THE BROAD HIGHWAY

The very worst use to which you can put money is to spend it. This year why not set up a new milestone on the Broad Highway of Life.

A Bank Account at the SEA ISLAND BANK will please every member of the family—do them most good—last the longest. Bestow half the time this year in teaching them to accumulate money that you did last year in teaching the money that you are now giving to securing them to spend it and you will benefit yourself and better the condition of every one to whom you give such a gift.

The logical result is that

PIERSON FARM LAND PLASTER

WILL MAKE YOU MONEY

will make you money. This is not only correct logic, but it has been demonstrated in the fields and farms throughout Bullock county. Plant peanuts and top throughout Bunoch county. Plant peanuts and top dress them with Pierson Farm Land Plaster, about 300 hundred pounds to the acre, and you will get well filled pods and plenty of them, and you can't get good results in any other way.

SHE TOLD HER NEIGHBOR.
"I told a neighbor whose very young child had croup, about Foley's Honey and Tar," writes Mrs. Rehkamp, 2104 Herman St., Covington, Ky. "She thought that the child surely would die if it was so bad. When she gave it a couple of doses of Foley's Honey and Tar she was so pleased with the change she did not know what to say." This old reliable cough syrup immediately helped the cough, cold, croup and whooping cough, just as good for old as it is for young folks.

50,000 TEACHERS TO VISIT NEW YORK CITY

National Educational Association July 1st to 8th.
It is believed that sixteen thousand delegates and a total of fifty thousand educators from all parts of the country will attend the National Educational Association meeting at New York from July 1st to July 8th, next.

The sessions are to be held in famous Madison Square Garden. The splendid exhibit of the New York City public schools, together with all the exhibits shown at the Panama-Pacific International Exposition, will be on view in an armory convenient to Madison Square Garden.

Addresses are expected from President Wilson, Judge Taft, Governor Whitman, Mayor Mitchell and others.

New York is preparing to royally entertain the teachers, and the indications are that this will be one of the most instructive and enjoyable meetings in the history of the organization.

Terrible Croup Attack Quickly Repulsed By Old Reliable Remedy
Well known Georgia store keeper has managed croup and cold for his family of ten with Foley's Honey and Tar Compound.

The minute that hoarse terrifying croupy cough is heard in the home of F. J. Barber, of Jefferson, Ga., out comes Foley's Honey and Tar Compound—there always a bottle ready—here's what he says: "Two of my children, one boy and a girl, aged eight and six years respectively, had terrible attacks of croup and I was unable to completely cure them with Foley's Honey and Tar Compound. I have ten in family and for years I've used Foley's Honey and Tar Compound and it never fails."

Health worry have doctor bills—keep Foley's Honey and Tar Compound always on hand—its reliable and—and the last dose is as good as the first. Get the genuine.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and for years it was supposed to be incurable. Doctors prescribed local remedies and by constantly irritating the part affected, promoted conditions and therefore required constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is a local remedy, it acts directly on the inflamed surface and acts through the blood on the system. One Hundred Dollars reward is offered for any case of Catarrh of the bladder cured by this Catarrh Cure. Full particulars and testimonials sent for circulars and testimonials. F. J. RECIPE FOR GRAY HAIR.
To half pint of water add 1 oz. Bay Rum, a small box of Barbo Compound, and 1/2 oz. of glycerine. Apply to the hair twice a week until it becomes the desired shade. Any druggist can put this up or you can mix it at home at very little cost. Full directions for making and use come in each box of Barbo Compound. It will gradually darken streaked, faded gray hair, and remove dandruff. It is excellent for falling hair and will make harsh hair soft and glossy. It does not color the scalp, is not sticky or greasy, and does not rub off.

Cigarettes were born midst Virginia's sunshine!

AND cigarette tobacco to be good certainly needs the mellow sunshine of old Virginia.

Here's one reason why Virginia is known as "the tobacco man's tobacco": because Virginia gives to a cigarette the one thing no other tobacco can give—that noticeable liveliness called "character."

Sun-goldened, lively, mellow Virginia—that's Piedmonts! ALL Virginia!

No wonder Piedmonts satisfy smokers. No wonder Piedmonts give smokers that "character" they want—every whiff.

Tongues That Kill.
The tongues of some animals are very dangerous weapons. A lion could speedily kill a man by merely licking him with his tongue. The tongues of all the members of the cat family are covered with curious recurring spines formed of tongue cartilage. In the common domestic cat these spines are very small, but are sufficiently well developed to give the tongue a feeling of roughness. In the domestic animals, such as the lion or tiger, these spines are frequently found projecting up for an eighth of an inch or more with very sharp pointed edges. While the mouth is relaxed the tongue is soft and smooth, but when the animal is excited the spines become rigid.

Any ambitious man who is interested in horses and has been raising grades successfully will make no mistake in buying pure bred stock, writes a correspondent of the Orange Journal. It was in the spring of 1902 that I bought my first two percheron fillies. In the spring of 1905 they foaled the first two pure bred colts ever foaled on this farm. I did by holding over my percherons that Percherons have made more money than the hogs or the cattle. I would as soon think of giving up the farm as of giving up the Percherons.

W. M. S. of Methodist Church Entertain

The ladies of the W. M. S. of the Methodist church entertained the ladies of the church at a social meeting at the home of Mrs. W. T. Smith on North Main street last Monday afternoon.

All the first floor of the home was thrown together to furnish room for the large crowd assembled to partake of the hospitality of Mrs. Smith and the ladies of the W. M. S. who so ably assisted her.

The rooms were lovely in the decorations of cut flowers and pot plants as were the dainty dresses worn by the little girls who served punch through the afternoon.

As each guest arrived she was presented with a slip of paper on which was printed the name of a foreign missionary. In different parts of the rooms were hung large cards with the name of different foreign countries in which the Woman's Board has work.

After the guests were all assembled the president of the society called the names and each lady representing a missionary took her place in the country in which she labors.

After all the names had been called and each lady had furnished place all lined in singing "Blest Be Thee Thine Arms."

A dainty salad course was served. These meetings are held quarterly. The next will be held on South Main street.

Memorial.
The hand of death has again been held out to us, and guided to her Heavenly home, our beloved sister, Miss Frances Mikell, who departed this life on March 4, 1916, at the sixtieth year of her life.

She had been in poor health for many years, and during the last years of her life she was a great sufferer.

Miss Frances had been a member of the Baptist church for about twenty-three years.

The funeral services were conducted by her pastor, Rev. T. J. Cobb, and her body laid to rest in Corinth church cemetery.

We bow submissively to the will of our Heavenly Father, and extend our deepest heartfelt sympathy to the family and relatives with the prayer that He will sanctify the bereavement to their good, and unite them again in that Heavenly home, where their earthly pilgrimage is over.

Running From a Fortune

By EDWARD T. STEWART

"John," said the chief of the detective bureau to which I was attached, "there is a very singular case. I have a letter from a party in London asking me to discover a man who is hiding out because he is a criminal, but because he is wanted to enter upon the possession of a fine estate."

It was indeed a singular case. Ralph Thornton, a son of John Thornton, a wealthy manufacturer of Birmingham, England, had come to America in flight from justice, or, more properly, a crime had been committed which had been fixed on him. The circumstantial evidence against him was so strong that his attorneys advised him to vanish. He accepted the advice and, though absolutely innocent, sailed in disguise for New York and never made known to any one in England into what part of the country he had drifted.

The real criminal had been tried and convicted for another offense and had confessed that he was the guilty one in the crime of which Ralph Thornton had been accused. Ralph's father had meanwhile died and left him all his property.

The trouble in finding Thornton was that he would naturally suppose that any one looking for him would arrest him. Therefore it was necessary to approach him not by ordinary detective methods. I was furnished with a description of his person and informed that he was a university graduate and a scholarly man. I was also given the letter from London stating that he had been exonerated.

I spent a long while in finding out that he had gone to Colorado and engaged in mining there. On leaving England his father had given him $25,000, so I judged he was in fairly easy circumstances and expected to find him, if indeed I did find him, operating a mine.

Proceeding to Denver, I went from there up into the gold mining country on Clear Creek, stopping at Empire, where there were a number of stamp mills. There I procured a list of all the men who had invested capital in mining interests and made inquiries concerning every one of them, satisfying myself that my man was not among them. However, I secured information of an Englishman who had been at Georgetown, further up in the mountains, about the time Thornton came to America and who had sunk all his money in mines. He called himself Thomas Gregory.

Proceeding to Georgetown, I made inquiry for Gregory and learned that the last known of him he had turned wandering prospector. There seemed nothing to do but hunt him up, but I would be like looking for a needle in a haystack, and even if I found him I had no assurance that he was my quarry.

While considering what to do I was sitting one morning on the porch of the hotel reading a local paper. At that time the Venezuelan nation was at a haystack, and even if I found him I had no assurance that he was my quarry.

President Of Bank

Testifies

Can Now Jump on Horse and Ride Away Good as Anybody.

H. W. Hill, president of one of the leading banking institutions of South Pittsburg, Tenn., and one of the most successful bankers and business men of Tennessee, while in Chattanooga recently paid a visit to the Tanlac representative at the Live & Let Live Drug Co. to express his gratitude for the wonderful good he had obtained from the use of the medicine.

Among other things Mr. Hill said: "I suffered from rheumatism and other ailments for many years, but this Tanlac went right after my trouble, and I tell you it did me a world of good. The pains which were with me so long have disappeared, and I tell you I can jump on my horse now and ride away good as anybody. This Tanlac has done me more good than any thing I ever tried."

"Now wake up in the mornings feeling fine, and to tell you the truth, since I began taking this medicine I feel well all the time."

"I am telling all my friends about Tanlac, and am recommending it to them, regardless of their age or trouble, for I tell you it has put me in old-time form again."

Tanlac is sold exclusively in Statesboro by W. H. Ellis Co. and in Metter by Franklin Drug Co., in Brooklet by H. G. Parish.

Keep Out Of The Rain

Or Your Clothes May Be Color of The Rainbow

Atlanta, Ga., May 3.—If you—man or woman—get caught in the rain and find that the color runs or fades in your new suit, be a sport and don't complain to the tailor or merchant you got it from. It can't be helped—it's one of the horrors of war.

The National Association of Clothiers has just sent out a statement, which has been received in Atlanta, warning all purchasers that colors in garments can no longer be guaranteed, and "they must learn to accept the situation as one over which no mill, manufacturer or retailer can exercise control."

The American output of aniline dyes is still far too small to supply the lack of German dyes. And some of the American anilines, because of the undeveloped state of the industry and the haste with which manufacturers have tried to meet the demand, are inferior to the "fast" German dyes.

Eventually the trouble will be ended by the removal of imports, or by the adequate response of the American dye industry. Meanwhile there's nothing for the consumer to do but grin and bear it. "Surely," suggests the clothiers, "the American public trusted to meet this condition cheerfully, if everybody is frank about it."

RHEUMATISM ARRESTED

Many people suffer the tortures of lame muscles and stiffened joints because of impurities in the blood, and each succeeding attack seems more acute until rheumatism has become a chronic condition. To arrest rheumatism it is of prime importance to purify the blood. Scott's Emulsion is the best blood-purifier, while its medicinal nourishment strengthens the system and expels the impurities and upbuilds your strength.

Scott's Emulsion is helping thousands every day who could not feel otherwise. Beware the alcoholic substitutes.

The contestants, representatives from the F. D. A. S. who attended the state meet at Athens April 25th and 26th were girls and seven boys scored splendidly in all departments, which included grooming a horse, plowing, essays, declamation, music, domestic science, athletics, etc.

In stock judging the F. D. A. S. won second place. First place in hurdle, first place in running broad jump.

The following schools were represented: Statesboro, Tifton, Monroe, Douglas, Madison, Clarksville and Carrollton. Clarksville won first place in total points in literary and athletic, and Statesboro and Tifton tied for second.

Sims, of Statesboro, won the broad jump at 17.10' and wanted to try for a record but was not allowed owing to limited time.

The visitors were entertained at luncheon at the State College and were addressed by Dr. Soule after the time.

which gold medals were presented which bear the seal of Georgia.

The guests were given an auto trip over the state college farm which was beautiful in its diversity of crops. The trip was a most great benefit as well as pleasure.

Automobile Accident

Irvin Brannen, a prominent citizen of Metter, while enroute to Statesboro last Saturday night, driving an Oldsmobile touring car carrying Alvin Aklin and Jones Allen, met with a serious accident which came near costing him his life.

As the party approached the Paul Belcher bridge the lights were suddenly extinguished and the car struck the guard post at the end of the bridge taking a header and turning turtle into the creek. Mr. Brannen was pinned underneath the car and only the timely assistance of his comrades saved him from drowning.

Death of Mrs. J. K. Brannen

Mrs. J. K. Brannen, residing at Danegal, near Cato, died May 1st and was buried Wednesday at Wilsons grave yard at four p. m. Elder A. W. Patterson officiating.

Mrs. Brannen is survived by her husband and nine children. April 1st Mr. and Mrs. Brannen celebrated their fifteenth anniversary.

Hinton Booth

Delegate of Large to Democratic Convention, St. Louis, State Primary Sept. 12

The state Democratic convention which has completed its work in session at Macon had rather a hair pulling time over the delegate from Chatham county. Col. Neyle Colquitt was the choice of the convention after the scrap was over. Rumors floated over the political zone that J. G. Harris would withdraw from the race and that Judge J. E. Pottle would enter the fray.

A Hugh M. Dorsey boom was also started. The county unit rule will prevail and there will be no oath on the ballot. The state nominating convention is set for Sept. 26th at Macon.

The delegates-at-large to the convention to be held at St. Louis are the following Georgia men: James R. Gay, of Fulton, chairman; Neyle Colquitt, Chatham; Frank Jenkins, of Putnam; W. H. Davis, of Burke; John Vandiver, of Floyd; C. L. Bartlett, of Bibb; Crawford Wheatley, of Sumpter; P. J. Commis, of Decatur.

Delegates from the First District: Hinton Booth, Statesboro; W. R. Hewlett, of Chatham; B. G. Tipples, of Screven; E. G. Weather, of Milledgeville.

New Bridge

Connecting Bulloch and Screven Opposite Geechee

Citizens of Screven and Bulloch together with commissioners of both counties held a meeting Wednesday at Lanes Bridge and practically agreed to build a modern steel bridge to replace the toll bridge now operated by E. S. Lane. The meeting was attended by W. H. C. Ordinary of Bulloch, W. J. Denmark and J. V. Brannon commissioners of Roads and Revenue for Bulloch and J. C. Overstreet Ordinary of Screven and J. T. Walker Commissioner of Screven together with interested citizens of both counties. Addresses were made by Judge Moore, Albert Deal, T. J. Denmark and others of Bulloch. E. S. Lane offered to donate the present Lanes bridge and with the citizens of Screven to also subscribe $1000 toward the steel bridge. It is very likely that the commissioners of the two counties will promote the project which will thus open up direct communication to the most desirable section of the two counties.

The Black Cap

A small, limp piece of black cloth is, according to ancient custom, put on the top of the judge's wig in England before he passes sentence of death and is properly called the "sentence cap," or "black cap." Covering the head was a sign of mourning among the Romans, Greeks, Romans and Anglo-Saxons and is referred to in Samuel II, 15:30. Putting on the black cap is not a grim sign of revenge of the law, but is rather a token of sorrow, expressing the regret the judge feels at having to condemn the prisoner to death.

WHAT IS

A bottle of Coca Cola contains one ounce of Coca Cola Syrup and six and one-half ounces of carbonated water. The syrup is composed of the following ingredients:

Pure water, sterilized by boiling. Sugar, granulated, best quality. Flavoring extracts and caramel. Caffeine—the active principle of tea. Citric and Phosphoric acids.

The water serves merely as a solvent for the other ingredients. The sugar gives sweetness to the beverage and acts as a preservative for the syrup, being the only preservative employed. Choice extracts of ripe fruit are blended to produce the inimitable flavor. The caramel gives color and also lends its influence to the flavor.

The Citric acid, derived from lemons, and phosphoric acid, an ingredient of our own bodies, combined with the carbonated water to produce the pleasant piquancy which offsets the sweetness of the sugar.

The refreshing caffeine of tea, freed from its unwholesome associate of tannic acid—is employed in approximately one-half the quantity that is contained in a cup of tea or coffee.

To claim that they are injurious or habit forming is merely to juggle with words; for there is no article of food or drink that could not be subjected to the same sophistical criticism. Far fetched criticisms of Coca Cola have risen from time to time founded on entirely false premises. They are true in the same sense exactly as it would be to say that salt is not fit for food because it is composed of Sodium and Chlorine both dangerous chemical elements in a free state; or that milk should not be drunk because it acts as violent poison if injected in the blood vessels.

Southern Editors Organizing Paper Factory

To keep Price Down—Nelson Shipp of Dalton Tribune at its Head

Atlanta, Ga., May 10.—One publisher in Georgia has been panic enough to join in the commercial war against a high "News" paper market. The publisher is Nelson Shipp, editor of the Dalton Daily Tribune. He has just organized the Georgia-Tennessee Paper Company, whose purpose will be to ship several hundred tons of paper materials to northern and eastern paper mills during the next few months. They will ask the cooperation of every chamber and trades body in the two states.

The company will purchase old magazines, books, rags, and rubber, as well as fats for soap making. Much of the paper making materials in this country is now being used, it is stated, in the manufacture of high explosives. The Dalton concern, it is reported, are also experimenting with dyes expecting to produce a dark red dye at low cost.

The Citric acid, derived from lemons, and phosphoric acid, an ingredient of our own bodies, combined with the carbonated water to produce the pleasant piquancy which offsets the sweetness of the sugar.

A Georgian Elected President Consolidated

Petroleum Corporation—Located in New York City

Atlanta, Ga., May 10.—Georgia men have received with unusual interest the news from New York that Charles R. Porter has been elected president of the Consolidated Petroleum Corporation, with a capital of seven million dollars. Mr. Porter is a resident of Rome, Ga., and is well known throughout Georgia and the southern states. "Charlie" Porter has long been recognized as a business man with aggressive energy and spirit that makes for success. Mr. Porter will be associated in his new work with some of the biggest men in their lines of business in the United States. The corporation will immediately commence the aggressive development of its large oil properties and leases in Louisiana, Oklahoma and Mexico. Mr. Porter, according to advices from New York, expects to make the corporation one of the largest in the world's refineries. The company occupies the entire fifteenth floor of No. one Wall street.

Days You'll Never Forget

THE DAY THE FIRST GASOLINE BUGGY HIT THE OLD TOWN—

Items Concerning the County Schools

By B. R. OLLIFF, Sept.

Just two more weeks and all the schools of this county will close with the exception of about two. In many communities, they are teaching private terms of two or more months. In these private schools, the children that for any reason were unable to attend the public term are being taught. Let us many school districts can possibly do it, have a two months' term this summer. It will be worth while.

Prof. Usher will have his training class here in Statesboro again this summer, the latter part of July. He has had good classes heretofore and his work has proven very helpful to those teachers who have taken his special course in preparation for the state examination. Quite a number of teachers failed to stand creditable examinations because they do not make any preparation for such work. It would be a good idea for those of you who wish to renew your license or to secure a higher license to give this course some consideration. Mr. Usher is one of the foremost educators of this state and he certainly knows how to prepare you for the examination. Try him and you will be convinced.

There will be passed a compulsory education law sometime right soon in this state. Too, they will give us free school books. Something will have to be done to enable us to have funds sufficient with which to operate long terms of school. In Emanuel county, where the population is not so great as in this county, they have about fifty-thousand dollars with which to operate. They are able to give seven months school and to pay the teachers good salaries too. Emanuel has county-wide taxation for school maintenance. Screven and Bryan has. Why not let Bul-

OLD TIME RAILWAY TRAVELER

Third class passenger coaches in England used to be coupled on next to the engine. The travelers came in for terrible treatment when any accident occurred. At times the engine was driven tender first, in which case frozen hands could be warmed at the smoke stack. The passengers were packed severely of them into a truck eighteen feet in length by seven and a half in width. There was no roof and not, as a rule, proper protection at the sides. Exchange.

HE WANTED A BATH Hon. Wm. J. "Bill" Harris

And, Curiously Enough, That Fact Went Him a Lot of Fame.

QUEER TALE OF A LONDON INN

The Commotion a Traveler Fresh From Australia Kicked Up in the Blue Boar Tavern by a Simple Request That Made Him an Object of Wonder.

A cheerful thought, says the author of the autobiography entitled "The Record of Nicholas Pridgen," that he has been something of a tradition at the Blue Boar Inn, in London, where I have reason to think I am remembered today by a now aged host and other many, many others—as "the gentleman who ordered a bath."

I happened on the Blue Boar, a new arrival from Australia, and stayed there for two nights. On rising after my first sleepless night I went prowling all about the house in search of the bathroom. Finally I was routed back to my room by a heavily awakened maid (in curl glass) who told me rather crossly that I could not have a "bath" unless I ordered it "before-hand." I was in a hurry to get on, so I did without my bath and promised myself I would see to it later in the day.

That afternoon, footsore, tired and feeling luxuriously grimy, I interviewed the lady again and begged permission to have a bath. She was then in the mood of a very angry woman, and much lighter humor and in the end she promised to arrange the matter shortly and to send some one to warn me when the moment had arrived. Where could I be found? "Oh, I'll go and undress at once," I said.

"No, don't do that, sir; I can't get a bath all in a minute," she told me. "Perhaps you'd like to wait in the smoking room."

I agreed at once and retired to the drowsy smoking room, where there was an ample choice of distraction for a writing man between a motheaten volume entitled "King's Concordance" and a Southwestern railway time table. I never, very solemnly fastened, but with nothing ill. Presently Boots came in, elderly and sad, but furiously bird-like both in the way he held his head and in the jerky quickness of his movements.

"You the gentleman as ordered a bath?" he asked anxiously. I added, "Yes, please," and he gave a long sigh of relief. "Oo! All right," he said, almost gladly. "I'll letcher know when it's ready." And he hopped out. I yawned, opened the concordance and shut it again hastily, by reason of the extraordinary present moment in my mind. Then I went prospecting into the passage between the stairs and the private bar. Here I passed a sort of ticket office, at which a middle aged lady sat, eating winkles from a plate with the aid of a hairpin. Her face lighted up with sudden interest as she saw me.

"Oo!" she cried with spirit. "Er you the gentleman as ordered a bath?" Again I pleaded guilty, and with a broad, reassuring smile, as of one who should say, "Bless you, we've had visitors just as mad as you before this," she nodded her ringleted head and said, "Right you are, sir. I'll send Boots to letcher know when it's ready."

Apart from consideration of her occupation, which demanded privacy, I could not stand gazing at this lady, and so I passed on to my only refuge from the concordance room—the private bar. There was a really splendid young lady in attendance here, who smiled upon me so sweetly that I felt constrained to order a lemon squash. While I pondered, with one hand on the counter, the still smiling barmaid opened conversation brightly.

"Er you the gentleman what's ordered a bath?" she asked eagerly. I began to feel that there must be some kind of London joke about this formula. Perhaps it is a phrase in the current comic opera, I thought. As I hung indecisively waiting I heard a voice in the passage outside and recognized it as belonging to that elderly bird, Boots.

"No, I ain't a wastin' of me time," it said. "I'm a lookin' for some one. I suppose you ain't seen the gentleman as ordered a bath anywhere about, 'ave yer?"

Fearful lest further delay should lead to the breaking up of the bathroom or to a crisis being sent round the town for the "gentleman" and so forth, I hastened out almost into the arms of the retainer and forcibly checked him as he began on an interrogative note to chide out, "You the gentleman as ordered a bath?"

Coming from a country where, even in the poorest workman's house, the bathroom at all events is always in commission, I was especially struck by this incident, more especially when an hour later I heard the chambermaid cry out over the banisters: "Her 'Mell! The gentleman as ordered a bath 'as 'ave a chop wiv 'is tea!"

Receives Ovation in Atlanta—Termed the Man of the Hour

Atlanta, Ga., May 10.—"The Man of the Hour" at the recent state democratic convention at Macon was Hon. William J. Harris, member of the Federal Trade Commission. He came down from Washington simply to mix and mingle with his friends and in no sense expected the unusual and tremendous ovation that he received. "Bill" Harris as he is familiarly known, likes his friends, is always seeking to serve them, is close to President Wilson and is just about as popular in Washington as he is at home.

When Chairman John W. Bennett, in the course of his speech, mentioned the name of Mr. Harris, the convention broke in to loud and prolonged applause. Later the convention itself unanimously adopted resolutions only praising President Wilson himself and commending his policies, but passed a separate and distinctive resolution commending his appointment of W. J. Harris first as director of the U. S. census and later as a member of the Federal Trade Commission.

The signal honor bestowed on Mr. Harris was undoubtedly one of the striking features of the convention. "Speech," cried many of the delegates, but when they went to look for Mr. Harris he had escaped to the sidewalk. He makes no pretensions as a speaker, and the delegates, however, after the convention was over swarmed about his hotel and he was kept busy shaking hands throughout the day. Some day, when the national chieftain gets through with this popular Georgian and loyal democrat, the folks at home may want to place him in the governor's chair. It would please a whole lot of people, and no one could object to his "holding down the job."

Anti-Malaria Surveys By Public Health Dept.

Atlanta, Ga., May 10.—The public Health Department of the government is making anti-malaria surveys in the different sections of the community, instructing the people how to control mosquitoes and other serious fever germs.

Hon. Charles R. Crisp of the third Georgia district, has started sections of the department to order one of these surveys in his district, and it will be made in Sumter county. Apparently Mr. Crisp does not let an opportunity slip that will benefit his constituents.

Atlanta, Ga., May 10.—Georgia peaches, famous the world over, are going to bring their usual good prices this season; in fact the prediction is that they will exceed the prices two years ago. The crop is estimated at something over 3,000 cars. The Georgia Fruit Exchange, of which B. J. Christman is general manager, has closed contracts with all its sellers, agents to handle shipments or consignments. Besides more than fifty brokers will send in orders on a basis of cash F. O. B. cars, bank guarantee. The exchange has representation in 250 cities and towns, embracing all the territory east of the Mississippi river as far southwest as New Orleans and as far northeast as Montreal, Canada.

Close and Dear. Willie—Say, pa, what is the difference between a close friend and a dear friend? Pa—A close friend is a one who will lend you money, while a dear friend is one who borrows all you will stand for.

Shortage of Certified Public Accountants

State to Hold Public Examination Atlanta, Ga., May 10.—The state board of public accountants will hold an examination at the Ansley hotel in Atlanta May 17 and 18. It will be conducted by all members of the board including Joel Hunter, chairman, Attorney Hudson Moore of Atlanta and R. W. Jemison of Macon. Likely a dozen or more applicants will stand the examination, and those who pass successfully, certificates will be issued by the governor. The officers of the state board, 1006 Empire building, Atlanta, will furnish any desired information. Georgia is said to be short on her supply of certified public accountants and the examination affords an opportunity to get good positions.
