Editorial Comment

A new city father and a couple of councilmanic sons.

Statesboro's Chief of Police to be a mounted officer. Autos are still a little too costly for our police department.

And we had to miss that oyster roast at Savannah today; things commenced to go wrong yesterday the 13th and didn't change the 14th.

Rather late for his Royal Highness the Kaiser to feel conscience stricken; he should have thought of it while crossing Belgium a couple of years ago.

Our exchanges tell us of a whole "passal" of new Mayors and councilmen throughout Georgia municipalities. That new broom does ought to give us a pretty clean old state for a while.

Some 800 weekly newspapers have been obliged to suspend publication owing to the high cost of paper so the Secretary of the California Press Association reports. If the government investigation now on in Washington does not bring relief America will be long to be entirely without the country papers.

The new administration lost no time whatever in grappling with the paving proposition which has been uppermost on the public tongue for some weeks culminating in a petition of several hundred signers of property owners praying for it. The new Mayor and council have instructed the city attorneys to draft an ordinance covering a special bond election for the purpose of defraying the cost of this much needed street improvement.

ALL EYES ON CHICAGO

(From Macon News)

Expert investigators operating in Chicago where the prices of foodstuffs are fixed for the entire United States find there is little or no excuse for the present carnival of extortion. With more wheat at hand than has been the case for many years, even after Europe's needs have been supplied, with more corn for stock-fattening purposes and more live stock than at any period during the regime of the last administration and without adequate excuse.

If, as charged, the Chicago speculators have "autocratic control of basic prices through the mediums of the Chicago board of trade, the Chicago butter and egg board and Elgin board of trade," the situation is susceptible of immediate correction. The federal government has the power and the necessary law is doubtless already in the statute books or can be readily placed there. Gambling in stocks may be a defensible proceeding from an economic standpoint, but gambling in the necessities of life, a game in which the ultimate consumer is always the lamb to be slain, is a moral crime and ought to be a legal one.

President Wilson is reputed to be preparing to grapple with the high cost of living problem, the most important domestic question he has confronted. There is no doubt the Chicago situation will early engage his attention if the nation-wide hold-up centers there as the experts appear to have convinced themselves. Certainly no more promising field for government inquiry and governmental action is offered.

ONE CENT POSTAGE

The special committee having in charge the revised postal rates have completed their work and the bill is now ready to be reported to the house. It carries a provision for 1c postage and raises the rate on mail order catalogues from 2 to 8c a pound. This feature will no doubt meet with lobby opposition by the interests of the great mail order houses. We reprint the bill as completed in committee:

Washington, Dec. 9.—One-cent postage for local first-class mail deliveries, and a zone system of rates for second class matter, which is expected to greatly increase the charges for magazines and other periodicals having a nation-wide circulation, are provided for in the annual postoffice appropriation bill as virtually completed today in committee.

The measure carrying appropriations totaling about $327,000,000, probably will be reported to the House next week.

Under the one cent postage provision the rate on letters and other mail matter of the first class when deposited in any postoffice or branch postoffice or letter box or postoffice in the delivery district, for delivery within the limits of the postoffice, city or rural delivery district, would be cut in half.

The zone proposal for handling newspapers and magazines, which now pay a flat rate of one cent a pound, is regarded as one of the most radical changes in postage rates in years. It divides the country into eight zones, with rates chargeable ranging from one cent for 300 miles to six cents for 1,800 miles or more. The bulk of daily newspapers, the committee believes, will not be affected, because they do not circulate beyond a 300-mile radius. The provision follows: "That all newspapers, magazines, and other publications regularly admitted to the mails as matter of the second class, when mailed by the publisher, shall hereafter be subject to the following rates of postage, the zone system now applying to parcel post matter to be adopted also to second class matter:

"Local, first, second and third zone (under 300 miles) 1 cent per pound.

"Fourth zone (300 to 600 miles) 2 cents per pound.

"Fifth zone (600 to 1,000 miles) 3 cents per pound.

"Sixth zone (1,000 to 1,400 miles) 4 cents a pound.

"Seventh zone (1,400 to 1,800 miles) 5 cents a pound.

"Eighth zone (over 1,800 miles), 6 cents a pound.

"Provided, the free-in-county circulation provided by law shall continue as at present.

"The postmaster general shall have authority to require publishers to separate their mail into zones when offered for mailing."

Among other provisions, the bill increases the rates for mail order catalogues from 2 to 8 cents a pound, making them third class matter, instead of parcels post; rates the limitations on promotions of clerks and carriers in first and second class postoffice; broadens the postmaster general's authority to deal with lotteries, drugs and poisons; and increases the rural mail delivery appropriation by $4,000,000 over the $49,000,000 recommended by Assistant Postmaster General Blakale.

ASA G. CANDLER
CHARACTERISTICSAtlanta's New Mayor Displays
Family Affection

Atlanta, Ga., December 21.—Hardly a night passes when Asa G. Candler, the south's richest multi-millionaire and Atlanta's next mayor, who goes in office on January 1, doesn't make the rounds of the homes of his children in an automobile and kiss them good night, according to his friends who are acquainted with his habits. One of Mr. Candler's predominant characteristics is his absorbing affection for the members of his family.

Although Mr. Candler's time is probably of more value, from the standpoint of dollars and cents, than that of any other Atlanta business man, the citizens of this city have secured his services for at least two years at the nominal salary of $4,000, paid by the city government to the occupant of the mayor's office. Moreover, Mr. Candler has promised to give his entire time to the work if he finds it necessary to carry out his plans.

While Mr. Candler has invested millions of dollars in real estate and other interests in various cities and states, his principal holdings are here, for he is a great believer in home investments. He has bought hundreds of thousands of dollars worth of Atlanta real estate at top prices in times of depression, in order to sustain the market, and he has extensive interests in other lines, including a controlling interest in the two largest banks in the city, the Candler warehouse, stock in the Southern States Life Insurance Company, of which Mr. Candler is director; a number of railroads, and other enterprises too numerous to mention.

A CHRISTMAS THOUGHT

By LUCY LARCOM

Oh, Christmas is coming again, you say,
And you long for the things it is bringing,
But the costliest gift may not gladden the day
Nor help on the merry bells ringing.
Some getting is losing, you understand;
What you hold in your hand may slip from your hand;
There is something better than having.
We are richer for what we give,
And only by giving we live.

Your last year's presents are scattered and gone,
You have almost forgot who gave them,
But the loving thoughts you bestow live on.
As long as you choose to have them.
Love, love is your riches, though ever so poor;
No money can buy that treasure.
Yours always, from robber and rust secure,
Your own without stint or measure.
It is only love that we can give;
It is only by loving we live.

For who is it smiles through the Christmas morn—
The light of the wide creation?
A dear little Child in a stable born
Whose love is the world's salvation.
He was poor on earth, but he gave us all
That can make our life worth living.
And happy the Christmas day we call
That is spent for his sake in giving.
He shows us the way to live;
Like Him, let us love and give.

W. H. BURWELL
W. F. CULPEPPERWill Lock Horns for Speakership of House

Atlanta, December 21.—That the situation in which the state of Georgia now finds itself with regard to the Western & Atlantic railroad will be one of the big issues in the race for the speakership of the 1917-18 house of representatives is made plain by the recent statement issued by Representative N. F. Culpepper of Meriwether county, who is opposing Representative W. H. Burwell, of Hancock county, for re-election to the speakership, in which he blames Representative Burwell for the failure of the constitutional amendment prohibiting the construction of a line of road parallel to the Western & Atlantic, to pass the house in 1916.

Representative Culpepper declared that the house would have passed the proposed amendment, forever preventing the construction of a parallel line, if the rules committee had let him, if the rules committee had permitted it to come to a vote; and he further declared the rules committee, of which Speaker Burwell mittee, of which Speaker Burwell was chairman, would have placed the amendment in a position where it would have reached a vote. The gentleman from Hancock had exerted his influence in its behalf, "instead of exerting himself to secure the passage of a dangerous bill providing for the sale of the Western & Atlantic, which the rules committee did bring to a vote and which the house defeated by an overwhelming majority."

PEACH LEAF CURL

Methods Suggested For the Control of This Blight.

(Prepared by New York State College of Agriculture.)

Now is a good time to spray for control of peach leaf curl, according to the plant disease authorities at Cornell. They say that the spraying may be done any time after the leaves have begun to swell in the spring.

Orchardists in New York last spring found that peach leaf curl was very much in evidence throughout the state wherever peaches are grown. According to the authorities on plant diseases at the New York State College of Agriculture, peach leaf curl is one of the fungous diseases of which the control is well known, the method of treatment highly perfected and the results of such treatment absolutely sure. They say there was nothing new in the situation last spring except that the conditions which have been favorable for the peach leaf curl disease, namely, the cold and wet weather during the early spring, not only favored the disease, but caused peach growers to delay spraying until it was too late. In some cases they gave up spraying altogether.

As a result it is stated that there were many orchards not sprayed, where curled and distorted bright colored instead of normal leaves. A severe attack will result in the loss of the leaves and no growth of the tree itself. There will be a partial or total failure to set fruit, a general lowering of the vitality of the tree and a subsequent failure in the production of fruit buds for the following year. Repeated loss of foliage for several years in succession means the death of the tree, especially if the trees are young.

Nursery stock affected by this disease is likely to be a total loss. Even slight attacks affect orchard production.

Peach leaf curl may be controlled either by bordeaux mixture or by lime-sulphur solution. Since the lime-sulphur solution diluted at the rate of one gallon to eight gallons of water will also control San Jose scale it is more commonly used. If the scale is not present the lime-sulphur may be used at the rate of one gallon to fifteen gallons of water.

When the workman makes use of a pump he must arrange to obtain a means of securing the line to some suitable anchorage from which it can be pulled over the edge of the surface upon which the men are at work.

A self fastening has been designed by which the necessity of this securing is obviated.

The device consists of a holder of wire, about which the surplus cord is wound, with looplike coils on each end.

The length of cord is secured around this, and after a sufficient portion has been left free for use the cord is passed between the loops of one end or the other. This holder may be laid over the edge of the work and will support the end of the cord without the necessity of any stay to hold it.

Late Laying Pullets.

When pullets do not begin laying before February it may be the fault of being late hatched, or it may be due to insufficient feeding of the proper kind. Pullets hatched in October or November and will if they are properly grown. Growing stock need range, and the food should be of a nutritious order.

Chamberlain's Cough Remedy

This is not only one of the best and most efficient medicines for coughs, colds and croup, but is also pleasant and safe to take, which is important when medicine must be given to children. Many mothers have given it their unqualified endorsement.

Chamberlain's Cough Remedy

These are facts for lime users: Lime is best applied just ahead of a crop, such as corn. Clay soil needs larger applications of lime than does sandy soil. Wet soil needs larger applications of lime than does dry soil. Soil rich in organic matter needs more lime than does sandy soil.

UNSETTLEMENT IN COTTON CONTINUES

Most Options Below 16-Cent Level Though Peace Proposals Cause Sharp Rally

From Dun's Review

Sensational incidents have continued to rule in the cotton markets, with a readjustment of prices such as talked 2 1/2 for the staple less than a month ago have witnessed an extreme break of 18 or more a bale from the high level of November 27, with the option list dropping an additional 100 points within a few minutes after the issuance of the Government crop estimate on Monday.

The decline at this time was subsequently carried to even greater limits, and though a sharp rally occurred on the peace proposals, the improvement was not fully maintained and quotations ended the week well below the closing figures last Saturday. As was natural, spot values reflected the violent shakings in futures, mid-land staples touching 18c, or a loss of practically 15c a bale from the recent top position.

It now seems manifest that the speculative movement which carried the May and July deliveries above 21c has been entirely beyond the point of safety and made the reaction that followed inevitable. With the spinning market showing larger totals than bullish interests had counted on heavy liquidation of long holdings was not unattainable, while this week's official crop forecast of 11,511,000 bales, excluding linters, accentuated the pressure and prompted shorts to sell with renewed vigor. The Government estimate did not surprise some people, though it was better than many had expected, and it has demonstrated that the former predictions of only about 10,500,000 bales for the crop were entirely too low. With 1,000,000 bales added for linters, the bears figure out a total supply, everything included, of approximately 17,000,000 bales for the season, and some of them think that the world's consumption of American cotton is not likely to be over 13,500,000 bales. Not everyone concurs in these views, but there is now heard of supplies falling short of requirements.

The following table copied from the Atlanta Georgian relating to the cotton market shows the cotton production of the South's greatest staple since 1791, up to the probable yield of 1916-17, together with the figures for 1903 were compiled by Wyner, Love & Co., and were given to the Sunday American by John F. Clark & Co. of New Orleans. From 1903 to 1916 the figures were taken from the "Cotton Facts."

How to Avoid One Cause of Sickness

There can be only one result when the intestines are clogged with undigested food. The blood circulating in the capillaries of the intestines will pick up more poisonous waste than can be thrown out of the body. The whole system is vitiated and impregnated with disease-causing impurities.

Poley's Cathartic Tablets thoroughly cleanse the bowels. They not only remove the waste but they help clear the walls of the intestines and keep them free from caked matter.

With bowels open and regular, there is no danger of biliousness, gas, bloating, acidity, or constipation. The other life that constantly attend indigestion and colic, makers of the celebrated Poley's Honey and Tar Compound, are sold by all druggists. Poley's Cathartic Tablets. Sold by druggists everywhere.

Atlanta, Ga., December 21.—In spite of the fact that Georgia is supposed to be as dry as a bone in consequence of the new and drastic prohibition laws, the hotels and smart restaurants are planning for a New Year's Eve celebration along highly festive lines, in which wines and liquors will play a prominent part.

DITE SPENCE INJURED

On last Monday Dite Spence, son of Mr. Jim Spence near Statesboro, had the misfortune to get his right leg broken in three places below the knee and also his ankle thrown out of place as the horse he was riding became frightened and threw him. Dite had left the house riding the horse and the horse returning to the house alone the family became frightened and went in search of him. He was found lying where the horse threw him in an unconscious state. They immediately removed him to a physician's office and he has been rapidly improving.

The two performances of Flu Flu which were given for the benefit of the local chapter of the U. D. C. were very satisfactory and the chapter desire to thank all those who so willingly gave their time and service in participation of this charming entertainment. Miss Fannie S. Gabel worked faithfully and accomplished much in teaching the youngsters the beautiful dances and picture poses. At any other time than the holiday season the financial results would have been doubled.

For CHILDREN'S CHRISTMAS PARTIES

A CHILD'S love for a Christmas party is very touching. One Christmas gone, he lives in happy anticipation of the one to come. So never allow the Yuletide season to pass without giving at least one party for the children. It need not be an elaborate affair. Just the simplest menu and entertainment will please, for children are not critical. This year let it be a "snowball party."

On circular pieces of white Bristol board touched with water color paints to simulate snowballs, write the invitations. Children adore "dressing up," so make it a costume party.

At any shop where favors are sold cotton snowballs are purchasable in all sizes. These are inexpensive, but if you prefer they may be made at home. Attach these to strands of white baby ribbon of different lengths and with them form a shower of snowballs over the table. This is a simple matter if you have a dome chandelier, for the snowballs can be suspended from a network of Christmas greens fitted under the dome. The top of the chandelier should be completely covered with Christmas decorations.

For the centerpieces form a large snowball of cotton and decorate it with holly and mistletoe. This should contain a favor for each small guest, wrapped in a cotton snowball and tied with white ribbon. Deck the candles with red shades shaped like Christmas bells to add color to the table.

Serve the sandwiches tied in bundles with red ribbon and ornament the cakes, ices, salad and candies in a Christmas manner. Entertain the children with games or dancing, or you might arrange for them to give a Christmas pantomime. It will take but little coaching.

Just before they depart have Kris Kringle appear with a large bag filled with cotton or tissue paper snowballs, which is the signal for a snowball fight. This will prove a jolly ending to the children's Christmas party.

CHRISTMAS PLAYS

In a few villages in England a Christmas play is still presented, and there is still performed, as regularly as boxing night comes around each year, a pantomime in nearly every English town, but these are only phantoms of the past, for Christmas revels are not now what they were, and Christmas plays are gradually being forgotten, along with many other old time Yuletide customs.

Among the earliest plays in the modern drama will be found Christmas plays and dramas dealing with the Nativity of Christ. In the beginning of the religious drama, however, Christmas was not the only feast upon which the plays written by the monks were performed. Other feast days were duly celebrated with appropriate dramas. The Greek and Roman drama having died a natural death, owing to the depths of wickedness to which it had descended, the theater ceased to exist until its revival in the middle ages in the shape of mystery and miracle plays. The possibilities of the drama as a means of religious instruction, which at the same time would also entertain and hold the attention of the multitude, was early appreciated by the ecclesiastics, and the suggestion followed with success. In this revival of the drama the early writers, who were principally monks, naturally turned to the ancient classic models, which they followed as to form only, for their productions are now rather curiosities of literature than literature itself. Thus we see Euripides used in the construction of a drama on Christ's Passion.

CHARLIE ZETTEROWER WINNER
OF FOUR CROP CONTEST PRIZE
Will Receive a Short Horn Bull from
Central of Georgia Railway

It must be conceded that education of the young generation of farmers and live stock raising is the certain and sure method of improving living conditions in the whole southland and making high prices for the necessities of life a thing impossible. There is genuine missionary work being done through many channels which will ere long produce the desired results. The great encouragement that the Central of Georgia railway is promoting in the ranks of the boys four crop clubs and their test farms is most praiseworthy.

With the live interest that is being shown in live stock industry in Bulloch county through the advent of our soon to be in operation packing plant, it will be a source of pride to know that we have a Bulloch county boy who has won a capital prize of a short horn registered bull in the Central of Georgia four crop contest clubs. The boy is Charlie Zetterower, or son of Lonnie Zetterower of Rte 6 Statesboro. The letter from President W. A. Winburn of the C. of G. to young Zetterower follows.

CENTRAL OF GEORGIA RAILWAY
Office of President
Savannah, Ga., Dec. 14, 1916.
Mr. Charlie Zetterower,
Statesboro, Ga.
Dear Sir:

We have formal advice from Mr. J. K. Giles, State Agent in Boys' Club Work, that you are the winner of the Short-horn bull offered by this company as prize for Four-Crop club contest in Bulloch county, and I desire to congratulate you, not only upon having won this valuable prize, but upon your energy and ability as a farmer, which is proven by the fact that you made greater net profit from your one acre in corn, one acre in cotton, and one acre in winter oats followed by hay, than any other boy who entered the Four-Crop contest in your county.

For the Central of Georgia Railway Company I take pleasure in advising that we are glad to give you this bull as a reward for your efforts and trust you may be able to make good use of him, and that as a result of your ownership of the bull you may become as successful in stock raising as you have proven yourself to be in crop growing. As prizes in former years, an active interest is being taken in the raising of better cattle in most of the counties where the Four-Crop winners received bulls, and we trust such may be the case in your community. J. F. Jackson, our Agricultural agent, will arrange to have the bull delivered to you as early as it is possible to do so, and will write you concerning the matter.

Yours sincerely,
W. A. WINBURN, President.
