Millinery Opening!

We announce our display of

SPRING MILLINERY

WEDNESDAY, THURSDAY AND FRIDAY

MARCH 18, 19 and 20

We cordially invite the Ladies to call and inspect same.

STATESBORO MERCANTILE COMPANY.

The friends of Mr. F. P. Register will be interested to know that he will leave for Hot Springs, Ark., in a day or two, where he will remain for some time in the hope of regaining his health. Mr. Register has been suffering for time, but is now sufficiently improved to be able to look after his business part of the time, and to take the trip to the springs.

In this issue appears the announcement of Mr. W. J. Denmark, who offers his name as a candidate for one of the places on the board of county commissioners. Mr. Denmark was one of the original members of the board when it was created, and perhaps knows what the people want as well as any man in the county.

SCHOOL ITEMS

On account of the cold last week there were no schools in this county able to operate more than two days. This time can be made up by teaching on Saturdays—it would be too much loss of time not to make this up.

Teachers, be sure to enlist your boys in the corn club for this year at once. We have only one more month in which to enroll. Let every school be represented this year. This is a very important work—one that every member should take interest in, and see to it that some of his or her pupils enter.

Too, there is the girls' sewing club. This is far more important than the boys' corn club work, in my opinion. Through these clubs we hope to be able to teach the use of modern canners in every home. In the gardens of every farmer in this county, during the summer season, great quantities of the finest vegetables go to waste because we have not yet learned how to can and keep them cheaply. If you will have your girls enter this work, you will soon learn how to can tomatoes in tin cans, as well as beans, corn, okra—in fact everything that is grown in your garden. Why not let us begin this year? We will have to do it sooner or later, and the sooner the better.

Teachers, do not forget the teachers' institute on the second Saturday in March. Let every teacher attend those meetings. They will not be long and tedious. We hope to have a good musical program to entertain along with the other program that has previously been published.

Miss Ruth Prector has an interesting school at Harville. Her work is well planned, and orderly.

Too, she has many pretty pictures to decorate her walls, and mottoes galore. The patrons of her school are planning to move the school site from old Harville to Denmark station, where they hope to build a commodious building and operate it five months each year, and have a high school.

Miss Lattie Fletcher, teacher of the Snapp school, will have school gardening this term. Snapp is one of the improved schools—has a large yard and many pretty trees. Now with the school gardening this will be almost an ideal school. This is Miss Fletcher's first experience as teacher. She is making fine progress.

Should you pass near the Smith-Allen and Dea school stop by and look this school over. The houses are painted outside and in. Has single patent desks—furnished by the patrons—large and beautiful school yards, school gardening, a number of pretty trees. This is a two teacher school. The present teachers are Misses Mikell and McElveen.

Teachers, do not forget to make an effort to have sanitary water fountains installed this term. You can buy a bubbler fountain cheaply, which is absolutely sanitary. By having one of these fountains installed you will do away with the evils that accompany the present system of supplying water to the children.

I am now supplied with the new lists of books containing the daily programs for the teachers' use. When you are in the office again, be sure to supply yourselves.

Mr. J. N. Shearouse, of Brooklet, made a business trip to Atlanta yesterday.

This section was visited by a slight snow fall again on Sunday. There were only a few flakes, but it fell pretty thick in some places.

BROOKS SIMMONS CO.

Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Kiehl, of Grimsdale, spent Monday in Statesboro.

After looking over the situation we are convinced that the recent cold snap did no damage to Bulloch county crops, but on the contrary, was a God-send, furnishing a full and bounteous crop for the coming year.

The friends of Mr. W. M. Tankersley are mentioning his name as a suitable man to take the tax returns for Bulloch county for the next two years. If Mr. Tankersley enters the race he will receive the support of a large number of loyal friends.

It is said also, that the commission has gathered convincing evidence that Col. Fidel Villa, commanding the garrison at Juarez, ordered the execution of General Baugh, a German-American, who was tried as a spy, but in whose case no verdict was rendered.

Rebel officers at Juarez and at Chihuahua repeatedly have denied that he was killed.

In the case of Fierro, who is accused by residents of being extremely cruel, those familiar with the situation say they have looked for some charge in connection with the Benton case to be brought against him as a cloak on which he could be held, or for his disappearance or apparently accidental death.

While investigators, it is said, have been convinced for the last two weeks that it was he and no General Villa who killed Benton, it is reported they did not expect he would live to face that particular charge. He was in Villa's office when Benton was killed, and it is said, is a distant relative of the rebel chief.

The Mexican railroad men are said to have been killed in a report at Chihuahua. They were members of a union and union agents complained to Gen. Villa.

Rausch, it is said, was not executed until two days after Villa left Juarez. Whether Airia had orders for the execution is not known.

City of Mexico, March 12.—The apparent reluctance of the Rebel General Villa to deliver up William S. Benton's body may be explained, if messages received here are true.

Mexican residents in the north have advised relatives here that when it was believed Americans would cross the border to get the body it was burned by order of General Villa in the house of a colored named Valentin Onate, adjoining Villa's headquarters.

Hardeman Enters the Judgeship Race

This news of the New Georgia official announcement of Hardeman N. Hardeman, who entered the race for the judgeship of the middle judicial circuit.

Hardeman is a lawyer of knowledge and ability, and is at present the able and efficient representative in the Georgia legislature from J. R. county.

He is a good man and still holds a large vote, and if elected the circuit will have a presiding judge worthy of the place in every sense of the word.

While he has made no announcement of this fact, yet his friends are going to press him into the race for ordinary two years from now. It is an acknowledged fact that he made the best ordinary county judge ever had, and the people are going to call him back two years hence.

Judge Moore Will Not Run.

Notwithstanding the fact that strong pressure has been brought to bear on Judge S. L. Moore to enter the race for judge of the city court, he has made up his mind not to enter the race.

Judge Moore prefers to leave the scramble for this place between the two gentlemen who have already announced, and who are brothers-in-law to each other.

KILLING OF ENGLISHMAN TAKE ON DIFFERENT ASPECT

El Paso, Tex., March 12.—Information that evidence gathered by the Carranza commission indicates Major Rodolfo Fierro as the slayer of William S. Benton assumed importance tonight with the arrival of American passengers from Chihuahua with reports, not confirmed, that Fierro has been arrested, charged with the murder of two Mexican railroad men.

That the railroad men were murdered is known and it is said the slaying was done in cold blood. Whether Fierro really has been arrested in connection with the case is only a report, but the information is regarded as probably correct by those conversant with the fact that the Carranza Commission started work with the information that Carranza killed the Englishman.

It is said also, that the commission has gathered convincing evidence that Col. Fidel Villa, commanding the garrison at Juarez, ordered the execution of General Baugh, a German-American, who was tried as a spy, but in whose case no verdict was rendered.

FRANK'S RETRIAL

Atlanta Journal Says First Hearing Was Not Fair

The most sensational development in the case of L. M. Frank, under sentence of death for the murder of Mary Phagan, came Tuesday afternoon, when the Atlanta Journal appeared with a two column editorial headed—"Leo Frank Should Have a New Trial." The Journal declared Frank was not fairly tried and convicted, and that to put him to death under the present sentence would be judicial murder. The Journal says in part:

"The very brutality of the murder of Mary Phagan aroused public indignation to a degree of frenzy almost inconceivable. The criminal was demanded and the criminal must be found."

"An irresponsible drunken negro charged Leo Frank with the crime. He related in minute and nauseating detail the horrible circumstances surrounding the murder. No other victim could be discovered, and in the absence of convincing evidence against anybody else public fury gradually centered on Frank."

"Is Frank guilty of the murder of Mary Phagan? We do not know. He may be guilty or he may be innocent. He may be a fiend incarnate or he may be the victim of a cruel conspiracy. Whether he is innocent or guilty is not now the question. Leo Frank has not had a fair trial. He has not been fairly convicted, and his death without a fair trial and a legal conviction will amount to judicial murder."

"It was not within the power of human judges and human juries and human juries, to decide impartially and without fear the guilt or innocence of an accused man under the circumstances that surrounded this trial."

"The court room and streets were filled with so angry, determined crowd ready to seize the defendant if the jury had found him not guilty. Cheers for the prosecuting counsel were irrepressible in the court room throughout the trial, and in the streets unbecomingly demonstrations in condemnation of acquittal would cause a riot such as would shock the country and cause Atlanta's streets to run with innocent blood. Under such indescribable conditions as these Frank was tried and convicted. Was a fair trial under the circumstances possible?"

Frank and his attorneys were greatly cheered by the editorial. They say it indicates a change in public opinion which will force a new trial. Frank was in conference with his attorneys at the jail this afternoon in reference to the extraordinary motion for a new trial soon to be filed.

It is stated that the defense has a number of affidavits not published from witnesses who testified against Frank repudiating the original testimony. Report is current that in the unpublished affidavits is testimony as valuable as the recently developed point which tends to show that the murder notes were written in the basement instead of the office, as was contended.

Frank and his wife exhibited much emotion when he read the Atlanta editorial. "Thank God!" exclaimed Mrs. Frank. "The light is breaking." The extraordinary motion for a new hearing of the case will be filed before April 17, the date recently set for execution of the death sentence. It is expected about April 7.

EXTRAVAGANT USE OF AUTOS AROUSES IRE OF WILLIAMS

Washington, March 12.—Senator John Sharp Williams made an unsuccessful effort today to check what he called government extravagance in the purchase of automobiles for "joy riding purposes." The question came up during the consideration of the District of Columbia appropriation bill to provide automobiles for the district commissioners.

The senator said the extent to which the government had gone into the purchase of automobiles for cabinet officers and department heads, who, as far as government business is concerned, had no use for them except to come to their work and go home again, was a public scandal. He used the street cars himself, he added, and found them quite good enough.

For public servants whose business could be expedited by the use of automobiles, Senator Williams advocated salary increases sufficient to enable them to buy machines.

Senator Gallinger remarked that he had often been misled by a government machine driven by a department clerk, and Senator Lodge admitted that the government had gone "pretty far" in the automobile buying industry, but both thought the district commissioners ought to have what they asked.

Senator Williams' amendment to eliminate provision for the machines was voted down.

Chickens Scarce and High.

The price of chickens keeps soaring skyward. There has been very few offered in the local market, the price starting out at 40 cents each for grown hens, and then going to 50 cents. As fast as a coop came in they were snatched up, and local dealers refused to take less than sixty. The price on hens in the Savannah market is 80 cents each, undressed. This has had a great deal to do with the price in the market here.

Cow Election Tomorrow.

The question of disposing with "Sis Cow" on the streets of the city will be disposed of tomorrow. So far, very little opposition has developed, but it wouldn't be surprising that it should crop out at the polls tomorrow.

Mr. Romer Alderman brought in a wagon load of home raised hams and hocks during the week. Mr. Alderman says the load brought in was not more than half what he would have to sell the present season. He killed forty pigs and hogs. He is probably not worried very much over the question of the high cost of living.

ECONOMY IN FRYING MEDIUMS

All Fats That Are Produced When Cooking Should Be Preserved for Use in the Future.

A needless expense in many households is the waste of valuable fats and oils. In the kitchen without number the most excellent "shortening" and frying mediums are thrown out in the garbage can.

The provident New Englander or French woman is horrified at this extravagance, as they save every bit of fat and try it out for use in cooking. The "top of the pot"—that is, that fat which rises on the water in which corned beef is boiled or soup stock—is excellent for use for shortening in gingerbread or cookies. Fried oil chicken is equal to the best olive oil and can even be used in making mayonnaise or French pastry. Mutton and lamb fats are too fatty and hard to be used in cooking, but they make a first class campfire for or for chapped hands, cracked heels and chilblains. There is no better frying medium than half lard and half drippings or equal parts of suet and oil. Drippings, yet extravagant cooks and ignorant housewives often insist on using butter, lard, or oil, from its prohibitive price, is apt to burn. Bacon, ham and pork fat are all good for frying potatoes, liver, corn meal mush and baked beans, or for the frying of those shortening and frying mediums are not wasted, the butter, lard, even in midwinter, may be kept comparatively small—Emma P. Telford.

DRUG HOUSE ENJOINED BY FEDERAL COURT

Judge Jeremiah Netter, of the United States district court, today granted a permanent injunction in behalf of the Centaur Company of New York, the manufacturers of Fletcher's Castoria, against the Stewart & Holmes Drug Company of this city.

The controversy arose from the simulating of the labels of this well-known preparation, and from the evidence filed in the case it was shown that the infringing label was first discovered on sale in Honolulu, and was traced to its origin here in Seattle.

The defendant company is one of the oldest and largest concerns of its kind in the Northwest.

The decree carries with it an order that the Stewart & Holmes Company recall the goods which are on the market under the infringing label, and to pay all costs in the suit and damages assessed at $400—Seattle, Wash., Times—Adv.

Feel All Used Up?

Ever feel that you can go no further—that you must have rest for that lame and aching back—relief from that constant, dead-tired feeling?

Have you suspected your kidneys? Kidney disease shows itself in back-ache, nervous troubles and disorders of the kidney secretions, if tired, worried, lame, rheumatic, dizzy and nervous don't let a possible weakness of the kidneys escape attention until it turns into a case of gravel, dropsy or Bright's disease.

Sick kidneys go from bad to worse. Their useful work of filtering the blood is only partly done. Poisons that should be passed out with the kidney secretions are held in the blood, circulating freely, attacking muscles, nerves and vital organs. The kidneys inflame, swell and atrophy, and that is the cause of sharp pains in the back, or that dull, constant heavy ache.

For quick help use Doan's Kidney Pills. No other kidney remedy is used and recommended so generally. Take them when you feel the first bad backache, or see the first disturbance of the kidney secretions. Doan's have

Here is a story told of the eleven-year-old son of a Philippine headhunter, recently brought to San Francisco by a returning missionary. The boy, being introduced to some friends of his guardian, remarked that he knew much about the United States, and understood basketball—where he called it "miki tola."

"So you know basketball?" one questioner remarked. "What do you call the umpire?"

The boy hesitated, and the missionary encouraged him.

"Call the gentleman what you call the umpire, my boy?"

"Thief, sometimes, but robber mostly," was the unexpected reply.

When kidneys act bad, take glass of salts. Eat less meat. If kidneys hurt or you have backache or bladder misery—Meat Fries Urine Acid.

No man or woman who eats meat regularly can make a mistake by flushing the kidneys occasionally, say, a well-known authority. Meat forms uric acid which clogs the kidney pores, and so they sluggishly filter or strain only part of the waste and poisons from the blood, then you get sick. Nearly all rheumatism, headache, liver trouble, nervousness, constipation, dizziness, sleeplessness, bladder disorders come from sluggish kidneys.

The moment you feel a dull ache in the kidneys or your back hurts, or if the urine is cloudy, offensive, full of sediment, irregular of passage or attended by a sensation of itching, get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any reliable pharmacist and take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia and has been used by generations to flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to activity, also to neutralize the acids in urine so it no longer causes irritation, thus ending bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive and cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which is a regular meat eater should take now and then to keep the kidneys clean and the blood pure, thereby avoiding serious kidney complications—Adv.

GOLDSMITH'S GRAVE

Annual Event at Last Resting Place of Noted Author.

Interesting Resume of Occurrences to Commemorate Anniversary of Death of the Writer of "The Deserted Village."

London.—It was in the early part of November in London one autumn that I remembered having read of an interesting occurrence which took place there each year and would re-visit in a few days. So I went to the Temple church, and inquired of the sexton. He was not one to overtalk with, but he was in giving information. He said that the anniversary of the death of Goldsmith was celebrated there each year, and that the anniversary of the death of Goldsmith was celebrated there each year, and that the anniversary of the death of Goldsmith was celebrated there each year.

It was a gloomy day, the kind which fills most people with depression, but for others is tinged with a rare beauty. There was no sun and by two o'clock the darkness had begun to fall. The church was dimly lit, and the atmosphere was heavy and oppressive.

Some big function was going on inside, and a crowd had gathered to watch the ceremony. Two poorly dressed men were in the crowd. One of them said to the other: "You, what's your name?" "I dunno," said the other. "But I guess they're layin' the cornerstone of the new building."

Take Your Choice of Males. Suppose of a student who told down the Latchford gorge in the Alps but was caught on a rock and remained suspended for two days and nights, recalls to the London Chronicle another Grundelwald escape of which Leslie Stephen tells. Returning from the chateau above the Elsenner, one of Stephen's guides, Michel, reached the edge of a cliff where a wooden rail guarded the path. Unfortunately the rail fell off prematurely, and Michel had been drinking. So he stepped over and fell on hard rock nearly 100 feet below. He lay there all night and next morning got up and walked home, rober and whole. Stephen submits two morals for choice: "Don't get drunk when you have to walk along the edge of an Alpine cliff," and "Get drunk if you are likely to fall over an Alpine cliff."

NO GUSHER. But Tells Facts About Postum. A Vis. lady found an easy and safe way out of the ills caused by Postum. She says: "We quit coffee and have used Postum for the past eight years, and drink it nearly every meal. We never tire of it."

He was an old gentleman, dignified and very spry. His clothes were neat, seeming to be of a past generation, and his appearance was rather shabby. He rapidly approached the grave, passing us, and laid the floral offering there, stopped, lifting his high, old-fashioned hat a moment, as if in prayer, then turned and was moving as quickly away again when I layd him, asking if there were to be no reading of "The Deserted Village" today.

His face on closer scrutiny was seen to be refined and the expression was full of sadness and emotion. I shall never forget the gentleness and the pathos of his reply: "No—no more, all dead now except myself. I am left alone."

The darkness had become gloomy when we returned slowly to the graveyard. There lay the flowers, a noble collection, symbolical, I have no doubt to the bearer, for there were ivy leaves, some violets and one pure white tuberose. "Six glories" were the lights of the church from its exquisite windows filtered out toward us, comforting and the strains of evensong were trying to be an angelic benediction. As we rode home through the crowded streets, I thought of that lonely old man and how London with all her millions must have seemed that night to him a Deserted Village.

Peculiar Formation at Top of a Common Spruce That Is Explained by Country Life.

London.—The photograph shows a curious growth on a common spruce tree. The tree was about thirty years old, and was cut down a short time ago, and this growth formed at the top. It forms a very dense mass, and in its growth it has become a very peculiar shape, while the weight of the pole and growth as seen in the flower-pot comes to nearly three-quarters of a hundredweight. The natural spruce may be seen in the photograph.

Turn back over a hundred years to the days of Andrew Jackson—French Market Coffee was even then the most famous drink in America. Its history extends itself with the history of the old aristocracy of the South. The Belle and Beau of New Orleans slipped it at midnight for generations. To them no Mardi Gras Ball was complete without a link of French Market Coffee. A link of French Market Coffee was a link of French Market Coffee. ### BETTER EQUIPMENT FOR

Mr. Olliff Carries
Kinlaw to Savannah

Augusta Chronicle:

Complying with the request made a short time ago by the Merchants' and Manufacturers' Association, the Central of Georgia Railway will in a few days, put into operation on the Savannah-Augusta line some magnificent train equipment.

Tuesday morning, on train No. 1, out of Savannah, the road began putting into operation its seven new all-steel trains, every feature of the equipment being entirely modern and of the newest design and finish.

In each of the trains are a baggage and mail car, express car, three coaches and a Pullman, each car riding on triple-wheel trucks, and being equipped with electric fans, the new style of railroad plumbing, double windows and Pullman screens.

These trains displace a modern equipment heretofore in use by the Central on its Savannah-Atlanta line, and that equipment is to be transferred to the Savannah-Augusta line.

On Friday morning Mr. J. P. Olliff left over the Savannah & Statesboro Railway for Savannah, where he went to carry out the duties of the position of general manager of the Savannah & Statesboro Railway. Mr. Olliff was taken off the S. & S. train as it arrived in town, two weeks ago, upon request of the authorities in Savannah, charged with having murdered a man over in Carolina a few weeks ago. There was a reward of $100 offered for his apprehension at the time, and Mr. Olliff immediately wired the authorities that he had the man wanted in his custody, and was ready to surrender him, on the payment of the reward. It seems that there was some hitch in the payment of the reward and Mr. Olliff held him until matters could be straightened out. Yesterday he received word that the authorities were ready to pay the money, and Mr. Olliff took Kinlaw down to Savannah to deliver him up and receive the reward. Instead of $100, the amount coming to the Statesboro officer will be $25 and costs, there being other demands which left that much for the arresting officer.

Sam Smith Receives Pardon.

On Wednesday of last week Sam Smith, who has been serving a term on the Balloch county chain gang on a charge of selling whisky, received the welcome news that he was again a free man, the governor having pardoned him after he had served an eighth portion of a twelve month sentence. Smith has been sick a great deal of the time, and the authorities have found him anything but a profitable charge. It is said that there were very few tears shed down at the camp when the news of his pardon was received.

Saturday Was Banner Day

The streets of Statesboro were crowded and jammed all day on Saturday, and the merchants all report a fine business. The people seemed to have taken advantage of the first good day for two or three weeks and swarmed into town in great droves. The candidates reaped a rich harvest, and took advantage of the big crowd to put in some telling talks. The way the various candidates were striking the boys reminded us that the campaign was on in dead earnest.

TO DIVIDE PENSIONS

IN THREE PAYMENTS

Atlanta, Ga., March 14.—Governor Slaton has decided to divide the payment of Confederate pensions into three installments this year instead of two, as has been the necessary custom for the past few years.

Therefore, it is expected that Pension Commissioner Lindsey's warrant for about $225,000 will be approved and that Col. Lindsey will allot the sum probably by drawing from a hat among the eighty-six pensioning counties not paid, going as far as possible with the sum in hand.

Treasurer Spear told the executive that he thought the entire balance of approximately $500,000 could be paid next week or the week following at any rate, but inasmuch as the old pensioners are needy and clamoring for their money, Governor Slaton thought it best to let half the sum go out at once in order that at least half would be relieved.

To the first distribution, made some weeks ago, about $600,000 was paid out to pensioners in six by two counties.

It is believed that those remaining after as many as possible are paid tomorrow will receive their money in less than three weeks.

A Benefactor of the World

George Westinghouse was a real captain of industry. His genius was not confined to the accumulation of money, though the world did not begrudge him his success in that respect. He was a combination of dreamer, which is another word for thinker and financier. From his boyhood he was a producer of things that contributed to the rapid progress of the world. He was a great man, who worked not only for his own generation but for posterity. His definition of his genius is simple; he knew what he wanted to do and was persistent in trying to do it.

In the beginning he began to think along a certain line and kept it up until his dreams resolved themselves into practical inventions. What he started he finished. He was not afraid of hard work. His life is an example for ambitious boys. His first rebuff was from the recognized financial leader of the day in this country, but he did not despair at that account. He sought financial support elsewhere. He was self-reliant.

The title "captain of industry" is too often applied erroneously to those who, by manipulation of stocks, accumulate millions. Instead, it should be reserved for those whose work is constructive, who leave something of real value to the world at large when they die. Nobody deserves the title better than did Westinghouse. He served progress and his name is worthy of a high place among those Americans who have done most for their fellowman.—Savannah Morning News.

KILLS WIFE, TWO BABIES AND HIMSELF

In Presence of Young Page Shoots Himself in Brain, Dying While Coroner is Probing Tragedy.

Stillmore, March 20.—J. A. Eubanks, 32 years old, residing seven miles west of here, early this morning killed his wife, his 4-year-old daughter and a 6-month-old baby, then set fire to all of the buildings on the premises except the house.

After summoning a neighbor he shot himself and died at 11 o'clock this morning from the self-inflicted wound.

The series of crimes are the most frightful that have ever come to the attention of the citizens of Emanuel county, say old residents.

Eubanks evidently quarreled with his wife during the night. Then, in the belief of those who examined the bodies, he beat her over the head with the butt end of an axe and then with the sharpened side of the same instrument he nearly severed the woman's head from her body.

Leaving the body of his wife stretched upon the floor, Eubanks ran to the back where his two little children lay sleeping. He thrust a knife into the body of each as they slept, and they both died on the bed where they lay when attacked.

Eubanks next proceeded to burn his property. Whether this was an effort to cover up his crime or the result of insanity is a matter of thought. He ran to the barn and touched off that building, burning his cow and calf and horses. He set fire to the cotton house, destroying five tons of fertilizer.

With everything in flames he started to go to the home of the nearest neighbor, a family named Page. On the way he met a son of Page, who had started out to investigate the fire.

"Come to get you to help me move some of my things over to Stillmore," said Eubanks to young Page.

"Where's your family?" asked the young man.

"Back there; they're all gone; they're all burning up!" replied Eubanks.

According to Page, Eubanks appeared rational at that time, though considerably excited and nervous. Page called to his father.

In the presence of young Page Eubanks exclaimed: "It's no use; it's just one thing after another." He explained no further, but drew a pistol and sent a bullet into his brain.

It was nearly dawn when Eubanks put the finishing touches on the series of crimes. Young Page summoned a physician from Oak Park. News of the tragedy spread like wildfire through the county, and within a short time there were scores of people on the scene. While the coroner's jury was conducting the investigation Eubanks died.

The verdict of the coroner's jury was brief, merely stating that Mrs. Eubanks and her two children had come to their death through violence at the hands of J. A. Eubanks, who committed suicide.

Eubanks formerly resided here in Stillmore, where he leaves a brother, George. He was well thought of, considered industrious and enterprising. He was making a success as a farmer, so far as known. His wife was the daughter of "Dad" Noel, of this place.

The bodies of Mrs. Eubanks and her children were in a frightful condition. The funeral of all the victims will be held tomorrow, at one time.

The following note was found by the coroner, which is the only explanation of the tragedy:

"To Whom It May Concern:

"You all know I have had a bad and a long of it with this woman. March don't advise any one else wrong.

"Farewell, one and all."

The note was not signed.

Eubanks had been in ill health for some time, it is claimed.

The appearance of things in the 12 hours from midnight to about midnight and started the quarrel with his wife.

The bureau drawers were found open and every article of clothing belonging to his wife had been hauled out and buried in the open grave. The woman was left nothing but the night gown which she wore.

The knife and razor used by Eubanks to commit the murder of his two children were found in his pockets, wrapped up in a handkerchief.

BURNS DISCUSSES THE FRANK CASE

Expects to See Conley

Atlanta, March 19.—Detective William J. Burns had more to say about the Frank case today, although he is still silent as to what he has discovered as a result of his investigations. He expressed the conviction that Solicitor General Hugh M. Dorsey is still open to conviction about the Mary Phagan murder, and said he was confident that when he submitted a report he would be able to convince the solicitor whether he discovered Frank was innocent or guilty.

Burns declined to state today how many men he has at work on the Frank case, but admitted that he had summoned Dan Lehon, manager of his New Orleans office, here to assist him. He considers Lehon one of the best detectives in the country.

Burns today scoffed at the idea that Conley's lawyer could keep him from seeing the negro when the time comes for him to seek an interview with the confessed accessory of Frank in the slaying of the Fagan girl.

Burns still insists that there is no mystery about the case which cannot be cleared up, and he thinks he will have no difficulty in convincing all when he gets through.

The Frank death warrant went to Sheriff Mangum April 17, but in any event it appears certain he will not hang at that time.
