Stores.

The passing of each day goes to show the increased demand made upon our merchants for goods by the people of this section of the country. For several days this fall the stores here were crowded to suffocation, and it was with some difficulty that the customers could be waited upon. Each merchant was taxed to his full capacity to handle the trade, and it was clear that there were not enough stores here to meet the demands upon them for goods.

Statesboro is situated in the center of one of the most fertile agricultural sections in the state, and a section that is fast filling up with new people. Every building in town is filled and if there were more they could be filled. There is vacant property lying out here on which long brick blocks of buildings ought to stand to accommodate those who would come and invest their capital and energy. We need more stores and more goods—a larger line of stores to select from, and we hope that some of our real estate owners will recognize this fact and go ahead and build some more stores.

It isn't so difficult to strengthen a weak stomach if one goes at it correctly. And this is true of the Heart and Kidneys. The old-fashioned way of doing the stomach or stimulating the heart or kidneys is surely wrong. Dr. Shoop first pointed out this error. "Go to the weak or ailing nerves of these organs," said he. Each inside organ has its controlling or "inside" nerve. When these nerves fail their organs must surely fail. This vital truth is leading druggists everywhere to dispense and recommend Dr. Shoop's Restorative. A few days test will surely tell. Sold by W. H. Ellis Co.

There will be big sale of desirable building lots in Highland Park on Thursday, the 18th. This is best unoccupied section of Statesboro, right in the path of the march of the city's building boom. There will doubtless be a large crowd of home seekers out to bid on the lots.

DISSOLUTION NOTICE.

The firm of Wilson & Brannen has been dissolved by mutual consent. Mr. Wilson will continue the business at the same old stand and Mr. Brannen will retire. Mr. Wilson will collect the claims and settle the indebtedness of the firm. T. A. Wilson.

Advice to Farmers.

Editor Statesboro News,
Dear Sir:—Please allow me space in your paper to say to our farmers that if there was ever a time when they should sit steady in the boat so to speak it is now, and hold all cotton unsold and in less than two weeks cotton will be 15c again, of course if all the farmers of Bulloch county were to hold their cotton and our neighbors in other counties and states continue to sell our effort will do no good, but I've been expecting and hoping to see a demand from the Farmers Union leaders to their different organizations throughout the cotton belt to hold every bale that can be held. I was expecting the break when cotton got to 15c, many men of large holdings unloaded at and below 15c. It was a serious mistake, but the speculators did it and now it is up to the farmers to hold their cotton and make the speculators pay the price and not allow them to make the money you should have. I was accused once on the floor of the court house of being a speculator and there was some objections to me being placed on a committee when the Southern Cotton Association was holding a meeting. I of course would have been glad to have been relieved of any responsibility but was not, you notice what I tell you is fact, the speculator begins to buy when you offer to sell, he will hold until cotton gets at or almost to the highest price and then they sell out, make their thousands and then begin to buy again and hold. The farmer is the man to hold especially now as he has sold or the most of them have enough of cotton to pay their debts and as soon as the mill men use up the cotton they bought of the speculators they are compelled to come in the market and buy, and if you have sold yours some other man gets the big price. They, the mill men have already advanced their product or in most lines where our upland and sea island cotton is used from 1 to 2 1/2c per lb on sheeting, this sheeting was made of cheap cotton.

I'll probably write more later, let me hear from some of you. Say whether your observations will bear out my assertions or not. There is nothing like understanding each other.
Your Friend,
P. R. McElveen.

A Reasonable Prediction.

Mr. J. J. Weaver, one of Dublin's wide awake citizens was in town on Friday afternoon, and in conversation gave us a glowing account of the condition of the people of Laurens county, he was an optimist in every sense of the word, and would never admit that there was any other place on earth half as good as "Old Laurens." While we were inclined to differ with him and insisted that there are other counties on the map besides Laurens, yet we were forced to admire his spirit and admit that the county of Laurens was a great old county. It would be better of course if they could alip it down here close to Statesboro and make some of this Sea Island cotton on their red clay lands, but Old Laurens is a great county anyway.

Mr. Weaver is a great believer in intensive agriculture, he believes that the agricultural interest of this section is just beginning to awake to the great possibilities of the soil upon which we live. He says this soil can produce wonders if we will just go down in it and plow deep enough to reach the results. He states that in his opinion it will not be many years before when a man cannot produce 100 bushels of corn or four bales of cotton to the acre that he will be called a back number. He said the farmers of Laurens had just begun to wake up to this, and were some of them producing two bales of cotton to the acre now. Mr. Weaver was a brother in law of Mr. Jo-

If the Farm Fails—the Deluge

"The truth is, if I were advising a young man in this country as to his future profession, I should say to him that there was probably a greater opportunity for real reward in the profession of agriculture than in any other profession this country offers."—President Taft, at Jackson, Miss.

"When the forests are all cut down and the mines are nothing but empty holes in the ground, the farm lands of the country will remain capable of renewing their bounty forever. Here lies the true secret of our anxious interest in agricultural methods; because, in the long run, they mean life or death to future millions, who are no strangers or invaders, but our own children's children, and who will pass judgment upon us according to what we have made of the world in which their lot is to be cast."—James J. Hill, in "World's Work."

These two expressions are from men with the broadest conceivable opportunities for accurate observation and reasoning. Conjointly, they sum up the question of agricultural education and of the issue, "back to the farm," with a big simplicity intelligible to the most casual student of our present and our national destiny.

Mr. Hill's summary climaxes a remarkable article. In it he mercilessly analyzes the drift from the farm to the city, the folly of spendthrift cultural methods, the wantonness of soil depletion and shows that, unless checked, the end of all this is as inevitable as sunrise, national and individual decadence, national and individual bankruptcy.

There is no middle course; no pleasant invoking of the complaint "some more convenient season" plea for delay; no wavering away of the indecision as the product of hysteria or of faddism. The process has already set in. It is testified in ruinously high cost of living, in increasing poverty of farm labor, in city congestion and rural scarcity.

And if the farm fails—then deluge. For the fertility of the farm is the keystone to the nation's greatness, its very existence; it's impossible to name a single industrial, economic or social activity that does not, in the final analysis, depend for its lifeblood upon the partnership of the man and the generous acres.

Into the startling picture painted by Hill, comes the more inspiring light of President Taft's statement. Men ARE going back to the farm. Slowly, perhaps in insufficient numbers, but still they are going.

Not in the history of the nation has the ingenuity of man worked with a greater mathematical precision to reach a situation of real menace. Improved cultural methods, rural free delivery, good roads; the railroad, the trolley, the telephone, high prices for products—all these have combined to diminish rural isolation, to place the man in the country more upon an equality with the man in the city and to remove the leading factors in the urbanwise movement and the enhancing problem of simple sustenance.

"Reform" movements and nauséum have risen and dwindled in this country. Paramount to them all, greater than all the political issues with which demagogues lash passion, is the primary one of endangered American farm.

A GREAT Auction Sale of Lots

IN ITS BEST RESIDENTIAL SECTION WILL BE HELD AT
STATESBORO, GA. THURSDAY, NOV. 18, '09

By C. H. DORSETT, OF SAVANNAH, GA., AUCTIONEER.

These lots are located in that section of Statesboro that is growing the fastest in all that makes for desirability from the standpoint of present excellency and future value.

Statesboro is generally recognized as in the eyes of the observant public.

It is the growing City of South Georgia, with no successful rivals.

It is the greatest Cotton mart, especially Sea Island Cotton, in Georgia.

It is the recognized headquarters of the best producing section of the world's famous cotton, known, variously, as "Sea Island," "Long Staple" and "Black Seed"—that article that comes so near to silk—and must be had for many purposes of the manufacturer.

Statesboro is where land values are on the jump all the time, and where investors have only to sit still and listen while the profit grows.

GA-CAROLINA FAIR OPENED BY MR. TAFT.

President Greets Governors
Brown and Ansel—Leaves
For Florence S. C.

Augusta, Ga., November 8.—President Taft today played at golf with his host in Augusta, Major Jos. B. Cumming, defeating him 2 up and 4 to go, opened the Georgia Carolina interstate fair, rode over the streets of Augusta among the cheers of the "fellow citizens" and left the city at 3 p. m. for Florence, S. C.

The incident of the call upon him at the golf links, on his invitation, of Ty Cobb, the base ball player, the extreme cordiality of the reception of the president in his "winter capital," and the good fellowship extended to his entourage were the features of the day.

In his address at the fair grounds the president alluded pleasantly to the presence of Gov. Joseph M. Brown, of Georgia, and Gov. Martin F. Ansel, of South Carolina, who had made brief addresses, and expressed his gratification at having opportunity to be present and to again meet and greet the friends that he had made during the two months that he spent in this city last winter.

In his address the president touched upon a number of matters of national importance. The keynote of his address was national sanitation, that a national board of health should accomplish for the nation itself what the nation had accomplished for others in Cuba, Panama and other places. This is the first time in the south that the president has addressed himself to this subject. He also took occasion to talk ship subsidy and to suggest that the legislation merited the support of the South, especially cotton manufacturing communities like Georgia and South Carolina.

Tears Flow in U. S. Court as Row of Women Tell of One Man's Weddings.

Cleveland, Nov. 9.—The evidence of five wives and two fiancées was produced by government officers today in the trial of Lucian Pickett in the United States court here on the specific charges of procuring under false pretenses $1,000 from Miss Allie Greasley, a crippled woman from Springfield.

One after another the women took the witness stand and told in tears how Pickett had promised to marry them, how they had given him considerable sums of money, and how finally, he had gone away, usually after, sometimes before, the wedding.

Bankrupt Williams Charged With Fraud.

One of the first matters brought to Judge Speer's attention in the United States court yesterday morning was the bankruptcy case of R. A. Williams, Jr., whose application for a discharge is being fought by the Bank of Graymont. The application of Williams for a discharge was already pending. When court opened Mr. Safford, of Safford & Larsen, counsel for the Bank of Graymont, which has already filed objections to the discharge, asking permission to file an amendment to the objections and have the whole case considered together.

Fred T. Sausser, Esq., counsel for the bankrupt, thought the question of allowing the amendment should be referred to the referee, but Safford insisted upon having Judge Speer pass upon this preliminary feature. This excited the court's curiosity and he had the proposed amendment read and explained, in which it was developed that Williams was charged with improper conduct in scheduling his assets.

In the amendment fraud on Williams' part was specifically charged in that while he was alleged to have been engaged in the gin business prior to his bankruptcy, he failed to turn in his gin book, and in addition to that he marked a certain account paid, when it is alleged, it had not been paid, and that he subsequently made an effort to collect the account outside the bankruptcy matter.

Upon consideration Judge Speer allowed the amendment to be filed with the original objections, on the idea that the allegations of the amendment contained were unknown to the objector when the original objections were filed.

To Probe Cook's Claim.

Washington, Nov. 8.—To pass on the question as to whether the North Pole was discovered before 1909, that is as to whether Dr. Cook reached it a year prior to Commander Peary, the board of managers of the National Geographic Society today appointed the following committees: J. Howard Gore, formerly professor of mathematics, George Washington University; Rear Admiral John H. Pillsbury, of the Navy, and Dr. C. Willard Hayes, chief geologist of the geographical survey.

TWENTY-SIX CARS AT JOURNEY'S END

Autos Meet Glad Hand
Everywhere.

Atlanta, Nov. 9.—Twenty-five out of thirty starters in the Morning News endurance run from Savannah to Atlanta reached there Tuesday afternoon in fine trim, headed by President Frank C. Battery of the Savannah Automobile Club.

The long line of cars, dust-covered from the trip, but with everybody in good spirits and colors flying, came into Atlanta, passing through Peachtree and Whitehall streets and on out to the speedway club house, where they were received by the local reception and timing committee, checked in and turned over to the technical committee from Savannah for final examination.

During the trip through the center of the city the cars of the Savannah party were graciously given the right of way by the policemen at each crossing, and where thousands of people who were on the streets greeted them as they passed.

As soon as it was heard that the Savannah party had reached Stone Mountain a reception committee in three cars, headed by R. V. Conner and in which were Jos. W. Hill of Atlanta, Judge A. P. Moore of Savannah, chairman of the commissioners of Chatham county; J. E. Lewis and Clifford Lochridge of the Atlanta Constitution and others left the city and met the visitors just below Decatur, where they were all lined up and their pictures taken, after which they came on into Atlanta and reached the speedway shortly after 4 o'clock.

Of all the parties of good roads contestants coming into Atlanta this was the only one of any size which came through the business center of the city and the cars excited much attention and interest.

Twenty-three of the cars reached the speedway course together; the two others came along soon after. There they were met by the local timing and reception committee, headed by Chairman W. G. Humphrey and assigned to places to await their turn to be technically checked and measured.

A plentiful luncheon was ready for the Savannahians as they came in and after their hard riding they were in condition to enjoy it.

It was impossible to conclude the technical examination of all the contesting cars at the club house on account of darkness and this work was concluded by the committee composed of A. W. Solomon, chairman; R. J. Davant, C. V. Suedeker and Dr. R. H. Johnson, at the garage in the garage in the city, where the Savannahians put up for the night.

Americus Man Foully Killed.
Americus, Ga., Nov. 10.—Night Watchman Durham, employed as the Virginia-Carolina fertilizer works here, was brutally murdered Monday morning by unknown persons. He was discovered at an early hour by the day watchman, his body lying in the office of the factory, and his brains being scattered over the floor. Clubs were employed in killing the watchman. Durham was paid eight dollars Saturday night. His meager wages were evidently the incentive for the crime, as his pockets were robbed. There have been no arrests yet.

TAFT DINED AS WASHINGTON WAS IN 1791

Seated at Luncheon in Chair
Used by Colonial Gov.

Columbia, S. C., Nov. 8.—For the first time since George Washington was entertained here in 1791, Columbia is today welcoming a president.

President Taft arrived here today from Charleston at 12:45 p. m., and was accorded a typical southern welcome. He is the guest here of entire state, Columbia being the state capital, and thousands of people have come in from every section to add to the demonstration which is now in progress. Leaving his car at Main street, amid the cheers of a great crowd, the president and his party entered automobiles and were driven by the Bluff road to the state fair grounds, where another large crowd was assembled, and where the president made an address. The address over and the exhibits at the state fair viewed, the party returned to the city and were driven through the business and residential sections, crowds thronging the sidewalks and cheering the president, who in turn waived his hat and turned his broad smile upon the people in answer to their salutations. Governor Ansel and Mayor Reamer rode with the president reviewed 200 school children. Whistles were blown in the city, bells were tolled and the booming of cannon added to the demonstration which were given in the chief executive's honor.

Following the parade a luncheon was given the president in the hall of representatives in the state capitol, and this function was the most distinctive and picturesque of all the entertainments here in Columbia. To the distinguished company of men that sat with the president at luncheon, were added a setting in the galleries of the beauty of Columbia in a profusion of its fairest women, who as the women of the olden time did when Washington was dined, added the final touch of grace and hospitality to the reception accorded the president. A notable feature of the entertainment also was that the president was seated at this luncheon in the chair that was used by the colonial governor of South Carolina before the war of the revolution and which was loaned to the state for this occasion.

ROBBED THE HOME OF JUDGE SPEER.

This Charge is Made Against
Two Atlanta Boys.

Atlanta, Nov. 9.—Robert Symril, aged 16, and Charles Nelson, aged 17, were arrested by Detectives Dorsett and Coker of the local police department on warrants issued in Macon charging them with the burglary of United States Judge Emory Speer's home. It is charged that the boys entered the residence of Judge Speer two weeks ago, pilfering several valuable pieces of jewelry which were wedding presents of his daughter. After the burglary it is said, the boys began selling the articles in Macon.

Symril and Nelson are Atlanta boys. It is said they have confessed.
