BIG SEED MERCHANT
GAINED 19 POUNDSA. F. Almond Says He Could Talk
All Day Long About Tanlac

Nearly two thousand people in Atlanta alone purchased Tanlac in one week recently. These people represented practically every walk of life, including a great many prominent business men, and almost without exception, every one of the number had something good to say about Tanlac. Among them was Mr. A. F. Almond, the well-known wholesale and retail seed and grain merchant, whose place of business is located at 271-273 Peters street. Mr. Almond is not only one of the big business men of Atlanta, but is a man of high character and strict integrity, and one of his friends expressed it, "His word is as good as his bond."

Like a great many other men of affairs who stick close to business, Mr. Almond, to use his own statement, was all run-down, and felt the need of something to build him up. In an interesting interview a few days ago, he said:

"For more than a year I have suffered a great deal from stomach trouble, and was hardly ever free from indigestion. After eating I would always have gas on my stomach, and would belch up sour, undigested foods."

"I also suffered from heartburn a great deal, and was extremely nervous. I felt like I needed something to build me up, but did not know just what I needed. I felt languid and tired out most of the time. My liver was sluggish, and I suffered a great deal from biliousness. At times I just felt like I could not give my business the attention it needed."

"Like everybody else, I got to reading about Tanlac and decided to give it a trial. Besides, I heard a great many people say it was a fine medicine, so I began taking it, and by the time I had finished my second bottle I had gained 19 pounds in actual weight. However, I was able to tell you how grateful I feel to this medicine. If you had seen me before I began taking it, you would not believe me to be the same man."

"I have talked about the medicine so much, and look so much better since I began using it, that a lot of my customers call me 'Tanlac Jack.' Jack is my nick-name, but, anyway, I feel just like a new man. I never suffer with heartburn and indigestion any more, and am not nervous like I was. I also sleep well and get up in the mornings feeling fine and ready for work. It is certainly a wonderful medicine, and my only regret is that I did not hear of it sooner."

Tanlac is sold exclusively in Statesboro by W. H. Ellis Co., and in Metter by Franklin Drug Co., in Brooklet by H. G. Parrish and C. W. Wolfe Co., in Stilton, Ga., R. F. D. GOOD COTTON SEED SHORTAGE
THREATENED

Shortage of Desirable Seed For Boll Weevil Conditions

Athens, November 8.—Cotton interests in Georgia have become very much concerned about the cotton seed situation in view of the presence of the boll weevil. Unless good seed from varieties of plants, best suited to boll weevil conditions, is at once selected and retained for planting for next year, there is going to be a serious shortage. To meet this critical situation, the Georgia State College of Agriculture has just sent out four men who are experts in seed selection, to visit many farmers as possible, to determine whether they have cotton seed that will be of value to plant under boll weevil conditions or not, and list them for the benefit of those seeking good seed to plant next year.

To continue to plant cotton seed obtained in the haphazard way as in the past, will mean nothing but failure when the weevil takes his toll as he promises to do over a very large part of the state next season. Unless the seed is selected now, it will be impossible to tell what is good and what bad after it has been mixed in the bins with other varieties of cotton.

The four experts are to work in counties where there are no county agents. Where county agents are located the work of seed selection is already in progress and will, of course, be well looked after. The experts are graduates of the College of Agriculture who have been willing to leave their farms and other private interests for six weeks to two months to help meet the crisis which is upon the Georgia farmer. Eugene Baker, Monroe, and C. L. Venable, Trion, have assigned to North Georgia; W. R. Fort, Morrow, to eastern central Georgia; D. W. Lloyd, Newbern, to central western Georgia; J. B. Williams, Fort Valley, to the southern part of Georgia.

After an investigation of the seed supply in each territory has been made, the lists of farmers having good seed for sale will be referred to buyers in their respective territories.

TOOK THE HURT OUT OF HER BACK

Physicians report more cases of kidney trouble among women than men. Mrs. Anna Byrd, Tusculum, Ala., writes: "I was down with my back so I could not stand up more than half of the time. Foley Kidney Pills took all of the pain away. They are the best kidney pills I ever took. Rheumatic pains, swollen ankles, backache, stiff joints, sore muscles, and sleep disturbing bladder ailments indicate disordered kidneys. Foley Kidney Pills act promptly. For sale by Bullock Drug Co."

"WELL BEGUN HALF DONE"

I think that the most essential thing needed in beginning a crop consists in a thoroughly prepared seed bed and that can best be made by fall plowing followed at once with a cover crop. Some crops will live without humus, but not thrive, still none will even live long without moisture so we should preserve both by fall plowing.

What would we think of a man who covered the entrance to his cistern and then grumbled because he did not catch water? This is what we do when we turn the stock on our fields in the fall and let them eat off the vegetation and tramp a crust on the land. The well broken field is like a sponge; it will fill with the winter rains and distribute the moisture as the growing crop needs it; but the hard packed field catches very little and when the crop needs moisture there is none for it, and the manager has to suffer the loss. Still, he will kick about dry weather and blame the God who made him for not sending rain.

I was the first man in my community to adopt the plan of fall plowing. Through my demonstration work on this line it has been proved to be of great benefit by others as well as myself. When I began this practice my neighbors ridiculed me for "killing my land" with the big plow, for that was their idea of the business. One fall I broke a plot of land all except about an acre in the center of the plot which I did not have time to break. The following spring my neighbors planted this land in corn. After the corn was up two feet high I was in the field with him and asked him why he fertilized all except the small patch in the center. His answer was that I knew he had not used any fertilizer at all. So I asked what was the matter with the small plot, for it was not more than half as large and green as the rest of the field. His answer was he did not know, and would like to know what I thought of it. My answer was that the center plot had not been "killed" with the big plow like the rest of the field.

Since that unexpected experimental lesson, there have been a good many more to take up the practice and in every case it has proved beneficial. There is a great deal said about fertilizer, but I would rather have cultivation and a good seed bed than to have fertilizer without cultivation.

When is the time to start a crop? The first of October.

How?

By fall plowing.

Why?

To store moisture, to make humus, to save labor in the spring, to stop the erosion of the soil, to make the seed germinate quicker and more evenly, to make more plant food ready for use in the spring, for fall plowed land prepares and retains plant food much better than winter packed land. If my land is soft, with a heavy coat of vegetation on it, I prefer the sulky or any moldboard plow for breaking, for they bury the vegetation better than the disc. But if my land is hard I use a heavy "Plato Disc" breaker, which cuts everything in front of it, whether it be hard or soft. Just for a breaking plow I think the disc breaker beats them all, for it will break any kind of land and you can break as deep as you please without turning the subsoil on top, or as the kickers say, turn up the "yaller" dirt, so you can't make anything. I use both kinds and know the value of both. My 24-inch disc is the best assurance I have of a fall turnip crop. A. Ryall, Jasper, Texas, in Southern Ruralist.

BOLL WEEVIL PREPAREDNESS CLUBS

County Agents Are Organizing—Agreements Made to Cooperate in Combating Weevil

Athens, November 8.—The latest movement in combating the boll weevil and promoting changes in farming practices of the state, is announced at the Georgia State College of Agriculture. A new club has been formed known as the "Boll Weevil Preparedness Club of Georgia." It originated in the county agents and is the thought of prominent citizens of that county and county agent T. B. Riley. Believing that this club would be the means of doing valuable work in every county in which there is a county agent located, J. Phil Campbell, Director of Extension Service announced today that the clubs would be organized throughout the state. The work of organizing is to be taken up at once.

Membership in the Boll Weevil Club involves the signature to an agreement to do certain cooperative work in combating the boll weevil, in modifying farm practices, raising home supplies and other things as they may arise, that would be of benefit to all cooperating farmers. The presence of the boll weevil over a large part of the state makes cooperative and vigorous action of farmers very necessary at once. Believing that this action can be secured in no way so quickly and thoroughly as by organizing boll weevil preparedness clubs in each county in which county agents are employed, the College of Agriculture has set itself to prosecute the organization vigorously.

W. B. Burley, the new boll weevil expert, obtained for the state of Louisiana, will have his headquarters at Albany, Ga., while J. G. Oliver, another expert, will continue to be located at Americus. They will do field work in promoting the organization of the clubs and in other lines of educational work among the cotton farmers, as planned by the College and the U. S. Department of Agriculture. The work of a very practical kind, it is now realized that to make the work that has been done most effective, that a measure of cooperation that can best be secured only through club organization, is now essential.

Did it ever occur to you that 75 per cent of your laundry money comes back to you when you send us your work? Less than 25 per cent remains in Statesboro when you send your work out of town.

We're not asking favors but don't you think it's good "business" to patronize a home institution when it pays 50 per cent on your investment? The dollar that goes farthest is the dollar spent at home. Think it over.

Joy vs. Sorrow is the aftermath of Nov. 7th.

It's about over and we all look about the same.

Bragging is excusable when you brag of your own town.

The wil in Wilson that hued the Hugh out of Hughes.

The Kaiser is still the Kaiser and King George is still king and war is still hell.

The Grouch And The Gossiper Can well be spared from any town.

Which ever way it goes we don't see how some of those northern and southern newspapers are going to explain the things they said would happen.

We note that a German has been eating paper on which was printed incriminating evidence. We couldn't afford to do it in America, not even an old newspaper.

The Governor has proclaimed for one grand eat Nov. 13th. We hope some of our kind friends will bring in a variety basket of Bulloch county products; we'll give them a corking good puff.

The result of Tuesday's election shows how infallible are the predictions of political managers and newspapers, straw votes, etc. Straw votes blow away mighty easily and usually the fellow who casts one changes his mind when the official voting day rolls round.

HIGH COST OF FOODSTUFFS

Every day sees the necessary things for the sustenance of life soaring to dizzy money heights. Where it will end, how it will end, and how the man or woman with the short financial purse is going to reach it is the problem confronting the nation immediately this election question is settled. This avalanche of prosperity that is sweeping the country serves only to carry the man who is fortified already with an abundance of the world's wealth to greater and more dangerous power, while the poor man must struggle, grope and sacrifice in a dark uncertainty even more carefully than ever in our history. This condition of a fight for food to eat in the midst of such apparent prosperity raises the question of food for thought in a most serious measure regarding our economic life. There is certainly a cog wheel with a broken cog somewhere in our civic institution that needs the attention of an expert mechanic.

A glance at the market reports is sufficient to numb the senses of the ordinary housekeeper. Flour has advanced $1.50 a barrel and is now selling at $11.50 to $12.00 with the prediction that it will go to $15.00. Irish potatoes are a luxury for the working man, where a year ago they were $1.65 to $1.70 now they are hard to get at $5.50 and no prospect of a decrease in price. This same ratio of high prices in food stuffs goes on down the line of canned goods, soaps, washing powders, matches, and in fact the very necessities of life. Merchants tell their customers that they are trying to hold down prices but that they see no other way but to raise even beyond what they are now charging. Some dealers say that they attribute this outlandish price to the foreign demand and others say that a combine exists between producers. The latter is probably nearer the truth than anything else. And all this in a land of supposedly plenty, at peace with the world. The entire situation may be brought back to our system of education. Well might we pattern after the German nation in her economic and military preparedness. Germany would live in luxury upon the waste of the United States and we as a nation scarcely know the first principles of conservation of our production, much less our resources.

Do you know of a person in this whole community who would be willing to go through life month by month and year by year without a knowledge of the news features of the township in which he resides? Would you like to be that person? It is difficult to convince the average reader of the real value of his home paper unless he has at some time or other been forced to do without it. Then it is that its value is brought home to them. Most people subscribe for the home paper, read it, enjoy it, and absorb the news it contains as a matter of course, giving scarcely a thought to the vast amount of labor entailed in the production of the issue. And yet that issue means a tremendous concentration of thought and energy and perseverance on the part of both an editor and his entire office and press room force. The work thus represented on an issue of this paper costs the reader less than 2 cents. Would you like to fill the editor's shoes for a week, or a month, or permanently? Would you consider that the labor thus involved had met with just compensation? There is no business in the world that is so imposed upon as a country newspaper for free service. Every inch of its space represents money value the same as the goods that are on the shelves of a store which are to be sold, yet the average citizen will with all the assurance in the world come into a newspaper office and hand in an obituary, an announcement for an entertainment or some personal communication upon which there is a revenue devolved for them or their society and expect the newspaper to publish it free. It would be quite as reasonable to go into any store and ask the proprietor to give you a dollar's worth of sugar simply because you bought a box of matches the previous day, as to expect free space from the newspaper simply because you are a subscriber.

On subjects of general community interest, uplift and progress, the newspaper, as a rule, subscribes more cash value in its free publicity than nine-tenths of the citizens who are asked to contribute.

The extremely high cost of paper, now above 7 cents per pound, has brought many papers to the realization of a condition which heretofore did not appeal to them in the fair and equitable light that it should have been practiced.

MIGRATION OF THE NEGRO NORTH

Columbus Enquirer-Sun: The migration of large numbers of negroes from the South to the industrial centers of the North and East and of the Central West has been the subject of a great deal of comment among the people and the press. It appears that this exodus has been the subject of more discussion among the people of those sections into which the negroes are going than among the people of the South. Northern and Eastern people, as a rule, seem to regard the movement as a bad one, not only for the negro, but for the people among whom he is going, but more particularly for the negro.

Not long ago Maj. Moton, principal of the Tuskegee Institute, the successor of the late Booker T. Washington, in an address delivered to a large audience, urged the negroes to remain in the South. He told the audience that his information was that already negroes in the Northern cities were being huddled together like cattle and he predicted that there would be a great deal of suffering among them this winter.

Northern newspapers have discussed the matter, some of them saying that the negro who goes North should apply the principle of "safety first" by purchasing a return ticket. This advice is very sound. The negro in going North is going among strangers. He is going among people who do not understand him and whom he does not understand, and this advice about purchasing a return ticket before leaving the South is sound and sensible.

Another Northern newspaper makes the statement that it is a mistake for the negro to go North—a mistake for the farm laborer to leave the farm and seek industrial work with which he is not familiar and in which he is not likely to receive much encouragement. If the negro were skilled in industrial work it would be a different matter, but what does the man who has never known any work save that of the farm know about industrial work? And in going among people who do not understand him nor sympathize with him he is taking the longest kind of chance.

We do not blame any man for making a move when he can better his condition by so doing. It is not only his privilege to do so, but he owes it to himself and to those dependent upon him to do it. But the negro farm laborer, inexperienced in any other work than that of farming, stands little chance to better his condition by going among strangers to work that is strange to his hands. The negro of the South is among people who know and understand him, and if he would do what is best for him he will remain here.—Savannah Morning News.

OVERLAND AGAIN WINS PLACE OF HONOR AT BIG AUTO SHOWS

In the face of the keenest competition ever known in the history of automobile manufacturing, the Willys-Overland Company, of Toledo, Ohio, has for the fourth consecutive year been awarded the position of honor at the New York and Chicago automobile shows, in January, by the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce.

The space allotments at these shows are based entirely on the volume of business handled by the exhibitors, which include all but one of the prominent companies in the United States, and it is because the Overland Company has sold more cars than its competitors that it is given the highest honor of the automobile year.

Competition for the position of honor at the New York and Chicago shows is always keen, but this year with practically all of the older companies announcing greatly increased production, the race for the prize was given added interest. Only facts and figures are considered by the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce in awarding the exhibition space, and advertising claims of the companies themselves have no actual significance.

Each member of the organization must submit a sworn statement showing the amount of business done during the year and on the strength of those statements depends their position at the shows. Obviously, each company is anxious to secure that particular location which, by virtue of its advantage, points out to the public the company's position in the manufacturing world.

"We came near doubling our record sales for the previous year," said John N. Willys, president of the Willys-Overland Company, speaking of the distinction which had again been conferred upon his organization. "During the twelve months ending Sept. 30, 1916, we sold 174,273 Overland and Willys-Knight cars—a volume of business totaling almost one hundred million dollars. "Not only in this country and in Canada did our sales show such gratifying increases. Our shipments abroad have exceeded all expectations. In spite of meager shipping facilities we have been able to export this season as many cars as we sent abroad during all the preceding years."

In spite of the wonderful gains made by the Willys-Overland company Mr. Willys looks for even greater developments during the coming year.

The production schedule of the big Toledo plant calls for an increased volume of Overland and Willys-Knight cars during 1917—ranging in price from the low priced but complete and economical four-cylinder touring car to the sumptuous Willys-Knight motorized limousine and touring sedan.

GEORGIA GO TO SUNDAY SCHOOL DAY FEBRUARY 11

At the meeting of the Executive Committee of the Georgia Sunday School Association, held in Macon on November 6th, the following committee was appointed to arrange a program for "Georgia Go-To-Sunday School Day," February 11th, 1917. D. W. Sims, J. J. Eagan, J. V. Wellborn, A. B. Caldwell and T. M. Furlow. This being the date agreed on by the committee last June.

The next annual session of the State Convention is to be held in Savannah. The committee voted to hold the meeting on May 8th, 9th and 10th. The same committee which is to arrange the program for "Go-To-Sunday School Day" was instructed to arrange the program for the State Convention.

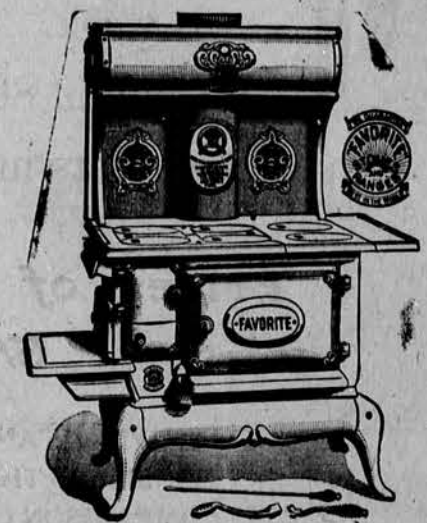

The matter of public school credits for work done in the Sunday schools was discussed and a sub-committee was appointed to outline the plan.

Among the striking features of the report submitted by the General Secretary, Mr. D. W. Sims, were the following: "In the last six months seventy-seven County Sunday School Conventions have been held in the State, this being eight more than were held in the same period last year. Four years ago there were only two of the 152 counties in the State organized into County Sunday School Associations; at the present time there are 137 counties organized. When one of the counties was organized two and one-half years ago there were only thirteen Sunday Schools in the county; now there are thirty-four—twenty-one new schools of the work done by the county Association."

In the last six months the three field workers of the State Association have traveled 19,449 miles and delivered 511 addresses.

The free circulating library of more than five hundred of the best books on Sunday school methods, maintained by the State Association, is being used extensively by the workers of the State.

You are Cordially Invited To Our Big Stove Demonstration Nov. 23rd, 24th, 25th.

THIS STOVE BURNS SMOKE

We would like to have every lady in Statesboro to visit our store during the big domestic science demonstration, which will be held on November 23rd, 24th and 25th.

Mrs. W. C. Dunn, who has achieved an enviable reputation as a domestic science teacher and lecturer will be here on those days to demonstrate Favorite Ranges.

She will show you why it pays to buy a Favorite Range, the very best on the market. You will easily see why your fuel bills will be cut down one-third. At the same time repair expense will be eliminated and your food bills reduced.

We are sure our friends will make it a point to attend the demonstration, as they will get many valuable pointers on the best way of using a coal range.

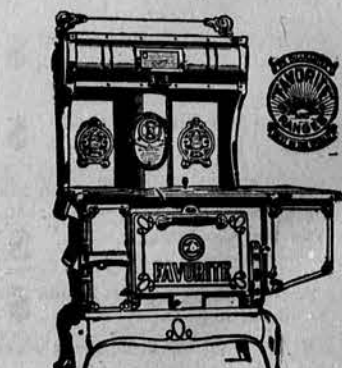

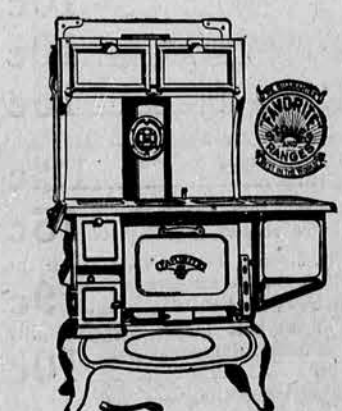

During the demonstration Mr. Warfield Martin will demonstrate on the side walk in front of our store the wonderful new Favorite Hot Blast. This Heater actually burns the smoke which is wasted in most stoves. This is done by drawing in fresh air and spraying it over the top of the live fire. This air mixes with the smoke and forms a gas which burns briskly and produces great heat.

If you are going to buy a Heater for this winter, you cannot afford to buy until you have seen this remarkable new Favorite Hot Blast.

We will be looking for you and all your friends, so be sure and come.

FASHION STILL FAITHFUL TO SIMPLE LINES

Some Hints on the Latest Dress Trimmings—New Uses for Old PAISLEY SHAWLS

New York, November 8.—Fashion has not swerved in the least from the simplicity that has been a marked feature in the very first models with which the season opened. Now, as then, most frocks depend on the beauty of the material and simplicity of trimmings rather than on elaborate trimmings. There was a time when the trimmings for a dress cost as much, if not more, than the dress itself.

SERVICE

A transportation line has just one thing to sell and that one thing is service. The line that sells good service is a good line. It is the object of the CENTRAL OF GEORGIA RAILWAY to sell its patrons the very best service. Our service is not a thing supplied by any one employe, nor does it consist of special attention to any one individual patron. It means good, efficient, courteous attention from our working force to all the people, or as near this idea as is humanly possible.

We try to render such service all the time. We are not content with having given the people of the South good service; we want to make it better; we wish to go the limit in making travel easy for the whole people.

If you are going on any trip, that may be accomplished by use of our lines, let our nearest representative know about it. It will be good exercise for his talents to practice courtesy and efficiency on you.

Birmingham, St. Louis, Chicago, Cincinnati, Cleveland, Indianapolis, New York, Boston and many other larger centers are most conveniently reached via the Central and its connections.

GOVERNOR HARRIS ISSUES IMPORTANT PROCLAMATION

November 18th Set Aside as Georgia Products Day—Eat Nothing But Georgia Products

WHEREAS, the House of Representatives of the State of Georgia, did, on July 27th, 1913, pass unanimously a Resolution endorsing and commending the Georgia Chamber of Commerce, and

WHEREAS, beginning with the year 1913, the said Georgia Chamber of Commerce, as one of its public welfare undertakings, did set apart the 18th day of November of each year as Georgia Products Day, on which day the people of Georgia are requested to dine on Georgia products exclusively, as nearly as may be, this for the purpose of awakening our people to a larger and more varied production of food crops, which day has been successfully observed each year, and

WHEREAS, the cost of food supplies has reached a remarkably high price, making it a matter of serious concern that the people of Georgia grow larger supplies at home, and THEREFORE, I, N. E. Harris, Governor of the State of Georgia, do hereby issue this proclamation endorsing said plans and purposes to all our people of the State, I suggest and request the general observance of the 18th of November, 1916, as Georgia Products Day, and urge the people of the various counties, towns and communities to observe the day in some fitting way calculated to produce beneficial results for every community and to awaken greater civic pride and inspire loyalty of Georgians to their State.

(Signed N. E. HARRIS, Governor. This October 24, 1916. By the Governor. (Signed) Raymond Stapleton, Secretary Executive Department.

For Croup--Mothers--Always Keep this Handy

The day of the croup scare is over for mothers. For infants and children, W. C. Allen, Roswell, Mo., writes: "I have used Polley's Honey and Tar Compound for croup and whooping cough and have found it the best remedy I have ever used. It is safe, effective and gives relief in a few minutes. I have used it for croup and whooping cough for eight or ten years, and can recommend it to every mother who has a child." If toward nightfall the little ones become wheezy and their breathing becomes noisy, and if they are coughing and choking, give Polley's Honey and Tar Compound promptly and it will ward off attack.

MUST BRAND COLD STORAGE EGGS

Savannah, Ga., Nov. 8.—State Food Inspector Louis Garfunkel has determined that the law regarding the sale of cold storage eggs shall not be violated any longer in Savannah. He says many dealers get high prices for eggs by pretending to furnish fresh yard eggs when, in reality only those of the cold storage type are furnished. Mr. Garfunkel says the law provides that cold storage eggs shall be indicated while no sign or indication is necessary in the selling of fresh eggs. He says that eggs kept in cold storage for thirty days are classed as cold storage eggs.

PACKING PLANTS IN GEORGIA

Will Soon Number More Than a Dozen

Atlanta, Ga., November 9.—The very large increase in packing plants in Georgia and adjoining states, both under construction and in process of organization, demonstrates conclusively that the live stock industry in the south is no longer a dream of the future but an accomplished fact; this new industry is destined to grow greater and greater in the next few years.

The gospel of crop diversification, preached for ten years without appreciable effect, is bearing fruit at last. The widespread agitation for raising in the south the meat which the south consumes is finally bringing big results.

Why?

Representative of Savannah Morning News
Rev. R. B. Seals, a special representative of the Savannah Morning News, was a Statesboro visitor during the week ending on subscribers of the popular Savannah daily paper, the Statesboro News. Mr. Seals is pastor of Macedonia church, the oldest Baptist church in the county, a fact which makes his pastorate exceedingly interesting.

FALL PLOWING FOR THE BEST RESULTS

We are just now cutting a heavy crop of tobacco off of part of a six acre lot that has been fall plowed continuously for the last seven years. Each year this plot of ground has been plowed in November or December and for six straight years planted to corn and hogged down, the stalks being turned under for the following crops. The balance of the lot is now in corn that is as good as any crop it has borne during the seven years and the heavy crop of tobacco is proof positive that the land is rich soil.

I attribute these conditions in part at least, to fall plowing. I have found that by plowing across the hills or slopes and leaving it just as deposited by the plow until ready to plant in the spring the soil does not wash because of winter rains, any more than unplowed stalk land does. By this method we avoid the rush of spring plowing, the turned under stalks are more nearly turned into prime fertilizer by planting time and the dirt is firm and set and at the same time mellow and loose on the surface. Frequently has been found that the soil is better than the land other than to run a smoothing drag over it in the spring to make a first class seed bed, thus saving labor.

During these seven years we have plowed other fields in the fall for corn and oats and the results have been spring plowed and planted at about the same time for the fall plowed fields produce the best results.

Where the ground is comparatively level we plow across the plot in one or more "lands." Where it is decidedly hilly we use a hillside plow, back and forth across the hills. Undoubtedly that is a limestone soil that washes more easily than either sandstone or granite. When there is sufficient moisture to loosen the soil, fall plowing is easier than spring plowing. It is ground turns up so much more easily that there is no worry as the winter freezes always "melt" or dissolve the clods. Fall plowing saves labor, prepares the ground better and gives vegetation the new crop is planted, bearing greater yields of all grain and grasses.—Green Clay, Richmond, Ky., in Southern Ruralist.

HEAVY MEAT EATERS HAVE SLOW KIDNEYS

But less meat if you feel backache or have bladder trouble—Takes place of Salt.

No man or woman who eats meat regularly can make a mistake by flushing the kidneys occasionally, says a well-known authority. Most men urinate which weakens the kidneys, they become overworked from the strain, get sluggish and fail to filter the waste and poisons from the blood, then we get sick. Nearly all rheumatism, headaches, liver trouble, nervousness, dizziness, sleeplessness and urinary disorders come from sluggish kidneys.

The moment you feel a dull ache in the kidneys or your back hurts or if the urine is cloudy, offensive, full of sediment, irregular of passage or attended by a sensation of stinging, stop eating meat and get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast and in a few days your kidneys will feel fine. This famous salt is made from the seed of grapes and lemon juice combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush and stimulate the kidneys, also to neutralize the acids in urine so it no longer causes irritation, thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is in liquid form and cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everyone should take now and then to keep the kidneys clean and active and the blood pure, thereby avoiding serious kidney complications.

Hopes Women Will Adopt This Habit As Well As Men

Glass of hot water each morning helps us look and feel clean, sweet, fresh.

Happy, bright, alert—vigorous and vivacious—a good clear skin; a natural, rosy complexion and freedom from illness are assured only by clean, healthy blood. If only every woman and likewise every man could realize the wonders of the morning inside bath, what a gratifying change would take place.

Instead of the thousands of sickly, anemic-looking men, women and girls with pasty or muddy complexions; instead of the multitudes of "nervous wrecks," "run-downs," "brain fags" and pessimists we should see a virile, energetic throng of rosy, healthy, people everywhere.

An inside bath is had by drinking, each morning before breakfast, a glass of hot water with a tea-spoonful of limestone phosphate in it. This subject to stick heads, biliousness, indigestible waste, sour fermentations and poisons from the entire alimentary canal before putting more food into the stomach. Limestone phosphate at the drug store, nasty breath, rheumatism, colds; and particularly those who are constipated very often, are urged to obtain a quarter pound of limestone phosphate at the drug store which will cost but a trifle but is sufficient to demonstrate the quick and remarkable change in both health and appearance awaiting those who practice internal sanitation. We must remember that inside cleanliness is more important than outside, because the skin does not absorb impurities to combat the blood, while the pores in the thirty feet of bowels do.

Sluggish Rivers.

"In the course of a reading lesson a teacher received a smart answer from one of his pupils, though possibly the wit was unbecomingly displayed, being need secured at the passage. 'The majority of the rivers in Russia are sluggish in their course!'"

Pointing to the boy who had read, the teacher said:

"What is meant by a river being sluggish?"

"Why, sir," replied the lad, "it means that it likes to stick to its bed."

Farm Changes For Boll Weevil

Readjustment Requires Careful Planning To Be Safe

ANDREW M. BOULE, President Ga. State College of Agriculture.

Any system of waste farming, under boll weevil conditions should provide that the cultivated area of the farm should be so divided as to grow enough corn to provide for family and the live stock throughout the year.

The area will vary with the fertility of the land, but on a two-horse farm not less than ten, or better still, twenty acres of land should be devoted to this crop. Enough land should be devoted to oats and small grains to meet home requirements.

If the oats are properly handled they will provide some grazing. A great variety of hay and forage-producing crops can be grown successfully after oats, but it is important to remember that the cultivation of legumes should be emphasized because of their ability to gather nitrogen from the soil.

Certainly, the farmer should provide all the meat needed for his family. There is no reason why two to six brood sows should not be maintained on the average two-horse farm. Grazing crops should be depended on to provide the food needed for the grower and fattening of young pigs. They can be hardened off with a little corn in the fall and a very choice quality of meat obtained.

A small flock of hens will provide all the eggs needed and leave a surplus for sale. Probably no class of meat is in greater demand in towns and cities than chickens. Every wise farmer will keep at least two cows so that his family will be supplied with an abundance of milk and butter all seasons of the year. Then if he will keep a couple of brood mares and raise a colt or two each year, he can maintain his work stock on an efficient basis. Next the farmer should provide a garden. A half acre of land will produce all the vegetables which a family of six can possibly eat, and if a proper rotation is established and the garden well fertilized and handled, fresh vegetables may be had at almost any season of the year. There is probably no section which will produce a greater variety of vegetables in greater quantities than the southeastern states, and yet the garden is neglected, because its value is not appreciated and its influence on the health of the family not understood.

After having accomplished the foregoing, the farmer should devote a reasonable area of his land to the raising of cotton, as his main money crop. If this plan is followed, a system of safe farming will have been established throughout the south.

Treating Sorehead Or Chicken Pox

W.M. DILTS, Poultry Instructor, Ga. State College of Agriculture.

The disease commonly known as Sore Head or Chicken Pox is very prevalent in poultry. It is supposed to be caused by a virus which enters the system through the face, wattles or comb of the bird. These pimples grow in size and later a dark, hard scab forms. In extreme cases, the feathers on the head and neck are entirely covered and the eyes are nearly closed. The disease may spread to other portions of the body.

The chicken pimples should be painted with tincture of iodine and greased with carbolized vaseline. If the scabs are dry, they should be removed and burned.

The following treatment can be used for building up the system, thus increasing resistance to the disease.

For three days feed the chickens a mash each day containing one-third teaspoonful epsom salts for every fowl in the flock. For the three days following, feed a moist mash containing one-third teaspoonful sulphur for every fowl in the flock. This treatment can then be repeated in this order as long as thought desirable.

Advantages of Fall Plowing

John R. Fain, Prof. of Agronomy, Ga. State College of Agriculture.

Plowing in the fall, the earlier the better, so that they will get the advantage of a freezing and thawing through the year. It is better to leave the land rough so as to expose as much of it as possible to the elements. For this reason plowing is much better than disking.

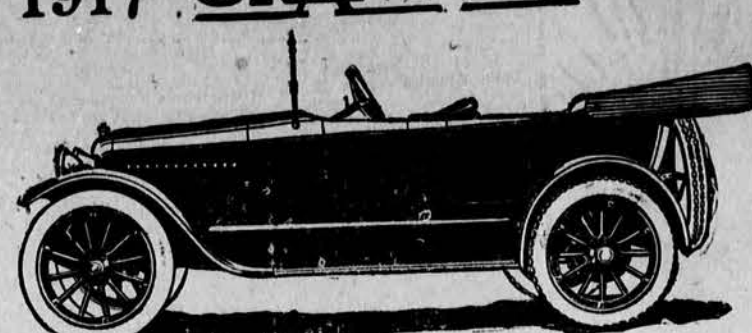

The fall is the best time to plow deep, for at that time the subsoil is dry and does not clod. It is also the time to subsoil for the same reason.

Bull Planting Season

The fall of the year is the season for setting out bulbs. Jonquils, narcissi, hyacinths and tulips, and many of the lilies should be planted before Christmas.

Bulbs that are to be forced for blooming in the house should be planted in pots or flats in good soil from the first to the middle of October. They should be placed in a dark room or cellar for a month to six weeks. Do not let them dry out nor do keep them too wet. They will bloom from six weeks to two months after being brought into the warm room.—T. H. McHatten, Prof. of Horticulture, Ga. State College of Agriculture.

Vegetable Papers.

In England there is a large use of a Spanish grass called esparto as a material for paper stock in making glass white papers. As far back as 1796 thistles were made into paper in England. In 1798 autumn leaves were made into paper in France. In 1828 corn husks were made into paper in England, part of which furnished the title page for "Corbett's Treatise on Corn." Corbett having grown the corn, husks were made into paper. In 1820 Spanish bark was made into paper in England. In 1854 an English patent was issued to Alexander Brown, of Scotland, for the making of paper from ferns. In 1882 stalks of maize and sorghum were made into paper.

Travels of the Moon.

The moon travels around the earth in a path which is very nearly but not quite a circle. It moves once around the earth in about twenty-seven days and a third. As the moon goes around the earth it keeps the same side toward us. We have never seen and never can see more than the same one-half of the moon's surface or just a trifle more than half. The reason is that the moon is slowly spinning upon itself as it moves around the earth, and it makes one complete spin on its axis in just the same time as it takes to go once around the earth. In other words, the moon's twenty-four hour day is a month long.—New York Times.

BULLOCH COUNTY SCHOOL NEWS

In some communities of this county, the citizens have invested quite a lot of money in the building and equipping of their respective schools. In other communities that are as able to build and equip as those that have already built, there is lack of interest, cooperation or school spirit that must prevail in order to have every school community that will show that they are willing to help and help to the best of their ability in that in some sections, they have been given more than in others, but had any other section met, the conditions just as those communities have that have good schools, they too would have had buildings that are as good as any equipped. The Board tries to show no partiality in any matter. They are sure that all schools are as good as the best and they stand ready to help you make them just as good. Are you willing to come together and help that all schools are as good as the best and they stand ready to help you make them just as good. If that are going steadily ahead? If you are, get busy and help to find out that in some sections, they have been given more than in others, but had any other section met, the conditions just as those communities have that have good schools, they too would have had buildings that are as good as any equipped.
