Agents, Attention!

I want two hustling agents, with teams, to deliver Bulloch county thoroughly, selling policies for old line company, forty years old. This insurance pays $5,000 death benefit and $25 per week for sickness or accident, for only $10 per year. If you can sell insurance, and will write me today, giving references, I will show you where you can make good money; but I want agents at once. Let me hear from you promptly.

Barn at Agricultural Destroyed by a Fire

On Wednesday morning, at 1 o'clock, the faculty and student body out at the Agricultural School were aroused by the roaring of the flames, which had enveloped the large barn belonging to the school. Owing to the fact that the fire had gained such headway when discovered, very little outside of the live stock was saved.

The barn was a frame structure, and contained about one thousand bushels of corn and other feed-stuff. The large omnibus used for conveying the pupils to town and back was destroyed along with other property. The loss was covered by insurance. The origin of the fire is unknown.

Lewis Children Were Taken to Savannah

Mr. John G. Nevils has returned from Savannah, where he went on yesterday to carry the children of Mr. Will Lewis, they being carried there for treatment for pellagra. They were taken to the government hospital, where examinations were made.

It was found that the two younger children were not infected, but the two older ones were. These were taken in for treatment, and the younger ones returned home. One girl, aged 14, was found to have a pretty well developed case, and the second one was only lightly infected. These people live in the Forty-fourth district.

The suggestion of an early primary has brought out a good crop of new candidates this week.

What Will the Harvest Be?

You only bank or spend the earnings from your farm. The important question then is, "What Will the Harvest Be?" Will you get a bale to the acre, or a bale to two acres?

It's the extra hundred pounds of cotton to the acre and the extra ten bushels of corn, at the same labor and fertilizing expense that makes the bank balance grow and provides the needed comforts of life.

Free : Fertilizer

One more boll per stalk fruited will pay your Fertilizer bill. The loss of the extra boll doubles the cost to you.

Are you getting free fertilizer or paying double? This is a very vital question to you because you reap the benefit or stand the loss, not the fertilizer agent that sells you.

HERE IS THE PROOF:

"I will get 2 to 2 1/2 bales to the acre this year. I used B. & S. Special Sea Island Fertilizer at the rate of 800 pounds to the acre, putting in 500 pounds when I placed and 300 pounds when the cotton was about 15 inches high.

It is the FINEST GUANO I ever used, and I will use no other brand as long as I can get your B. & S. Special Sea Island Fertilizer. I will give you the names of the men that saw the cotton growing.

Yours truly,

A. J. YOUNGBLOOD, Swainsboro, Ga.

Wa, the undersigned, have seen the cotton growing on the farm of A. J. Youngblood, 6 miles south of Swainsboro, in Emanuel County, Georgia, and must say, it is THE BEST WE EVER SAW IN THE COTTON BELT OF GEORGIA.

Brown Sent to Jail.

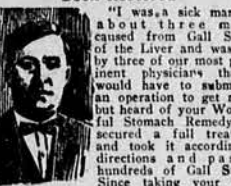

On Wednesday night, Linton Brown was convicted of assault and battery in the city court, based on the charge of Nathan Lord, whose jawbone was broken in three places just before Christmas by young Brown, it being alleged that a pair of brass knuckles were used in the assault on Lord.

There seems to be some doubt as to the identity as to which of the Brown boys passed the knuckles that caused the injury. But the evidence developed the fact that the defendant had a pair of knuckles in his possession on the occasion of the assault, and the jury believed him guilty.

Judge Strange imposed a sentence of thirty days in jail and fine of $100 and cost of court. In the event the fine is not paid in thirty days an additional sentence of six months on the chain-gang was assessed. The defendant has already begun the serving of the jail sentence imposed.

BULLOCH COUNTY

PRIMARY MAY 7

Democratic Mass Meeting Fixes Early Primary and Endorses Candidacy of Judge Strange

On Wednesday, at noon, the Democracy of Bulloch county met mass meeting and proceeded to reorganize preparatory to the approaching campaign.

Chairman Renfro called the meeting to order, and Mr. Dan Biggs was elected secretary. A resolution electing the same executive committee, together with Mr. Biggs as permanent secretary, was passed without a dissenting vote. Power to fill vacancies and fix rules to govern the primary was vested in the executive committee.

Judge S. L. Moore offered a resolution to fix the primary for county officers for May 7th. It was seconded by Col. J. M. Murphy, Col. G. S. Johnson and J. A. Brannen, and Messrs. S. L. Nevis and J. W. Williams advocated the May primary.

Col. A. M. Deal offered a substitute that the county primary be held in August, along with the state primary. His position was backed up by Messrs J. W. Wright and R. K. Hartley. Col. Deal advanced the proposition that, inasmuch as we had a candidate for judge of the superior court to bring out the full vote for him, as other counties would take advantage of this step.

Col. Brannen and others thought that there was no danger about the Bulloch county crackers. In fact, this was a habit they had fallen into. He referred to what an old citizen had informed him some years ago. After moving around to find a better place, he finally landed back in Bulloch, and the old fellow had observed that there was one thing that Bulloch county was noted for, and that was eating mullet fish and drinking corn liquor.

Col. Brannen added that they were also noted for their willingness to go to the elections and cast their ballots on water and all occasions. He predicted the usual big vote in the August primary, regardless of whether there was an early primary held for county officers or not.

Numerous calls were then made for the question, and inasmuch as the substitute fixing August came first under parliamentary rules, everybody who was in favor of the August primary for all officers was asked to stand up. Nine men stood. While it looked unnecessary to put the other, this was done, and everybody stood for the May primary, including the nine gentlemen who had stood the other way.

A resolution was offered by Col. F. B. Hunter endorsing the candidacy of Judge H. B. Strange in his race for judge of the middle judicial circuit. It was unanimously carried by a rising vote. It was a splendid endorsement of a man who enjoys the full confidence of the people of his home county.

The candidates are now getting their ears to the ground, and it is evident that there will be an early opening of the campaign, as the issue is comparatively short.

News from Savannah reports the serious illness of Mr. Moore Wilson, a former citizen of Bulloch county.

SENATOR BACON IS DEAD.

Hon. A. O. Bacon, Georgia's Senior Senator at Washington died in a sanitarium in that city Saturday afternoon at two o'clock, after nineteen years of service for his state in the upper house of the national congress. The funeral will be in Washington on Tuesday, and the interment will be in Macon, Ga. The vacancy will be filled by appointment by Governor Slaton, the appointee to serve until the October election. Just who Governor Slaton will appoint is not known. The appointment will hardly be made for a week yet.

SETTLED IN FULL: GOES HOME BROKE.

M. M. Talbot, of Brooklyn, an itinerant politician, whose journey to the North was interrupted unceremoniously Saturday night when he was detained by the detectives for the sheriff of Bulloch county, was back in Savannah yesterday.

He felt he had been outraged by the officers at Statesboro, and by his prosecutors. He was charged with leaving Bulloch county owing a bill of $14.50 for a horse and buggy hire. This he admitted, but denied he meant to "beat" the liveryman. Upon his return to Statesboro he offered to turn over all the money he had if they would not lock him up and would let him go.

Talbot brought a receipt with him showing he had settled the bill, paid $35 for the automobile in which he was carried back to Statesboro, and been taxed for other expenses incident to his arrest. He said he had something like $80 when he was stopped here, and he was broke when he got back yesterday. Upon payment of the bill and all charges Talbot was released.

"I didn't mean to cheat anybody," he said. "I was never arrested before in my life. I never got credit anywhere I am known. The reason I didn't pay the livery bill was because the little negro boy who was driving me couldn't sign a receipt. I told a lady in the country who owed me $75.00 to pay that bill when she went to Statesboro, and she said she would. I meant to send a money order for the balance as soon as I got somewhere and had time."

Talbot said he was on his way to Brooklyn. He had an ocean steamship ticket in his pocket, but insisted he was going by rail because of a telegram from his wife that his son had been taken suddenly ill. He took the New York steamer yesterday. — Savannah Morning News.

Mrs. Wilson in Dying Condition.

Mrs. Margaret Wilson is reported in a dying condition at the home of her son, Mr. H. H. Wilson at Register. She is in her 84th year and gradually sinking. It is believed she can survive but a day or two longer at the best.

Death of Mrs. Wilson.

On Sunday, at 2 o'clock, Mrs. Rachel Wilson, widow of the late Andrew J. Wilson, suffered a stroke of paralysis at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Allen Rimes, about seven miles south of Statesboro, death resulting in a short time.

The funeral was held Monday afternoon at the family burying grounds, where the remains were interred by the side of her late husband. Elder H. B. Wilkinson conducted the funeral services in the presence of a large number of sorrowing friends and relatives.

Will Number and Name Streets.

At the meeting of the city council Thursday night it was decided to name and number the streets of the city as required by the post office department, and the contract was awarded to Mr. C. H. Brown to do the work. The price for street signs was forty-five cents each, and numbers at six cents a figure. There will be no assessment levied on this other than the regular taxes collected.

It is believed that when this is done the way will be made clear for the installation of the free city mail delivery that the post office department has had under consideration for some time. There is one step toward putting on city air you know. Why, we can write a letter to some friend in a distant state and tell him to address us 1000 Magnolia street, or some other name as the case may be, and he will think we have a great city here, which we really have; it will give us dignity and serve to lengthen out our municipal brethren several kinks. Then when the government puts on its free mail delivery it will require the services of two extra men with an expenditure of about three thousand dollars per annum. This three thousand dollars will help the fellow who has a house to rent; it will assist the groceryman; enable the shoe man to sell more shoes, and the clothing man to sell more clothes, etc. It will afford a few more extra nickels to be expended in the moving picture shows, etc. In fact it will help us all some. It will enable a man's wife to open all of his letters and scan over his postal cards before he reaches home. It will further give her first look at the morning paper, and perhaps I should mention how it will help the old man to sell more shoes, and the clothing man to sell more clothes, etc. It will afford a few more extra nickels to be expended in the moving picture shows, etc. In fact it will help us all some. GOOD ROADS

FARM ROADS AND SPEEDWAYS

Government More Interested in Benefiting Farmer Than Improving Highways for Automobiles.

Secretary Houston of the department of agriculture gave his bearings at the recent good roads convention in Detroit a sensible talk on the building in general and government aid in particular. He declared that the government, so far as its operations, is more interested in improving the truly rural roads of the country (those through which farm products are hauled to market) than it is in improving the transcontinental highways which are mainly used by automobile tourists. He also asserted that the government aid is forthcoming it will be on the basis of state apportionment, rather than congressional district or county or road district. Secretary Houston's speech is such a clear exposition of the intentions of the present administration that we take a considerable interest in it.

The essential thing to be done is the providing of good roads which shall get products from the community farms to the nearest station and make rural life more profitable, comfortable and pleasurable.

There are complex problems to be solved in many states before the most efficient expenditure of money by state and communities for roads can be secured, and there are many more to be worked out before one can rationally expect the federal government largely to participate.

That the suggestion of federal aid to road building raises grave questions and involves possible dangers no thoughtful citizen doubts. These are proposals before the public mind which would bankrupt the federal treasury and suggest possible abuses before which those of the case or the barrel bills of the past would pale into insignificance.

It would be especially perilous if such aid should result in stifling the spirit of local self-help.

The first practical essentials in the planning of road legislation would seem to be to reorganize the states as the smallest unit with which the federal government might deal.

Along with the coffee habit has grown the prevalent "American Disease"—nervous prostration.

The following letter shows the way out of the trouble:

"Five years ago I was a great coffee drinker and from that time I have been a nervous wreck. My condition grew worse and worse until finally the physician I consulted declared my troubles were due to coffee.

"But being so wedded to the beverage I did not see how I could do without it. Especially at breakfast, as that meal seemed incomplete without coffee.

"On a visit, my friends deprived me of coffee to prove that it was habit. At the end of about eight days I was less nervous, but the craving for coffee was intense, so I went back to the old habit as soon as I got home and the old sleepless nights came near making a wreck of me.

"Some concern in this respect has indeed been felt, especially since the falling of the campanile at Venice, in Italy, 1902, and a committee is now engaged in a careful examination of it. To the eye of the unscientific observer it appears as solid and stable as anything built by the hand of man, and I felt no trepidation in ascending the some 250 marble steps that make a continuous spiral stairway from the bottom to the top for the glorious view that is to be had from the summit.

Co-operation is necessary for the most systematic road building. That is one reason why Missouri has been doing so much to improve her roads, because her people in the different communities have been willing to co-operate.

The road drag should be a necessity upon every farm that borders along the road. The man who in the early morning and patriotic enough to keep his road dragged is a good citizen.

THE TRUE CAMPANILE

Church Towers in U.S. Hideous Beside Those in Italy.

Italian Architecture is Usually Square and Have Same Dimensions From Bottom to Top, the Leaning Tower of Pisa an Exception.

New York.—The central idea in American ecclesiastical architecture is to build a steeple, as towering as the size and sustaining power of the base and the pulse of the congregation will permit. In few cases is it beautiful, and in many it is hideous.

In Italy the eye of the traveler is constantly attracted and delighted by the graceful campanile that appear on every hand, as adjuncts of the great cathedrals of the cities and as well of the modest churches about which cluster the picturesque homes of remote mountain villages.

The word "campanile" signifies bell-tower, but this could not have been the original application of these structures, for when the earliest ones were built only small hand bells were in use; and the purpose to which they are now dedicated is a later development which came with the casting of large bells and the necessity of being noted in passing for them. Thus the origin of the campanile is really unknown, but the earlier towers were probably built as places of observation and defense, like the round towers of Ireland and the square towers of the remains of which are still to be seen in Corsica and elsewhere. It may be noted in passing that this name is usually applied only to those towers which stand detached from the main structure of the church.

The true campanile of Italy is usually square, and of the same dimensions from bottom to top; but this form is sometimes departed from as in the celebrated Leaning Tower at Pisa, which is round. Others, belonging to municipalities, have a character distinct from those of the churches. These straight, square towers of uniform dimensions possess a charm and grace, when carried to sufficient height, that can hardly be understood by one who has not seen them, so very far from the hideous towers of this country.

Practical Celebration.

He was idealistic and poetical. She was practical—a good matrimonial combination. He came home one evening after a hard day at the office and said: "Maria, my dear, do you realize that tomorrow will be our wedding?"

"Yes, my darling, I know it. I have been thinking about it all day and all night. I have ordered a big wedding cake and a large turkey and a whole hog and a side of beef and a ham and a lot of other things and I will have the office and carry it into the cellar."

Hearty Welcome.

Mrs. Cary telephoned to a friend that she would come down and spend the day.

"Yes," replied the child: "I'm glad to see you; and I know mother will be glad, too, for this morning when she said that she was thinking of going to the office, she was thinking of going to the office."

Progress.

"How is your Shakespearean club getting on?"

"Splendidly. We learned two new steps last week."—Life.

Lady Tells of Great Benefit Women Would Receive by Following Her Example.

Remedies, Ala.—"I want to make a statement for publication," says Mrs. O. L. Owens, of this place, "as it may be the means of relieving some poor suffering woman."

I suffered terribly for years with many serious womanly troubles, and became so weak and nervous, I could hardly do anything. I had headaches, pains in my back and sides, and was always going to the doctor, but never felt well.

Finally, my husband bought me two bottles of Cardui, the woman's tonic. I commenced taking it, according to the directions, and began feeling better. I am now on my eighth bottle, and feel better than I have in years. I sleep soundly, have a good appetite, and no more pains.

I never get tired of telling what your medicine has done for me, and I am sure it will help other suffering women, as it did me.

Cardui, the woman's tonic, and Theodore's Black-Drainage are medicines, as is all medicine we keep in the house.

If you suffer from any of the troubles so common to weak women, try Cardui, the woman's tonic, and Theodore's Black-Drainage. They will surely help you, too.

Holdup Case of Savannah Hackman

It has become a common almost every day occurrence that some "chav seed" visitor to Savannah gets in the toils at the hands of a Savannah automobile driver. He is described as having "looked over the sights and visited the road houses." This is probably true in instances, but has been a number of occasions lately where the auto driver piles his game on the unsuspecting countrymen. They take advantage of the condition of their victims and make exorbitant demands on them, and holler for a policeman. Of course the party is expected to stand for milking before allowing himself to be run in. One occasion a few weeks ago where an auto driver was having a dispute with a man who owed him a bill, a friend stepped up who was sized up as having a wad on him, and he was pointed out to the police as the man who had contracted for the machine. Though the party had never been in the machine he was run in and made to give up $7.00. Another case has been called out to attention where a young countryman engaged a hack, was driven around about three blocks and a demand for five dollars was made on him. The hackman threatened the policeman when the countryman demanded. When he was told to work his game on somebody else, and seeing that the party addressed was not a green horn, he admitted he was wrong and drove rapidly away. No doubt there are numerous cases where young hoods go down and engage machines and refuse to pay for them, but there is no doubt but what in many cases it is a case of hold up at the hands of the driver of the machine.

Will Discontinue Whistle.

Never more again will the natives, both far and near, be frightened out of their wits by the wild scream of the Statesboro wild cat whistle. This nuisance that has been the means of disturbing the superstitious element so much was outlawed by the city council at its last meeting. A letter of complaint was read from one of our leading property owners, who protested against the further use of this nerve-racking apparatus. It was deemed sufficient to blow the whistle only at night when an alarm of fire was sent in, but the regular first of the month howl out and the use of it in day time will be known no more.

Postoffice Inspector Reports Adversely on Free Delivery.

The government postoffice inspectors have been here this week looking over the proposition to install a free mail delivery system in Statesboro.

We understand that the officials were very much disappointed because the Statesboro authorities had not met the government requirements in the way of numbering streets and naming the same. This is one of the positive requirements of the department, and thus less this is done we understand that the chances of getting a free mail delivery here are now rather slim.

Another requirement is that the streets shall be paved in some manner. This rule, it is believed, could be waived provided the streets were named, with appropriate signs at the corners and the houses numbered.

Now, if it has come down to this, it seems that Statesboro is not hankering very badly for a free mail delivery, if she don't meet these requirements.

What Will the Harvest Be?

You only bank or spend the earnings from your farm. The important question then is, "What Will the Harvest Be?" Will you get a bale to the acre, or a bale to two acres?

It's the extra hundred pounds of cotton to the acre and the extra ten bushels of corn, at the same labor and fertilizer expense that makes the bank balance grow and provides the needed comforts of life.

Free: Fertilizer

One more boll per stalk fruited will pay your fertilizer bill. The loss of the extra boll doubles the cost to you.

Are you getting free fertilizer or paying double? This is a very vital question to you because you reap the benefit or stand the loss, not the fertilizer agent that sells you.

HERE IS THE PROOF:

"I will get 2 to 2 1/2 bales to the acre this year. I used B. & S. Special Sea Island Fertilizer at the rate of 800 pounds to the acre, putting in 300 pounds when I planted and 500 pounds when the cotton was about 15 inches high.

It is the finest GUANO I ever used, and I will use no other brand as long as I can get your B. & S. Special Sea Island Fertilizer. I will give you the names of some of the men that saw the cotton growing. A. J. YOUNGBLOOD, Swainsboro, Ga.

We, the undersigned, have seen the cotton growing on the farm of A. J. Youngblood, 6 miles south of Swainsboro, in Emanuel County, Georgia, and must say, it is the BEST we ever saw in the cotton belt of Georgia.

Mr. Mallard Announces.

Our announcement columns carry the card of Mr. B. T. Mallard who makes the third entry in the race for sheriff. Mr. Mallard has a strong following, and will make a good race. His friends state that it stands to his credit that he has a considerable bearing upon air navigation in the future.

Its main advantages lie in the fact that it can be driven forward, and while still in motion can be switched to neutral or to a reverse by a simple lever, the forward, reverse and brake power all being concentrated in the same machinery and controlled by the same lever. Mr. L. L. Foss is the inventor.

The District Court.

Misdemeanor cases should be tried in a district court. Its decision should be final, thereby lifting the expense of the city court from the county, and subjecting all moral, intelligent and upright white male citizens, between 25 and 65 years of age, to be competent jurors, if they are qualified voters of the county.

The district officers should be paid a reasonable compensation; the city court should take care of themselves, and likewise the districts. Then every section will bear its part of the burden without having to go to the city court with every little frivolous affair.

BIG FAIR BE HELD NEXT FALL

Bulloch County Fair Will Be Held from October 20 to 24, Inclusive.

The third annual Bulloch County Agricultural and Industrial Fair will open its gates in the fair grounds in Statesboro on Tuesday morning, Oct. 20th, and will close on Saturday night, Oct. 24th, next. The Fair will be held under the auspices of the First Georgia District Fair Association, which has been recently incorporated in the superior court here. The Fair will be held here early enough not to conflict with the dates of the First Congressional District Fair, which will be held in Savannah in November under the same management.

The premium list for the Bulloch County Fair will be out soon. The Fair has been placed on its feet, incorporated and new blood added to its management, and it is expected that the Fair this fall will be the largest and best ever held here, and that is saying a good deal.

Arrangements will be made to have magnificent agricultural, poultry and live stock exhibits at the Fair. The usual amusement features will be looked after, and the races will be better than ever before. The connection of this Fair with the First Congressional District Fair will give it the advantage of greater facilities to give the people a real first class show.

The management is a member and a director in the Georgia State Association of County Fairs, recently organized at Macon. This association will undertake to place the best features at all its fairs throughout the state that it is possible to obtain.

Get ready for the big Fair this fall; there is going to be something doing.

BULL WEVIL FIGHT

BASE DECIDED.

Atlanta, Feb. 17.—Alive to the necessity for direct contact with conditions in south and middle Georgia, particularly with the near approach of the bull weevil, State Entomologist Lee Vorsham will immediately establish a substitution or branch of his department in Thomas county.

Mr. Vorsham has had this plan in mind for some time and recently has been making a careful study of conditions in order to decide upon the best location for this station. It will be permanent in nature, and in direct charge of C. S. Spooner, who is an assistant in the department.

"I felt that the need for this permanent station existed," said Mr. Vorsham today, "and after a careful study of the matter determined to locate in Thomas county. Special attention will be given to insects injurious to the peach, now a big and growing industry in that section, market crops, cotton, and in fact all other subjects, properly coming under my line of work."

"I am gratified to announce that the government district agents and other forces will co-operate with us, and I believe great good will come of this departure. South Georgia farmers and others have their peculiar local problems, and I am satisfied that the department will be broadening its work by going direct to them. Competent men will be detailed as needed to assist Mr. Spooner, who is a thoroughly capable and an earnest and conscientious scientist."

We hope to be of material aid, also, to farmers in that section in getting ready for the coming of the bull weevil. We shall keep them in every way possible.

The sub station or branch will be established at once.
