"Unwise to Change"

Statesboro, Ga., Aug. 10th, 1914.
We, the undersigned citizens of Bullock county, most heartily commend Congressman Chas. G. Edwards for his unselfish course in returning to Washington at this time. The disturbances arising from the war in Europe seriously threaten our welfare. Commerce is being demoralized and prices of cotton are being depressed. A man who will sacrifice his personal interest for the public good is worthy of our support. We pledge Congressman Edwards our earnest support in his absence and urge other farmers and business men having the good of our section at heart to do likewise. We further wish to impress upon our people that in our opinion it would be critical time like this when experience and conservatism are needed.

Have You Been to Adabelle?

Editor Statesboro News:
I am forever out of politics in our county. Will you allow me to vary the monotonous subject a little. I attend a quarterly meeting at Adabelle last Saturday and Sunday. It was a Methodist meeting, but if anyone could see the difference in Methodist, Missionary or Primitive Baptist there they were closer observers than I am. They were all there and took due interest and part in the services. Sermons were fine, singing was excellent and the order and conduct of the congregation was perfect. All furnished dinner on the ground Saturday and Sunday. Quantity, enough for two such crowds both days and the quality could not be excelled.

Sam and I were entertained by a Primitive Baptist family who could not have shown more considerate kindness for their own favorite members. They have the old-time religion in that community—people care for and help one another and have respect for their neighbors. Singing there is not forced by a twenty foot lever power, but flows forth freely from the heart.

There was a business session of the Register circuit held on Saturday and all the churches in the charge showed a progressive and healthy condition, except the church at Harville which clearly set up the fact that it was operating a very cheap Methodism, only contributing about one-third the amount of other churches to the Lord's cause, and the burden borne by two or three families.

A more important day than August 19th is coming for all the human race.
Respectfully,
Geo. E. Wilson.

Statesboro people should not neglect their kidneys. No kidney ailment is unimportant. Don't overlook the slightest backache or urinary irregularity. Nature may be warning you of approaching dropsy, gravel or kidney disease. Kidney disease is seldom fatal if treated in time, but neglect may pave the way. Don't neglect a lame or aching back another day. Don't ignore dizzy spells, irregular or discolored urine, headaches, weariness or depression. If you feel you need kidney help begin using the time-tested remedy, Doan's Kidney Pills. For 50 years Doan's have been clearing effective. Endorsed by Statesboro people.
Mrs. G. H. Mock, 48 N. Main street, Statesboro, Ga.: "Whenever my back gives out and I am feeling run down from kidney trouble I use Doan's Kidney Pills and they never fail to bring me good results. EDWARDS LEAVES FOR WASHINGTON

He Cancels All Speaking Engagements For Duty.

Containing that the interests of the farmers and the public mean more to him than his personal interests. Congressman Charles G. Edwards has cancelled all of his speaking dates and returned to Washington to take active part in making plans for the protection of the cotton growers of the South.

Congressman Edwards returned to Savannah from Metter yesterday, immediately cancelling his engagement for the day and the dates for the remainder of the campaign. Mr. Edwards took the train at night for the capital to aid in formulating and adopting plans for the benefit of the farmers whose interests have been endangered through conditions brought about by the war in Europe. Mr. Edwards said:

"I have been watching the situation closely. I had the promise of some of the leaders in the House to advise me when I am needed in Washington so that I could return. I have not heard from them, but I know that the situation is critical and that my duty is there at this time. I place duty to the public above personal ambition or personal interest, and while my campaign may suffer some by my absence from the district, I feel that I should return immediately and do my share in protecting the interests of our people.

"There is much at stake at this time for the country and especially for the cotton farmers. I have always been loyal and faithful to duty and stated in my speech at Metter that if it became apparent that conditions needed my presence in Washington I would have to leave my campaign in the hands of my friends and rely upon the people to take care of my interests while I take care of theirs. I regret I cannot be in both places. I have been in the district for a short while and would like to be here and wish my speech making campaign in order to deny many false charges that have been made against me and my record."

"I am confident it is to be the interest of my constituency for me to be in Washington at this crisis and hence I am obeying the call of duty in an effort to be of service to the good people who have elected me and entrusted me with their commission. I would rather be defeated ten times over than fail to perform my duty by the people who have honored me."

A BLACK CLOUD OVER THE WHOLE EARTH

Lightning Flashes of Death. A Dreadful Picture That Will Shock Future Civilization.

(Atlanta Georgian)

In Europe millions of men are mobilized for murder. On the long stretches of highway men are marching, Frenchmen into Germany, Germans into France, Russians into Germany, each with but one thought, to inflict death at any cost.

At sea the gray warships wait for each other like great monsters of prey, and even in the air the death hunt goes on. Every home in Europe has its anxious heart, its fear of death. Every noble effort of mankind is paralyzed and futile.

The world waits only for news of great destruction, or of the official statement of some nation that it in its turn has joined the ranks of murder.

Horrible is the picture that this earth now offers to future generations.

Men that might live happily and at peace are thinking only how they may most effectively destroy each other.

Fleets that would feed all and millions more are to be made fields of battle and drenched with blood.

Seventeen millions of human beings, armed with deadly weapons, may be brought into this horrible, needless fight before it ends.

Of these millions some are old, many millions are young, mere boys.

Race hatred, religious hatred, flame up with bitterness forgotten. The world must suffer long for the revival of these hatreds.

Our own nation looks on in humble spirit.

Seeing the nations murder each other, we might well say as John Wesley said of the drunkard in the gutter, 'But for the grace of God there lies John Wesley.'

But for our isolated position, the thousands of miles of ocean that separate us from the conflict, we might be devoting every effort to the murder of others, and sacrificing every constructive power in the work of destroying.

For we are no better than any European nation, if we are as good. We are made up of those nations. They are our brothers, our fathers and our mothers.

And with horror we look on helplessly.

There is no news to tell. Details will be printed in all of the newspapers. Loss of life, destruction of ships, burning of cities, dreadful, infamous crimes against civilization will be recorded. But all of that is not news.

The whole story is told in one message—civilization has declared war against itself.

Terrible is the lesson to be learned by the fighting tribes of savage men that call themselves nations. It is an old and dreadful lesson. It was learned by Cain when his brother lay dead before him and fled from the curse. It is a lesson learned in each century and almost each year, since men began struggling for power and wealth.

"He that leadeeth into captivity shall go into captivity; He that killeth with the sword must be killed with the sword." The world is a picture of horror, and there is not a bright spot in it except the distant hope that from this international crime and riot of blood and destruction real peace at last shall come.

LEM M. PARK FOR STATE TREASURER OF GEORGIA

Lem M. Park now has campaign headquarters in room 151, Kimball House, Atlanta, where a heavy welcome is extended all who call, and appreciating the honor and confidence of the people, he will be grateful for the vote and kindly influence of all in the Democratic primary on Wednesday, August 19.

Lem M. Park is the youngest brother of the late Capt. Robt. E. Park, former state treasurer. He was born in Moriwether county and reared in Troup, in both of which Georgia counties he now has farming interests.

He left school to enter the Confederate service, and is now member Troup County Camp, No. 405, and Colonel on staff of U. C. V. Commander-in-Chief.

He is a clean man of integrity and as capable, worthy and well qualified as any who ever held the office of State Treasurer. (Read what others say of him.)

While desiring to meet all voters face to face, yet, by reason of short time, it has been found for Mr. Park to get into all communities, although he has visited almost every county in the state, and is grateful for the hearty assurances of support received through the mails and wherever he has gone.

Under every administration for years the Auditors, Legislative committees and Clearing Houses have found the State Treasury department in the condition, and Lem Park promises as capable, efficient and honest service as any ever rendered.

Ben F. Perry, editor Jonesboro News and the Grady County Progress, at Cairo, will serve as Chief Clerk, which position he satisfactorily filled for nearly four years, is a guarantee of experienced service.

Vote for Lem M. Park for State Treasurer on Wednesday, August 19. And have your friends do likewise.

A Correction.

The attention of our readers has been called to an oversight in last week's paper: An article consisting of several paragraph locals endorsing Hon. R. N. Hardeman for judge of the superior court, was sent in and the foreman failed to mark them as advertisements, giving them the appearance of editorial endorsement of Mr. Hardeman.

Now, the News is and has been unqualifiedly for Judge Strange, not only through local pride but because the News believes he is eminently fitted for the position, having the qualities which make for an honest, impartial and fearless administration of the law and the dispatch of the business of the court.

It's a Runaway For Edwards. Will Be Sweeping Victory

From every county except Screven, comes assuring reports that Edwards will succeed himself by the largest majority he has ever received. It now looks like a runaway for the "Plover Boy." It is no more than he deserves. He has been faithful and the people will be loyal. He returned to Washington in order that he might his services to aiding the farmers at this critical time. He took more thought and care in his campaign than his own interest. This marks him as a great man willing to do his duty and to serve the people regardless of results to his own campaign. The people appreciate this spirit and will show their appreciation by electing him to this critical time even to the sacrifice of his own personal and political interest leaves no doubt of his loyalty to the people. We need and should keep such men as Edwards in Congress—Enterprise.

And again repeated the command, "Love thy neighbor."

A quarrel, one man's dignity is offended, another man says, "I will help my friend though it cost a million lives," and all of Europe becomes a slaughter house, men marching, blood running, civilization and every good instinct forgotten.

Is 35 Years Long Enough To Hold One Office?

If So, Vote For G. M. Roberts

A Confederate Veteran, for Comptroller General

WHAT PEOPLE SAY

I have been intimately acquainted with Mr. G. M. Roberts, who is a candidate for the office of Comptroller General of Georgia, for the past thirty years. He is a good business man, having been quite successful in various enterprises to which he has given his attention. He is public spirited and enterprising, but has not heretofore sought public office, but has been ready at all times to discharge the duties that fall to a private citizen, having been foreman of the Grand Jury of his county several times. Any statement made by Mr. Roberts, touching business or political matters, I feel sure may be relied on implicitly.

Very respectfully,
PRICE EDWARDS, Judge Superior Courts, Tal. Cir.

Mr. G. M. Roberts, of Buchanan, Ga., has acted in various capacities on Grand Jury during my term as Solicitor General of Tallapoosa Circuit, and I regard him a business man of marked ability, fair, honest, capable and I believe he would fill the office he seeks fairly and with ability. I have known him for thirty years.

J. R. HUTCHESON, Sol. Gen. Tal. Circuit.

Having known Hon. Geo. M. Roberts, of this place, for the past twenty years, it is with pleasure I recommend him as being worthy of the confidence and support of the good people of the State. Mr. Roberts is an able business man, and if elected to the office of Comptroller General, will fill the office with a degree of credit to himself and the state.

G. M. ROBERTS.

gree of credit to himself and the state.
W. O. STRICKLAND, Ex-Clerk Superior Court.

We have known Mr. G. M. Roberts for 21 years, personally, served on Grand Jury when he was foreman, and find him a fair and impartial man, doing business between his fellow-men fairly, and believe the good people of Georgia will make no mistake in supporting him for the office he seeks.

JOEL PHILLIPS, Ex-Mayor.
R. H. PARKER, Sheriff.

I have known Mr. G. M. Roberts 25 years as a business man and a citizen. I find him a straight forward, businesslike man, worthy the support of the people of Georgia for the office he now seeks. He has lived in Buchanan 37 years. It is the talk of the town he will not lose a vote in it.

Advantages of a Checking Account.

Do you know that 90 per cent of commercial transactions are made without the exchange of actual cash? This for the two great reasons—Safety and Efficiency. And these two reasons apply as well to the modest business as to the big Wall street operations. When you give your check you do not waste one moment counting money. Of greater importance is the fact that your check automatically gives you a receipt.

STATE TREASURER SPEER HAS FINE RECORD

In making up your ticket to-morrow be sure to leave the name of W. J. Speer on it. He is a good man, an old confederate soldier, and is deserving of your vote. He has held the office only a short time and ought to be retained. He has favored several Bulloch county people by giving them the appointment of state bank examiner. He has shown that he is our friend and a friend to the people of this section. There is no better man in Georgia than W. J. Speer, and you will be doing the right thing when you cast your vote for him.

Sheppard-Crawford.

On last Friday afternoon Mr. J. A. Crawford and Miss Veronica Sheppard were united in marriage at the home of Rev. T. J. Cobb, Mr. Cobb performing the ceremony. Mrs. Crawford is the attractive daughter of Mrs. B. I. Swinson, and the groom holds a responsible position with the Singer Sewing Machine Co. in Statesboro. Their many friends join in extending congratulations.

GREAT EDWARDS RALLY!

Tremendous Throng of People Turn Out to Hear Address of Dr. A. L. R. Avant—Great Ovation Accorded Speaker.

If there ever had been any doubt as to how the people of Bulloch county stood on the congressional race that doubt was overwhelmingly removed on Saturday afternoon, when the largest crowd of people that has assembled in Statesboro in three years assembled to listen at an address which was delivered by Dr. A. L. R. Avant, a former Bulloch county citizen who now lives in Savannah.

Notwithstanding the fact that the speaker was not scheduled until the afternoon, by eleven o'clock the streets of the city were thronged with farmers from all parts of county, and in many instances they were accompanied by their wives and other members of their families. The discussions on the street corners and in the stores, on the court house lawn and in other gathering places where the people met and jammed against each other showed a strong sentiment for Edwards—in fact, there was very little else to be heard. Occasionally a lonesome Overstreet supporter would summon courage to raise an argument, but it was a waste of words. The people who had gathered were overwhelmingly for Edwards, and lost no opportunity to so express themselves.

At one thirty a wagon drawn by four horses on which were streamers, "Bulloch for Edwards," carrying the Metter Cornet Band, paraded the streets, through the business section and down several of the residence streets. The crowd being too large for any building in the city, the only thing large enough to hold them was the court house square. Then the great crowd extending its line of humanity far out into streets, rendered it difficult for traffic to pass through.

Dr. A. J. Mooney delivered the introductory remarks, and it was during his introduction that a misunderstanding arose about the presentation of a flag that Mr. Edwards had given the Statesboro Institute through the civic league, but the matter was soon explained, and the satisfaction of all concerned, after which Dr. Avant arose amidst a tumultuous round of applause and began speaking. He started out by paying a pretty little compliment to Mr. Overstreet, showing that it was not his disposition to throw mud. He had no censure for the gentleman from Screven; he thought that the race was a leuda-ble one, and a right that any citizen had coming to him. Dr. Avant then went straight into the record of Congressman Edwards, showing that he had been a faithful and diligent public servant, and had been true to the trust confided to him. There was an occasional hurrah for Overstreet, coming from a crowd of half dozen young men and boys, part of whom not being old enough to vote, but whenever a point was scored the cheering was deafening, and rent the air for several blocks around.

Dr. Avant held the attention of the crowd for something over two hours, and at the end of his address a rush was made for the platform, when he was overwhelmed with congratulations, the scene

Something About the Gubernatorial Race

When you go to the polls tomorrow you will find three names on your ticket in the race for governor. One of them is your neighbor and friend, Hon. J. Randolph Anderson, of Savannah. Mr. Anderson is the only South Georgian in the race. He is the only candidate from a section that has been outlawed from this office for eighty-six years. He is a good, honorable man, straight as a shingle and the friend of the common people.

Some of our citizens are allowing their good judgment away by sentimental reasons; they feel that they ought to vote for Hon. Nat. E. Harris because he is an old soldier. Now, there is no man on the face of the earth who holds in higher reverence the men who fought through the bloody war of the sixties than does the writer, but in the present race we cannot afford it. Mr. Harris is a good man, and worthy of everything that has been said of him but he is not dependent on this office. He is well fixed. One of the best lawyers in Macon; attorney for the Southern railway, and does not merit your vote except through sentimental reasons.

His record is that he has not always been your friend. On several occasions he has been in a position to pass upon your rights and your welfare. While a member of the Georgia legislature several years ago he admits voting for a bill to raise the rate of interest from eight to twelve per cent per annum. In whose interest was he working then? Was he sentimental enough to think of your welfare then? Which way did his sentiments run? Were they for the money borrowing public or were they in behalf of the money lending banks and corporations?

He also voted against giving you any protection on your fertilizer inspection. He also voted against allowing you to have it analyzed, which makes the fertilizer manufacturers give you your money's worth. Which way in that case did his sentiments run? Did they run in the direction of the thousands of farmers, who, he said, ought to be made to pay for dead and regardless of its value; or did they run in the direction of the then already fat and protected fertilizer manufacturers?

On the other hand, you have a friend and neighbor in the race—a man, the son of a brave Confederate soldier, a man whose father fought as many hard battles as Nat. Harris did. A man in the prime of life, a man who has more knowledge of state affairs than any other man before the people.

Strange is Sure A Winner

Bulloch County Candidate Will Sweep Circuit For Judge of the Superior Court.

As the election day arrives, the news from the different counties of the Middle Judicial Circuit indicate a sweeping victory for Judge H. B. Strange.

Of course Bulloch county men are going to give their home man an immense vote, and the majority will be a big one in this county. The reports from the other counties are that Judge Strange will carry Screven by a large majority. That he will carry Toombs by a safe majority, and Vinton by a good size majority. His vote in Emanuel will be a large one and the indications are that he may defeat Saffold there, but this is not claimed, but it is a very heavy vote in Emanuel and will carry several districts in that county, even if he loses the county which if he does will be by a small margin.

Judge Beverly D. Evans who is a judge on the supreme bench, who has been at his home in Washington looking after the interest of his brother who is running for congress in the tenth says that Washington county is in the Strange column and that the Bulloch county man will get a large majority in Washington county. Mr. E. L. Smith of this city, formerly of Washington county has been in Washington for several days in the interest of Judge Strange. We have it straight from him that his investigations justify the prediction that Mr. Strange will carry Washington county by a good majority.

Strange is very strong in the lower part of Emanuel, he will carry the Stillmore district by a big vote, and sweep several others clean. It is entirely in the range of reason that he may beat Saffold in Emanuel. Of course Bob Hardeman will get a majority in Jefferson, but Judge Strange will get several hundred votes in Jefferson. There seems to be no question about either Screven or Toombs.

There is no reason why any good loyal citizen of Bulloch county should vote against Mr. Strange and it is believed that he will get a majority in every district in the county.

Statement From Sergeant at Arms Says No Threat or Warrant for Edwards.

House of Representatives, Washington, Aug. 24, 1914.
To Whom It May Concern:
The statement that a warrant for the arrest of Congressman Chas. G. Edwards had been issued under threat and fear of arrest. I brand these rumors as contemptible campaign lies. I had no notice from anyone to return, but returned because I felt that I should be at Washington during this crisis. I give below a statement from the sergeant at arms, which is self explanatory.

You have the opportunity to elect a man governor who will make you a splendid official and a man who is your neighbor and friend. A man who has always been the strong friend of Bulloch county and who says will be. Now, don't strike him down tomorrow, but show your appreciation of merit and sectional pride by voting for J. Randolph Anderson at the polls tomorrow.
