Woman's World

Mr. E. L. Martin, of Macon, one of the officers of the Georgia Men's League for Woman Suffrage publishes the following article on the subject in the Atlanta Journal of Labor:

"The most notable of recent converts to woman suffrage, under the most notable circumstances, is General Sir John French, commander of the British forces in France. According to sources too authentic and reliable to be doubted, the general had been a bitter opponent of the cause, despite his sister, Mrs. Despard, being president of the Woman's Freedom League of England.

"Quite recently General French returned to England for a day in order that he might advise her personally of his absolute conversion to a man suffrage, because of the heroic endurance and ability as organizers, displayed by the women on the battle fields of France and Belgium. The general is quoted as saying that he felt constrained to deliver this message in person because of the antagonistic attitude previously assumed toward his sister.

The same advice report the complete conversion of the eminent writer, Irwin Cobb, because of the work of women in allied Europe, that has come under his personal observation.

Prominent among the stock arguments of opponents to woman suffrage has been the contention that the molly-coddle spirit of the sex fitted them only to pursue the primrose paths of peace. While every precept and example of woman's life has been for the establishment and perpetuation of peace, nevertheless throughout every war in every age, her sublime courage, splendid sacrifices, unfaltering faith and fortitude, and gentle ministrations to the wounded and dying have illumined the darkness of the conflict, like myriads of stars resplendent in the heavens at night.

"In every trying emergency, as in every sphere of duty, and every arena of opportunity, woman has shown herself the equal, if not the superior, of man. The widening recognition of this truth, as well as the further fact that woman suffrage has proven beneficial wherever tried, cannot much longer delay her emancipation from the political slavery to which she so unwisely and so unjustly has been subjected, ever since her own forefathers fled from Europe to escape religious serfdom.

"Those highly excitable and over-nervous would-be leaders of political thought who oppose woman suffrage on the ground that to grant it in the south would be to throw open at the same time doors to 'colored ladies' must find themselves wearing the brand of cowardice that would prompt them to run away from a phantom fear, or of having sought to overtax the crudelity of two intelligent public.

"I would respectfully suggest to these timid opponents, whose timidity is denying to American women a too long delayed right, that they endeavor to learn a lesson in courage from these English women, whose inspiring deeds of courage and consecration have made an enthusiastic convert of the commander-in-chief of the British forces on the valorous fields of France and Belgium.

Misses Johnston and Lee

Delightfully Entertain

The Misses Annie Johnston and Bessie Lee on Tuesday evening sustained and exemplified their reputation as most charming hostesses at their attractive, hospitable home, "Crackenhurst." The enjoyable entertainment was in honor of Miss Millie Money, of Lanark-on-the-Gulf, Fla., who is also Miss Johnston's guest for the week.

The lovely color scheme, a favorite one—pink and white, was most delicately carried out in refreshments and prizes offered. After the guests had arrived the gentlemen were presented small slips of paper, each showing the name of a state, and were informed that they were expected to find their capitals. The capitals, as young ladies, were found after much amusement.

They then engaged in an entertaining contest of arts concerning a "Musical Romance." The pretty prizes were boxes of pink stationery, and were presented to Miss Elma Wimbler as the clearest, while Miss Money was awarded the guest prize.

The gentlemen chose their supper partners by the amusing method of guessing her name from a glimpse of her eyes alone. The refreshments were delicious and truly refreshing. Those present were, the Misses Ruth Lester, Louise Hughes, Agnes and Wilfred Parker, Nannie Edith Outland, Mamie Hughes, Irene Arden, Nellie Jones, Annette and Pearl Holland, Elma Wimbler, Lucy Blitch, Annie Olliff, Lenah Smith, Ruth Parrish, Gladys Watson, Rochelle Irwin, Millie Money, Anne Johnston and Bess Lee; Messrs. Mack and Fleming Lester, Barrett, Davis, Kingsley, Outland, Arden, McLaughlin Ruckley, Gordon and Paul Simmons, Bartow and Edwin Groover, Strickland, Olliff, Blitch, Meyer, Jones, Wain, Rauch, Johnston, Johnston and Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Lester.

LETTER WRITTEN BY NEGRO

SAYS DR. HIRES LOST

Anonymous Communication

Says Physician Blown Up In Launch.

Savannah, Ga., March 18.—Has Dr. J. Lawton Hires, the well-known specialist, met death in an accident aboard his motorboat?

This is the question his friends are trying to determine. They are now out searching for him.

Dr. Hires left Thunderbolt on Monday to go off on a fishing trip. He was alone but said he was going to take a negro at Wilmington Island to steer the boat for him and that he would be gone two or three days. This was the last heard of him until Acting Mayor Pierpont today received the following letter addressed to "Dr. Davant, City Mayor":

Hon. Sir:

I was coming up river last night helping my good friend Dr. Hires bring his boat round to dock and all of a sudden I here sumthin sploode. I was tending while an Dr. was fixin injine. When I looked round the hole back end of the boat was full of fire. I run back to try help Dr. but he was gone. Now fore de lord I aint know if he was blowed out or he jump out. I looked good for him but I has not saw him since de splosion. Now just how dis nigger got on land a gin I aint no but I here and I is all rite opt my hair is burne sum. Now sir I thorte I wood rite and tell you all I no bout it I is shore feel sad for Dr. for he was a mitley goode frende to me an my wife one time when she bin sick in her bed.

From his humble

Survant.

It is feared the report is true. Dr. Maxwell, a brother-in-law of Dr. Hires and Dr. Johnston have gone to search for the doctor and his boat.

Train Conductor Furnished Clue Which Led to Discovery Of Dr. Hires.

Savannah, Ga., March 18.—The clue which led to the apprehension of Dr. J. Lawton Hires, in Montgomery, after he had left Savannah believing that he had created the impression that he was dead, was given by the railroad.

The conductor on the train which he was riding noticed his peculiar actions. It was known to the conductor by the ticket that the man was from Savannah. It was noticed by the conductor that he engaged a drawing room, and then gave it up, and did everything to keep himself secreted. Instead, however, he attracted attention.

Before reaching Montgomery the conductor wired the Savannah police. He informed them of the peculiar actions of the man. This gave the police the clue which led them to believe that Dr. Hires had gone to Montgomery. Over the telephone last night on communication with a friend in Savannah, Dr. Hires gave an explanation for his departure. When asked why he had left he replied: "Because there is too much of that crowd." He was asked what explanation he would give Dr. J. T. Maxwell, his brother-in-law. "Well there is too much Maxwell," he said.

Chief Meldrim communicated with the Montgomery police when it was known Dr. Hires was on the train. The Montgomery department was requested at first to keep the man under surveillance. Before the train reached Montgomery, however, Chief Meldrim had directed the department to arrest him. While Chief Meldrim believed it was Dr. Hires, there was some doubt about it. He did not want to take any chances on it. When accosted by the Montgomery police Dr. Hires denied that he was the Savannah specialist. He said he was "Lawson Harris," of New York. But from the description furnished by the Savannah police there was little doubt about him being the man.

It was found Dr. Hires had a pad of prescriptions which bore his name and $1,969.10 in cash. There were five $100 bills. Later at police station Dr. Hires admitted his identity. He talked over long distance to Lieut. Bryant.

In unraveling the mystery of his disappearance which had "Savannah talking" yesterday afternoon, it was found a man in hunting garb had entered the Union Station shortly after midnight. He went in the restaurant and asked for coca-cola. When the waiter started to turn up the light he objected. He had on a slouch hat and wore goggles. Dr. Hires bought some goggles only recently.

The trouble arose over McCoy's daughter's refusal to allow one of his sons to eat dinner at their home.

NEW ANGLE TAKEN

IN THE THAW CASE

Second Writ of Habeas Corpus Resist Order to Take Thaw Back to Mattawan Doesn't Kill Other One

New York, March 18.—A second writ of habeas corpus, through which counsel for Harry K. Thaw expects to bring the question of his return to Mattawan before the appellate division of the supreme court, was signed tonight by Justice Bijur, of the supreme court. The hearings on the previous writ, which was to have been held tomorrow, will be continued one week. It was announced today after a conference of counsel representing both sides.

John B. Stanchfield, of Thaw's counsel, plans to serve the writ on Sheriff Griffenhaven, in whose custody Thaw now is, early tomorrow. An hour later the writ will be returnable before Justice Bijur, and it is expected he will refer it to Justice Page, who on Monday ordered Thaw's return to Mattawan on the original commitment of Justice Dowling. Should Sheriff Page dismiss the writ Thaw's attorneys plan to appeal direct to the appellate division with a request for a speedy determination of the issue.

The previous writ signed by Justice Bijur several days ago specifically stated that counsel wished to direct the attention of the court to the matter of Thaw's sanity. It is explained that Mr. Stanchfield decided to hold this writ in abeyance and made the basis of his second writ the question of the right of the state to take Thaw back to Mattawan.

GERMANS MAKE PROTEST

TO STATE DEPARTMENT

Against Arrest of German Consul and His Assistant at Seattle, Wash.

Washington, March 18.—The German embassy today protested to the State Department against the issuance of warrants for the arrest of German Consul Wilhelm Mueller, of Seattle, and his assistant B. M. Schulz. The embassy contended that the arrests were a violation of the commercial treaty between the United States and Germany.

The two Germans are charged with unlawfully conspiring to gain the secrets of a ship company at Seattle, which is alleged to have been building submarines for Great Britain.

The State Department promised an investigation.

STATE CONVENTION

OF GEORGIA ELKS

To Be Held At Waycross, Ga., May 12th and 13th.

Tentative arrangements for the convention have been made. On the morning of May 12th a business session will be held which will probably consume a portion of the afternoon. At night a grand ceremonial session will be held when a class of candidates from all parts of the state will be taken in.

It is planned to have a selected team from lodges over the state to do the degree work, so as to give special attention to the impressive ritual of the order. Another team will put on the humorous features of the work.

On May 13th the Elks will visit "Bill's Island" and a special committee of well-known Elks has agreed to serve in securing a dozen bears for meat for a barbecue, which the Elks plan to make the biggest "cue Georgia has ever known. The Waycross lodge, through its representatives, pledge to bend every effort in making the convention the greatest the Elks have ever held.

A number of unmentionable "stunts," which the Elks are not willing to divulge, have been arranged for the convention.

There are several members of the order of Elks in Statesboro who are planning to attend the Waycross convention.

GOV. JOHN M. SLATON

PAID UNIQUE COMPLIMENT

His Picture Will Appear On New Issues of Georgia Bonds

Atlanta, Ga., March 22.—Gov. John M. Slaton will be paid a unique compliment when the recent issue of $3,525,000 of Georgia bonds are printed by a New York firm. The engravers have asked the privilege of placing the governor's picture on each bond, and he has consented. This was done in consideration of his efforts in making the most advantageous bond sale the state has ever known.

Financial circles have not yet recovered from the surprise they got when Asa G. Candler, Atlanta's wealthiest citizen, appeared and bought the whole $3,525,000 of bonds by bidding seventy-thousand dollars premium for them, by far the highest bid ever received. Mr. Candler will have them issued in small denominations and market them at his leisure, giving Georgia purchasers the preference.

Advertising Didn't

Pay In His Case.

There was one recent bankrupt in Atlanta who had a store in an excellent location but who failed because his stock accumulated on his shelves and the money didn't come into the cash register.

"Advertising ruined me," he told a newspaper man after the failure.

"How's that?" asked the newspaper man. "You never did any amount to anything."

"That's what the matter," said the ex-merchant. "It was my competitors advertising that put me out of business."

LOYALTY TO YOUR HOME TOWN

Mr. and Mrs. and Miss Good Citizen:

REMEMBER, a dollar spent at home is a dollar saved. If your home merchant has not got what you want, let him get it for you. Appreciate his courtesy and favors to you.

Mr. Merchant:

Tell your home people in good, honest ADVERTISING what you can do for them. YOU know the value of ADVERTISING. A mere glance at the columns of the thousand and one periodicals carrying the ADS of the national advertisers for mail order houses, explains how the  get away from you.

Loyalty to Your Home Town

IT'S A GOOD THING—PUSH IT ALONG

SAVES HIS SISTERS' LIFE

By Killing His Father.

Canton, Ga., March 18.—Judson McCoy shot and killed his father, J. R. McCoy, a well known citizen of Cherokee county, at the latter's home, twelve miles west of Canton, at noon Wednesday.

The elder McCoy had struck his daughter with a chair and then went to the bureau drawer to secure his pistol, threatening to kill the entire family. His son, Judson, interfered, securing his father's shotgun, and fired before the elder McCoy could make good his threat.

The trouble arose over McCoy's daughter's refusal to allow one of his sons to eat dinner at their home.

Bill to Prohibit Walking

On Railroad Tracks.

Atlanta, Ga., March 22.—Several organizations, including the Atlanta chamber of commerce and the Associated Charities, are backing a bill to be introduced at the next session of the legislature to prohibit walking on the tracks of a railroad unless one is an employee engaged in his work.

The bill grows out of an enormous number of accidents caused by trespassing upon railroad tracks, which are used as public thoroughfares by so many people. Statistics show that a large proportion of fatalities on railroads would have been avoided had the victim stuck to the highway and kept off the roads properly.

Huge Suit Is Started.

Boston, Mass., March 19.—Arguments in the suit of minority stockholders of the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad to recover for the company approximately $102,000,000 alleged to have been wrongfully spent in the purchase of railroad, steamship and trolley enterprises, and in addition double that amount in penalties, was made today before the Supreme Judicial court.

The defendants include William Rockefeller, J. Pierpont Morgan and many others.

Accidents will happen, but the best regulated families keep Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil for such emergencies. Two sizes 25 and 50c at all stores.—A. D.

WOMAN'S WORLD

Mr. E. L. Martin, of Macon, one of the officers of the Georgia Men's League for Woman Suffrage publishes the following article on the subject in the Atlanta Journal of Labor:

The War Of Continents.

Przemysl has capitulated to the Russians only to disclose the horror of starvation, famine, disease, and mutiny as the price men pay in this most brutal, senseless, baseless murder of humanity. Men who are driven in trenches like cattle to a slaughter pen; ninety per cent of them ignorant of the cause, unable to advance a reason why they are ordered to kill their neighbor. At the news of a battle won, or the wholesale annihilation of a body of human people we read of celebrations, festivities, populace parading, flying flags and singing praise in honor of the murderers. And we say it is a Christian era. Such is the condition of the European continent.

On the North American continent we have a nation at war crumbing with greed, avarice, chicanery and duplicity of its own people; one of whom sets himself up with every new moon as a dictator. The conditions that obtain in that great land of mineral wealth and agricultural possibilities calls to our mind a prediction made as far back as 1881 by a young native Mexican student who had been for four years from the period of the Centennial Exposition to 1880 attending Girard College in Philadelphia, in which city we formed his acquaintance. In 1881 we had the pleasure of renewing this acquaintance as a guest at his father's home, a real adobe place near Chihuahua. During the course of this visit the young man who had returned to his native land imbued with the principals of government, energy and attainment of the American people, casually advanced the opinion that some day the American would be called in to educate his race. The expression brought forth rebuke from his father.

The prediction is quite in keeping with an expression of General Carranza, who in an interview with his personal representative in Washington the other day said, "I look upon the United States as the most advanced nation in the world."

From the trend of affairs of other nations it may fall to the lot of America to educate, christianize, and humanize the world.

Census bureau statistics issued last week, giving final ginning figures, officially place the 1914 crop as a record with 16,102,143 bales of 500 pounds each. That is 409,442 equivalent 500-pound ones or 204,721,000 pounds more than even produced in the great crop of 1911. Don't let these figures deter you however from planting a good size cotton patch. The world will want it after the war.

Clean-up week April 5-12th. Just as essential to the physical condition of the town as to your own body. Get busy.

A Jitney.
There was an old man
Who had a wooden leg;
He wouldn't work
Nor he wouldn't beg;
So he got a spool
And an old tin can,
And made a Ford
And the blamed thing ran.

Let's hope that the Macon Telegraph and the Savannah Morning News won't come to blows over the judgeship question of division of work in the Southern federal district.

GEORGIA EDITORIAL CLIPS

Savannah Press: For a paper with such wide editorial columns the Macon Telegraph seems to take an unusually narrow view of things sometimes. But they are good fellows on the Telegraph all the same.

As to the Gumbo Supply.
Washington Reporter: Notwithstanding the factitious tales about the increase in the price of gumbo, gumbo is about the usual price. It is difficult to advance of any commodity after the demand for it has been largely destroyed. Germany has a monopoly on nothing that cannot be dispensed with or obtained elsewhere.

Sylvania Telephone: These funny puns that are going the rounds on the papers about Turkey and Greece and China, ought to be declared contraband of war.

Put Yourself in Their Places.
Lavoia Times: These are hard times. Yes, somewhat. But what about some places on the globe where people are dealt out their food in capsules and that only occasionally? Aren't you living like a king compared with them?

What has become of the old-fashioned people who gave their children names like Sally, and Jane, and Chlorinda, and Susan, and Ephraim, and Silas and Ebenezer?—Macon News.

They are still here, only they have abbreviated—Sal, Jay, Chloe, Sue, Eph, Sila and Eb.

Waycross in Tears

(Waycross Journal March 16th.)

Probably more tears have been shed in Waycross the past year over the destruction of the park and trees than from any other one cause. Last year thousands of dollars worth of choice shrubbery that does not grow north of the Alabama river was destroyed in Mary Street Park, and great glorious maples in bloom were converted into fire wood. These trees would take fifty years to grow, and the wonderful natural beauty of that spot has been changed into a bit of pine barren.

This year there are many sad hearts and tearful eyes as they view the destruction of beautiful shade trees and think of the patient toil and loving care that has been given to the cultivation of them through long years.

Resolution of Sympathy.

Whereas:—Our Heavenly Father has seen fit to visit the homes of our worthy brothers, W. J. Barr, A. A. Waters and J. H. Guenther, taking therefrom their dear and loved ones to his fold, be it therefore,

RESOLVED, That we the officers and members of Mill Ray Lodge No. 248 I. O. O. F. do hereby humble ourselves to our Heavenly Father and tender our heartfelt sympathy, sharing with our brothers our grief in the loss of their loved ones, and be it further,

RESOLVED, That a copy of these condolences be furnished each of our brothers and their families. Done by order of the Lodge, this 5th day of March 1915.

Two Years of Wilson.

On the fiftieth anniversary of Lincoln's second inauguration, Woodrow Wilson completes half his presidential term.

These two years of the Wilson administration have helped to make more history than any other two years since Lincoln. The coming two years of the Wilson administration must inevitably be the most momentous period that this country has known since the civil war.

It is a fact of enormous importance that this crisis finds in the White House a president who is completely master of himself. Being master of himself, he is master of his party and of his administration.

There is no kitchen cabinet. There are no backstairs advisers. There are no secret influences that pull and sway the policies of the executive. No underground wires run from the White House into Wall street, or into the headquarters of any political committee.

Men may agree with Mr. Wilson or disagree with him or they may dislike him; but everybody knows that he and he alone is president. Everybody knows that during the remaining two years of his term he, and he alone, will be president.

A very unusual man, meet to cope with a very unusual situation in the affairs of mankind—a president who, in all his official relations displays neither vanity nor resentment, nor anger nor personal ambition. If he has friends, their friendship counts for nothing in the affairs of state. If he has enemies, their enmity weighs nothing in the balance of government.

He seeks neither to reward the one nor to punish the other. So evenly does he hold the scales that the members of the diplomatic corps, with all their highly developed facilities for obtaining information, have never been able to learn where the president's personal sympathies lie in the great conflict that is now devastating Europe. Whatever his individual opinions may be he has smoothed them in the responsibilities of his office.

At this period in their first term most presidents have been carefully calculating their chances of re-nomination and re-election. Nobody knows whether Mr. Wilson intends to be a candidate for re-election or not. Not a member of the cabinet, not a member of congress, can say of his own knowledge that the president desires a re-election or that he would not refuse a re-nomination. What all of them know is that the president would not stoop from principle to win either a re-nomination or a re-election.

That is where his great strength lies. That is where his great usefulness lies in this crisis. It is easy to rattle the saber. It is easy to make the welkin ring. It is easy to be a demagogue. It is easy to juggle with the fate of a nation when no man can foresee what the next day will bring forth. But it is not easy to be calm and restrained and judicious. It is not easy to face every responsibility without prejudice and without passion. It is not easy to be straight to the line of first principles, regardless of applause or censure or praise or denunciation. It is not easy to be sure when the world has given itself over to madness.

The enormous good fortune of the people of the United States in the storm and stress of these coming years is that the chief magistrate is sane—the sanest mind to-day that is entrusted with the responsibilities of government anywhere in civilization.—New York World.
