THE JOYOUS FOURTH

Gee, don't I wish the Fourth wuz here! It seems like I can't wait Until the days jest catch up with That blame' red-figger date. I got a lot o' fire-works,

I got a lot o' fre-works,
Oh, more'n you could think,
A bully cannon, too, of bress,
So shiny makes you blink.
The minute when I get aware,
'Bout four o'clock or so,
You bet I'll hustle in my clothes An' grab my box an' go sitin' out behin' the barn An' light my punk -- an', say!

But, gosh! that ain't a circumstance To what'll happen when
It gets right dark. You jest be there; You'll see some doin's, then! We'll break in Si, the blacksmith's, shop An get his anvils out
An' shoot them all around the town; Then there'll be noise, don't doubt

Afore each house we'll set one down An' pour the powder in, An' set the other top of it --Then jest you hear the din! Some folks'll come a-runnin' out An' raise an awful row; But most'll laugh like fun an' shout

"Jest get along, boys, now." Oh, goe, I wish the Fourth wuz here But Ma sez, "Mercy me! Why you're so set on gettin' burns But shucks! who cares for things like that? A boy's Ma never learns A-gettin' of those burns. (Copyright, 1915, by W. G. Chapman.)

Chance now for new contestants to enter the race; have as good show as those who started in the first week The reason seems to be beyond us unless it be that those who have entered believe that better opportunities for getting votes will come later. The contest manager advises you in all confidence that you are letting the best periods of the contest slip by with out doing yourself justice. You'll be sorry later on when it's too late.
