We are glad that Miss Savannah's invitations are not restricted to high society in the Hospitality Day she has named to entertain her beaux, so we are fixin' to be there 'cause we're sure of some good eats, some good dance and some real good time. The date falls on our publishing day but hanged if we care; we'll suspend publication that week for the privilege of being a guest of the dear old girl.

THE SAVANNAH MORNING NEWS TRADE EDITION

The Savannah Morning News came to us yesterday morning seventy-six pages chock full of live news matter, and advertising data that is as interesting as the news matter. In this era of unprecedented high cost of paper this edition really is an achievement of note. Not a section of the commonly termed "Savannah Zone" has been slighted, and the great benefit that this edition which reaches far outside of the Savannah Zone, will be incalculable. Its influence cannot be otherwise than of great service. The Morning News has given its word of readers in southeast Georgia some valuable information tersely told.

GAMBLING AND FAIRS

The Macon Daily Telegraph in speaking of the recent Georgia State Fair, refers to the gambling evil rampant there in these words:

"But we had room at our fair for twenty or thirty sheds for two and three hundred per cent gamblers, appealing skillfully and successfully to women and children, smoothly garnering in a matter of minutes the small allowances saved up to take them for a day over the fair. The fair was a gambling fair, a whole baseball park full of midway shows, which, however, was not nearly so bad as the open gambling from which the august and honorable State Fair Association got a handsome rake-off; there was room for a lot of cheap junk that goes with the gambling, and the light of the fever of hazard coming into the eyes of those whom most of all we would protect from it—teaching it to 'em by making a proprietary shop for gambling of our own State Fair."

We prophesy that the evil of gambling will be eliminated from a whole fair in Macon if the Daily Telegraph continues in the same frame of mind. We hope that the daily papers of Atlanta and those in charge of the fair, which will unquestionably be had at Lakewood this coming year, will from the outset see that the gambling features are eliminated. The gambling features were the only things which marred the marvelous success of the last fair at Lakewood. The gambling element is unnecessary. It detracts from the fair and gives offense to many, if not to the majority of the people who think of these fairs.

We hope that from start to finish the next fair at Lakewood will be such that it can have the undivided and wholehearted support of every man, woman and child in the city and state. From "The Way."

MUNICIPAL EFFICIENCY

The mass meeting of the citizens at the courthouse Monday night disclosed a very creditable report of Municipal Affairs. The discussion of this report, and the discussion of wages and cheap labor was rather plainly advanced. In fact with a veiled reference that the present employees were overpaid. In this age of efficiency which is sought for talked about and willingly paid for handsomely, the biggest corporation in the city, $125 a month for an efficient clerk of a municipality, and $125 per month for a capable city engineer is mighty poor pay, particularly when they are found capable of making the showing that was given to Statesboro's citizens for the wage they get. Instead of talk of trying to find a man who will do it cheaper there should be no hesitancy whatever in a willingness to increase their salary for faithful and efficient service.

In the case of the city clerk from his stipend of $125 the pay of an assistant is deducted, and it is but reasonable that the clerk who is the most efficient at least $40 per month which would therefore leave him the munificent sum of $85 for his services as clerk handling in detail more than $65,000.00 per year of money belonging to the public.

The world is full of men who are just ordinary workmen who think of how high they can do and how much they can get for it. Men who spend 5 per cent of their time going to the clock to watch for their hands to move around to the prescribed quitting time; such however get paid for just what they do. They never advance, but stand waiting to be displaced by some capable man who can be employed by a man incapable of appreciating quality and efficiency. Men of that type are unprogressive—really obstructions.

It is a well known fact that the very biggest captains of commerce in America are the men of the Carnegie, Charles Schwab, J. Pierpont Morgan and kind ones their great success to having surrounded themselves with the most efficient and high class men that they could obtain. The most progressive municipalities—those that have accomplished the greatest achievements in civic advancement of sanitation, education, educational matters, public service, institutions are the ones that have placed the scientifically educated men at the head of the various municipal departments. There are several instances in America where the city manager has been hired to direct the municipal affairs of a city, the principal duty of a city manager is to produce results. These same municipalities have shown most remarkable progress; the west has many of such instances, more particularly Oklahoma one of the youngest states in the union and has more modern built cities and successful management in points of comparative population than some of the oldest and supposedly perfectly governed cities of the north and east. Let us not fall in the rut of stunting our growth and efficiency by the employment of cheap and incompetent men in positions of trust and technology.

AS OTHERS SEE US

In a very interesting and complimentary article published in the Manufacturers Record of a recent issue regarding several localities of the southeast section, Statesboro and Bulloch county was given special notice and the observations of this special writer who visited the various sections to personally gather his data, were timely and recommendations advanced in a general but inoffensive manner should be accepted and given careful consideration. We reprint in part the article:

ABOUT BULLOCK

(From Manufacturers Record, Nov. 16.) The writer has told, en route to Statesboro, that that town is "dangerously prosperous." This statement was found to be true to a certain extent. It is prosperous, but not dangerously so. The community tributary to Statesboro raised an unusually large crop of cotton this year, and with the high price that has been prevailing for weeks there is a certain delirium of prosperity prevalent. But with it all the citizens realize that such a situation cannot obtain every year, and are preparing now in this "fat year" for the possibility of the lean. There is under construction here a $150,000 packing plant, which will be in operation next February.

So great has been the interest in hog and cattle growing in this section since the agitation for the packing plant has begun that hundreds of pure-bred specimens of both kinds of animals have been brought in from the West and other live stock sections for distribution in this community.

Statesboro and Bulloch county are destined to become important communities, and as an important factor in this predicted prosperity it seems unfortunate that Statesboro, as a center of it all, should be so far from the good streets and several other municipalities. It is a pity that mean so much to a community. That these things will come in due time, along with the general awakening, is confidently predicted by some of the local business men who have already accomplished much for their section.

DELINQUENT GRAND JURY

Get-aways, and jail deliveries from the Bulloch county jail are coming to be a frequent occurrence. Within four weeks four prisoners calmly walked away to freedom from the cells of Bulloch's house of detention for murderers, thieves and those sentenced by the court for the breaking of the state laws. It was only a few months back that a delivery of eleven prisoners at one time took place. The possibility for such an occurrence seems to be entirely blamed to the unsafe condition of the jail and the fact that it is accessible from the street to the cell windows, offering no trouble whatsoever to the friends of the inmates to receive jail-breaking implements handed in from the outside. The Grand Jury previous to the October Superior court recommended immediate repair of the jail, and following this presentation, it is understood that a contractor made an inspection of the needed repairs and was to have submitted a bid for the work which it appears has never been done. The October Grand Jury appointed a special committee to investigate the condition of the county jail and other public buildings and a Sheriff, that the recommendation of two Grand Juries in a matter of such vital importance might have the attention of some branch of this official family that would act to prevent the recurrence of these easy jail deliveries which are being inquired about by publicity bureaus away from home, and it doesn't listen well for the next legal, lawful and growing community. The recommendation of the last Grand Jury as follows:

"The Committee appointed to examine public buildings submits the following report: We find two cells on first floor of jail under repair, and two cells on second floor are not in good condition for prisoners and the main cell room on second floor has a hole in the wall where prisoners have escaped. We notice that three different places where prisoners have escaped have not been repaired and we recommend that these be repaired immediately, as this only offers an inducement for other prisoners to make the same attempt. We recommend that all windows be screened with heavy close mesh wire guards to prevent parties on the outside from hanging tools or implements to the prisoners on the inside and thus enabling them to make an escape. This recommendation has been made by the Grand Jury previously and we feel it to be a very important matter and one that should not be ignored by the county authorities. We recommend that the fence which has been allowed to be taken from around the rear of the jail be rebuilt at once, in order that people from the outside will not have access to the jail windows, and we recommend that this be done promptly. We find the jail to be kept in fairly good sanitary condition but the inside of the main cell should be looked after.

The Macon News in an editorial on the high cost of news paper, in part, says:

"The paper situation is critical—grave almost beyond telling; and it will be the grave, indeed, for many of the smaller papers, unless there is some early relief. For a paper of the size of The News the increase in the cost of news paper is not less than $37,000 a year. With paper costing what it does, it is absolutely impossible for a daily paper to survive on its present advertising and subscription rates. However, the situation is even more serious with the smaller newspapers, commonly called weeklies. Buying less paper, they pay more for it in proportion. For instance, the weeklies a year ago, on contract, secured paper at $2.75 a hundred pounds. Now they are paying about eight dollars for the same quantity, an increase of over 250 per cent. The subscribers pay the dollar a dollar and a half subscriptions promptly—and no weekly ought to be published for less than a dollar and a half a year—these weeklies will be brought almost to the point of discontinuance."

Atlanta Atmosphere Twisted

His Think Shop

Atlanta, Ga., December 7.—Although Georgia is experiencing some difficulties which naturally attend the enforcement of new and rigid laws, and although there is undoubtedly some room for improvement, it is now generally admitted that the whole of the state is solidly behind the prohibition measures which became effective on last May 1, and that the saloon has gone from the state to stay.

Leaders in all communities point to the elimination of public drinking, to the improvement in general economic conditions, to the decrease of crime and violence and to an aroused public sentiment which already has accepted these benefits as proof positive in favor of prohibition which prohibits.

Fallon county already has released five of its convict camps as a result of the falling off in prisoners. It has been estimated by authorities of the State Prison Commission that the general falling off in convicts throughout the state has averaged at least 25 per cent.

Yet in this very situation lies a menace to the prohibition cause. The belief of many prohibition leaders, for when the public begins to accept them as a matter of course, the enemies of the law are likely to begin attempts to undermine them. Prohibition will still be an issue in the next election, and the law will be the next target of the lawless.

Atlanta, Ga., December 7.—That "big personality" is not entirely an imaginary phenomenon confined to the fancy of playwrights and novelists, but is an actuality of real life, as contended by numerous scientists who have lately made study of the subject, was demonstrated in a case which has just turned up in Atlanta police circles.

B. V. Holland, a Mississippian, expressed indignation and horror when informed of some of the wild acts which he was accused of having committed in the course of a piratical voyage through various parts of the city in his "drive."

According to the cabman, a negro, Holland jumped into the cab, shoved a gun in the negro's face, and ordered him to "drive." At intervals he would poke the muzzle of the gun a little deeper into the frightened cabman's face, and instruct him to put on faster speed. Finally the negro piloted his craft into the friendly harbor of the Terminal Station, where he sent up a distress signal which brought a policeman on the run.

Give me a mirror and let me look at the scoundrel who would treat a poor negro that way, exclaimed Holland, when they told him of the police station what he had done. Although he did not appear to be intoxicated, he professed to have no recollection whatever of the incidents of his exciting cruise.

ATLANTA'S 50' EASTERN LAND SHOW ATTRACTING ATTENTION
Bulloch County Invited

Atlanta, Ga., December 6th.—Charles J. Haden, president of the Georgia Chamber of Commerce, and Atlanta Friday evening, to the folks over there a personal invitation to participate in the great Southeastern exposition.

The people of Alabama have been among the most interested in the show since it was first announced. A number of counties of that state have taken booths in the Auditorium, and many persons from the state plan to take an active part in the exposition.

More South States probably will be invited by Mr. Haden during the next few weeks. Other invitations will be carried in person by the visitors. Georgia, Florida, Alabama and South Carolina to ask the Governors of these States to attend.

In addition to these Governors other notable who are to be invited by committees will be President and Mrs. Wilson and their daughter. The new President of Cuba will be urged to attend also.

Thomas D. Van Osten of Statesboro and editor of the Statesboro News has been elected a member of the Board of Directors of the exposition. William Lawson Peck is chairman.

AUTO FOR REV. J. F. SINGLETON

The members of the First Baptist Church are making the pastor Rev. J. F. Singleton a very substantial and useful Christmas gift in the shape of an automobile. At the service last Sunday during a regular conference following the sermon Rev. Singleton was requested to vacate the pulpit for a few moments when his church members were invited to present him with a new automobile.

Mr. Singleton had received about three fourths of the necessary funds with which to buy a first class auto and asked that public subscriptions be then and there offered to swell the amount to the required figure.

It was pointed out that Rev. and Mrs. Singleton could utilize an auto to the great advantage in their work throughout the county in their connection with the Baptist association work in which they are both devoting their labors. It is a timely and sensible gift, and the pastor and his wife are both deeply appreciative of the gift.

A SOUTH CAROLINA CAB-
BAGE PLANT GROWER

D. F. JAMISON EXTENSIVE
SHIPPER IN THE SOUTH.

Here is shown a cut of the potato seed bed of D. F. Jamison, at Summerville, S. C., last season, from which many very early plants were produced and shipped all over the South.

It is a very easy matter when all conditions "wack," to grow for instance cabbage plants, but conditions can't be depended on always to "wack," and it is just this, that makes it necessary for a vast majority of market gardeners, truckers and farmers, besides the thrifty housewife, to get plants from a source that is capable of providing stock that will for instance, stand frost; or if they will do this, will not run entirely to seed, just as soon as the weather gets warm. One reason that so many plants run to seed, is that they are grown from seed. Cabbage plants that head, must be grown from plants that have taken two years to mature. The way it is done is this: Plants that mature the first season making proper heads, are pulled up and banked through the winter and set out the following spring. The seed stalk then breaks through the solid head, and produces the seed of commerce.

Other vegetable plants can generally be gotten better, earlier, and cheaper from a reliable grower, than the farmer can usually produce them for himself.

It is easy enough to grow a few plants, by the usual "box" method, but difficulties are multiplied when a thousand or several thousand are wanted, and wanted early.

Sweet potato plants are another example that might be sighted, which is not as easy to "get around" as the tomato.

Other vegetable plants can generally be gotten better, earlier, and cheaper from a reliable grower, than the farmer can usually produce them for himself.

It is easy enough to grow a few plants, by the usual "box" method, but difficulties are multiplied when a thousand or several thousand are wanted, and wanted early.

Sweet potato plants are another example that might be sighted, which is not as easy to "get around" as the tomato.

A picture of the owner with some of his shoats is herewith shown. The growing of vegetable plants for commercial purposes is a branch of the noble art of agriculture, that requires special knowledge. The honest grower must keep in mind two things: what is expected from the plant, and what climatic conditions

GRANDMA NEVER LET HER HAIR GET GRAY

She Kept Her Looks Dark and Glossy, with Sage Tea and Sulphur.

When you darken your hair with Sage Tea and Sulphur, no one can tell, because it's done so naturally, so evenly. Preparing this mixture, though, at home is a nuisance and troublesome. For 50 cents you can buy at any drug store the ready-to-use preparation, improved by the addition of other ingredients, called "Wynell's Sage and Sulphur Compound." You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. By morning all gray hair disappears, and after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully darkened, glossy and luxuriant.

Gray, faded hair, though no disgrace, is a sign of old age, and as we all desire a youthful and attractive appearance, get busy at once with Wynell's Sage and Sulphur Compound and look years younger. This ready-to-use preparation is a delightful toilet requisite and a genuine hair restorer. It is well intended for the cure, mitigation or prevention of disease.

ELECTRICAL WEEK

America's Electrical Week is now in full force, commencing December 2 and ending on the 9th. To the ordinary mind this announcement sounds simple enough, but to those who have watched the progress of America and its people during the last generation, it appears behind this plain announcement, a force that is exerting a tremendous pressure on every phase of business and private life in this country.

A little over a generation ago electricity saw its first use for the production of light and power. Thomas Edison invented the incandescent electric lamp. Which came to be used for street lighting, for lighting of large stores and public buildings. Electric motors were used for power. The electric street cars made its appearance. The use of both the electric light and power spread rapidly until nearly all business concerns were using electricity in a number of ways. Electric light and power became a reality, and was followed by electric power applied to fans and other useful apparatus about the house. The electric automobile came, and even the memory of starting its gasoline motor. These few examples are merely indicative of the marvelous rapid increase of electricity for a wide and various purposes. But until recently the electric light and power has been applied to the main benefits of applied electricity.

Electricity for the Farm For the past few months, the suburban and country districts have come into its own and today there are a number of concerns making plans for the individual home and farm, which means that no matter where the location it is possible for a man at a very reasonable cost to enjoy every comfort and convenience on the farm, that can be had in our metropolitan cities. In other words, electricity has become the farmer's best servant. It furnishes him light, pumps his water and distributes it under pressure wherever he needs it. It provides feed choppers, saws his household wood or runs his butter churns, washing machines, vacuum cleaners, electric fans, etc. By its use, work can be done in one-fifth the time and one-tenth the cost of the ordinary labor. It means that hot and cold water baths are enjoyed by the family. When the shades of evening settle electric light gives cheer and brightness to the home, and not only keeps the memory of the family at home, but by its attractiveness draws the neighbors of the surrounding country, and makes the home a place of social life.

All of the above are only a few of the hundreds of uses that apply to electricity in our country and suburban districts, does electricity bring its power and blessing to serve our citizens.

MAXWELL UNDAUNTED IN DESPERATE DRIVE

Plowing its way through snow and ice, a stock Maxwell touring car, driven by Ray McNamara, established a remarkable record for endurance and speed. On Wednesday, Nov. 22nd, on a run between Chicago and La Crosse, Wisconsin.

Disregarding the advice of automobile and newspaper men who reported the roads in impassable condition, and who declared it folly to attempt the run, McNamara's party left Chicago at 3:04 a. m. in the same car that had established the record run across Michigan two weeks before.

With the stage set against a successful termination of the run, McNamara pushed his mount to the limit over the first leg of the tour, 150 miles to Madison, Wis. He reached the Badger capital at 7 o'clock, about four hours from the start. This was an average of close to 40 miles an hour, a remarkable achievement in view of the extreme cold and the roads encountered.

It was after leaving Madison, however, that the party received a true impression of the difficulties Wisconsin can fling out for a record. Where before leaving the Wisconsin capital short stretches of icy roads were encountered, after leaving it behind it was simply a case of plowing through roads which consisted entirely of ice and which were banked high with snow.

"Mac" had a tight grip on his nerve and refused to yield his speed. But it was an expensive experiment, for before LaCrosse was reached four tires were cut to ribbons, and almost as many hours wasted in securing replacements for the lacerated wheels. Somewhere in Wisconsin a tire let go six miles from town. The Maxwell limped in on a rim, and having been shod, slipped forth over the icy road to LaCrosse.

The three hundred mile trip was completed in fourteen hours, including delays occasioned by tire replacements and particularly hostile stretches of the road. No mechanical trouble was experienced throughout the run.

A Chicago newspaper man acted as observer, and the consensus of opinion was that the Maxwell had rendered a superb demonstration of speed and endurance in consideration of the battering usage accorded it.

IF BACK THURTS USE SALTS FOR KIDNEYS

Eat less meat if kidneys fail like lead or bladder bothers you—Meat forms uric acid.

Most folks forget that the kidneys, like the lungs, get sluggish and clogged and need a flushing occasionally, else we have backache and dull misery in the kidney region, severe headaches, rheumatic twinges, torpid liver, acid stomach, sleeplessness and all sorts of bladder disorders.

You simply must keep your kidneys active and clean, and the moment you feel an ache or pain in the kidney region, get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any good drug store here, take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapefruit and is as harmless as sugar. It is a natural salt found in the urine of the human body, and it is no longer irritating, thus ending bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is harmless; inexpensive; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everybody should take now and then to keep their kidneys clean, thus avoiding serious complications.

A well-known local druggist has been selling Jad Salts to folks who believe in overcoming kidney trouble while it is only trouble.

Not So Much But at Least Some Others Have Succeeded—Take Their Advice

Will you fight? Then arm yourself with the best knowledge—don't repeat blunders of others—don't trust any remedy till you have learned that it has been used with success. Experts of the College of Agriculture and U. S. Department of Agriculture have studied every method that has succeeded and many that have not—ask them before trying anything new.

What to Do in the Spring

1. Prepare a good seed bed. Help the sun warm up the soil by harrowing before planting.
2. Plant well selected seed from an early producing, disease resisting variety—a kind that will continue growing as long as the fruit throughout the season.
3. Use fertilizer carrying a high percent of phosphoric acid to force fruiting. As the cotton grows, keep the soil rich with the fertilizer.
4. Use fertilizer carrying a high percent of phosphoric acid to force fruiting. As the cotton grows, keep the soil rich with the fertilizer.
5. Calibrate frequently, at first with harrow or weeder. Cultivate every seven to ten days and as soon after each rain as possible. Keep cultivating till cotton begins to open.
6. Begin looking for weevils at the first of the plants. Keep on chopping time. Wilted and dead buds chopping time. Wilted and dead buds chopping time. Wilted and dead buds chopping time.

What to Do in the Fall

1. Select from the best and earliest producing stalks, seed for the next year's planting.
2. Pick crop early so that stalks may be plowed under three weeks before frost.
3. With drag chain or other device, plow under stalks at least four inches. This will destroy most of the weevils before they start to winter quarters. This is the most important part of the work.
4. When frost has killed vegetation, burn off weeds and litter, clean out hedge rows and ditches, destroy all as far as possible every hiding place the weevil could select for winter quarters.
5. As soon as cotton stalks are turned under, sow oats rye or wheat.
6. Cotton, oats—followed by cowpeas—and corn, with velvet beans or cowpeas in the corn, make a good rotation of crops.
7. Put some of the cotton land in permanent pasture.
8. Raise more livestock. Use the best possible breeding animals.
9. Plant to "live at home." Do not depend upon cotton alone for the cash crop.

The Statesboro Board of Trade, after some correspondence and personal investigation of the conditions obtaining here is able to announce that M. J. It is understood that the factory will be on the second floor in the rear of the Pictorial Building. Mr. Dick advises that he has just been granted the revenue license for this district and there is now in the freight house a large consignment of tobacco, factory equipment, etc., waiting the arrival of Mr. Dick next week.

EARLY CHRISTMAS SHOPPING AND DISPLAY OF GOODS

The shop early spirit has taken hold of our people with an earnestness heretofore unknown. The issue of The Statesboro News this week is full of holiday advertising, the merchants have anticipated the Christmas event fully a week earlier this year than ever before. The toy shops are bulging with the largest displays of children's toys ever shown, and the other stores are equally as attractive in their displays of valuable gift suggestions. There is no reason for anyone to go away from home to secure their Christmas goods and we direct attention to the many advertisers from which the most choice bargains from which the most exacting can certainly find their desires obtained.

HIGH COST OF LIVING REFERRED TO CONGRESS

Washington, Dec. 5.—It was made known definitely today that President Wilson is opposed to any embargo on food stuffs, but is gathering information through government departments on which he will make a special address to congress on the high cost of living a little later in the session. The president decided not to treat the subject in today's address, because he wanted to wait for information now being gathered.

The subject continued to command attention today, in bills introduced in congress. Senator Martine, of New Jersey, introduced an embargo resolution, which referred to the foreign relations committee. The first cost of living bill, to be acted on at this session, went to the president today for signature. It was left over from the last session and provides investigation of the cost of living in the District of Columbia.
