S. & N. W. TO BE EXTENDED TO AUGUSTA

Planned to Build Extension of Road From Millhaven Distance of 40 Miles.

Right-of-way is Asked for

(From the Savannah Morning News.)

Another direct railroad from Savannah to Augusta has been provided for in plans that have been made for the extension of the Savannah & Northwestern railroad. That this extension was to be made has been known in Savannah for several days, but the fact did not become public until yesterday when the Morning News published a dispatch from Augusta stating that Mills B. Lane, a director in the Savannah and Northwestern, had applied to the mayor of that city for a right-of-way.

It is planned to extend the Savannah and Northwestern from Millhaven to Augusta, a distance of about forty miles. When the work will start is not known. The road now runs from Savannah to St. Clair, a point beyond Mills haven, but not in the direction the proposed extension is to go. The road will form a fork at Millhaven when the extension is made.

Plans are also said to be under way for the extension of the road from St. Clair into north Georgia. These plans, however, are tentative and it will probably be some time before they are carried out. The interests now in control of the Savannah and Northwestern are known to have ambitions to make it a big factor in rail transportation in Georgia.

James Imbrie, chairman of the board of directors of the Savannah and Northwestern, is now in Augusta, but his visit there is said to have no connection with the application for a right-of-way into that city. Mr. Imbrie arrived in Savannah a few days ago and went to Augusta from here.

Whether the extension is to remain a part of Savannah Northwestern or is to be a separate property could not be learned here.

COLFAX POSTOFFICE MAY BE ABOLISHED

Postmaster Akins Resigns and Nobody to Fill Vacancy

Who wants a postmastership? Hold, Gentlemen! Don't all speak at once.

It appears, from a press dispatch from Washington, that there is such a position in this county going to a begging for someone to fill it.

Here follows the dispatch, which you may read and then run for it, if you wish to:

Washington, D. C., March 1.—Colfax postoffice, in Bulloch county, Ga., which was created a few months ago, with Jasper N. Akins as postmaster, will, in all probability, be discontinued unless someone applies for the position of postmaster. Mr. Akins the present postmaster, has resigned and, in connection with his resignation, recommends that the office be discontinued, stating in his letter that no one will accept the postmastership and that the patrons prefer to be supplied from Statesboro by rural carrier.

The postoffice department has called on Congressman Edwards to show reason why the office should not be discontinued. The congressman is "casting about" to see whether or not anyone in that locality will accept the postmastership, as it is against his policy to let any postoffice or rural route be discontinued.

As yet no application has been received and it is probable that the postoffice will be discontinued as per Postmaster Akins' request.

On Trial for Lynching Negro former postmaster at Thunderbolt, convicted of embezzling government funds. A fine equivalent to the amount embezzled and imprisonment in the Otham county jail for a period of ten days was the sentence imposed.

Walhalla, S. C., March 2.—The trial of W. M. McClure, Woodrow Campbell, C. K. Kay, S. A. Jones, William Kay and John McDonald, farmers, charged with the murder of Green Gibson at Fairplay, S. C., Dec. 20, began here today. Gibson was one of the three negroes killed during race rioting at that place.

Several Talesmen were disqualified when they stated they would not "convict white men for killing or lynching a negro if the fact is proved beyond a reasonable doubt." Witnesses testified that on the night previous to the riot, Tom Speights, a negro, was severely whipped. This, it was testified, resulted in a pitched battle in which three negroes were shot to death.

One Ship Crippled And Another Sunk

By Torpedo and Submarine in Charleston Harbor During the War Between the States—Names That Should Be Kept on the Scroll of Fame.

(From "Some Truths of History," by T. K. Oglesby.)

The year before the Confederate ship Albatross was attacked by Lieutenant Cushing of the United States navy, Commander W. T. Glassell, of the Confederate States navy, made a similar attack on the New Ironsides, of the blockading fleet off Charleston harbor. Cushing's attack on the Confederate ship was made in a steam launch equipped with a torpedo and a brass howitzer. His crew consisted of thirteen officers and men, most of whom were captured but escaped. Glassell's attack on the New Ironsides was made in a steam launch equipped with a torpedo and manned by himself, an engineer, a pilot and a fireman. Not so fortunate as Cushing, his approach was discovered by the enemy and he was hailed by the lookout, but he steered straight on for the New Ironsides till he struck her. A terrific fire was at once opened on him, his little boat was covered by the immense volume of water thrown up by the explosion, its engine was made unmanageable by falling timber and there was nothing left for him but to swim for life and liberty. He did not escape, and his daring act was not as completely successful as it might have been had his approach not been discovered as soon as it was.

The New Ironsides escaped destruction by the narrowest margin, being made useless for a long time by the well-nigh fatal blow she had received. She was a stronger, more powerful ship than the Confederate, with its limited resources had been able to make of the Albatross, and was the pride of the blockading fleet, which, at the time of Glassell's attack, numbered thirteen large ships and ironclads, with more than a score of other vessels. It was against the moorh of that powerful fleet that Glassell and his three comrades drove their little boat on the night of October 5, 1863. Their names should be kept on the scroll of fame.

And let not those who are recounting patriotic deeds of devoted daring forget the story of the submarine boat—the only one of its character that won a record during the War Between the States—constructed by the Confederates for the purpose of attacking and destroying the ships of the Federal fleet then blockading the Southern harbor (of Charleston). Her crew consisted of nine men. Three trials made with her resulted in the death of twenty-three men who had undertaken the desperate work for which she was designed. Then Lieut. Dixon of the Confederate States navy, with a fourth crew, stepped into the places made vacant by the death of those who had preceded them, and the boat crept out of the harbor, attacked and sunk the Hornet and disappeared forever with her crew, every man of which was a volunteer, as was every one of those who had gone to death before them in that little boat.

At the preliminary hearing, which was held Monday morning before Justice J. W. Rountree, witnesses testified that at about eight o'clock Saturday night the girl was seen to go to the moving picture show with Parrish, where they remained only a short time. After leaving the show they were met by Toole and the three went together out West Main street.

They were followed by two young men who saw them stop near the corner of West Main and College streets, and in the shadow of a building the two men drank from a bottle, then gave it to the girl and afterwards the three proceeded out West Main street. Upon reaching the point where Johnson street branches off from West Main, the two men took hold of the girl's hands and went a few steps onto Johnson street, to where it crosses the S. A. & N. railroad. Thence they started to turn down the railroad track southward, but the girl stopped and asked to be carried home, which was situated on West main street but the men assured her that down the railroad was as near a way to go home as in the other direction.

The two eyes-witnesses followed closely behind the trio, and often saw them stop and the men caress the girl and heard them ask them to desist and to take her home.

Upon reaching the point where South Main street crosses the railroad the three went out the road leading off from South Main street to the left and were followed to Johnson's store, where they purchased something to eat. They then proceeded north on Zetterower avenue, and were gone for several minutes, when Officer Rahn appeared at the store, and while the men who had followed the trio were relating to the officer what had been seen, Parrish returned to the store. The men with the officer immediately started off on Zetterower avenue in search of the girl and Toole and came upon them only a short distance from the store.

Toole was arrested then and there and in a few minutes Parrish came up and he was also arrested.

It was then learned that the girl was so near drunk or so much under the influence of some drug that she was not able to arise from the ground or walk unsupported after she had been assisted to get upon her feet.

The officer was first told that the girl was the wife of Parrish and that they lived on West Main street. The officer and the men with him escorted the three to where they claimed to live and it was ascertained that Parrish's mother did live there and that the girl had been staying with her for about a week. Previously, she had been living for the past five years with Parrish and his family near Brooklet and was here on a visit.

Policeman Rahn got Officer J. M. Mitchell and went back to the Parrish residence on West Main street and re-arrested the two men and locked them in jail.

The girl is an orphan child and has neither home, relative nor friend. She is only 13 years old and has never had the advantages of schooling or enlightened society.

The men were found over by Judge Rountree to the city court. Both made bond of $100 each.

New York has over 63,000 pupils in high schools.

TWO WHITE MEN UNDER ARREST FOR ATTEMPT TO ASSAULT A YOUNG GIRL

Near Victim Was a Thirteen-year-old Country Lass

GIRL WAS FIRST MADE DRUNK

Men Were Seen to Give Girl Drink From Bottle.

PLEAD TO BE CARRIED HOME

Led Down R. R. Track Thro' Negro Quarters at Midnight Hour

Saturday night, or more properly speaking, at about 12:30 o'clock Sunday morning, Police Officer A. T. Rahn arrested Dan B. Parrish and J. H. Toole, both of whom were white married men from near Brooklet, in company with a thirteen-year-old girl, on south Zetterower avenue, near the store of S. W. Johnson at the extreme southern limits of the city.

When officer Rahn came upon the parties in the woods, the girl and Toole were together on the side of the road. The girl was in a partially sitting position with head leaning or drooping to one side and was in what appeared to be a drunken stupor, while Toole was in front of her in a compromising attitude.

Parrish had left the two together, it seems, to go back to Johnson's store, where the three had been a few minutes previously.

At the preliminary hearing, which was held Monday morning before Justice J. W. Rountree, witnesses testified that at about eight o'clock Saturday night the girl was seen to go to the moving picture show with Parrish, where they remained only a short time. After leaving the show they were met by Toole and the three went together out West Main street.

BRITAIN WILL LET CERTAIN COTTON GO TO NEUTRAL COUNTRIES

In Response to "Appeals of American Shippers" a Temporary Arrangement is Made

STATEMENT IS IMPORTANT

Announcement is an Intimation of What That Government Will Do in Its Embargo. Washington Doesn't Understand

Washington, March 8.—Formal notice of the treatment to be accorded American cotton by Great Britain and her allies in the execution of their declared intention to stop all commerce to and from enemy countries was given today in a statement issued by the British embassy. All cargoes consigned directly to ports of an enemy will be stopped, but as to shipments to neutral European countries, the statement said the following arrangement had been made in London.

"1. All cotton for which contracts of sale and freight arrangements already had been made before March 2nd to be allowed free passage (or bought at contract price if stopped) provided ships sail not later than March 31st.

"2. Similar treatment to be accorded to all cotton insured before March 2nd, provided it is put on board not later than March 16.

"3. All shipments of cotton claiming above protection to be declared before sailing and documents produced to and certificates obtained from consular officers or other authority fixed by government. Ships or cargoes consigned to enemy ports will not be allowed to proceed."

At the embassy it was explained that this arrangement, announced in response to appeals of American shippers anxious over the status of their cotton already on dock awaiting shipment or actually at sea bound for Europe, was merely temporary and would be superseded by the British order in council putting into effect the new general retaliation policy to be instituted against Germany. Embassy officials construed the arrangement as a concession to neutral shippers, as Premier Asquith, in announcing the new policy on March 1st merely said: "The treatment of vessels and cargoes which have sailed before this date will not be affected."

To-day's statement was regarded here as important, particularly because of its apparent intimation of the extent to which the allies intend to interrupt commerce between neutral countries in carrying out their determination to stop commercial intercourse with Germany. It was suggested at the embassy that the restrictions on shipments generally would be the same as those imposed on cotton and that besides holding up all ships directly for enemy countries the allied warships would stop vessels free from molestation as contraband, if their cargoes were presumed to be ultimately destined for Germany, Austria or Turkey. Embargoes on re-exportation, it was said would insure safe passage for such cargoes.

High officials of the American government had no formal comment to make upon the statement although some said informally they did not know just what it meant.

The United States holds to the declaration of its right to stop non-contraband to belligerents and to have uninterrupted legitimate commercial intercourse with neutrals.

No Date for Reprisals Order

London, March 8.—Although the order in council prescribing methods of making reprisals on German trade is promised soon, no date has been given. The foreign office emphasizes the declaration that it will not be inflexible so far as affects neutrals, but will permit negotiations in specific cases. As proof of this the special concessions to cotton shippers is cited.

American Ambassador Page is without advice regarding the United States steamer Pacific, which sailed for Rotterdam from Falmouth last Friday, after having been detained for several days. The foreign office also is without information as to why she was stopped.

FIGHT FOR FREEDOM STARTED FOR THAW

Trial Will be Basis for Urging He is now sane

TAKING OF TESTIMONY BEGUN

If Found Not Guilty in This Case Writ of Habeas Corpus Will be Sued Out at Once

New York, March 8.—In the room where he twice faced a jury for the murder of Stanford-White, Harry K. Thaw went on trial for conspiring to escape from the state hospital for the Criminal Insane at Matteawan. With him as co-defendants, were five men, who, the state charges, were parties to the alleged conspiracy. The entire day was required to complete the jury. Taking of testimony will begin tomorrow.

From the outset it was evident the trial would be another fight for Thaw's freedom. The defendant's attorneys plainly intimated that, with the permission of the court, they would offer evidence designed to prove their client was sane when he escaped from the asylum. Such being the case, they said, in examining witnesses, the defendant was being detained illegally at the time of his flight.

They asked prospective jurors whether they would be prejudiced against a man of sound mind, who saved his means at his command to escape from a hospital for the insane. These statements were amplified later by John B. Stanchfield, Thaw's chief counsel, who said that should the jury find his client not guilty he immediately would sue out a writ of habeas corpus on the ground that his "detention was illegal because the jury would have established his sanity."

although some said informally they did not know just what it meant.

COTTON ADVANCES DESPITE BLOCKADE

Early Loss Quickly Recovered on Good Buying

ANOTHER DECLINE LATER

Action of Allies Did Not Have Any Great Depressing Effect on Prices

(From Dun's Review.)

Something that the cotton trade had been apprehensive of for a considerable time became an actuality this week, when Great Britain declared what virtually amounts to a blockade of German ports. The fear that this might really happen had kept the markets in a state of nervousness and uncertainty while exerting a depressing effect on prices, so that in large measure the unfavorable news had been discounted. In any event, the retaliatory measure to Germany's war zone decree was not wholly a surprise—nothing is, in fact, these unusual days—and it did not cause as much uneasiness as would otherwise have been the case. To be sure this latest development of the war situation is serious enough and its possible consequences cannot now be foreseen, yet it did not produce any dismay insofar as cotton is concerned. Quotations, it is true, fell sharply when the official announcement was made, but the decline was of brief duration and was followed by a spirited recovery on buying for long account and shorts. It appeared as if the markets had become oversold; at any rate there was less pressure to sell and the rather broad and general demand that sprang up indicated that cotton is wanted, blockades or no blockades. Naturally, the first assumption was that England's stand would mean a sharp falling off in exports, but on second thought the trade seemed to come to the conclusion that the event was not so important as was originally supposed. There are those who believe that fully half of Germany's normal consumption of cotton has already been provided for and some means will be found of getting the southern staple to that country and Austria, especially if Italy remains neutral. Be this as it may, cotton was in demand from many quarters this week and it was evident that the South is plainly disposed to counteract a decline if for no other reason than that there is nothing to take its place. The view is taken that this would cannot afford to buy wool, silk and flax, even if these were adequate substitutes. As to the future of prices, much, of course, depends upon the question of the next acreage. Should this be materially curtailed, it is contended that an advance would logically follow, in spite of the large stocks on hand. Many people believe that a very considerable reduction in the use of fertilizers is certain and that this would be tantamount to a reduction of acreage, even though the area planted were not actually cut down. Time, alone, will determine all this. In the late dealings much of the previous improvement in values was lost as a result of heavy hedge selling.

From the opening of the crop year on August 1 to February 26, according to statistics compiled by the Financial Chronicle, 11,447,270 bales of cotton came into sight,

A Wrong Impression.
A German looking for a person by the name of Dunn, who owed him money, asked a young fellow near Sweeney's eating house where No. 66 Chatham street was, as he "wished to find Mr. Dunn."

The fellow told him to go into Sweeney's eating house and the man near the window was Mr. Dunn. The German went into the eating house and went up to a man who happened to be an Irishman.

"Are you Dunn?" asked the German. "Done!" said Pat. "By my soul, I have just started."—Philadelphia Record.

What They Were Hiding.
"I honestly believe," remarked Aunt Sarah Jane, "then Oldham's is getting to be regular Apostles. They don't keep the family Bible on the center table in the best room now."

"Well," replied Aunt Ann Eliza, "that's their religion. They don't like it. It's their age. Then Oldham girls is getting on."

Overhead Charges.
Church—The overhead charges in this country are something awful. Gotham—I should say so. I just read that American women yearly buy more than $10,000,000 worth of military supplies from France.

The Instance.
"Did you take particular cognizance of that saloon?"
"No, sir; I took a drink."

STRENGTH.
Without Overloading The Stomach.

The business man, especially, needs food in the morning that will not overload the stomach, but give mental vigor or for the day.

Much depends on the start a man gets each day as to how he may expect to accomplish the work on hand. He can't be alert with a heavy, fried-meat-and-potatoes breakfast, requiring a lot of vital energy in digesting it.

A Calif. business man has a good combination for producing energy. He writes:

"For years I was unable to find a breakfast that would give me the nutrition enough to sustain a business man, without overloading his stomach, causing indigestion and kindred ailments. "Being a very busy and also a very nervous man, I had about decided to give up breakfast altogether. But luckily I was induced to try Grape-Nuts."

"Since that morning I have been a new man; can work without tiring, my head is clear and my nerves strong and quiet."

"I find that Grape-Nuts, with a little sugar and a small quantity of milk, makes a delicious morning meal, which invigorates me for the day's business."

PROFITABLE HOG FEED

Swine Raising Is Most Important Branch of Farming.

Feeding Facilities and Available Feeds on the Farm Must Be Taken Into Account—Blue Grass Is Satisfactory Pasture.

(By J. G. FULLER.)
FORAGE crops constitute a most important part of the food supply for swine. Since there is little or no profit in feeding hogs on grain alone, the swine raiser should arrange to develop his market animals as much as possible on dairy and farm products and forage crops, leaving the heavy grain feeding for the fattening and finishing period. Most forage crops are well adapted to growing in proper condition and stage of growth provide at least a maintenance ration.

Native blue grass is a satisfactory pasture for the spring and early summer months or before it becomes dry and ceases to grow. By the middle of July this forage is of little value in many sections as it is too dry, and then until the fall rains begin to revive it again, should be supplemented with rape or other of the forage crops that can be grown for feed. However, it does furnish the first green feed in the spring and is always reliable.

Rape has proved a valuable forage for swine. The animals are kept on blue grass until this gets too dry, and are then turned into a field of rape.

Thrifty Hogs Fed on Forage Crops.

The hogs should be sowed in three plots and at intervals of about three weeks.

The rape stalks should not be too closely packed after the leaves are cut off. When this plan is followed, the rape should be from 14 to 18 inches high when the pigs are turned into it. For less intensive feeding, which the lower end of the crop will supply on the same piece of ground for a longer period, rape is sown broadcast with oats and clover. Five pounds of rape, six pounds of clover, and one bushel of oats are sown to the acre.

The swine should not be turned into this until the crop is from eight to ten inches high, after which each acre with a good stand of the crop will supply 15 spring pigs with forage for the rest of the season.

Clover, before it becomes matured, is a most valuable forage crop for swine. For the corn belt, clover and corn make one of the best combinations known for cheap pork production. Because of the tendency of clover to kill out, it is most satisfactorily grown in a rotation with other farm crops rather than in small plots to be intensively stocked. But whether or not clover is a satisfactory forage for swine depends largely on the season as affecting growth, the stand, and the state of growth at which this is fed. Under favorable conditions, red clover has been found even more profitable than rape as a forage for spring pigs. The value of alfalfa for growing swine has been fully demonstrated in the western states, where it is grown abundantly, but in some of the north central states it has not been grown to any great extent and, as yet, in these states, the value of this forage crop cannot be fully estimated.

Use of clover, alfalfa, rape or a red-clover-and-mixture properly grown for forage should make a saving of from 25 to 30 per cent in the grain ration for growing and fattening swine. To get the best results, the crop must be carefully seeded, fed at the right stage of growth, and never overstocked at the beginning of the feeding period or trampled when the ground is wet. An acre sown with clover, properly grown and cared for, should furnish forage for about four months for 15 to 20 spring stalks. Then, to finish the animals for market, heavy grain feeding is begun.

GENERAL FARM NOTES

Spraying Is Insurance.
It pays to watch the incubator in hatching time.

Drafts are a great cause of disease in the hen house.

When keeping hens for eggs alone a male bird in the flock is a useless ornament.

Five cows properly cared for and fully fed will run much more than ten cows half fed.

When selling your surplus poultry stock, don't forget that you will want some yourself for table use.

Clean the stables twice each day. The absorbents in the gutters. This will go a long way in keeping the air in the stable good.

No farmer should part with the right kind of a brood mare—whether she is of heavy draft breed or of the light-harness type.

Success With Poultry.

Success with poultry is in the man and not in the hen and in the feed, and in a lot of other things too tedious to mention, but not too tedious to the right man, who can master it if he will.

ANIMAL HOSPITALS ON FARMS

Quarantine Place Should Be Clean and Comfortable—Many Young Pigs or Calves Can Be Saved.

Every farm should have an animal hospital, where really sick animals can be cared for and turned back to health and where those suspected of having some disease or any "off color" in any way may be put away from the barn and the herd and flock.

There are many reasons for having such a place. First, there is the control and check of contagious diseases that might be accomplished by promptly isolating the first prospect and taking vigorous preventive measures with the balance. Thus many young pigs or calves that get "a bit off" continue to decline if kept with the balance of the herd because of their inability to "rustle" their share with their healthy, husky mates. If such are run by themselves and given special care and food for a few days they are soon back to normal and go on without serious setback.

The quarantine place should be a shed or building that is light, clean and comfortable, and one that can be thoroughly disinfected. It should be apart from other buildings and so situated that animals other than those quarantined cannot have access to it. The control of one outbreak of disease or the added gains on a few young animals will pay for such a building.

PRICES FOR THE BEGINNER

Hardly to Be Expected That He Will Get as Much For His Birds as Experienced Poultry Men.

If you are a beginner in the poultry business, you must not expect to sell your breeding birds for what you gave for them.

The man you bought from, his reputation, the prices he has won, the advertising he does, must count against you until you have won out as he has won.

If you have paid $20 for your breeding bird, then half that amount is enough for the beginner to ask. If you have paid $10, then $5, even $2, will be enough for the present. Besides, most beginners do not have scored birds.

FEEDING THE YOUNG ANIMALS

Legumes Are Rich in Important Bone, Blood and Muscle Making Constituents—Mix With Corn.

Good feeds can be grown on the farm. Corn and timothy hay alone will do. Young animals cannot thrive on these feeds alone, as they do not contain what the body requires for proper development. These feeds are deficient in calcium and iron, which must be had to make bone, blood and muscle.

The legumes are rich in these important constituents and go well with corn. Good pasture should be provided, without which it is difficult to maintain breeding animals. The farm that produces fine Kentucky blue grass and plants of clover, where the lot of the best feed without labor.

Turkey Helps.
No use to try to raise turkeys unless the points are kept free from lice. They should be examined at least every ten days.

Give the turkey hen a feed of grain for forage should make a saving of from 25 to 30 per cent in the grain ration for growing and fattening swine. To get the best results, the crop must be carefully seeded, fed at the right stage of growth, and never overstocked at the beginning of the feeding period or trampled when the ground is wet. An acre sown with clover, properly grown and cared for, should furnish forage for about four months for 15 to 20 spring stalks. Then, to finish the animals for market, heavy grain feeding is begun.

A Disgraceful Episode.

When Dan B. Parrish and J. H. Toole were arrested Saturday night they were both saved from a crime that is so black there has never been an appropriate name given it. And they were prevented from the accomplishment of that crime only by the promptness of our city police officer in acting in his official capacity and running to the assistance of a poor, helpless, homeless, friendless, kinless orphan girl who had been made drunk and led off in the woods by two white men, both married and having families of their own, and one of whom was in the very act of trying to carry out his brutal intent when come upon by the officer.

A poor little girl, taken into the home of a man when only eight years old, and after being taught for five years to look up to, respect and confide in him as her protector and friend, then to be led off by that man and one of his friends and made drunk by them and they to attempt to wreck and ruin her life forever, what punishment should be meted out to them? We haven't a law sufficient to cover such a crime.

True, it would be going back to a more uncivilized age to establish again the whipping post, but if these two men could be publicly whipped, and sufficiently whipped, men of their type would not be so ready to commit such crimes. The girl was not injured bodily, but she was injured and to that extent that a right-thinking man would lose his mental balance if he thought his child would be subjected to what that little orphan child was subjected to after his death.

It is a shame that such a dark blot must be smeared upon Bulloch county's fair name and our city court solicitor, Hon. H. O. Parker is deserving of much credit for taking hold of and fighting as he does such crime as he can lay his hands upon.

Our city officers deserve praise for their prompt action in this, as well as in other instances. It gives us a feeling of security, even though such men as J. H. Toole and Dan B. Parrish are running loose in our midst.

Superintendent's Corner

One fact stands out paramount—wherever you find a teacher in love with her work, you will find the children the same way. Where teachers are dissatisfied with the task they have assumed, and where they are content with drawing their breath and their salaries, but little good will result from their work. If your school is making progress, everything getting a hustle on, the teacher constantly adding to the school equipment, and in many ways creating interest in the welfare of the school and the community, you may just mark it down she is of real service to the community.

As a whole, Bulloch county has the best lot of teachers. They usually let no opportunity pass to accomplish real and lasting good. When you go into a community where heretofore the people have been sleeping and giving but little concern about the education of their children, you will find that now they are interested, and they will become more and more interested as time goes on, for they must realize that no more important subject can appeal to them than the proper education of their children. They are the biggest asset possible and we must make progress everywhere all the time or be left behind and then we will be unable to cope with those who are pushing the education of their children to the front.

The institute was well attended last Saturday, nearly all the teachers present, as well as many visitors. Quite a number of the girls of the canning club of the county present to hear the interesting lecture given by Miss Creswell, of Washington, D. C. Miss Creswell has thirteen Southern states in charge and it is seldom that we are able to get a person of such ability to lecture to our folks on issues of direct interest to the people of the rural sections.

Teachers do not fail to impress the patrons with the importance of the girls canning club work. Let us make Bulloch make the record for the state this year. We can do it easily and I believe that we will. If our folks can see the importance of this movement they will not hesitate to give financial aid when called upon to do so.

Prof. Duggan is still on the job with us in this county and will be with us until the first of April or later, as it is impossible to work a county as big as Bulloch in just a few days. Prof. Duggan does not believe in doing things by halves, and says he will stay on the job until it is finished. If we have not been to your school look for us for we are coming.

Miss Jewell McDaniel has been elected principal of the Register high school to fill the place made vacant by the resignation of Prof. J. A. Parsons, whose health failed him. Miss McDaniel is from Macon and has proven to be a able teacher since coming to this county as first assistant at Register.

We want to organize a plan to enable us to place in every school in this county a library of volumes sufficient for the grammar school grades. This will have to be done before we ever get as good results from our rural schools as we can.

Girls, you will not be allowed to join the canning club after the first of April. Better get busy and get in the swim before that time. More than one hundred girls have already joined and are receiving instructions as to how to do the work assigned. You will be glad that you joined if you do.

POTASH —AND— FERTILIZERS

Swift & Company have provided sufficient German Potash for their estimated needs of their customers. The cost was high, but their customers' needs must be supplied. The present POTASH market, spot cash, is 75c per unit of POTASH higher than the farmer is paying for Potash in

SWIFT'S FERTILIZERS

Besides this, the farmer can absolutely rely on the highest crop-making materials being used in Swift's Red Steer Fertilizers—Acid Phosphate made by the Swift process—Blood and Cattle Tankage from the Swift Packing Plants—thoroughly cured and conditioned—no rotten bags.

This explains why so many Swift Customers insist they get fifteen to fifty pounds more lint cotton per acre than from the next best brand. Fifteen pounds more cotton per acre equals $6.00 per ton saved on fertilizers used. Thus:

Fifteen pounds more cotton per acre at 8c equals . . . $1.20
One ton fertilizer covers five acres, equals . . . 6.00
Therefore, $6.00 per ton saved—and more than this when less than 400 pounds of fertilizer per acre is used. Figure it out yourself and then insist on getting SWIFT'S RED STEER ANIMAL AMMONIATED FERTILIZER from your dealer.

Ought to Paint.

I ought to have painted last year, but I hated to pay $2 a gallon.

I've got to paint this year; it'll take a little more paint; I suppose 1 gallon is 10; and a little more work, I suppose 1 day in 10.

My job would have cost last year about $50; it is going to cost this year $5.

$5 gone. I suppose I'll be the same again, if I wait again.

What if paint goes down to $1.75 a gallon? $2.50 on the job? I shan't wait; what a fool I was!

A. J. Franklin gets it.

There is a good deal of interest manifested in the song and music class which meets at the Baptist church every Tuesday evening from 7 to 8 o'clock under the direction of Mrs. May Silva Teasdale, of Savannah. No tuition fees are charged for instruction in this class, the entire cost having been defrayed by benevolent-minded people, and it is a work that is bound to result in a world of good.

FOR CLERK OF COURT.

February 18, 1915.
To the Citizens of Bulloch County: It was the opinion of a great many people that I would be in the race for clerk of the superior court at the last time, but I decided to wait another term, and this is to advise my friends and the people of the county at large that I will be in the race for clerk at the next election.

I have been connected with the office as deputy clerk or assistant for the past few years, and feel that I am competent to give the people good service in this capacity.

I realize that it is very early to begin a political fight, as the election is more than a year off. However, I wish to get the fact well in the mind of the people that I will be a candidate, and trust when the time comes that there will be enough votes cast for me to insure my election.

Will have more to say later.
Respectfully,
DAN N. RIGGS.

SHERIFF MALLARD'S DEPUTIES HAVE EXCITING MAN HUNT

Fred Jackson, Negro Desperado, at Large and Being Hotly Pursued.

Information was wired to Statesboro yesterday that Fred Jackson, the negro desperado who waylaid and robbed a mail carrier in Screven county and an escaped convict from a camp in Bulloch county would likely be in the neighborhood of the H. T. Jones place.

Deputies from the sheriff's office and a posse started to investigate, arriving at the Jones place where they searched some of the employees' quarters and gained further information that probably the man would be found in a house of one of the attendants who were sick, they started on that trail, first searching the barn adjoining, not finding any traces of the man at this spot they surrounded the house, or rather divided into squads of two men each, covering the front and rear of the house. One of the deputies peering in through a window saw a man raise up from a bed and to avoid being a target himself without having a like privilege, he stepped back to a corner of the house expecting the man to depart from either the front or the rear door.

For some few minutes the deputies occupied these positions waiting a move by the inmate, that would give them some clue as to his whereabouts, when suddenly some forty rods away the man was seen running as swift as a deer. He had gotten out of the house from an opposite window in the corner of the building and was able to gain that distance before being visible to the watchers.

Shots were immediately exchanged and the man was run to a swamp nearby and thereafter tracked some two miles by all the deputies and dogs when the trail and scent was lost.

Evidence that some of the shots took effect was discovered this morning when an old coat, blood stained, and still damp from the flow of blood, and with bullet holes in the sleeves, collar and back, was brought in, having been found in an old negro shack some several miles from the scene of the get-away. Jackson had entered this shack and changed his coat, and dressed his wounds as best he could with such material as he found available when the occupant returned to his quarters last night he found the coat and other evidences which he surrendered to deputies.

Sheriff Mallard is himself out today with others in further search and it is expected that the fugitive will be rounded up before night.

SAVANNAH COTTON SHIP HAS GOTTEN TO BREMEN

She Was Recently Reported as Held up by British Warships

Savannah, Ga., March 16.—News of the safe arrival of the American steamer Vigilantia at Bremen with her cargo of cotton was received today by the ship's owners—Walker, Armstrong & Co.

The Vigilantia was reported several days ago as having been detained by a British warship and taken into Kirkwall, but the report was denied by the owners at that time.

ITALY'S PRICE IS LAND AND FREEDOM OF YOKE.

Semi-Official Organ Points Out "Austria's Fatal Mistake."

FRONTIER UNDER YOKE 50 YEARS. Thinks the War is Now In That Phase Which Will Be Decisive, and the Geography of Europe About to Be Made Over.

Rome, March 14.—Territorial expansion for Italy with no dominions "beyond the seas, especially on the Mediterranean" must be obtained, declares the Giornale d'Italia in a long article regarding her as of a semi-official nature. Italy's seven months of neutrality, the paper says, were not lost, for not only have her interests been defended, but the nation has acquired greater political and military force.

The news suggests that the pupils of the high school might easily lead in this very great work, and to their ever-afterward credit. One or two days devoted to the cause would prove as beneficial to every student as the time in study. The entire school could be formed into a regiment and divided into companies, assigned to the various sections of the city to work in conjunction with the property owners and get the refuse in shape to be removed expeditiously.

The Savannah Morning News has compiled a set of eleven suggestions for the observance of clean-up week which we reprint with the hope that Statesboro may profit therefrom.

"First. Take away all the trash and ashes from your back yard immediately. Send your rubbish to the dumping ground."

"Second. Suggest to several men with teams that they drive through the alleys with a sign 'Clean-up Week' on their wagons; also a bell calling attention. People are only too glad to pay such a man for hauling their trash away."

"Third. Burn all rubbish that will burn. Clean your vacant lots and alleyways."

"Fourth. Make your street and parking lot as trim and well-kept as possible."

"Fifth. Refrain from throwing old paper, banana and orange skins into the streets."

"Sixth. Plant some grass and flower seeds to make your home beautiful."

"Seventh. If your store front is dingy paint it."

"Eighth. If you have unsightly old buggies or traps in your back yard, remove them."

"Ninth. If there are unnecessary, unsightly, tumbled-down sheds in your back yard, tear them down. They detract from the beauty of your home and the town. Open spaces and fresh air are better."

"Tenth. If your walk is an eyesore to those traveling over it, repair it or build a new one."

"Eleventh. Clean out the alleys back of the business houses at once."

GET READY FOR GEORGIA CLEAN-UP WEEK APR. 5-12

Gov. Slaton's Recent Proclamation Should be Observed Here

Clean-up week, April 5-12, as designated by Governor Slaton, is a most commendable suggestion and every municipality, small and large alike, should put forth untiring efforts to wipe out permanently the eyesore spots of alleyways and back yards. The News is not going to wait for the official date to start our own house cleaning; we are at it now, and in addition to cleaning our back yard we will paint our front door.

If the citizens generally will observe this proclamation there can be much good work accomplished in ridding the city of disease and germ breeding nests. The News suggests that the pupils of the high school might easily lead in this very great work, and to their ever-afterward credit. One or two days devoted to the cause would prove as beneficial to every student as the time in study. The entire school could be formed into a regiment and divided into companies, assigned to the various sections of the city to work in conjunction with the property owners and get the refuse in shape to be removed expeditiously.

NEW TROUBLES NOW AMONG MEXICANS

Progreso and Manzanillo Giving United States Deep Concern

CANNOT STOP ANARCHY. Port of Progress Ordered Closed and "Strong" Representations Sent to Carranza

Washington, March 14. While conditions in the city of Mexico have improved with the food and water supply replenished and the capital placed in order by the Villa Zapata government, situation fraught with difficulties for the United States government have arisen at Progreso, the east coast port, and at Manzanillo, on the Pacific.

The American counsel at Manzanillo reports a condition of anarchy there and that Carranza troops are unable to maintain order. Foreigners are apprehensive, he declares, and the food supply is decreasing, while Villa Zapata troops are investing the town's approaches. Admiral Howard, commanding the Pacific fleet, is reported ready to take foreigners away if conditions do not improve.

Progreso, the port from which virtually all the coal used for American binding twine is shipped, has been ordered closed to foreign commerce by General Carranza. The United States cruiser Des Moines is at Progreso under orders to see that there is no interference with American commerce.

Strong representations have been sent to General Carranza but no word has been received as to his attitude. In the meantime navy department reports from the Des Moines state that the Mexican gunboat Zaragoza, sent port closing order has been forced to turn back to Vera Cruz because of bad weather and that two American ships laden with sisal hemp cleared yesterday.

With conditions better in the City of Mexico, President Wilson has been giving his personal attention to the situation at Progreso as he has been informed that the entire wheat crop of the United States might be seriously affected by the inability of farmers to get harvesting twine.

Unique Bank Question Arises in Pittsburgh

Pittsburgh, Pa., March 6.—The Pittsburgh board of education will probably appeal to the comptroller of currency at Washington to determine whether payment on checks deposited the day before a bank has been closed by the comptroller, can be ordered stopped shortly after federal authorities have taken charge. The question grew out of the closing of the German National Bank here Thursday, a day after several public school teachers had deposited their monthly pay checks which had been drawn on a local trust company by the board. The teachers appealed to the board, which at once ordered payment stopped, but there was some question over the legality of the action. Until the case is decided, the teachers will be minus their pay.

TAKES CARBOLIC ACID BY MISTAKE

Harry Weekly Near Death as Result of Error

Harry Weekly, a twelve year-old boy, employed by the Franklin Drug Co., and nephew of Harry Raulerson an engineer on the Savannah and Statesboro Railroad, came near losing his life last Saturday by taking a large dose of carbolic acid.

It appears that the boy had been suffering with a cold and cough for several days and a prescription had been prepared for him and delivered to the boys uncle Mr. Raulerson which however he had not taken. Young Weekly was let off from his position at the drug store last Saturday morning and some time prior to his leaving he must have decided to prepare a mixture of his own unbeknown to Mr. Franklin or the clerks, going direct from the store to his uncle's house and immediately swallowed a dose of the acid throwing the empty bottle in the fire place.

He gave no intimation that he had taken anything, but his uncle discovering the boy's condition instantly called physicians who administered antidotes for carbolic acid poisoning which symptoms his throat and mouth indicated, and no doubt he was reached just in time to save his life.

Rumors that the boy had taken the acid with suicidal intent are quite groundless; his few weeks employment at the drug store no doubt led him to believe that he was sufficiently familiar with medicine to select his own cure. At last reports the boy is on a fair way to recovery.

PROPOSES RURAL NIGHT SCHOOLS

As Means of Reducing Illiteracy in Georgia.

Atlanta, March 13.—Rural night schools is the proposal of State Superintendent of Education M. L. Brittain, as a means of reducing illiteracy in the rural districts of the state. Superintendent Brittain has recently been in correspondence with county superintendents with a view to devising some plan for reducing the extent of adult illiteracy. He calls attention to the report of the Bureau of Education at Washington, to the effect that Georgia has 389,775 illiterates and that 338,018 of them live on the farms. It is in the country that the greatest amount of work needs to be done.

"Occasionally," writes Superintendent Brittain, "men and women organize a school, generally at night and help in this work. It is a difficult task and requires much tact, but despite this I hope each superintendent will view it in the light of a duty which cannot and ought not to be shirked. It is being worked out elsewhere, a Kentucky superintendent having reduced the adult illiteracy in one year from 1,156 to 23."

The superintendent's proposal of night schools, of course, deals altogether with adult illiteracy. Georgia's percentage is unusually large and the school authorities are much concerned about it.

TWO HOMES DESTROYED BY FIRE AT GARFIELD

Owned by J. A. Chapman; Occupied by E. N. Brown and J. A. Burke

Garfield, Ga., March 16.—One of the most disastrous fires in the history of Garfield occurred today between 12 and 1 o'clock, when two frame dwellings, owned by Mr. J. A. Chapman, were burned. One of the houses was occupied by Mr. J. A. Burke, who lost all of his furniture, and the other was occupied by Mr. E. N. Brown, who managed to save his furniture.

The total damage was about $2,000, with insurance on the property of $1,000.

SEA ISLAND COTTON MARKET

(From Gordon & Co.) Savannah, Ga., March 14.—The sea island market was seasonally quiet during the past week. Factors' offerings were light, and the demands were filled from exporters' stocks or by purchases in the interior. There was some inquiry in the market, but the price asked checked business. It seems to be a waiting market with buyers and sellers apart for the present. Some new development will have to enter the market so as to bring about a resumption of trading on a broad scale.

Indications point to a larger acreage in sea island cotton for the coming crop, but, of course, the size of the crop will be regulated more by the weather than by the acreage.

Alarm Shouts at Burglar. Axel Stahl of Chicago has just received a patent on a burglar alarm that has as its essential a talking machine. This may be a real world record bearing such remarks as its owner would like to have made to a burglar who enters by door or window. So the thief will be greeted with words that will at least tend to scare him.

Chickens Come Home.

There is an old Arabic proverb to the effect that "Chickens come home to roost."

And one is impressed with this fact in reading the life of William I, the first emperor of Germany, and the father of the present Kaiser. It was that August personage who, disregarding the constitutions of the Prussian confederation, when Bismarck was planning the ultimate consolidation of the German states into one powerful nation, it was William the First who contemptuously referred to "these pieces of paper called constitutions." Of William it was afterwards stated that he was "every inch a soldier and nothing else."

Now it is the son who regards treaties in the same light as his father did constitutions. It is Kaiser William the Second's imperial chancellor who memorably declared several months ago that the treaties relating to the neutrality of Belgium were "scraps of paper."

Between "scraps of paper" and "pieces of paper" there is little difference. It is interesting, however, to note that the nation which coined the phrase has had occasion to renege it, and is alone in its interpretation of these things which are otherwise known as constitutions, treaties and contracts.—Macon News.

ho's. They were scattered everywhere and all of the same breed—thoroughbred Berkshires, either registered or subject to registration, and all of the same color and markings; beautiful to see and a possession to be justly proud of.

Among the grown hogs there is one that will weigh upward of 800 pounds when in condition and many that will be prize winners when they are shown at the Macon fair next fall where they will be taken for that purpose.

But Mr. Field is not satisfied with what he has. Improvements are to be made and more extensive breeding will be undertaken and wide publicity will be given the Field Berkshire Farm and he will not rest until he has spread the news all over the land that Bulloch Bred Berkshires for Breeding surpass all others.

A large number of hogs from this farm have been scattered all over this section of the country and there is a decided change noticeable already in the hogs raised by almost every farmer in Bulloch.

but the farmers have been somewhat slow in taking to raising fine blooded hogs principally on account of the brood animals costing $25 and up. And it may be well to mention here that pigs can be bought from Mr. Field for less than half that price, thus putting the very finest pure-bred hogs within reach of every man who wants to improve his stock.

Upon being asked concerning an organization of the business men and farmers, Mr. Field expressed himself as being favorable to such a move and is willing to assist in the organization, the ultimate success of which he thinks is beyond doubt. He favors the community packing house and canning factory.

He is experimenting with wheat this year and if it proves successful he wants to see a flour mill erected in this county.

The court house yard is being cleaned up which will add greatly to the beauty of our new county building.

Many Thrilling Things Happen During War

Berlin, March 6.—A soldier's letter from the eastern front describes an effort of a patroling party to discover whether there were any Russians in a forest in front of the German position. With fixed bayonets a handful of men crept, at night, through the woodland, thrusting the steel into every thick bush or throwing a flare of light into them from their pocket lamps.

They found no "game" and were emerging from the forest at the point where they had entered it, when they suddenly saw a Russian sentinel before them in heavy fur coat and cap. He was half asleep. Taking up the narrative here, the letter reads: "I seized the Russian by the lapel of his coat and swore at him in Polish, Russian and German. 'Hands up,' we demanded, and he did it. One of us watched over him while others made an examination of the surroundings. We found a cave, such as we build for our sentries. We jabbed our bayonets into the straw around the entrance. A 'non om' after removing the rifles which the unsuspecting Russians had stacked near the entrance threw a light into the cave and swore frightfully. Out of the dark came creeping a dozen members of the 162nd Russian Landwehr, Tartars, Mohammedans, and men from Kasan. At the point of our bayonets they dropped to their knees. "But suddenly we discovered that we were being fired upon by another group of Russians nearby, whose presence we had not suspected. Driving our prisoners before us, we started across an open meadow back of our lines. There was a whizzing of bullets about our ears. There could be no thought of trying to defend ourselves. Only six of our prisoners could we keep with us. When we finally reached our lines, we discovered from the men we had taken that the place we had tackled was not a sentry post, as we had thought, but a protected position with trenches and loopholes; and there were thirty Russians against us five with two other Russian trenches close by. It was a lucky escape for us to have discharged our task and get away with our prisoners. We did not fire one shot. Our captain gave us five dollars. I send one herewith to our little 'War daughter,' because it was earned without bloodshed."
