ARE YOU DOING YOUR SHARE IN THE CLEAN-UP WORK?

This is the Week for the Job

We hope that the people of Statesboro have not fallen short in Governor Slaton's proclamation and health preserving suggestion regarding clean-up throughout the state. We note in many of the exchanges that there has been much interest aroused in the movement in many sections of the commonwealth, and if you haven't cleaned it's not too late yet.

Dr. A. J. Mooney who in his professional capacity fully realizes the old axiom of "an ounce of prevention being worth a pound of cure" has evolved a splendid and interesting scheme to awaken and promote action and obligation in the good work, by securing a fund that will be offered in prizes to the students of the Statesboro Institute who will procure the greatest number of pledges from the citizens that will agree to clean up their premises on or before a certain date.

Each one of Statesboro's progressive citizens who was approached on the subject at once subscribed making possible the prizes which Dr. Mooney has arranged for as cash. The pledges have been delivered to Prof. Meyer and the students are prepared to enter into the work heart and soul.

Now Mr. Citizen you may anticipate a visit from a school student solicitor who will register you yes, or no, on your idea of a clean bill of health and cleanliness for your home town.

The same plan will be operated in connection with the colored school to cover their residential section so that the city may have a general canvass from house to house. A copy of the pledge to be presented for signature is herewith produced together with a list of those who donated to the cause: Martin Bros., G. P. Lively, M. E. Grimes, J. L. Coleman, Brooks Simmons, E. C. Oliver, P. G. Franklin, W. J. Rackley, A. J. Mooney, H. Booth, J. W. Williams, W. G. Raikes, Geo. Rawls, L. T. Denmark, F. F. Floyd, E. L. Smith, Paul Simmons, Statesboro News, Bulloch Times and D. R. Dekle.

CLEAN-UP WEEK.

Statesboro, Ga., April 15, 1915

I hereby agree to clean up my premises on April 15, 1915, the day set apart as CLEAN-UP DAY for Statesboro.

(Signed)

Residence

Only one pledge from a home. Open to pupils of Statesboro Institute.

Pledges, when procured, are to be turned over to Prof. H. D. Meyer, who will count and keep a record of same.

A STITCH IN TIME

Statesboro People Should not

Neglect Their Kidneys

No kidney ailments is unimportant. Don't overlook the slightest backache or urinary irregularity. Nature may be warning you of approaching dropsy, gravel or Bright's disease. Kidney disease is seldom fatal if treated in time, but neglect may pave the way. Don't neglect a lame or aching back another day. Don't ignore dizzy spells, irregular or discolored urine, headaches, weariness or depression. If you feel you need kidney help begin using the reliable, time-tried remedy, Doan's Kidney Pills. For 30 years, Doan's Pills have been endorsed by Statesboro people.

Mrs. G. H. Mock, 48 N. Main St., Statesboro, says: "Whenever my back gives out and I am feeling run down from kidney trouble, I use Doan's Kidney Pills and the results. My work is made easier after using this medicine. Another of the family has used Doan's Kidney Pills with fine results. We can recommend them highly."

Price 50c at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mrs. Mock had. Foster-McLure Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y.—Adv.

DIED WITHOUT RELATIVES TO MOURN

George P. Murphy Suffers Fatal Stroke of Paralysis At Statesboro Sanitarium

George P. Murphy who was a patient at the Statesboro Sanitarium died suddenly last Saturday at 9 o'clock p. m. from a stroke of paralysis. The remains were buried Sunday in Eastside cemetery.

Mr. Murphy was supposed to have had relatives living in Augusta or in that vicinity but the local authorities were unable to get in communication with them up to the time of the funeral services. Should this notice reach friends or relatives if they will correspond with Mr. W. H. Canoles, Statesboro, Ga., he will be able to give all information regarding Mr. Murphy's illness and death. If Augusta papers will copy it will be appreciated.

TO THE PUBLIC—For good and sufficient reasons the firm of Durand & Lane was by the mutual consent of the parties on April 2nd 1915 dissolved. The undersigned will be glad to continue serving his patients at his present office over the Variety Store. Julian C. Lane.

IS WORLD'S RAREST PLANT

This is the Silversword, Which Grows in Profusion on Hawaiian Volcano Slopes.

The rarest plant in the world grows in Hawaii, a fact which is unknown to all but very few of the thousands of tourists annually visiting the paradise of the Pacific. It is the silversword. Its very name is odd and unusual, and among the curiosity and the interest of the stranger who chances to hear it. It is a caustic growth, the long, silky, gray leaves of which give it its peculiar name. The reason for its rarity is that it is found only on the most inaccessible slopes of the volcanoes of this group of islands.

From the earliest times it has been appreciated and greatly admired by the native Hawaiians, who called it "ahinahina" (gray-headed), because they had never before the coming of the white man, seen silver, and therefore could not apply to the plant the common name which so well describes it. All who have found it prize it most highly, and the Alpine climbers treasure the edelweiss; it is far more beautiful a thing and more difficult to obtain than the famous flower of Switzerland.

Catamount Robt. Farmer, Adam Stiermer, an Augustaville, Northumberland county (Pa.) farmer, had an experience with a huge catamount that almost turned his hair gray. He was driving to the Sunbury markets with a load of produce, and was passing through dense woods when he felt a heavy body land on his wagon, followed by spitting and "meowing" that were hideous.

Looking back, he saw two big balls of fire, the eyes of the largest catamount he had ever seen. It was pawing at the canvas cover he had over his load. With a revolver, the frightened farmer fired twice. At the discharge of the weapon the cat jumped and escaped in the darkness. When he arrived at the market two fat dressed chickens were missing.

To feel strong, have good appetite and digestion, sleep soundly and enjoy life, use Burdock's Blood Bitters, the family system tonic. Price $1.00.—Adv.

High School Notes

Lets all go to Millen! The High School District Meet will be held in Millen Friday and Saturday April 9th and 10th. Special train leaves here at 8:05 Saturday morning. Children twelve years and under, fifty cents round trip; over twelve, one dollar. Be sure and purchase some colors, blue and white.

The contestants will go over Friday afternoon. They have been working hard and we hope to bring home some medals. The base ball team will make a trip to Mount Vernon next week. They will play a game with the Benton Parker Institute. The team has been playing good ball and things look bright for a successful journey in every way.

We have invited and received the acceptance of Representative Burwell from south Georgia to deliver the Literary address commencement night. Statesboro feels proud of this and we are looking forward to a big night. The eighth grade are putting up a tennis court on the campus. Nothing is better than a good close set of tennis.

Many thanks to the Civic League for their generous donation to the Base Ball Club. We appreciate it ladies, and invite you down to see us play in our new suits.

Clean-up week is proving a great success for the school building. We didn't know she was so dirty. Every window has been washed—spider webs and dirt removed—dusk cleaned—floors scrubbed—a great transformation has taken place. We hope to keep it this way permanently.

The children are taking an active interest in clean-up week in town too. The contest for clean up is on and a merry race is expected. Work hard and the prize will be yours.

WILL SET 30,000 TOBACCO PLANTS

Diversification Will be the Slogan of Mr. H. M. Robertson, a Bulloch County Farmer

Nine hundred acres of as pretty farm land as one would care to look upon was the very great pleasure of the "NEWS" man one day last week during a trip to Brooklet where Mr. H. M. Robertson has such a stretch of land about one and one-half miles below that prosperous little city.

"So you want to know what I am doing on diversification do you said Mr. Robertson." "That's the object of the trip" said the NEWS man and straight away Mr. Robertson went into the subject.

"Well to begin with you see we have been trying to follow Governor Slaton's advice and clean-up. We've got a place for everything and we've been trying this week to get everything in its place, in other words we have hung up the 'Motto' sign of system, and all who are connected with the farm is doing his level best to live up to it.

"I will have about thirty acres of sea island cotton and about one hundred acres in short staple. I am giving mighty close study to this diversification argument for this year and I believe that Georgia is on the eve of a general transformation of her farming industry. I am just now becoming a student of alfalfa culture and am convinced thus far that bullock will eventually produce an abundance of this animal food about I will not try this year.

"The cattle industry is also receiving my earnest thoughts and I hope to develop plans that will permit my entering into this phase of my farming interest in the near future. Animal husbandry is one of the deficiencies of our Georgia farmers and I hope to see it become of more general interest especially in our immediate section. I note that the Agricultural Department of the Central of Georgia Railway are planning to place some cattle on their test farms and I shall keep closely in touch with the development of this latest industry of the test farm as applied by that road."

"Just come out here and take a look at my tobacco plants; right now this is having my undivided attention; you see I have gone in to this feature of diversification in a substantial manner, having built my seed beds with an idea of permanency in this line. I am using N. Carolina seed and will as you observe have fully fifty thousand plants ready to set next week. I shall set about thirty thousand in my own land and will distribute the remainder of what I have among my neighbor's gratis with the hope that the industry may have a fair trial in Bulloch this season. I firmly believe that it can be developed to one of the most profitable lines of diversified farming.

"While we are talking 'Diversification' I'm pretty sure I've got some valuable celery soil right along the slope of the ground for quite some distance following that marsh section. It is fine black loam just such as is found in some parts of Pennsylvania where celery growing has become such a vast industry. I will soon give it a trial. We've got land for it in South East Georgia, and we have the market for it in our own state that now depends upon Florida and Michigan for its supply and I hope to see this feature of vegetation worked out as thoroughly as I am doing the tobacco growing."

"You know if we can successfully grow and cure tobacco here, there is no reason why we can't have the factories right in our neighborhood to work it up for market. Now there's a proposition for that Business Men's Club or the Chamber of Commerce I've been reading about in your paper, and as you said 'It's a Good Thing Push it Along'."

"Well I will be glad to have you keep an eye on the progress I am making in diversification. Perhaps I may become sort of an agricultural teacher on the subject; it may be costly experience and it may be profitable; at any rate it must be tried out."

EDITOR W. R. NELSON, OF KANSAS CITY, DEAD

Kansas City, Mo., April 13.—William Rockhill Nelson, editor and owner of the Kansas City Star, died at his home here early today. Mr. Nelson who was 74 years old, had been in ill health several months and had been confined to his home since December. Uraemic poisoning caused his death, according to physicians.

Mr. Nelson's last conference with his associates took place in his bed-room the day before he became unconscious. It pertained to the necessity of keeping up the fight for honest elections.

"That is fundamental for democratic government," he said. "I may not be here to see the fight won, but the Star will fight on with all its resources until the present rotten system is broken order that reliable information be."

THE S. & S. RAILWAY MAKING MANY IMPROVEMENTS

Preparing for a Bumper 1915 Crop Along Its Line.

Sup't. S. T. Grimshaw and Commercial Agt. D. F. Brady are from their feet up optimists and have no time for war talk or business depression. A trip down the S. & S. a few days ago in company with these officials fully demonstrated their belief in a most prosperous future for Bulloch county.

Many improvements are being made in their track and warehouse facilities along the entire system, in anticipation of handling a tremendous crop this summer and fall. A very general sentiment is expressed that this section will experience one of the most successful crop years in its history and of a varied character heretofore nurtured.

Sup't. Grimshaw has advanced some valuable suggestions to the land and timber owners at points along his route where material for a box and crate industry may be obtained in abundance which now in many instances is being burned ruthlessly and recklessly.

The box and crate industry will be long before a requisite of the factory and diversified farming development of this community, and with such a condition soon to obtain, data is being collected and compiled relating to the subject in order that reliable information be."

WHAT ELECTRICITY WILL DO

If You Have Electric Lighting Service in the Home You Can Have All These Electrical Conveniences.

Every day, seemingly, we read of some new application of electricity in the home. The number of household tasks turned over to electricity in the past years is astonishing. An engineer of the General Electric Company has prepared the following list of household applications of electricity which is truly astonishing: Furnish illumination for the house.

Heat water for shaving, or for the bath.

Percolate the breakfast coffee. Toast bread.

Fry eggs or anything that will fry.

Operate the sewing machine. Iron the clothes.

Make the tea in a samovar. Cook food in a chafin dish. Curl a woman's hair.

Heat the bath room. Heat the bath room. Heat the bath room.

STATSBORO TO BE TERMINUS OF EAST GA. RY.

R. and G. Acquired; Organization Meeting next Month

(From the Savannah Press.)

While the organization meeting of the East Georgia Railway, composed of interests which recently acquired the Register & Glennville Railway, will be held in Savannah sometime next month, considerable uncertainty seems to center about the future of the little system.

It is said upon excellent authority the establishment of the former Perkins property on a sound financial basis will signalize the abandonment of the Register and the East Georgia Railway, as it is in future to be known, will terminate at Statesboro, where connections can be had with the Central of Georgia. This arrangement, it is said by railroad authorities, will give the former R. & G. the advantage of an additional seventeen mile haul.

Others identified with the system has for two years been in the hands of Messrs. W. V. Davis, William B. Stillwell, and George W. Tiedeman, as receivers under orders of the courts, and who are included in the list of persons recently applying for incorporation in the courts of Tattnall county, says the change of ownership is merely a clean cut business move to get the railroad again in a healthy condition and that the road will in future be operated from Register to Glennville.

Advailve to Glennville a distance of thirty miles, however, and it seems to be generally understood ten miles of the right of way from Advailve to Register will be carried on a lease plan and not as a unit of the East Georgia Railway.

Those who will take part in the organization meeting next month in Savannah and whose names appear upon the application for charter are: Messrs. Henry P. Talmadge, of New York; William B. Stillwell, J. K. Melver, J. G. Baldwin, J. F. Innis, T. M. Cunningham, Jr., W. W. Mackall, Leopold Adler, and Edwin Leffer.

The capitalization of the East Georgia will be $212,000. Of this $100,000 is to be common stock, $62,500 first preferred and $50,000 second preferred stock.

The change said to have been practically agreed upon which will make Statesboro the terminus of the railway is the fact it is tremendously expensive to maintain the roadbed between Advailve and Register, while to the contrary the right of way to Statesboro will traverse the well known "Sink Hole" district, which is conceded to be one of the roughest sections of old Bulloch.

A PROMINENT GEORGIA CITIZ

PEOPLE TO RULE IN ELECTIONS NOW

Change Constitutional Idea of Selecting a President.

ELECTORS TOOL OF VOTERS

Direct System to Be Further Extended.
Wilson Committed to Rule by the Majority—Navy Men Change Attitude and Now Praise Daniels For His Prohibition Order.

By ARTHUR W. DUNN.

Washington, April 13.—(Special.)—The constitution—if it is worth while to refer to that ancient document—makes the election of a president much of a state affair. The states select the electors in such manner as they deem fit. These electors choose the president and vice president. It was a mighty com- plexion of the chief magistrate away from the mob, or at least that was the intention. Looking at the matter from the con- stitutional viewpoint, one is compelled to ask, What in the name of the fe- deral government is the purpose of the chief magistrate away from the mob, or at least that was the intention. Well, after a hard fight covering many years and most astonishing experiences the law was enacted whereby a married mother in New York state was permitted to share the guardianship of her children with the father.

People Now Elect.

But the people now elect their pres- ident. Long ago they took the election out of the hands of the electors or the select few. The so-called "mob" took control when the national conven- tion idea began. The men of a polit- ical party named a candidate. If he was the choice of the people the state electors perfectly chose him. They couldn't do anything else—that is, they wouldn't dare do anything else. And so the liberal idea now tends toward presidential primaries to nominate a president. Mr. Wilson is deeply com- mitted to the plan, and many people believe that it will be effective in preventing the manipulation of con- ventions and the selection of candi- dates who were not the first choice for president.

There is a great deal of detail in the plans suggested, such as adding first and second choice votes together, so as to insure the nomination of a man who would not be a minority candidate.

Shifting Their Position.

When Secretary Daniels first issued his order prohibiting the use of liquor on ships of the navy and on naval reservations there was a great deal of criticism among navy officers. Most of them objected on the ground that there was an intimation that the navy was composed of drinkers who could not attend to their duties, and it was re- spected. Gradually the intimation was dropped. The secretary and found that he did not mean to be offensive to them, but that he really believed it for the best interests of the navy. And what is quite strange, many officers have shifted their position and say Daniels was right.

Suppose It Was Tried.

I have heard several prominent mem- bers of the senate and house discuss the distribution of patronage as a great evil and say they would like to get rid of it. But suppose they should intro- duce and push a bill making it a crime for a congressman to urge appoint- ments on the executive departments. How far would they get? There may be a great many men who find their- selves in patronage rather disagreeable, but they would not give it up. The old time politicians still believe that they retain their hold by having the power of appointments, and they will never give up to deprive themselves of the power of controlling patronage.

Pure Fabric Bill.

A man named Lindquist was elected to congress in 1912 upon mail order cor- respondence and the promise that he would put through a pure fabric and pure leather bill. He spent two years in the house, but no such legislation was passed. Lindquist evidently learned that many men had tried to pass such a measure, notably General Gre- gory of Ohio, when he was one of the first five men in the house. It would be interesting to know Lind- quist's real idea concerning his bill.

Dwight to Weeke.

John W. Dwight, former congress- man from New York, was once a resi- dent of Dakota territory, and either there or somewhere—perhaps in his as- sociation with Uncle Joe Cannon—he learned poker terms. He met Senator Weeks a short time ago and said:

"John, when they began dealing the cards you had a pair of deuces, and I told you to hold on to them. Now your deuces have become aces, and you have a chance at the big pot. Keep holding them, and maybe you'll have 'em all best at the showdown."

Blackburn on Exercise.

Joe Blackburn, once a member of the house, afterward senator from Ken- tucky, then an illustrious canal commis- sioner and now the Illinois mem- ber, goes directly in the face of the exercise faddists. "There was Senator Evans of New York, old, with- ered, yellow, but with his faculties un- impaired at a very great age," he said. "To what do you attribute your long life? I asked him. 'To the fact that I never took any exercise,' was his re- sponse."

Antagonism to Wo- man Suffrage a Relic of the Past Ages

By Mrs. C. H. P. BELMONT, President Political Equality Association

THE protest against woman suf- frage bears all the earmarks of the dark ages. A recent pronouncement by a New York newspaper furnishes one after another reminders of the platitudes employed as arguments by the reactionary press when the women of New York audaciously asked for the legal right to a share in the children whom they had brought into the world, in their own property, their earnings, their clothes, the granting of which, according to the opposition, there was a presidential primary to do with a presidential election? Why make it an open poll when it was plain that the fathers meant that such should never occur?

People Now Elect.

But the people now elect their pres- ident. Long ago they took the election out of the hands of the electors or the select few. The so-called "mob" took control when the national conven- tion idea began. The men of a polit- ical party named a candidate. If he was the choice of the people the state electors perfectly chose him. They couldn't do anything else—that is, they wouldn't dare do anything else. And so the liberal idea now tends toward presidential primaries to nominate a president. Mr. Wilson is deeply com- mitted to the plan, and many people believe that it will be effective in preventing the manipulation of con- ventions and the selection of candi- dates who were not the first choice for president.

There is a great deal of detail in the plans suggested, such as adding first and second choice votes together, so as to insure the nomination of a man who would not be a minority candidate.

Shifting Their Position.

When Secretary Daniels first issued his order prohibiting the use of liquor on ships of the navy and on naval reservations there was a great deal of criticism among navy officers. Most of them objected on the ground that there was an intimation that the navy was composed of drinkers who could not attend to their duties, and it was re- spected. Gradually the intimation was dropped. The secretary and found that he did not mean to be offensive to them, but that he really believed it for the best interests of the navy. And what is quite strange, many officers have shifted their position and say Daniels was right.

Suppose It Was Tried.

I have heard several prominent mem- bers of the senate and house discuss the distribution of patronage as a great evil and say they would like to get rid of it. But suppose they should intro- duce and push a bill making it a crime for a congressman to urge appoint- ments on the executive departments. How far would they get? There may be a great many men who find their- selves in patronage rather disagreeable, but they would not give it up. The old time politicians still believe that they retain their hold by having the power of appointments, and they will never give up to deprive themselves of the power of controlling patronage.

Pure Fabric Bill.

A man named Lindquist was elected to congress in 1912 upon mail order cor- respondence and the promise that he would put through a pure fabric and pure leather bill. He spent two years in the house, but no such legislation was passed. Lindquist evidently learned that many men had tried to pass such a measure, notably General Gre- gory of Ohio, when he was one of the first five men in the house. It would be interesting to know Lind- quist's real idea concerning his bill.

Dwight to Weeke.

John W. Dwight, former congress- man from New York, was once a resi- dent of Dakota territory, and either there or somewhere—perhaps in his as- sociation with Uncle Joe Cannon—he learned poker terms. He met Senator Weeks a short time ago and said:

"John, when they began dealing the cards you had a pair of deuces, and I told you to hold on to them. Now your deuces have become aces, and you have a chance at the big pot. Keep holding them, and maybe you'll have 'em all best at the showdown."

Blackburn on Exercise.

Joe Blackburn, once a member of the house, afterward senator from Ken- tucky, then an illustrious canal commis- sioner and now the Illinois mem- ber, goes directly in the face of the exercise faddists. "There was Senator Evans of New York, old, with- ered, yellow, but with his faculties un- impaired at a very great age," he said. "To what do you attribute your long life? I asked him. 'To the fact that I never took any exercise,' was his re- sponse."

THE ONLY PLACE OF ESCAPE.

General Pryor Says He Saw the First Shot

Tells How He Was Offered Chance to Fire It at Fort Sumpter and Refused

Roger A. Pryor who was offered the opportunity of firing the first shot in the Civil war and refused that "immortality," now lives in New York city, a hale and active citizen, although 87 years of age. He recounts in an interview in the Evening Post some of his vivid recollections of that first incident of the struggle whose ending was appomattox.

Judge Pryor, who was born in Virginia in 1828, was member in turn of the United States Congress and Confederate Congress, General in the Confederate army and captured as a spy and saved from death only through the intervention of Lincoln.

Judge Pryor's first words when asked to describe the Sumpter incident were: Infandum, regina, jubes, reuocare dolorem." After a momentary pause he continued:

"Only seven states—the cotton states so-called—had seceded and the convention in Virginia had voted three times not to secede, each time with increased majority. Jefferson Davis did not want to have Virginia secede. But my political mentors were Senators Hunter and Mason, and they wanted secession. They knew that if a blow was struck Virginia would secede and they sent me down to Charleston.

"I was young and hot-headed and had a little bit of gab. My mission was 'orated'—as the negroes used to say—all over the South, and the first night I ar- rived in Charleston I made a speech from the veranda of the Mills Hotel. It was a beautiful night, clear and warm, and the people of the city and the soldiers from the South who were investing, Fort Sumpter were there to hear me.

"I delivered a speech which was about as foolish as you can ima- gine, and urged them to strike a blow. If they did, I said that within a half an hour by Shreve- port clock Virginia would secede. Well, the enthusiasm of the peo- ple was so great that Beauregard telegraphed Mr. Davis that he could not resist the pressure. Whereupon Mr. Davis wired him to do what he thought best.

"Beauregard appointed me on his staff with the academic title of colonel and sent me with two gentlemen by the name of Chest- nut and Miles and one or two others to demand from Major Anderson the surrender of Sumpter. He very courteously but firmly declined to do so. Our instruc- tions were that in such a case we should fire directly over to Fort Johnston and give orders to fire on Sumpter.

"Well, we went and they made me spokesman. We delivered the order to fire to Capt. James, who was in command. Thereupon he embraced me, literally—kissed me on both cheeks and hugged me. He said that he had heard my speech and that I should fire the first shot and be immortalized.

It suddenly flashed upon me that there were two kinds of im- mortals and I resolved not to do it. He was insistent. While we were parleying Mr. Edmund Ruffin came up. He was a distinguished Vir- ginian about 60 years old who had renounced his allegiance to his state when he refused to secede, and had come down and joined the soldiers at Charleston as a mere private.

"As soon as I saw him I told Capt. James that this was the man entitled to the honor and rapidly recited Mr. Ruffin's history so that Capt. James could not help as- signing the honor to him. So that was agreed, and we left in the small boat. As we were leaving I saw that Ruffin had the lanyard in his hand, and soon after we put off from the fort we saw the shell arch over us and land on Fort Sumpter.

Of course, just as I foretold, Virginia did immediately secede and Mr. Ruffin returned to his state and renewed his allegiance. He went to his place in Amelia coun- ty, and it was there that he heard of the surrender at Appomattox four years later. When he got the news he wrote a note saying that he could not live with Virginia conquered, took a double-barreled shot gun and blew his brains out. He fired the first and last shot—Cato-like, he proved himself a martyr to what he thought was right."

Pretty Thin.
"My dear," said a thin little Bright- ton man to his wife, "this paper says that there is a woman down in Devon- shire who goes out and chops wood with her husband."
"Well, what of it? I think she could easily do it if he is as thin as you are. I have often thought of using you to peel potatoes with."

Out of Line.
An enlisted man at the post at Fort Leavenworth was ordered to the range for the first time for target drill. Out of twenty-one chances the newcomer made never a hit.
"Oh, you duff," exclaimed an officer standing near. "You've missed the target every time. What's the mat- ter?"
"Well, sir," answered the recruit nonchalantly, "the only reason I can think of at present is that the person who set up my target hasn't placed it in a straight line from here."

About Georgia and Georgians

Items of Interest Concerning
People and Things in the State

Atlanta, Ga., April 14.—Some remarkable and interesting facts came to light in the celebration of the twenty-fifth anniversary of the Fourth National Bank of At- lanta which for a quarter of a century has been intimately iden- tified with the commercial life of the commonwealth.

The first president of the bank, Captain J. W. English, is still actively at its head after a quarter of a century of service. The vice president, John Otley, has been with the bank ever since its or- ganization, and so have many of the board of directors. Charles I. Ryan, Cashier and vice presi- dent, has not only been with the Fourth National Bank since or- ganization, but was the first man ever employed by the Bank, whose stock the Fourth National took over.

Atlanta, Ga., April 13.—Rep- resentative men from all parts of Georgia and the south, garbed from head to foot in cotton, in- cluding cotton shoes and cotton hats, will attend the next con- vention of the Southern Textile association at Asheville in June 25 and 26.

The idea originated with L. L. Arnold, editor of "Cotton," the well known publication, who ap- peared at the Augusta "Use More Cotton Exhibit," in clothes, hats, shoes and underwear all cotton. The idea caught on like wildfire and will be carried out as stated. Among those who have already arranged for their all cot- ton costumes is A. B. Carter, sec- retary of the Textile Association. It is composed of the superinten- dent and vice-presidents of the south- ern mills. Ladies will also attend in cotton gowns, and prizes will be given for the most original costumes.

Atlanta, Ga., April 13.—The Rev. T. L. Robinson of Bark Camp district, a well known Georgia preacher, has the unique distinction of having preached 1,400 funerals. During the twenty- eight years of his active ministry he has officiated at an average of 50 funerals per year. At the same time he has been active in his pas- torate and has also kept up his farming. At the age of sixty-one he is vigorous and well preserved, and says he is looking forward to at least another twenty years of useful service in the vineyard of the Lord.

Atlanta, Ga., April 14.—Sen- ator Hoke Smith's lifetime love of the farm has caused him to make plans to lead the simple life this summer on his farm in DeKalb county. He proposes to take a complete rest in the country after the arduous activities of the winter in Washington.

He returns this week to the national capital for a short time, but will return to Georgia about May to remain until October when he will be called back by im- portant work in Washington.

The senators present plan is either to build a home on his De- Kalb county farm, or leave a resi- dence in rural surroundings near the town of Decatur in that county.

Atlanta, Ga., April 13.—Gov- ernor-elect H. Harris who has recently returned to Georgia from a business trip in the north, was extensively interviewed and quoted on southern conditions during his stay in New York and Wash- ington. He told the New York newspapers that economic condi- tions in Georgia had never been better than last summer before the war broke out, and that the difficulties which had resulted from the war had shown the ab- solute necessity of making the state self-sufficient on an agri- cultural standpoint, so that it could raise its own food crops, and use its cotton as a clear money crop. He added that the Georgi- ans were in a way accomplishing this and that the hard times incident to the first part of the war came to Georgia as a blessing in disguise.

In Washington Governor Harris was entertained by Hon. W. J. Harris, of Georgia, former direc- tor of the U. S. Census, and now a member of the federal reserve board. Senator Harris intro- duced the governor to cabinet members, trade commissioners, and other prominent government officials, and took him and Mrs. Harris for a call on President Wilson. Senator Harris says that Governor-elect Harris made a splendid impression on the president and that the visit was much enjoyed. Senator Harris has been one of the most prominent figures in Washington since the beginning of the democratic ad- ministration.

Atlanta, Ga., April 13.—The home products and home indus- try movement in Georgia got a big boost at the recent Rotary club luncheon when Gov. John M. Slat- ton made a remarkable speech dealing with the rich and manifold products of Georgia counties. He brought with him a map of Georgia drawn by Ava Wheeler, a ten- year-old Chattanooga county girl, showing pictures in each county of the products of that county. The governor points out that Geor- gia has every variety of climate in the United States excepting only Alaska and that she is able to produce within her borders almost everything that can grow any- where on the American continent. From an economic standpoint the speech was regarded as one of the most interesting he has ever made, and it has been widely and favor- ably commented upon.

Mr. Albert Edlich, of Savannah, was chosen to succeed himself as Sec'y of Georgia Protective Asso- ciation at their annual convention in Atlanta last week. Mr. Edlich is a very popular Savannah man who has done much for his or- ganization in his official capacity and his re-election by a uni- form rising vote was a well mer- ited compliment.

One way to relieve habitual con- stipation is to take regularly a mild laxative. Doan's Regulets are recommended for this purpose. 25c at all drug stores.—Adv.

GRAVE PERIL TO ALFALFA.

Weevil From Europe Threatens Crop. Close Watch Advised.
Alfalfa growers everywhere should be on the lookout for the alfalfa weevil, which was introduced into Utah several years ago from Europe and is doing much damage there and has spread over into Idaho.

There is no reason to doubt that it would spread and multiply in the states farther east if it were once in- troduced.

This is an impending calamity to the whole country. By keeping watch we may be able to call its appearance to the attention of our experiment sta- tions and the United States depart- ment of agriculture which war may be waged on the pest in time.

The alfalfa weevil is a small beetle about the size of a grain of wheat. The mature bugs eat holes in the alfalfa leaves and lay eggs in the holes. The eggs are of a lemon yellow color. They hatch out into grubs which are greenish in color, with a white line along the back, and of course are rather small, being the off- spring of a beetle no larger than a small grub.

The grubs feed on the alfalfa leaves and sometimes destroy them com- pletely.

No more serious danger confronts the agriculture of the country than is found in the possibility of the spread of this little bug into the states east of the Rocky mountains. It is the only insect pest of alfalfa plants for the little holes close to a grub. If they are made by a little grub and one specimen to the entomologist at your experiment station and another to the bureau of plant industry at Wash- ington, and write a letter to go with each specimen, telling the story of your find.

Professor Gillette of the Colorado station advises farmers not to receive shipments of bulky merchandise like potatoes, fruit or nursery stock from those regions of Utah or Idaho where this insect occurs, unless the goods have been thoroughly disinfected. It would seem the apt of wisdom for the government to adopt preventive mea- sures.

Alfalfa For Hogs.
There is really a more profitable pasture for hogs than alfalfa. It should not be stocked too heavily in pastur- ing, the surplus growth being mowed whenever it needs it. Good hay re- sults from that portion which the hogs do not eat, and the new that comes up is fresh and well liked by the hogs. It is not moved waste as apt to eat it in patches, killing partly altogether.

Weight of Peking Ducks.
Peking ducks should weigh more than five pounds. The standard weight of the duck is seven pounds and that of the drake eight. They are creamy white, with bright orange colored beaks and legs. A well bred, well cared for Peking duckling should weigh five pounds at ten weeks of age.

THE PROFITABLE CAPON.
The best capons are hatched in early spring and operated upon during early summer, before extremely hot weather begins, says the Country Gentleman. The birds are then ready for market during and after the holiday season. Cookers of any breed can be made to increase in weight by being caponed. The larger breeds will permit much greater gains and are therefore more desirable. For the production of capons on the farm the Plymouth Rocks are among the best fowls to keep, since the females lay a large number of eggs and all surplus cockers are castrated.

For the year and July are the best months for the work, because spring hatching chicks reach proper size then and also because birds caponed at this time ar- rive at the proper age and weight for marketing at the season when there is the greatest demand and the best prices prevail.

Highway Commission and Earth Road.
In some of the states, particularly those in the Mississippi valley, the state highway commissions are render- ing valuable aid in the improvement of earth roads. These commissions pre- pare addresses and issue bulletins on road subjects, and some of them have officials who give at least a part of their time to the earth roads. Of these commissions perhaps that of Iowa is doing more for earth roads than that of any other state.

Advocates Brick Roads.
Initial Cost Comparatively Heavy, but Maintenance Much Less.
W. O. Griffith, editor of the Monthly Bulletin of the Automobile Club of Philadelphia, has studied the results of road building of various kinds in different states and concludes that brick roads are far superior for mixed heavy traffic, including horses and motor- trucks, as well as pleasure cars.

Cut stone, or Belgian blocks, and brick are both too noisy for use in cities, where motor blocks are the most efficient. For building roads in the country, cut stone is too expensive, and where there is heavy traffic the cost of maintenance of macadam roads is also too expensive. Mr. Griffith ad- vocates the use of brick on all well traveled roads as real economy. The initial cost of laying down good macadam road varies from $8,000 to $12,000 per mile, and brick road varies from $12,000 to $15,000 per mile. The maintenance cost of macadam road, however, is approximately $1,000 per mile per year, while for brick it is estimated at $75 per mile per year—in- fact, New Jersey has spent $1,500 per mile per year for brick roads.

The first step in road construction, Mr. Griffith says, "is that of the cost of maintenance. New York has spent $100,000 for brick roads, payments since 1908, and the experience of road- men in New York in the vicinity of Rochester and Buffalo is that for the same cost, brick roads are far more durable than macadam roads. Brick roads are heavy, but they are the only possible road to use, although its first cost is high. They find that for high speed automobile roads, bituminous macadam is a good grade, such as coated stone, have been found satis- factory. However, on such roads where heavy traffic becomes heavy, or at curves, automobile cost immedi- ately increases rapidly, while the same does not appear to be the case with brick roads under similar conditions."

GOOD ROADS MOVEMENT.
Remarkable Progress Made In United States During Recent Years.
That remarkable progress has been made in the building of good roads throughout the United States during the past few years is proved by data recently published in the official Good Roads Year Book for 1915. It has been found that more than 34,000 miles of surfaced roads have been constructed during 1915 and 1914 and that during the ten year period from 1904 to 1914 more than 240,000 miles have been com- pleted. That this progress has been really amazing may be understood from the fact that in 1904 there were only 12,000 miles of surfaced roads of all types in the United States. That the movement is attaining momentum as it goes is proved by the fact that while the average mileage constructed per annum during the past ten years is 30,000 miles, the total completed for 1914 exceeded 18,000 miles. The report shows that some like 20,000 miles of highway have been completed with the aid of state funds, of which over $20,000,000 have been expended. The state aid road began in 1902 and has therefore continued for twenty- two years. Only recently has it not well under way, as the results accom- plished for 1913 and 1914 compare a total of 19,000 miles of state aid high- ways completed, or in two years' time one-third of the entire mileage con- structed with the aid of state funds has been completed.

Only six states now out of a total of forty-eight are without state highway funds, and thirty states have ap- propriated money aid to the build- ing of roads.

THURSDAY, APRIL 15, 1915.

The 1915 scrap is on for the Tigers, Cubs, Pirates, Indians, Senators, Giants, Sea Gulls, The Braves, and the Rooters.

The Macon News says that no body knows how to eat an artichoke. Its no art to choke on an artichoke but it's an art to eat an artichoke without choking on an artichoke.

The Germans are kicking again about our neutrality in food stuff and gunnions of war. Funny how these small boys will kick over a little "bread and lasses" and pop guns.

Savannah's committee on "clean-up" was not satisfied with the results obtained in the campaign. Perhaps some of the wash water got mixed with the red liquid they have down there and stained the floor.

The British Government has issued another "White Paper" concerning the treatment of British prisoners in Germany. What's the use of any more verigated papers relating to the war? They're all color blind over there as it is.

Mayor Donn M. Roberts, of Terre Haute, Indiana, convicted in the Federal courts of conspiracy to defraud in the 1914 elections has been sentenced to serve six years in Leavenworth prison and pay a fine of $2000. Nineteen other county and city officials received sentences of from one to five years and fines from $100 to $1000. The chief of police who pleaded guilty to conspiracy in dictment was sentenced to a year and a day and fined one dollar. Surely some pretty costly political plunder this.

DON'T BE A GLOOM.

"Gloom" is darkness; obscurity; melancholy; depression; sadness. Now this is not for anything of that sort; we're not in partial darkness; we're not in obscurity; quite to the contrary this good old ship America is very much in evidence on the world sea. There's no occasion for melancholia, depression or sadness. We are at peace with mankind, and we're living in the greatest country of the universe.

Spring is upon us bringing all the joys of young and blooming vegetation that will enrich our pockets; our health and happiness. The soil tilters have a most prosperous future prognosticated for the entire breadth of the land; and here especially in the southland do we note an optimistic tone for a general business uplift.

The report of the United States Treasury Department last week was most gratifying, and when your Uncle Samuel's clerk of finance says business is on the mend it is pretty nearly a guarantee.

Scientists every day are inventing so many wonderful inventions following one another so rapidly that we fail to instantly grasp the marvelous advancement that is being made in the interest of humanity.

Don't sit still in your boat or rock your boat or let your boat drift; just get those two oars in motion and pull hard, steady and long for some definite shore and you will finally land in the garden of plenty. Above all your ailments, your pessimistic views, the reverses that come as an incentive to greater and grander things, just DON'T BE A GLOOM.

ANONYMOUS LETTERS.

It is quite commonly understood that an unsigned letter addressed to a newspaper will very seldom receive attention other than consignment to the trash heap or waste basket; and under ordinary circumstances the News would apply the same treatment to such a communication. During the past week our mail contained an anonymous communication addressed to the (New Editor of the News) questioning our sincerity of purpose in advancing the subject of clean-up, and our efforts to awaken an interest in a Business Men's Club or Chamber of Commerce styling it a game of "Hot Air" and that it wouldn't be swallowed by Statesboro citizens. This reflection is however of little moment to us; we are practicing what we have preached and that's proof enough of our sincerity.

That portion of this unsigned letter which has occasioned this article, is a contemptible and scurrilous reflection upon the nativity or nationality and religious affiliations of the editor of this paper. It is there is one thing in this world that can arouse the ire of the writer of this editorial, it is a reflection upon the blood of my Christian parents who have passed the fiftieth milestone and the golden anniversary of their wedded life, and now rapidly nearing that period of nature when they are to pass to another and we hope a more peaceful life beyond.

They have been good true Americans, whose ancestry were identified with the formation of this nation, and in the sunset of their lives it is my pride to feel that they may leave this world knowing they reared two sons who have been loyal and appreciative of our Christian parentage, which was on my mother's side of the Methodist association and my father Presbyterian; and when we boys reached the age of reasoning, we were told to select our religious affiliations; I, with a group of my school associates, joined in the building of a beautiful Episcopal church in the little country village, and there stands to-day in that church a pictorial stained glass window accredited to my boyhood efforts. But why this anonymous harangue about religious affiliation. That great Constitution of these United States of FREE SPEECH and FREE RELIGIOUS privileges quite covers that point of this American citizenry. FURTHERMORE, it matters not which denominational route one chooses; the end is the same. Ever think of it in that way? Christ will not judge upon sect affiliation, if we are to believe his words. Ye shall be judged as ye have lived.

It is also of little consequence whether our ancestors came to the new world with Miles Standish in 1620 and landed on the New England shores, or with Adriaen Blok, the Dutch Navigator who cruised around Manhattan Island in 1613, or with James Edward Oglethorpe who came and landed on the Georgia coast in 1733, or with Kazimeirz Pulaski, the Polish Jew who rendered valuable service to George Washington, and who fought for America, was mortally wounded in the siege of Savannah where a Fort bears his name and a Georgia county is honored with his name, and HE was a POLANDER.

It is an ancestry of that type though that this Van-Osten race, then the Van Norstrand, trace their lineage. On my father's side to the period of 1600 who were prominent in the political affairs of the new Netherlands and the settlement of Schenectady and New Amsterdam, N. Y. where from Burgomaster to Assembly they held office. On my mother's side we go to the time of Timothy Pickens prominent in the military life of the revolution of 1776, being the Quarter Master General for, and materially assisting Washington in his military affairs.

My own immediate ancestry hued their homes thru the forests of Ohio and were prominent in the "Toledo War." But pray tell, who of this cosmopolitan nation of ours does not trace their lineage to some of the old world nations? Ours, the Van Ostens, has been an honorable American lineage for three hundred years; suppose tho' it had been but three hundred DAYS and one had sworn allegiance to this American Flag and our Constitutional Government; he then is an AMERICAN. What further evidence of this do we need than was shown but a few short months ago when at the Brooklyn Navy Yard on a battle ship lay all that was mortal of a dozen or more men; Americans; some by adoption perhaps, but they had fought and died for this nation, and its president, Honorable Woodrow Wilson, stood with bared head and tearful eyes pronouncing eulogistic words over their remains. That is our true American spirit and the foundation upon which we have builded.

My friend (?) of the unsigned letter, Christianize yourself. Educate yourself. Hold no animosity against you. You are just one of those unfortunate beings that inhabit this earth, who can best be described as a small potato, in a small hill, grown without brain fertilizer, and oftentimes for humanity's sake, best left to decay by its own POLLUTION. I have only pity for your poor dwarfed mind and soul, yet personally hurt to find, in the community where I have elected to come and gladly, willingly, strive to do unto others as I would they would do unto me, one that would thrust a rapier in my back. How much more I could have honored you had you come to my face and spoken your opinion, just for argument opportunity, to demonstrate, ("The definition of which is, "to prove beyond the possibility of a doubt; teach by example;" the TRADITIONS OF MY ANCESTRY.

Savannah is going to have a May week Historical Festival; plans for the event have materialized, and funds have been subscribed guaranteeing the financial obligations. There is no reason why this section of the South cannot have an annual get-together celebration for its home folks, and one that is big enough to attract the attention of the country at large equally so as does New Orleans and Mobile Mardi Gras. Savannah is ideal for such a yearly event in May and all southeast Georgians should get behind this move and PUSH Savannahward to make this event a huge success. If Savannah can benefit from such an enterprise all the territory surrounding her must of necessity reap a share of the glory. Again, we say, BOOST for Savannah's Historical and May week celebration.

Scottish Profits.
"We have decided," said the head of a Glasgow firm, "to conduct our business in future on the profit sharing principle. We shall begin at once on the basis of last year's results."
"We are delighted," said the foreman, speaking for the men, "May we ask what were the last year's results?"
"We lost a thousand pounds," said the employer, "and, therefore, on the profit sharing principle, there will be a reduction of 10 per cent in your wages."—Dundee Advertiser.

TIME NOT RIPE FOR INTERVENTION

But Sooner or Later Army Must Be Sent to Mexico.

FOREIGN TROUBLES DELAY IT

Those Who Study Conditions in Border Republic Realize That Matters Are Rapidly Going From Bad to Worse—Administration Disappointed as Mission of Colonel House Fails.

By ARTHUR W. DUNN.
Washington, April 13.—[Special.]—Reports from Mexico indicate more and more the necessity for intervening in the case of humanity just as we intervened in Cuba. It seems that some time this intervention must take place.

It is believed by those who have been studying the conditions that the situation will grow worse instead of better. As the various factions become more desperate they will commit greater outrages not only upon foreigners, but upon their own people.

Even if the leaders were disposed to restrain their men they will be unable to do so when they want food and supplies. It seems inevitable that in time the number of factions will increase and there will be numerous banditry ravaging without any other motive than murder and pillage. In the name of humanity intervention will have to come when such a condition is reached.

Not a Propitious Time.
Even the most ardent advocate of intervention must see that there are reasons why intervention should not take place just at this time. As long as we are constantly having difficulties with the European belligerents and any of any time be called upon to defend our own neutrality in that war and with Japan opposite us in the Pacific it is no time to send all the available army into Mexico and have it tied up there. Mexico can wait while the more important conditions are watched by our government.

The Mission of Colonel House.
It has been a real disappointment to the administration that Colonel E. M. House has not been able to accomplish more during his mission in Europe. The president has great confidence in Colonel House, in fact he is the one man who seems to have closer relations with the president than all other men who visit the White House. It seems, however, that the warping nature of Europe were not ready to listen to any peace proposals House had to make.

Something like a year ago the Texas colonel was on a mission in Europe. That time he was looking about Paris for the president's peace plan. At that time Mr. F. McCombs could maintain a position as ambassador to France on the salary and the income he possessed. As McCombs did not take the place, it is presumed that House made an adverse report.

Gardner's Guests.
Congressman Gardner has gone into the light for increased military preparation in earnest. Gardner has always been a witty member of congress, but not spectacular, consequently when he gives a dinner to the army reserve it means that he has entered into the fight with all the earnestness of his nature. The army reserve is a joke, consisting of sixteen men, and Gardner has made the joke because he wants to show the kind of legislation we have had which in four or five years builds up a reserve of sixteen men.

Among the Forgotten.
Only a few years ago there was much talk about the Tourelle-Nelson bill, a measure designed to give country printers the opportunity of printing corner cards on stamped envelopes instead of turning the work over to one big concern by a postoffice contract. That bill lived for a time, died and has been forgotten. At one time congress was flooded with requests for its enactment, but it seems to have dropped entirely out of sight.

Brought Joy to Washington.
Washington was particularly pleased to see Jess Willard down Jack Johnson. Heretofore every time the colored champion defeated some other pugilist the colored people of the capital—and they are more demonstrative here than elsewhere—would become excited to an almost unbearable state. Talk about race prejudice and race pride! Why, there has never been anything which has made the colored population rejoice like the triumphs of the black man in the prize ring. The negroes of Washington are often arrogant, because here more than elsewhere they are accorded full citizenship rights, and they have always been particularly obnoxious when Johnson was exploiting himself.

Bird Preserves.
Before it was too late the country has become aroused to the necessity of preserving birds. The government has set apart seventy-four bird reserves in different parts of the country, but they are mostly in the west where there is no public domain. Men who have given this subject consideration say that it has become almost a necessity for public spirited citizens of the United States to make an effort to set apart tracts of land in the eastern states as bird preserves in order to prevent many species from becoming extinct.

PEACE ADVOCATES WANT AN EMBARGO

Oppose Shipment of Arms to Mexico and Europe.

MAY BE TURNED UPON US.

Agitation Recalls Vera Cruz Incident. When Our American Marines Were Killed With American Machine Guns Bryan Attitude Toward the One Term Plank Causes Speculation.

By ARTHUR W. DUNN.
Washington, April 14.—[Special.]—There is something in the demand that the shipment of arms and munitions of war to foreign countries be stopped. While this demand comes largely from the peace propagandists, the best reason is that the time may come when the arms and munitions will be turned against our own soldiers and sailors. It was rather pathetic to read the letter from Vera Cruz saying that our sailors and marines were killed and wounded with guns and ammunition made in this country.

Some of the military prophets declare that the winners in the great European conflict will give their attention to America next. Those military writers who tell thrilling stories of fierce conflicts in 1920 or farther along have generally had the United States going down beneath some military power. Under those conditions it would be sad to have our own guns and war materials used to end.

The Militarist View.
While the peace people want an embargo on arms, the militarists would not stop the manufacture of arms and materials, but have the government purchase them for future use as a part of useful military preparation. From all that is said on the subject it seems that the discussion of military preparedness has just begun and that it will continue in the next session of congress with more vigor than during the recent three months' session. The fact that Secretary Garrison will ask for an increase of the army is enough to cause a great deal of talk even if there is no action.

Will It Be McCombs?
For some reason it has not been expected that William F. McCombs would stop the Democratic party's campaign for re-election, but it appears on what is considered fairly good authority that the man who took hold of the Wilson campaign four years ago and made a success of it will again have charge.

In this same connection it is assumed that no one will attempt to run against Wilson in the Democratic party. All talk of giving any other man a complimentary vote is folio.

Bryan and the One Term Plank.
Every time that Bryan was a candidate for president he declared that he would be a one term president if elected; that he did not believe a preparation should hold office longer than one term. It was Bryan who wrote into the Democratic platform at Baltimore the one term plank. It will be interesting to note what Bryan does as soon as the campaign for Wilson's nomination and election begins. It has been asserted that he would leave the cabinet if such a violation of the one term plank was attempted; but the opinion of the best informed men is that he will make no such demonstration of hostility to his chief. It is more than probable that in case Wilson is re-elected Mr. Bryan will continue as secretary of state. Certainly that ought to be inferred from the confidence the president has shown in his principal cabinet officer.

Use the Land.
Two departments of the government are making an effort to have idle lands used. The agricultural department is doing what it can to have farms occupied, particularly those lands owned by people who have moved to the towns and cities and allowed the lands to grow up with weeds. The interior department has been trying for several years to induce people to go upon the unoccupied public domain and make homes upon what are now idle lands. It is true that quite a large proportion of the public domain is arid and unfit for agriculture unless irrigated, and there is also quite a large amount of lands located up in the forest reserves. At the same time there are opportunities for those who really want to go into farming, and government officials believe that a "back to the farm" movement is in sight.

Tore Up the Town.
Washington is going through the throes of an agitation which hits nearly every city. The question is whether married women shall be continued as teachers in the public schools. By decreeing that married women shall not be employed the board of education has started something for sure. The matter has been fought upon one side and down the other. Discussion rages in offices and clubs, at street corners and in barrooms, until it has overshadowed the war in Europe. It has reached the White House, where President Wilson quickly put an end to the pestering of himself by speaking in favor of the married women as teachers. It takes a real vital question to cause excitement in this country.

IN SOCIAL CIRCLES
A profusion of white and yellow roses arranged in bowls and urns graced the rooms where the game of describing an "Ideal Husband" was played. Miss Mary Beth Smith won top score and was presented a little work apron. While Miss Irene Arden sang the "Old Oaken Bucket" the bride-elect was blind-folded and led in the dining room to an old moss covered well of which she drew the gifts. A delicious salad course was served from a beautiful appointed table. A centerpiece for the table was a large daisy surrounded by moss and ivy out of which each guest drew a favor. Miss Rogers was charming in a dark blue crepe meter. The hat was of blue straw weathed with dresden roses. Miss Smith was gowned in blue taffeta. Those present were: Misses Coralie Rogers, Anne Johnston, Pearl Holland, Nellie Jones, Lucy Blitch, Mary Beth Smith, Eliza Wimberly, Ethel Mitchell, Agnes Parker, Irene Arden, Mesdames L. W. Williams, Troy Purvis, Neta Koewan, Joe Norris, Jim Moore, Leffler DeLoach, Sidney Smith and W. J. Shout.

The marriage of Miss Coralie Rogers to Mr. M. A. Rogers, of Dublin, was solemnized Wednesday morning at 7:30 at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Josie Rogers, Mr. Allaben, pastor of the Methodist church, performed the ceremony. Only the immediate family and few friends were present. Immediately after the ceremony they left for a trip to Atlanta and several other cities before going to Dublin where they will make their home.

The relatives and friends of Mrs. Fred Brannen, before her marriage was Miss Udey Foss, regrets to learn of her death which occurred on Tuesday morning. She was ill only a few days so her death came as a shock to everyone. Her funeral was held Wednesday morning at the home of her mother, Mrs. Esther Foss, and interment in the East Side cemetery.

Miss Lena Belle Smith was hostess at a miscellaneous shower Thursday afternoon at her home 25 North Main street, in compliment to Miss Coralie Rogers, whose marriage to Mr. M. A. Rogers was solemnized Wednesday morning.

AN AUTO WEDDING

Smith-McConnell
Miss Virnie McConnell and Mr. Lester Smith were united in marriage in their auto in front of the Rountree Hotel Sunday, April 11th, by Justice J. W. Rountree. Miss McConnell is a well known lady from Excelsior and Mr. Smith is a popular young man residing in Statesboro. Auto weddings are becoming very frequent of late.

BUILDING ADDITION TO ROUNTREE HOTEL

Plot 30x36 to Be Two-Story With Four Sample Rooms And Six Bed Rooms
An additional two-story extension at the south-east end of the Rountree hotel is being erected to accommodate the rapidly growing trade of this hostelry. The addition will contain six modern bedrooms that will be furnished with all new up-to-date hotel equipment. Four large sample rooms will also be on this floor and these with the bed rooms in close connection will be used exclusively for traveling agents all being designed for their special accommodation. These additions and improvements of the various business enterprises speak forcefully of the substantial growth and prosperity of Statesboro.

Cure of Hairbrush.

Where possible it is very much better to have the hair brushed by a woman and person, more especially where it is long and heavy. A woman can hardly carry her arm from the scalp to the full length of the hair, and snags and tangles until more is pulled out than is right.

There is also a great difference in the sort of brush used. One with bristles that are too stiff will scratch the scalp, often make it very sore and so cause loosening of the hair; one with bristles that are too soft will not be much use in reaching the skin and stimulating the growth of new hair. A brush that is not perfectly clean will cause dandruff, an oily condition and effectively prevent a healthy growth. So, much attention should be paid to not only the quality, but the cleanliness as well as to the proper selection of the bristles of the brush used daily.

There is a splendid English brush with black bristles that seems to be almost perfect. The effect is to bring about a healthy glow on the scalp, while the hair is left soft and shining after a thorough brushing. Rather high priced, a good brush of this sort will cost over $2, but lasts for years if washed properly, so the cost may be considered worth paying.

The washing of hair brushes is very simple, yet a certain course must be observed. Toss water into a good soap, the bristles well rubbed with another brush, a comb passed through and through to the bottom of the rows may be touched; two latens, rinsed in warm water, then in cold, and a rubbing lightly with a towel that does not leave lint. These are simple rules.

The drying should be done by laying the brushes bristles down in a dry, warm place, but not on a radiator or in a hot sun. The heat of either will loosen the bristles. Where very dusty, as after the hair has been filled with dust from a trip or high winds, a teaspoonful of ammonia may be added to the soapy water. This effectively cuts out any greasy dust.

Reason will show that by laying the brushes down on the bristles the hair will run out, whereas if placed on its back, it will soon mat and the wool and in time loosen every bristle.

A little added combed dust into brushes and then brushed out often does away the daily accumulation of dirt where a hairbrush is used constantly, thus saving too many washings. The very particular women will be utterly contemptuous to note the appearance of a cloth used to wipe her hairbrush while she is going through her daily application. Where the dirt comes from is a matter that never be answered, but she will be convinced that the most particular care is needed every day if she wishes her hair to be free from dirt and her toilet appointments as fastidiously neat as she thinks they should be.

Bright Eyes.

Keeping the eyes bright is by no means a difficult matter. Every woman knows the value of bright, sparkling eyes as an asset to beauty. First avoid all eye strain. One of the most common mistakes many women make is that of putting off the wearing of glasses long after they are needed. If you wear glasses use them to note the need to wear them constantly. Keep them for work.

Don't wake in a bright light or sleep facing the window. Have your bed room window open, but the room dark. Every morning and night wash out your eyes with a weak solution of boric acid, about one teaspoonful of boric powder mixed in six ounces of hot water and allowed to get cool. Apply this with an eye cap, and after one week's use the benefit will be felt and seen.

Beauty Hints.

Nothing restores a tired body and brain more completely than a refreshing bath and a change into fresh, clean clothing.

Get into the habit of keeping several changes of shoes and change your shoes every night when you come home. It is a great rest to tired feet. Cold water is a splendid preventive of verities, making the skin firm and smooth. The face should be washed in cold water every morning.

If those who perspire freely would use a little ammonia in the evening, bathing in every day it would keep the flesh clean and sweet, doing away with any disagreeable odor.

About Wearing Veils.

A good cream applied to the face, carefully wiped off and followed with a good face powder is better than a veil on very cold days. The veil breathes moist from the mouth. This causes the skin to chap and roughen and it takes several days to get the skin back to a normal condition. Repeated chapping will make the skin coarse and flaky.

Massage Cream.

A massage cream may be made as follows: Take three ounces of oil of sweet almonds, an ounce of vanilla, two drams of cucumber juice, two drams of white wax, two drams of permeate, thirty drops of tincture of benzoin and ten drops of oil of rose combine these and place in a jar for use.

FIRST DISTRICT HIGH SCHOOL MEET

On the 9th and 10th of April representatives from the high schools of the First District together with numbers of other pupils and friends met at Millen to engage in contests in the different departments of high school work. The people of Millen entered fully into the spirit of the occasion and did all in their power for the entertainment of their visitors.

On Friday evening contests were held in ready writing and spelling. We were very proud when we learned that George Sharpe Kimball had won in the ready writing contest because it took a large amount of ability supplemented by natural training to win this medal. Meta Kennedy represented Statesboro in spelling contest and was defeated after having spelled four times. She deserves special mention, since she was able to cope so long with the contestant from Metter who won after a hard fought battle.

The contests in piano, voice, expression and declamation were held Saturday morning. So well did our representatives acquit themselves that we were glad that we were the "white and blue."

Annie Mae Alderman won first prize in piano. Kittle Turner won second honor in voice. Nanette Mel Olliff second in expression. John Zetterow second in declamation.

In the afternoon, after a delightful dinner served by the Millen people the athletic contests were held. Contestants representing the Statesboro Institute proved that our pupils have been well trained physically as well as mentally. John Zetterow won the running broad jump and Hobson Donaldson the shot put. Second honors were won by the following:

Clifton Fordham in the 220 yard dash. John Zetterow in the 100 yard dash. Homer Olliff in the potato race. George Parrish, Morgan Arden, Homer Olliff and Bonnie Morris in relay race. Carter Deal won the third place in the 440 yard dash and Luther Kinard third in the running high jump.

From the above we see that the Statesboro Institute won four medals, eight second and two third honors. When we remember that the contestants were selected as the very best pupils from all the schools of the First district we have just cause to be proud of our record.

Statesboro-Brooklet Ball Game Wednesday April 14th

The Statesboro Ball team came to the front after their millen defeat last week and won from Brooklet Wednesday by a score of 12 to 5. Statesboro should have a ball team and there is talent enough in town to turn out a good club. The team as organized for the Brooklet millen will play Millen next Tuesday and we hope to see the tables turned on this occasion. Let's get busy and promote a Statesboro ball club.

HAVE YOU OATS OR WHEAT TO SELL

The Central of Georgia Ry.
Has a Plan to Help You

The Central of Georgia Railway Agricultural Department is putting in each of its depots a poster prominently displayed offering its assistance in promoting sales of surplus grain in our section.

The following suggestion is copied verbatim:
Many localities will this season produce more oats and wheat than is needed to supply the home demand.

Fearing that a failure to find a market for any surplus grain will check the present tendency to produce more of our foodstuffs, which means so much to the prosperity of our section, the Agricultural Department of the Central of Georgia Railway Company feels it advisable to do all that is possible to assist the growers of any surplus wheat or oats to find a market for it.

It is believed that every bushel of grain produced this season can be used in our section, and that the problem is simply one of furnishing to those who will buy grain, information as to where it can be obtained.

If you will have a surplus of oats or wheat which you can ship from this station, and will give your name and address, the quantity you will have for sale, and when you will be ready to ship, to the agent of the Central of Georgia Railway at this station, the information will be forwarded to the Railway's Agricultural Department, and the possible buyers of such grains in our vicinity will be notified as to what you have for market. This service does not cost anything, and may help you sell your grain.

Superintendent's Talks to Schools

On Subjects of Interest to the Teachers, Pupils and Patrons

Now that spring has opened and work seems to be much needed, do not take the children out of school if you can possibly help it, they will need to go to school every day in order to be able to secure a sufficient amount of education to make them able to cope with the problems they will meet in life. Let our schools remain well filled until the term shall end. This is very necessary to receive satisfactory results.

We are all proud of the great amount of real improvements added to the schools of this county this year. Our schools are getting to be what they ought to be. We have many pretty buildings that are a credit to the communities in which they are located. Every section seems to have the spirit of progressiveness. You will watch us grow to the best county in the state in less time than five years, if we hold the pace we are now making. Let us keep moving forward. The results will be worth the effort.

For a fact, the Snap school will now be ceiled and finished in an up to date fashion. The result of the box party by Miss Earle Wood was in every way a success. About sixty dollars was raised from this entertainment, and this added to former funds in the treasury will make a hundred dollars which is ample to have the house ceiled.

Schools, take notice—if you will manage to raise $45.00 on the cost of a complete and up-to-date library, the county board will donate the balance of the cost. This library is selected to meet the needs of the rural schools. We want every school to avail themselves of this offer. Who will be first? Or, if you cannot take the library, you will be furnished with eight up-to-date maps and a globe that will last a life time for thirty dollars. Who can teach without equipment? These things will be worth your attention. You can be supplied with these globes and maps by the board at your call. Suppose you add something to the school you teach this year. It will be a lasting monument to you if you will.

Miss Wood is out among the country girls this week helping them with their tomatoes and giving helpful suggestions. She will come to your community when you desire. Suppose you make arrangements to have her pay you a visit and give you some help in the way of planning your work and advice as to how best cultivate your tomato plot.

The Easter entertainment given by Miss Annie Oia Bryan at the Holy Grove school was a splendid success. The people of the community are well pleased with the ability of Miss Bryan as an entertainer. Miss Bryan has one of the best schools in the county. She will probably be retained for next term as principal, provided some young man do not steal her from the school teaching profession.

THE N. B. M. A.

The fifth annual Institute of the South Eastern Division of the N. B. M. A. of Georgia convened with one hundred delegates last week April 8th to 11th inclusive at the First Baptist church Statesboro. It was indeed a glorious meeting of the very earnest workers of this commendable organization.

Some potent truths were brought home to the ears and eyes upon those who attended these lectures. Statesboro's citizens were more than fortunate in being permitted to entertain and mingle socially and spiritually with a gathering of so many noted and worthy people. The community is better for it in a sense that may not be measured at this moment, but sufficient has been the moral uplift through this institute to prompt energetic efforts toward making Statesboro a city to entertain such organizations as can be secured whose delegates are not in numbers beyond our accommodation.

The program of the institute having been previously published in the News, and the subjects of the various speakers and excellent work of the singers and entertainers so familiar to the vast concourse of people who attended, we will therefore omit personal mention of their work, and by request, publish the report of the committee on resolutions, which follows:

We, your committee, offer the following resolutions:
Resolved, that we express our sincere thanks and appreciation to Brother Singleton, the pastor of the church, for his presence and hearty co-operation, also to Rev. A. Allen, of the Methodist church, for his expressions of good will and kindly interest.
Secondly to the citizens of Statesboro and our hostesses for their cordial hospitality and courtesies extended, also to the local papers for the publicity given our meetings.
Mrs. Ed Kennedy of the committee of arrangements and all members of other committees, to Mrs. Tanner and Mrs. Butler for their beautiful solos rendered, to the pianist a d choir and all others who have added to our pleasure.
To Brother Clarke for his interesting and instructive addresses on Japan and our work there, and to Dr. Long for his splendid and Prompt action, combined with RIGHT glasses, will, in almost all cases, arrest the further development of the trouble and bring genuine relief.

DEATH OF HUGHIE GALBREATH

Student of the First District Agricultural College

Hughie Galbreath a popular and highly respected student of the First District Agricultural College died at that institution Sunday April 10th. The young man was a strong robust fellow enjoying the best of health until attacked with a cold which suddenly developed into pneumonia and despite the constant attention of three physicians succumbed to his illness. He was the first student of the college who has died since its opening. The remains were shipped to Lyons Monday for burial and were accompanied by six of his students as pallbearers. Mr. Galbreath was a co-worker in the Sunday school, a member of the eighth grade at the college and his death has cast a feeling of sadness over the personnel of the institute that will linger indefinitely.

MR. J. W. ROBERTSON RESIGNS

As Agent of S. & S. At Brooklet

Mr. J. W. Robertson, the agent of the S. & S. railway, at Brooklet, who has held that position for ten years has resigned, the same to take effect May 1st. Mr. Robertson who is a prosperous merchant and farmer of Brooklet finds his personal affairs demanding so much time and attention, that to husband his health and best interests both for the company which he has represented so faithfully, and himself, was to be relieved of some portion of his duties; his own personal investment quite naturally was first to be considered with the result that he handed his resignation to the R. R. officials this week.

There is much progressive spirit in Brooklet this spring; everybody has the building fever, and the clean-up spirit. Yards are being beautified, trash removed and fresh paint liberally spread so that we are looking quite city-fied.
The residences of Mr. J. W. Robertson and Dr. Watkins are special specimens of modern homes and they are great additions to the property values in that section of Brooklet. Mr. Robertson has now been in his home upward of a year and the buildings valued at about $9,500. Dr. Watkins has very recently moved into his bungalow which is one of the most convenient and delightful homes that has ever been erected in this locality. Dr. Watkins has made an outfit of approximately $5,000 in the building alone and his home is an ideal one and of credit to the push and hustle of Brooklet citizens.

LEO FRANK MUST HANG SAYS SUPREME COURT

His Only Hope Now Is With the Governor—Justice Pitney Renders Decision For Court—Justice Holmes Dissents

Washington, April 19.—Leo M. Frank, under death sentence for the murder of Mary Phagan, an Atlanta factory girl, lost another step in his fight for life in the supreme court of the United States today.

In a decision, in which Justice Holmes and Hughes dissented, the court dismissed Frank's appeal from the federal court of Georgia, which refused to release him on a writ of habeas corpus.

Frank contended that alleging mob violence at his trial and the fact that he was absent from the court room when the jury returned its verdict had removed him from the jurisdiction of the courts of Georgia.

The majority opinion of the supreme court rejected all these contentions and declared Frank had enjoyed all of his legal rights in the Georgia courts.

Seemingly, no other avenue of escape from the death penalty is open to Frank through the courts. The state pardon officials might relieve him.

Justice Pitney delivered the opinion, declaring that "in the proceedings in the courts of Georgia the fullest rights an opportunity to be heard, according to the established means of procedure" had been accorded to Frank.

"In the opinion of this court," continued the justice, "he is not shown to have been deprived of any right guaranteed to him by the fourteenth amendment or any other provision of the constitution or laws of the United States. On the contrary, he has been convicted and is now held in custody under due process of law within the meaning of the constitution."

It is believed by legal authorities here that only the state pardon officials of Georgia now can save Frank from paying the death penalty for his conviction of the murder of Mary Phagan, the Atlanta pencil factory girl.

Justice Holmes delivered a dissenting opinion in which Justice Hughes concurred.

The court's decision was based on an appeal from the decision of the United States district court for northern Georgia in refusing to release Frank on a writ of habeas corpus.

His petition for habeas corpus rested on allegations of disorder during his trial in Atlanta amounting to a mob demonstration and his involuntary absence when the verdict was returned.

Justice Pitney, in his decision, held that the obligation rested on the supreme court to look through the form and "into the very heart and substance of the matter," not only in the averment in Frank's petition, but in the trial proceedings in the state courts themselves.

TAX EQUALIZATION LAW CONSTITUTIONAL

Is Upheld by Supreme Court in Case Appealed From Blue Ridge Circuit

Atlanta, April 17.—The state supreme court today declared constitutional and valid Georgia's new tax equalization law enacted by the Georgia legislature two years ago, and as a result of which the property values in Georgia last year increased nearly $90,000,000.

The opinion was rendered in the case of J. P. Vestel against L. G. Edwards and other officials of Fannin county, appealed from the Blue Ridge circuit. Vestel returned a lot of wild land in Fannin county at $11,746 and the board of assessors later valued it at $46,984. In his suit Vestel attacked the constitutionality of the law and also charged that the arbitrator appointed to act in the case was a brother of one of the assessors. It was upon this latter ground of kinship of the arbitrator to one of the assessors that the supreme court reversed the decision of the lower court against Vestel.

At the same time the supreme court took occasion to declare the new law a valid one. The supreme court's head note upon this subject is as follows:

"An act of the legislature, which has for its object the equalization by means of a just and fair assessment of property returned for taxation and which provides for notice to any taxpayer whose returns have been increased, and that if he is dissatisfied with the action of the county board of tax assessors in assessing the value of his property for taxation he may demand an arbitration of the question of the valuation of the property returned for taxation, and which provides that in case of a disagreement as to the selection of an umpire, the ordinary, or the county commissioners, as the case may be, shall appoint one, the arbitrators to render their decision within ten days from the date of the naming of the arbitrator by the board, is not repugnant to the due process clause of the constitution of the United States as contained in the fourteenth amendment, nor is it obnoxious to the due process clause of the constitution of the state of Georgia, nor does it deprive the taxpayer of the equal protection of the laws."

appears that the same allegations of disorder were submitted first to the trial court and afterwards to the supreme court of Georgia as a ground for avoiding the consequences of the trial, and these allegations were considered by those courts successfully at times and places and under circumstances wholly apart from the atmosphere of the trial, and free from any suggestion of mob domination or the like; the facts were examined by those courts upon evidence submitted on both sides, and both courts found Frank's allegations to be groundless, except with respect to a few matters of irregularity not harmful to the defendant.

Leo M. Frank's attorneys, when informed of the decision today of the United States Supreme court, said that they believed that every means in Frank's behalf had been exhausted.

They added that they now probably would prepare a petition for presentation before the Georgia prison commission, asking for a commutation of Frank's sentence.

"I am very much disappointed over the supreme court's decision, but I will keep up the fight," said

THE GEORGIA EDUCATIONAL ASSOCIATION

To Meet In Macon May 6, 7, and 8th—Record Attendance Anticipated.

President J. C. Wardlaw of the Georgia Educational Association, the fifteenth convention of which will be held in Macon May 6, 7, and 8, 1915, is mailing out the official program of what promises to be the greatest gathering of the educational forces in the history of Georgia.

Many leaders in educational activities both within and without the state are among those whose names appear upon this program, and a rich varied, and compensating series of discussion of vital topics of current educational interests will be heard upon this occasion.

The twenty former presidents of the association will be in attendance upon this greatest of gatherings of the teaching forces of the state, and hundreds of teachers from every section of Georgia will be present. It is expected that at least two thousand will attend, and the railroads have granted exceptionally low rates for this occasion. The Macon hotels are offering

DOING IT.

Somebody said that it couldn't be done.
But he, with a chuckle, replied that "maybe it couldn't," but he would be one.
Who wouldn't say so till he tried.
So he buckled right in, with the trace of a grin.
On his face. If worried he hid it; He started to sing as he tackled the thing.
That couldn't be done—and he did it.
There are thousands to tell you it can not be done;
There are thousands to prophesy failure;
There are thousands to point out to you, one by one,
The dangers that wait to assail you, But just buckle in with a bit of a grin,
Then take off your coat and go to it; Just start in to sing as you tackle the thing.
That can't be done—and you'll do it.
At least, no one ever has done it; But he took off his coat and he took off his hat,
And the first thing we knew he'd begun it.

special rates and accommodations. The New Hotel Denney will be the official headquarters of the convention.

An unusually interesting, instructive, and inspiring program has been arranged, and many prominent leaders in educational activities throughout the state and from without the state will participate in the discussions of practically all important topics of current educational interest.

State Superintendent M. L. Brittain and the county and city superintendents are asking their boards to grant Friday, May 7th, at least, as a holiday, so that all teachers may attend the convention. Thursday evening, Friday, and Saturday, and teachers should avail themselves of this opportunity to catch the inspiration of such a meeting and get into the dynamic power which only those who are a part of such gatherings can know.

Leo M. Frank, when informed that his habeas corpus case had gone against him. He refused to add to this statement.

The mandate of the supreme court is expected to be received by the federal district court here in a few days. Upon its arrival Solicitor General Dorey probably will request that Frank be arraigned before the Fulton county superior court for resentencing.

CHAUTAUQUA HERE MAY 10, 11, 12TH

Ben-fit of the Statesboro Municipal Band—Proceeds Will Go Toward Uniform Equipment and Other Necessary Expenditures

The Hawkinsville Dispatch and News, in speaking of Eastman, Ga., said—"Eastman has a live Board of Trade and a first class Brass Band two things which no town should be without that desires to keep up with the march of progress." Statesboro is coming into that class of progressive town. We have the band organized and it is equipped with a first class set of instruments and the personnel of the band is of the best and progressive young men of the town who are patiently and systematically pursuing almost nightly progressive studies; in other words they are building on a thorough musical foundation, not merely trying to have a tune hammered in their heads and fingers within a few short weeks but they are imbibing the fundamental principles of music so that in the course of a few months they will be able to play under a director almost at sight the music as it is handed out.

This series of concerts and lectures will bring to town some of the most successful platform workers in the country. Dr. Harry W. Sears, the "Taffy man," will be heard in two of his rough d storying lectures. Dr. Sears, as many readers know, is easily the most popular humorist in the Southern States, having been dispelling gloom for over twelve years. Dr. J. W. Frizzell, platform manager, resigned one of the largest pastorate in Washington, D. C., to lecture on the Chautauqua platform, feeling that he would have a larger sphere of influence there. His lectures on "Twentieth Century Problems," and "Conquests of Humanity" are gems of inspiration, and show a greatness of philosophy insight, pervaded always by his sympathetic understanding of human nature.

One feature that all will enjoy is Hal Merton, a magician who really mystifies. This man has appeared at the White House on five different occasions, and is one of the most clever in the field.

Humor in many forms will be depicted by Ellsworth Plimstead, impersonator, who is a "whole lot of people," as a little girl once expressed it. He gives various recitations in costume, changing costume and make-up to fit the character of the piece. His characters range from Uncle Ezra, the Old Illinois farmer, to the broken-down Shakespearean actor, rehearsing his former triumphs. Plimstead is the kind of person who makes people forget trouble and hard times, and laugh with the abandon of youth.

Two of the best musical organizations on the road will furnish a wealth of artistic singing and playing. The LaDell Concert Company, of Ontario, Canada, consists of three charming women, one of whom is gifted with an exceptional soprano voice, another is a pianist and the third is one of the most brilliant readers and elocutionists before the public. They are Miss Ruth Thomas, Miss Blanche Deering and Miss Marietta LaDell, respectively. The troupe's male Quartet is composed of men who are vocalists and bell ringers, and give a varied program that gives instant favor with their audiences throughout the country.

These attractions give six performances in all, two each day. The dates are May 10, 11 and 12, and a large attendance is expected. A season ticket, admitting to all the performances, cost $1.50. A special ticket for $1.00 is available for school children. The season ticket offers a decided saving, and it is transferable. Single admission, at the door, are 50c. at night and 35c. in the afternoon.

LADY WHO STARTED VETERANS REUNIONS

Is Dead in Texas—Was a Former Georgian

News has just been received of the death, April 14, of Mrs. Elizabeth Glover, at her home, Chickasaw, Okla. This will be learned with regret by thousands of friends in Georgia and over the south.

Mrs. Glover had attained her eighty-fifth year. She spent the most of her long life in Georgia, but for some twenty years past had lived with her daughter, at Corsicana, Texas.

She was the widow of Colonel Thomas Glover, of the Thirty-first Georgia regiment. It was at her suggestion that her husband's regiment gathered in annual reunion and out of this grew the "Confederate Veterans' reunion. At the Richmond reunion she was accredited as the originator of the movement leading to these happy historic gatherings of the "boys in gray" each year.

Mrs. Glover was attended by her daughter during her short illness. The interment was at Corsicana, Texas. She had numerous relatives and connections in Campbell and Douglas counties of this state.

HARRY THAW ORDERED BACK TO INSANE ASYLUM

Appellate Judge so Decrees. Case to Go to Court of Appeals.

New York, April 17.—(Harry Kendall) Thaw was ordered back to the State Hospital for the Criminal Insane at Matteawan by the appellate division of the New York supreme court.

In an opinion concurred in by all the judges, the court affirmed the denial by Supreme Court Justice Page of a motion to return Thaw to the jurisdiction of the state of New Hampshire, whence he was extradited to stand trial for conspiring to escape from the Matteawan asylum and ruled that the original order committing him to the institution was still valid.

Plans are being formulated to take the case to the state court of appeals.

A decision adverse to Thaw came as a great surprise to his counsel. The order carried with it the provision that Thaw could not be taken from New York county until five days elapsed.

The writ of habeas corpus sworn out in Thaw's behalf after he was acquitted of the charge of conspiracy is finally returnable Monday. At that time counsel will present arguments, arguing that their client be granted permission to have a jury determine his present mental condition.

Thaw himself refused tonight to comment on the court's action.

The opinion of the appellate division was written by Justices Hotchkiss and Scott. Justices McLaughlin, Clark and Ingraham concurred. The opinion began by sketching the case of Thaw from the time Stanford White was killed until Thaw was extradited, and went on to say that the motives which may have influenced those who obtained Thaw's return to this state have nothing to do with the case, and that he may be discharged only when due process of law shall have been ascertained to be sane.

All things considered, that part of the opinion written by Justice Scott asserts, the fact remains that Thaw is now in this state and there is valid commitment against him for his restraint as a person of unsound mind. The opinion concluded as follows:

"It may be that the state would be well rid of so troublesome a guest, and that in view of its acquittal it is to be regretted that having once left it he is to be brought back, but that is not a matter for judicial consideration. All that we have to consider is his right to be discharged from the lawful, outstanding commitment to Matteawan, and it seems to be clear that he had no such right. Certainly, if we were to release him from
