WANTED—A MAN
An appreciation by Elbert Hubbard says: "Plato once defined a man as a two legged animal without feathers." One of his pupils, Diogenes, who was a joker as well as a philosopher, upon hearing this, immediately left the class. He reappeared shortly, bearing a plucked Rostand rooster. Holding it at arm's length, he exclaimed: "Here is Plato's man!" and the class in the Grove Academy roared.

But Plato precluded the possibility of a repetition of the joke by adding the words, "with broad, flat nails," to the definition.

Since Plato's time, many and various have been the definitions of a man.

He has been likened to almost everything: from a son of the sun to a son-of-a-bitch, to a bit of a rascal and a cheese paring. Generally speaking, the popular conception of what constitutes a real man was based upon the idea of leadership. We thought he must excel, he must have an unbending will that bends all minds to his own. But alas and alack, how often do we find that the leader becomes a menace to progress.

Statesboro right now is on the brink of a precipice in her civic progress where she needs the guiding hand of a MAN without fear or favor. We are approaching an era of advancement the future years of which must have the foundation laid right now on a solid rock. There is ever in every community a perceptible disposition to hesitate, pull back, retard, etc., which prevents the bringing of that reserve force which is latent in every section into active play. The natural result is that we are only moderately successful and progressive when we should be rising to really great heights.

In this our people are in no respect different from those of other places and other climes. It is a trait of human nature and will survive until the end of the human race.

BUT—nevertheless we need A MAN of will power who will throw hesitancy and procrastination to the dogs; one who will not listen for hesitancy to whisper and let opportunity go marching forward.

In the next few years of our civic progress there is much to be recorded in the accomplishment of those things which place a city in the front rank of ideal American progress.

We must have a PAVED CITY.

We must have a WHITE WAY.

We must have a recreation PARK.

We must have improved SCHOOL FACILITIES.

We must have an AUDITORIUM.

We must encourage the BEST county ROADS.

We must have CONCRETE SIDEWALKS.

We must have a PAID FIRE DEPARTMENT.

We must have CLEAN STREETS and CLEANER BACK YARDS.

We must be ENTHUSIASTIC to the social life and progress of a community, however, is the SCANDAL MONGER—THE IDLE GOSSIPER, the HOLIER THAN THOU kind; and there are so many of that type that if the pebble were to hit their own house the glass would be shattered in millions of myriad fragments.

The lesson resolves itself to the teachings of the gentle Nazarene. He who mingled among the most lowly. There is no story so fascinating, so gripping, so lasting, as the one which is as old as man. He who spake ill of none, as in the Gospel of St. John, chapter 8, verse 7: "He that is without sin among you, let him first cast a stone at her." The story of God's creation of the world and of His efforts to save those of His own creation. If all would reflect before permitting themselves to speak ill of human kind the people of this old world would then be nearing the highest possible form of mental and moral uplift, community uplift, community loyalty, and Christian spirit as God would have us live.

To all this A MAN must close his eyes and ears and place his intellect and natural will power at the disposal of his town and community and JUST LEAD.

If I knew you and you knew me—
If both of us could clearly see,
And with an inner sight divine
The meaning of your heart and mine,
I'm sure that we would differ
And clasp our hands in friendship;
Our thoughts would pleasantly agree
If I knew you and you knew me,
—Nixon Waterman.

JES' FEELIN' SORRY FOR YOU

I sure am feelin' sorry for you
And you, I guess, are feelin' blue, too.

THE SERPENT

Bickering, backbiting, viciousness of the human tongue has done more to wreck humanity, communities, and the lives of worthy people than we would care to undertake to enumerate. Every day in our social life we come in contact with people standing high among their set as well meaning reputed Christians in their daily habits; those who will attend the weekly prayer meetings and Sunday service and worship, and we find them within five minutes after leaving the house of God speaking vicious words, throwing out inuendoes or casting veiled reflections upon the integrity or perchance the character of some man or woman which they do not know probably to be the truth; just hearsay. That's GOSSIP and damnable to the core; and yet it goes on year after year, more is the pity. If that old saying that "a still tongue makes a wise head" could but prevail when the occasion arises for the party chatter and gossip, the marble upon which a bright and worthy character might stand, or a substantial commercial enterprise develop would in many cases not be smashed to nothingness by a few careless words carelessly spoken.

SCANDAL

This same lack of harmony or man's inhumanity to man and woman's cussedness with a serpent tongue is not only frequently carried into social realms but injected quite often in the field of commercial competition, and in this instance GOSSIP is as harmful to community uplift as the reflections cast upon the character of a person. It creates a spirit of discord, destroys the confidence of one in another, and prevents that cohesion of purpose necessary to accomplish the greater achievements of life.

It doesn't pay. It doesn't pay either the man, his rival or the woman in her social life, or the commercial life of the community upon which we all must depend.

Many business men have no thought of the far-reaching effect of their inconsiderate words to the detriment of others, but the disastrous effect is there and felt just the same.

Far deeper and more dangerous to the social life and progress of a community, however, is the SCANDAL MONGER—THE IDLE GOSSIPER, the HOLIER THAN THOU kind; and there are so many of that type that if the pebble were to hit their own house the glass would be shattered in millions of myriad fragments.

The lesson resolves itself to the teachings of the gentle Nazarene. He who mingled among the most lowly. There is no story so fascinating, so gripping, so lasting, as the one which is as old as man. MAY REPEAL LAW FOR PAID SPYS

Would Handicap Revenue Officers Gaining Information

Atlanta, Ga., Nov. 30.—That the repeal of the Federal statute permitting U. S. Internal Revenue officers to pay for information concerning on rivers was greatly handicapped these officers in rounding up "moonshiners" is the belief expressed in Atlanta, which is headquarters for the government's internal revenue collection machinery for the state.

It is not absolutely necessary for revenue officers to be accompanied by a posse when raiding a moonshine distillery, and hence the repeal of the right to sweat in possession is not seriously regretted by the revenue officers; but information concerning the location, operation and ownership of moonshine distilleries is of much importance, and it would not be surprising if the number of distilleries should greatly increase, now that they are in a measure out of the reach of the "revenuers."

Corn liquor is being used by Atlantians who would never drink it before the new prohibition law went into effect on May 1, for the time being, and all other conveniences. At a sacrifice.

SOUTHERN BELL TELEPHONE CO.

Fostering a Plan for Boys Pig Clubs

Atlanta, Ga., November 30.—A unique plan for stimulating interest in the live stock industry among boys farmers in Georgia has just been worked out by the Southern Bell Telephone company in connection with a chain of banks. Twenty boys will be selected. Each will be given a pig by the telephone company, and a pig by the bank. The boy will give his note to the bank for the price of the pig, with interest at 6 per cent. Out of the first litter, the boy will bank three pigs, the former getting the two and the latter one. The telephone company and bank will use these pigs to supply other boys, and thus will be the chain of pig-raising clubs will be extended as fast as new litters of pigs arrive.

GOING TO STATESBORO

Thomasville, Ga., Nov. 25.—Rev. B. R. Anderson, pastor of the Presbyterian church at Boston, has accepted a call to the Presbyterian church at Statesboro and resigned his charge at Boston. Mr. Anderson has been pastor of the Boston church for two years and is popular not only with his own church, but with those of other denominations and general regard is expressed at his leaving.

THOMAS E. WATSON CREATES SENSATION

Offers to Meet District Attorney in Personal Combat

Augusta, Ga., Nov. 29.—The first real sensational incident in the present trial of Mr. Thomas E. Watson in the United States Court here Tuesday morning when the defendant apparently agreed with the accusation of the district attorney, Mr. J. L. Rountree, to meet him in personal combat.

Speeches along this same import were made by Dr. A. J. Mooney, Jr. (Mr. Watson) and some time since would be a majority candidate but who has declined to run. Joe Ben Jackson, candidate for county clerk, has been elected to the position of county clerk.

The incident developed immediately after the district attorney, Mr. Donaldson, had requested that the jury be removed from the court for a few moments. The jury excluded, Mr. Donaldson addressed a statement to the court, asserting that Watson's continued refusal to accept the honor of declaring a mistrial, in his honor's ruling to make highly improper argument before this jury, asserting that he was being persecuted by the government was backed by the Roman Catholic church, directed by the district attorney, Mr. Watson, and exclaiming in a loud voice that a man sitting in the grand jury of internal revenue had twice attempted his life.

HAVE YOU A CAPE-COLLAR MUFF AND HAT TO MATCH?

These Are All the Vogue in Paris and New York—Embroidery Trimmings Still Popular

New York, November 30.—It is within the reach of everyone to have one of the small chic and consisting of cape-collar and muff style now. Of course, they can be just as expensive as you like, or you are going to have them of a little pelt; but on the other hand a little ingenuity, a little drive, or you may have a set as distinctive as any of the Parisian importations.

In Paris they are wearing these sets in a variety of charming styles, and here in Statesboro, we have a fashionable woman who wears a melon-shaped muff that goes with leaving no doubts as to their popularity.

One of the many attractive styles is pictured here worn with a one-piece-pleated dress of serge. They are very often used this way, for instead of wearing a suit a warm woolen dress of serge, broadcloth, or velvet with one of these capes is quite enough protection from the cold. The cape-collar in the sketch, or perine as it is sometimes called, factors at the side instead of in the front as the majority of them do. It is laced with heavy cord or grosgrain ribbon from the high standing of Cape-Collar and Muff Worn With a Serge Dress

this collar is one of the most popular models for winter. A band of fur encircles it in the center. Of black velvet or plush banded with skunk this set would be decidedly stunning and could be worn with a dress or a suit of any color.

The vogue of these shoulder capes is so great that there seems to be an endless variety of them. While some of them just cover the shoulders, others reach the waistline, and some go even below it. Hudson seal is one of the favored furs for the collar and is often effectively combined with irmine; perhaps a collar just a band around the neck gives the necessary contrast. Kolinsky, mole and taupe or other furs employed for these charming sets. In a great many instances there will be another addition to these sets in the shape of a hat, generally a tam-o-shanter or a turban. Hats, it is noticed, have not escaped the craze for fur. There are many turbans entirely of fur and numerous of hats of other styles on which fur appears as a trimming.

Fur banding as a trimming on dresses is no less popular than it was last winter. It seems to have a place allotted to it on every dress and appears with equal persistency on the elaborate gown for evening and on the daytime frocks.

Plaids for Dresses and Waists Among the new dress materials, plaid silks and woolsens are quite prominent. In developing most frocks the plaid is frequently combined with a plain material matching either the background or the stripe in the plaid, as in the model illustrated here. This dress shows the popular surprise overhouse and the plaid panel at the skirt.

The overblouse is finished at the side with a large square buckle, and the tiny surplus vest of fine Georgette crepe is pique edged. The band of fur on the skirt is placed at the sides just as expansive as you like, or you are going to have them of a little pelt; but on the other hand a little ingenuity, a little drive, or you may have a set as distinctive as any of the Parisian importations.

Standing before the substantial city home; in the yard of the prosperous farmer; moving quietly thru the parks and boulevards; in the byways of the open country—you see the Maxwell, the Family Maxwell.

In the thick of traffic, around theaters, churches, clubs, typifying the spirit of metropolitan life—you see the Family Maxwell.

A veritable Maxwell Democracy—based on characteristics soundly American and built of a common appreciation of the basic elements of quality.

A Maxwell Democracy—born of thrift, intelligence and enterprise—that has sought for and found the underlying value of efficient and economical motor car transportation.

This Maxwell Democracy has brought together and is held together by a uniformly high appraisal of the Maxwell Car—its power, comfort, economy, its serviceability—in short its genuine merit—as well as a thorough understanding of the integrity, the stability and the high ideals of the Maxwell Motor Company.

AN "AGGIE" GIRL WARMING FOOTSTEPS WITH LIGHT BULB SETS FIRE TO MATTRESS

Returning from town last Monday night a party of students of the F. D. A. S. smelled an odor of burning cloth and on a hurried examination found a mattress in one of the girls' rooms in the dormitory on fire. The young lady in retiring had taken an extension cord in the electric light bulb and placed it at the foot of her bed to warm her "footies" and fell asleep leaving the electric bulb burning. The arrival of the students to the dormitory on Monday morning found the mattress on fire.
