WHAT CAUSED THE WAR?

The Question Felicitously Answered by the Macou News.

This is a daily question asked by thousands of other thousands who are no better informed than the questioners. Well, here is the best explanation of the cause we have even in the public print and we congratulate the Macou News for not only its accuracy but its brevity.

Why are eight nations at war, slaying men like flies and killing and destroying billions of dollars worth of property and bankrupting themselves?

It is interesting to read each nation's statement of its reasons for participation in the gigantic conflict, the greatest and most disastrous war the world has ever known. Summarized, these reasons are as follows:

"Austria—Because Serbia would not permit Austrian officials to take part in investigations in Serbia into the responsibility of Serbia for the murder of the Austrian crown prince and princess.

"Serbia—Because, upon her refusal to accede to this demand of Austria, on the ground that she would be sacrificing her own sovereignty and in spite of her proposal to leave the matter to arbitration, Austria attacked her.

"Russia—Because Austria was making war on Serbia.

"Germany—Because Russia declined to cease mobilizing her army—a mobilization which Germany believed was directed at herself as well as herself, Austria.

"France—Because her ally, Russia, was attacked by Germany.

"Belgium—Because her neutral territory, whose neutrality was guaranteed by a treaty signed by Germany, was invaded by German armies.

"England—Because Germany had violated the treaty guaranteeing the neutrality of Belgium, of which both Germany and England were signers.

"Japan—Because her treaty with England bound her to join with England when the peace of the far east was threatened.

"However, these nations are not alone. Bosnia, sympathizing with Serbia, is contributing a quota of troops to fight Austria. Rumania, taking sides with Russia, is about to join the general melee. Turkey is showing signs of restlessness, and the Montenegrins are taking up arms.

Portugal is preparing, in compliance with a treaty with Great Britain, to send ten thousand soldiers to the front, while Italy, though treaty-bound to Germany and Austria, has an anxious eye on Turkey and is perturbed by a national sentiment which favors the allies. It seems, indeed, that all of the nations of Europe and Asia will be fighting each other.

"And for what? Read again those reasons given by the warring nations and see if you can understand any sound reason why this terrible war should have been started or should continue."—Savannah Dispatch.

NO PEACE AS YET FOR THE GERMANS

Berlin Paper Says Matter Has Not Been Considered, Tries to Explain Ruin of Cathedral.

Berlin, via London, Sept. 21, 9:38 a. m.—Commenting on a report that Count Von Botsford, German ambassador to the United States, had said his nation was looking for peace upon condition that the entity of German territory would be preserved, the North German Gazette, the official organ, declared in its issue of September 20 that the government has not even considered the matter.

"The assertions are intended," the paper says, "to foster the impression that we have tired of the war, in spite of our victories in the east and the west. Peace overtures may not be looked for until the war, forced ruthlessly on our people, is brought to an honorable conclusion."

The official statement given out last night made mention of the necessity of Rhine, it was said that Rhine was in the battle lines of the French and that the Germans were obliged to bombard it. The necessity for this action was regretted, but the fire of the French, it was said, came from that direction. Orders to save the cathedral had been given.

The statement also made this reference to the progress on other points of the line:

"The attacks on the French are progressing at several points in the central Vosges. At Dorn, near Sannois, 27 miles southeast of Lunéville and near Sannois, in the German Vosges, their offensive has been repulsed.

"There is no news from the eastern (Russian front) camp.

A Tale With an Air All Its Own The Impossible Boy

By NINA WILCOX PUTNAM Author of "IN ARCADE"

Gypsies and artists, society folks, reckless Bohemians, bold conspirators and a performing bear unite to keep this story pacing down the road to Arcady. From the care-free, airy life of the wandering gypsies along the highway you are carried to the strangest, gayest spot in Gotham's fascinating Bohemia. The characters bring their own atmosphere with them and live together in a wonderful world of joyous adventure. Action and mystery, love and humor, thrills and surprises all find place. There is a fresh plot and clever talk. There is much that is quaint, amusing and bizarre. The story is pictorial and poetic and carries the reader far out of his own work-a-day world to one that is free from care and responsibility.

Pedro, a little gypsy lad, is the central figure in the story. Answering the call of genius with his performing bear, Mr. Jones, shuffling along behind, he sets off for New York. No sooner does he strike the flagstones of the busy metropolis than excitement reigns supreme. In less than no time he is heralded as a celebrity. He becomes the center of not one, but two holding romances. With the inevitable Jones, he is fairly hurled into the midst of a daring revolutionary scheme. Adventure follows adventure. The element of suspense grows and grows. More intense becomes the love story with every chapter. And then a great unfolding—the revelation of Pedro's real identity—comes as a fitting climax for so strange a tale.

Card from Mr. McElveen

Editor News:

I read with interest many comments of yourself and suggestions of others in reference to marketing, holding, and the wide circulation given to the "Buy-a-Bale of Cotton" campaign, which you have given so much space, and have helped the farmers so much already, and feel sure there is no other medium through which there can be so much good accomplished as through yours and many other papers. I hope and feel assured that the press of the cotton states, and it has not been confined to the south alone, will continue to help the farmers. We, or I, do look to the press to help solve the problem. If, as many have said, the mills and those who are willing and have already come to the rescue of the farmers, was assured that next year's crop would be cut in half, we would get in 39 days time 121 cents for our cotton. I don't fancy a tax on all cotton raised another year, but allow me to suggest that I favor a law enacted by every state, if it can be done constitutionally, to allow no person to plant or cause to be planted more than ten or fifteen acres to the male or horse actually engaged in farming and prescribe a penalty for violating this law, or assess a tax on all cotton raised by anyone of 3 or 5 cents per pound on all cotton raised on land cultivated in cotton above 10 or 15 acres to the male actually engaged in farming, this will solve the problem and protect not only the small farmer but those who have been so generous as to rally to our rescue.

Please continue to discuss it and allow and ask others to submit plans. It can be solved and I know of no other medium better than through the press.

Yours respectfully,
P. R. McElveen.

in Notice

We will give upland cotton the balance of the season for $1.00 per bale. Bales weighing over 500 pounds will be charged extra at the rate of 40 cents per hundred. Parties due for ginning who pay up in ten days from this notice will get ginning at same price. Ginning strictly cash.

ACTIVE PREPARATIONS FOR THE BIG FAIR

Prospects Good for Biggest Fair in Bulloch County's History. Farmers Interested and Town People's Interest Keen.

The approach of the third annual Bulloch County Fair marks increasing interest and activity as the days go by. The gates of what will be the biggest fair ever seen in Bulloch county will open two weeks from next Tuesday on Oct. 20th. Word comes from every nook and corner of Bulloch, and from most of the adjoining counties. "We are coming to the fair." Notwithstanding the war scare and the absence of a cotton market the attendance this year will without doubt go far beyond anything we have ever had. The fair is an annual event, one that the people look forward to with increasing interest. They like to mix and mingle with each other, bring their best products in and show their neighbors some of the results on the farm. The younger ones and some of the older ones like to see the midway shows and ride on the merry-go-round. Take a trip to Mars, take a slide through "The house of trouble," and forget for the time being they ever had any trouble. Look at the fine chickens and hogs and cows and colts and corn and cotton, canned goods, fancy work and some pumpkins besides, and horses coming in on the home stretch neck and neck. Why three fourths of them will forget about the European war and want care whether they are fighting or not.

The work of making the necessary repairs on the buildings and grounds is now under way, and the race track has been put in good shape. All that is lacking now is the arrival of the date together with the exhibits that are ready to be installed.

While a great many other fairs over the country are calling off on account of the war, the Bulloch County Fair will be held rain or shine, war or no war. It is or will be a big fair and you will find waiting you the biggest and best fair we have ever had. Come along and let's feel good for one week at least.

Belgium King Kills Traitor IN HIS OWN AUTOMOBILE

Shot Down Chauffeur Trying to Take Him Into German Lines.

New York, Sept. 23.—A Paris cable to The American says the Progress du Nord relates a remarkable story of the King of the Belgians shooting his chauffeur, who traitorously attempted to drive him into the German lines. The King would cut himself off from his communications and from the main German army, so he decided on a bold plan of a dash across the French front, his manifest aim being to meet the German center as it came southward. And this plan he promptly and successfully executed, as hazardous as it was. Though battered by the enormous army of Paris, which fell upon his flank as he passed eastward, but without inflicting any serious damage, though were out and constantly harassed by the overwhelming numbers of the French, he kept his dwindling four corps-alikes intact, and holding off the allies and preventing that enveloping movement which they had planned. When the battle of the Marne was actually begun, with the main army attacking the German center, it was Von Kluck who was able to protect the center from a flank attack. Even when the Aisne was reached, on the German

Made Him Hot

The steer that Jones bought by weight amounted to $40.72. He didn't have the exact change, so his neighbor said: "Oh, just make it even money" so Jones handed over two Twenties and a Ten. He had paid 28 cents too much because he didn't have the exact amount.

The next day his neighbor came over and bought some hogs. When weighed they came to exactly $40.72 and the neighbor pulled out a check book and wrote a check for the exact amount. Said Jones, afterward: "By gosh, that made me hot, but I guess the only way out is to quit carrying around my money and begin to pay by check."

Dr. M. M. Holland Dead

As we go to press we learn of the death of Dr. Holland, which occurred Wednesday night.

Dr. Holland was stricken with paralysis two or three years ago, his right side being affected. His organs of speech were affected by the stroke, and during this whole time he has spoken but few words. Last Saturday he was taken worse and gradually sank until he was released from his burden Wednesday night as stated above.

The funeral ceremony will take place this evening, from the Methodist church, being conducted by the Rev. W. K. Dennis.

Death of J. H. Brown.

On Saturday the spirit of Mr. J. H. Brown passed to his Maker after a short illness. The deceased, who was in business with his son at Eureka, about seven miles from Statesboro, went down to Savannah last Tuesday afternoon and registered at the Geiger hotel.

During the night he suffered a partial stroke of paralysis, his left side being affected, from which it was thought he would recover, but another stroke on Saturday night carried him out. The funeral and interment were at Eureka Sunday afternoon. A large number of relatives and friends attended the funeral.

Dear Sir:

I take pleasure in advising you that our good company endorses the buy-a-bale-of-cotton movement, and in line with their usual progressive policy, and in spite of the present low prices of petroleum products, have issued instructions to purchase a bale of cotton at every point in the cotton states where they have a distributing station. This will mean the purchase of approximately one thousand bales. The Atlanta Journal, of this date, makes the first public announcement of this.

You will not make any purchase of cotton for this company until further instructed. I am sending this letter to agents and salesmen, regardless of whether they work in the cotton-producing district or not.

Another Blucher.

(Macou Telegraph.)

Not since Blucher—who, far more than Wellington, was Napoleon's nemesis—has Germany produced a soldier who seems to compare with General Alexander H. B. Von Kluck for superb, stalwart fighting qualities.

When the history of the present great strife is written, when all of the facts of the war are known, the production of valor shown, and the feats accomplished by the bold and resourceful Von Kluck in the initial invasion of France, will entitle him to world-wide appreciation.

Here is what Von Kluck did: With an army of between 100,000 and 150,000 men, comprising the right wing of the German army which entered Belgium on the march to Paris, a wing that was far larger from the remainder of Kaiser's army, he marched 320 miles through the enemy's country, fighting at least six pitched battles in three weeks and inflicting enormous damage. All of the time he was pressing ahead of him the stubbornly resisting allies—his army more

ANDY CARNEGIE OPPOSES PEACE

Says to Stop the War Now Would Only Mean an Armed Truce and Short-sighted Policy.

New York, Sept. 25.—Andrew Carnegie reached New York today on the steamer Mauretania with a new version of how the war in Europe was started.

"I'll tell you how the war started," said Mr. Carnegie. "Kaiser was on a holiday on his yacht in the North Sea. While he was away he received a telegram asking him to return to Berlin. When he returned the mischief had already been done.

"The Kaiser himself is a marvellous man, possessed of wonderful ingenuity. He has done more good for Germany than any other man before him. He has built up a great foreign commerce and a marvelous internal business. The Kaiser is a peace loving man.

The trouble was started by the German military caste that rules the country. The Kaiser gathered around him a group of men who, unknown to him, acted in concert and in his absence took the action that could not be altered.

"As for my own country, I do not know how to thank God that I live in a brotherhood of thirty-eight nations—forty-eight nations in one union."

America's duty to the world, Mr. Carnegie added, is to point the way to an everlasting peace. "What we want is an international court to stop war. No real friend of lasting peace wants to stop the war now. That would be a short-sighted policy and would be but an armed truce."

BANKS HOARDING MONEY EXPOSED

Nine Georgia Institutions are in the List Announced

Washington, D. C., Sept. 25.—Continuing his campaign after high interest rates and the hoarding of money by banks, Secretary McAdoo, tonight, made public a list of nearly 200 national banks outside reserve and central reserve cities, which are carrying reserves in excess of legal requirements. The list shows that reserves in these banks run from 25 per cent, the legal minimum being 15 per cent.

"I," said Mr. McAdoo, in a statement given out with the list, "the large amount of loanable funds that are kept from active employment, as indicated by these figures, was invested in commercial or industrial paper or loaned on proper security the present situation would be greatly relieved."

The secretary's statement referred to the list as showing "some" of the national banks carrying excessive reserves, and it was understood tonight further lists would follow.

Secretary McAdoo's list showing the percentage of reserves carried by each bank, includes:

South Carolina—Central National, Spartanburg, 30 per cent.
Georgia—National Exchange, Augusta, 30 per cent.; Third National, Columbus, 30 per cent.; City National, Dawson, 30 per cent.; Jackson National, Montgomery, 30 per cent.; First National, Lyons, 30 per cent.; Lagrange National, 30 per cent.; Atkins National, Mayfield, 30 per cent.; First National, Rome, 30 per cent.; Exchange National, Rome, 30 per cent.; First National, Arcadia, 30 per cent.; Citizens and Peoples National, Pensacola, 30 per cent.; National Bank of Commerce, Pensacola, 30 per cent.; First National, St. Augustine, 30 per cent.
Alabama—First National, Montgomery, 30 per cent.; Exchange National, Montgomery, 30 per cent.; First National, Opelika, 30 per cent.

Resident of Woodstock Finds Him Self Restored After His Physical Condition Failed.

T. A. Lewis, who lives on Route 3, Woodstock, Ga., was the victim of stomach troubles for a long time. He tried the treatments of many doctors. He tried all sorts of remedies. His sufferings were a serious handicap to his work.

Then he tried May's Wonderful Stomach Remedy. Just as it always does, the first dose proved to him what could be done for his ailment. He took the full treatment, then wrote:

"I have taken your wonderful stomach remedy and am feeling better than I have felt in four years."

"Your remedy does just what you claim it will do. I tried several doctors but they did me no good. I am glad that I have found your wonderful remedy. I have recommended it to some of my neighbors who need it."

Mr. Lewis' experience is just like that of thousands of others who have been delivered from stomach troubles. May's Wonderful Stomach Remedy cleans the digestive tract of mucus and irritations and poisons matter. It brings relief to sufferers from ailments of the stomach, liver and intestines. Many declare that it has saved them from dangerous operations; many are sure it has saved their lives.

We want all people who have chronic stomach trouble or constipation, no matter how long standing, to try one dose of May's Wonderful Stomach Remedy—one dose will convince you. This is the medicine so many of our people have been taking with surprising results. The most thorough system cleaner we have ever sold. May's Wonderful Stomach Remedy is now sold here by W. H. Ellis Co. and drugists everywhere.

Will the Farmers Learn?

We all learn by experience or object lessons. The present situation of the cotton market is an object lesson that ought to teach the farmers a few lessons. Among them are these:

First. That cotton is a product that is controlled by the law of supply and demand. It is not a product that when you cut off the demand you lower the price. The price of cotton this year is not only cut off on account of a large crop, but on account of the fact that Europe, which buys over one-half of the crop, is engaged in a great war.

Second. That we can no longer depend on the cotton market in Liverpool, New York and New Orleans are closed; the speculators are out of the market and the price is out of the market. There can be no fixed price with the changes closing. There is no doubt that in this case out of ten in the price of cotton is run by speculation because then we have two demands, one for spot cotton and one for future cotton.

Third. That the milk and butter promises of the peanut price.

Fourth. That the south must depend on other things for money besides cotton if the farmers expect to escape bankruptcy. With all other farm products bringing high prices, there is very reason why the farmers should resort to other crops besides cotton. Why not furnish the south with vegetables instead of sending those millions to the west. Will you do it? You see what all cotton is doing for you. Will you learn from the present experience or will you go on and get to be ten times? It is up to you. The remedy is in your hands. You are the only doctors. Will you apply the remedy?

Will you raise corn to sell oats to sell bacon to sell beef to sell chickens and eggs to sell hay to sell corn to sell? The north is not lending money while the south is borrowing money. Whose suit is it? Nobles' but the farmer's. The south can raise everything to eat and make cotton purely a surplus crop. When you do this you can pay your debts with other products, and put the cotton under shelter until it gets ready to sell. But when you are in debt you must sell, because you are not your own boss.

Singing Their Way Up

(From the American Messenger) A writer tells us of a visit to famous Calumet and Hecla mines in northern Michigan shortly before 5 o'clock in the afternoon. As they came to the mouth the mine a friend said to him, "Stand here and listen." There was silence for a moment and, coming from the earth beneath their feet, faint sounds were heard. They grew stronger and more distinct as they waited, mingled with the creaking of machinery, and resolving themselves at last into the familiar notes of "Nearer, My God, to Thee." In a moment the cage reached the top of the shaft, and the day shift of Welsh miners, who had been singing their way up from a depth of hundreds of feet, stepped out, and baring their heads, joined in "Praise God, From Whom All Blessings Flow," and then quietly turned homeward. They do this every night when their work is done," said the friend. "It is their expression of praise and thanksgiving."

Prizes Offered in 1915 to Encourage Better Beef, Cotton, Corn, Oats and Hay.

In 1915 the Central of Georgia railway will again give a pure-bred Short-horn bull as prize to the winner of the four-crop contest, if any of the eighty counties in prize in Georgia and Alabama, where a club of twenty-five or more members is organized under the supervision of the state agent in charge of boys' club work.

The purpose in giving these valuable bulls as prizes is to encourage the raising of better beef cattle, as well as to increase the interest of the four-crop clubs. That it will have the desired effect has already been proven, for farmers who have seen the thirteen bulls which will be given as prizes this year, have purchased fifty-five head of pure-bred Short-horns. This is only a beginning, and it justifies the offer of bulls as prizes for the 1915 contest; and by starting the work of organization earlier it is expected there will be clubs in nearly every county along the Central of Georgia railway.

The entries will close in December, and early next year the necessary bulls will be bought and landed in the same way as this year, to farmers located near the Central of Georgia railway, who are equipped to take proper care of the animal until the contest is decided in November, 1915, provided they have a sufficient number of breeding stock, will construct a dipping vat and keep their cattle free of ticks, and purchase one pure-bred Short-horn heifer.

Three never was a better time to engage in beef production than now. The high price of meat will certainly continue for many years. The war has caused the sacrifice of breeding herds in many European countries, and for years to come all of Europe will have to depend upon the United States for a larger proportion of their meat than ever before. So soon as the cattle tick is exterminated we can raise as fine beef cattle as anywhere in the world, and within a very few years beef production is to become a very important and profitable industry for our section.

It was decided to give bulls of the Short-horn (Durham) breed, for while the Short-horn is primarily a beef type, cows sired by these bulls will in most cases give more milk than the average milk cows of this section, and our principal development of the stock-raising industry is to come through the farmer raising a few head of high-grade cattle as a side line, although the large stock farm will also prove profitable.

The Central of Georgia has for free distribution a pamphlet on better beef, a copy of which can be obtained by addressing the Agricultural Department, Savannah, Ga.

The four-crop boys will cultivate three acres each, one in cotton, one in corn and one in winter oats followed by cow-pea hay—four crops on three acres.

Any boy between the ages of ten and twenty-one who lives in a county of Alabama or Georgia which is traversed by the Central of Georgia railway, may enter for the contest in his county, if he can get three acres of ground to cultivate in the four crops specified. If three acres in a body are not available, three separate acres may be used. Twenty-five or more contestants in each county are required to form a four-crop club. The Central of Georgia prizes are for four-crop contests only, but the boys of each county may also be entered for any local county or state corn club contest.

The prizes will be awarded for the best yield of all four crops at the greatest net profit, and a written account of how the crops were made is required. Names of boys wishing to enter the contest should be forwarded to the local school teacher, the county school commissioner, or the county demonstration agent, to either Mr. J. Phil Campbell, state agent, care State College of Agriculture, Athens, Georgia; or Mr. L. N. Duncan, special agent, care Alabama Experiment Station, Auburn, Alabama.

It is very necessary to encourage the best methods of growing cotton in view of the steady advance of the boll weevil toward this section, for cotton cannot be successfully grown in the presence of the weevil unless the very best farming methods are used. The four-crop contests will also demonstrate a more nearly complete crop system, and lay the foundation for a good demonstration of a three-year crop rotation.

For three years the Central of Georgia gave prizes to corn club boys. In 1911, a fine male state prize in both Alabama and Georgia, and $25 in cash, for each county traversed. In both 1912 and 1913 the state prizes were Percheron mares, with $25 Berkshire sows as county prizes.

The management of the Central of Georgia feels that the boys accomplished wonders in the way of making large and profitable crops of corn, but that the time is now ripe to enlarge the work and give the boys a chance to show they can grow other crops as well as corn. Similar methods to those that proved so successful in their acres of corn, will make large yields of cotton, oats and cow-pea hay.

clashes about helping the farmers through legislation is all rot, and that such promises are made simply to fool the farmers and to get back into office.

Fourth. That the south must depend on other things for money besides cotton if the farmers expect to escape bankruptcy. With all other farm products bringing high prices, there is very reason why the farmers should resort to other crops besides cotton. Why not furnish the south with vegetables instead of sending those millions to the west. Will you do it? You see what all cotton is doing for you. Will you learn from the present experience or will you go on and get to be ten times? It is up to you. The remedy is in your hands. You are the only doctors. Will you apply the remedy?

Will you raise corn to sell oats to sell bacon to sell beef to sell chickens and eggs to sell hay to sell corn to sell? The north is not lending money while the south is borrowing money. Whose suit is it? Nobles' but the farmer's. The south can raise everything to eat and make cotton purely a surplus crop. When you do this you can pay your debts with other products, and put the cotton under shelter until it gets ready to sell. But when you are in debt you must sell, because you are not your own boss.

McAdoo Atter Pirate Banks

Secretary of the treasury McAdoo has published a list of National Banks who, after receiving the reserve funds issued for the purpose of moving the cotton crop, are holding it back from the farmers, either hoarding it up or loaning it out at exorbitant rates of interest.

This is a very commendable act on the part of the man who is at the head of the nation's finances. It is about all he can do after submitting himself to the policy adopted by the government, and it is hoped that in withholding government funds from those banks caught at this act of piracy will have a beneficial effect on many others.

The government today is just where it has been for the past forty years. It is absolutely in the hands of the national banking system, and it is not surprising that a large number of them have taken advantage of the crisis now on and are turning a few extra shekels.

The policy of the government submitting its finance to the control of the national banks is wrong and dangerous. In the cases referred to the banks were advanced to the banks for the purpose of enabling them to loan it on cotton receipts. Why didn't the government loan this money direct to the farmers on their cotton? What do they want to call the national banks to answer for their agents for?

They loan money on cotton through the banks and charge the banks two per cent. The banks, in turn, loan it to the farmers on their cotton receipts at eight per cent. The government has the cotton receipts from the banks, just as the banks took them from the farmer. Therefore the farmer's bale of cotton is the only security the government has at the end. The policy enables the banks to bleed the farmer out of six per cent. when the banks have furnished nothing whatever except the bare fact that they are acting as agents for the farmer with the government. In other words, the banks collect six per cent. out of the farmer for endorsing for him while he holds his cotton valued at much more than the loan, both principal and interest.

The government can't trust the farmer for a possible deficiency on a bale of cotton, but they pin their faith to the banks. In other words, they had rather trust a national bank with for a hundred thousand dollar loan on cotton receipts than to trust a farmer for thirty-five dollars on a fifty dollar bale of cotton when the farmer owns a ten thousand dollar farm to back up his deficiency with. Which is the better security? Which is the better business policy, to trust a bank for four times what it is worth or to trust a farmer for one hundredth parts of his property value?

There are other national banks to be cited yet. Other exposures promised. None of the ones already brought to law are in Georgia, and we suspect that a good many of the batch that is to come will be found in this state. The government is willing to let the farmer market his cotton crop but the plan is one that does the farmer very little good. It allows the banks to reap off the top and reap where they have not sown.

We trust, however, that it will be unnecessary for many of the banks to have more of their banks up to public exposure.

FISH THAT CARRY THEIR OWN SEARCHLIGHTS

By ROBERT H. MOULTON

A FISH FROM THE DEPTHS OF THE ATLANTIC OCEAN, WHICH BEARS AT THE TIP OF ITS SNOUT A LUMINOUS ORGAN.

OME remarkable models of fishes that inhabit the great depths of the Atlantic, Pacific and Indian oceans have just been put on exhibition at the American Museum of Natural History. Only two sets of these models have been made, one for the British Museum in London and one for New York. They are considered the most noteworthy contributions yet made to popular knowledge concerning the appearance, complicated structure and habits of the curious creatures that dwell from one to five miles below the surface of the ocean, in regions never penetrated by sunlight.

Among the queerest and most astonishing of them are the luminous fishes which possess organs for projecting light—veritable electric light plants. The habit of these extraordinary looking creatures is to dwell in the deep sea floor, a vast region of everlasting darkness and eternal silence. At an average depth of two miles the sea floor forms an abyssal plain, 90,500,000 square miles in extent, or nearly half the surface of the earth. The fishes of which models are shown were captured and brought up to the surface from extreme depths in recent deep sea expeditions. As vessels that reached the abyssal sea deck was cast up were made of them.

Notable researches of this kind have been made by the Albatross, controlled by the United States Bureau of Fisheries. Dr. Charles H. Townsend, now director of the New York aquarium, commanded this vessel for a number of years on its voyages and made many interesting discoveries of the life of the deep. The British ship, Challenger also made a notable cruise investigations. Its trip yielded larger results than any other single cruise, but the Albatross has made a far greater number of them.

Among the foremost living deep sea explorers are Sir John Murray of England, the greatest authority on this subject, and the Prince of Monaco, who is one of the most active students and patrons of oceanography of today. He maintains a specially designed deep sea exploration. He also has established an oceanographical museum at Monaco to exhibit deep sea inhabitants. Fishing at depths of from one to five miles, the inhabitants of the deep sea floor are accomplished by means of a large trawl net about fifteen feet wide and twenty-five feet long. This is attached to a steel wire cable wound on a drum and is let down to the desired depth. When it has reached the bottom the vessel steams slowly forward, dragging the net many miles. Then by means of a steam winch the net is drawn aboard the ship. In the net many curious fishes are caught as it drags along the bottom.

At great depths there is no movement of the water, nor is there any light from the bottom of the abyss there is simply cold and darkness and perpetual silence. It is difficult to realize the immense pressure of such depths; at a depth of 15,000 feet the pressure per square inch is two and a half tons, whereas on land the pressure is under fifteen pounds per square inch. The tremendous pressure of the water keeps the creatures developed in the deep from rising upward or downward. A deep sea fish rising above its depths is killed by the reduction of the outside pressure. Its tissues swell, its blood vessels burst, its eyes are forced out, and the other hand, a fish sinking below the range to which it is accustomed is soon crushed or suffocated by the unaccustomed pressure. Sometimes the deep sea fish, in a struggle with its prey, is carried above or below its depth, in which case both are destroyed.

When fish from the greatest depths reach the top they are always dead, having been killed by the change in pressure in the early stage of their upward journey. Many of the creatures from the depths are cartilaginous and do not have a bony structure. Nearly all the fishes have formidable teeth and are extremely voracious, with mouths of enormous capacity; in fact, some have stomachs of such capacity that they can perform astonishing gastronomic feats of swallowing animals larger than themselves.

Probably the most interesting and astonishing of the deep sea dwellers are the luminous fishes. These light organs are a means of illuminating the dark abyssal regions which they inhabit and of enabling them to avoid fear, recognize their own kind and capture prey. Many of these fishes display curious eye-like organs down the length of the body, forming as it were a series of miniature lanterns. Again, others possess little light emitting organs behind the eyes or on the head and shoulders.

Provided with lanterns or luminous spots, these fishes find their way in the great depths and pierce through the dark waters like flaming torches. Some of the deep sea fishes are provided with a light which is binged so that its tip can be swung round like a searchlight and used to illuminate the surrounding water. At the end of this rod is a luminous lamp. This device attracts other sea inhabitants, which are quickly engulfed as they approach this shining point. Thus the fishing rod is employed by the fishes of the deep.

The lamp is also used by the fish itself in pursuit of prey, throwing out a beam of light like that of the outside pressure. Its tissues swell, its blood vessels burst, its eyes are forced out, and the other hand, a fish sinking below the range to which it is accustomed is soon crushed or suffocated by the unaccustomed pressure. Sometimes the deep sea fish, in a struggle with its prey, is carried above or below its depth, in which case both are destroyed.

MEMORIES of the Old South in Every Can of French Market Coffee

The romance of the days of Andrew Jackson, of Henry Clay, of the picturesque pirate chief, LaFitte, and of the beautiful women and brave men of the old South, clings around every cup of delicious old French Market Coffee.

Enjoying its unmatched aroma and wonderful soothing flavor invokes the picture of the quaint old South where belles and beaux congregated after every festive occasion for the crowning pleasure of a good-night cup of this most popular of all beverages.

The French Market Coffee that you get from your grocer, in perfectly-sealed packages, is identical with the historic French blend served in the old French Market in New Orleans.

Try it once and you'll agree there is only one real old French Market Coffee—only one coffee with a history. Roasted by our unique, hygienic process.

PARADISE FOR THE ARTIST
Devotees of the Brush Are Accorded Accommodations Without Price at Inn at Capri.

Capri, beautiful in itself as a winter resort, offers an irresistible invitation to artists, since it has an inn where anyone, by painting a picture on the wall, can get free board.

The lovely island of Capri, with its perennial summer, its blue grotto, and its lemon groves, cause, some fifty years ago, a ruined artist. He opened an inn, and died rich. In his will, leaving the inn to his heirs, he made these conditions:

"The charge per day, two bottles of red Capri wine included, is never to be more than six francs. If any artist should paint a picture on the wall, he shall pay nothing for the day. If any German artist shall come to the inn he shall be accommodated, and shall receive the amount of his fare to Germany upon his promising never to return to Italy."

The inn is conducted today on these conditions. Its walls are covered with paintings. Now and then a German gets his fare home.

Empty Titles.
The emperor of Austria, it has been noted, lay claim to the title of emperor of Austria. In the majority of cases it is found that the titles are either very large or very small. A large proportion of the titles are cartilaginous and do not have a bony structure. Nearly all the fishes have formidable teeth and are extremely voracious, with mouths of enormous capacity; in fact, some have stomachs of such capacity that they can perform astonishing gastronomic feats of swallowing animals larger than themselves.

The lamp is also used by the fish itself in pursuit of prey, throwing out a beam of light like that of the outside pressure. Its tissues swell, its blood vessels burst, its eyes are forced out, and the other hand, a fish sinking below the range to which it is accustomed is soon crushed or suffocated by the unaccustomed pressure. Sometimes the deep sea fish, in a struggle with its prey, is carried above or below its depth, in which case both are destroyed.

CAPTIVE BALLOON AT WORK
Balloons are being put to some practical purpose in Germany, where, at Salzburg, they are employed as a sort of locomotive for hauling a car up a mountain side. London Tit-Bits says: The inventor's idea is merely an adaptation of long, but regular flights are possible. It is attached to a steel rail laid on the mountain side, and upon this it makes its journey. It spans great chasms without the necessity of bridging and by running the rail over any projecting points there is, of course, no need of any tunneling. Fastened to the rail is a heavy steel slide, which holds the balloon captive. From the side to the balloon runs a steel cable, which permits the balloon to soar about twenty-five feet above the rail, and hold it firmly in place.

Suspended from the top of the balloon is a circular cable of holding ten passengers, which can be equipped with heating devices. In going up the mountain the balloon is lifted by means of a hydrogen gas contains. No matter how desperately the captive may tug at its steel cable, it cannot get away, but it can descend directly over the guiding steel rail. Resisting the top of the mountain the balloon is simply anchored until the time arrives for beginning the descent.

This is another problem easy of solution. It would save many lives that are otherwise lost from lack of nourishment. Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

FARMER'S WIFE TOO ILL TO WORK

A Weak, Nervous Sufferer Restored to Health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Kaota, Minn.—"I am glad to say that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done more for me than anything else, and I had the best physician here. I was so weak and nervous that I could not do any work, and I suffered with pains low down in my right hip and back for a year or more. I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and now I feel like a different person. I believe there is nothing like Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for weak women and young girls, and I would be glad if I could influence anyone to try the medicine, for I know it will do all and much more than it is claimed to do."—Mrs. Clara F. Evans, R. F. No. 1, Maplecrest Farm, Kaota, Minn.

Women who suffer from those distressing ills peculiar to their sex should be convinced of the ability of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to restore their health by the many genuine and truthful testimonials we are constantly publishing in the newspapers.

If you have the slightest doubt that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will help you, write to Lydia E. Pinkham, Medford, N. J. (confidential) Lynn, Mass., for advice. Your letter will be opened, and the answer sent by return mail, and held in strict confidence.

Made Him Hot

The steer that Jones bought by weight amounted to $49.72. He didn't have the cash change, so his neighbor said: "Oh, just make it even money" so Jones handed over two Twenties and a Ten. He had paid 28 cents too much because he didn't have the exact amount.

The next day his neighbor came over and bought some hogs. When weighed they came to exactly $49.72 and the neighbor pulled out a check book and wrote a check for the exact amount. Said Jones, afterward: "By gosh, that made me hot, but I guess the only way out is to quit carrying around my money and begin to pay by check."

WILL BE HARD FIGHT ON

CANDLER COUNTY

Emanuel County Voters Organizing to Vote Against it.

Swainsboro, Ga., Oct. 2.—As the time approaches for the general election in November there is a wide-spread sentiment against the creation of Candler county, among the people of Emanuel. The move is not confined to these people, but to all affected counties. These people intend to vote against the amendment whether they defeat it or not.

There are several reasons which prompt Emanuel county people to take this stand. First of all, is the patriotic desire to retain every inch of her territory. Second, the line comes too near the large towns in the county, especially Stillmore, where it misses the town only one and one-half miles. Third, it is likely to take one of Emanuel's representatives, and fourth, it will entail an increase in taxation among the people.

The people in the affected counties, knowing that Wheeler county passed with only 20 majority, feel that with the determination apparent in their fight against Candler, they will be able to defeat the amendment. The fight will be watched with interest, especially by the anti-new-county element.

T. B. Thorne Dead

Last Monday morning the home-folks were horrified to find that Mr. T. B. Thorne had died some time during the night.

Mr. Thorne had not been sick, but for some time, had not enjoyed as vigorous health as heretofore, but no serious symptoms were apparent. The suddenness of the demise was an awful shock to his sister, Miss Naomi, who lived with him.

Mr. Thorne was a type of the old-style southern gentlemen, scrupulously honest in his dealings, hospitable, almost to a fault, a citizen whom you could depend upon.

In his death Bulloch has lost one of her best men, one upon whose fidelity to trust, whose experience gave him weight in the councils of his county, whom she will miss.

Mr. Thorne leaves one brother, Stephen, and two sisters, Miss Naomi and Mrs. J. C. Brewton. To whom the hearts of all our people go out in sympathy.

The interment was at Fellowship church, two miles from his old home, near Stillson.

BIG FEATURE DAYS FOR THE BIG FAIR

There Will be Something Doing Every Day of the Fair, Special Programs are Being Made Up for the Big Fair, Which Opens in Statesboro Next Tuesday Week, October 20.

The following schedule is being arranged for feature days for the big fair which opens here next Tuesday week.

Tuesday, October 20th will be generally known as opening and get ready day, it is hoped to have all the exhibits and midway attractions fully installed on Tuesday morning, during that day of course the finishing touches will be put on everything, and the main feature for that day will be the big horse race that afternoon for the three minute class. There have already a large number of entries for this race and it is expected that ten or twelve horses will be in the racing that day, the racing, however, will be on every afternoon, every day during the fair. Official notice of which appears elsewhere in this paper. An addition to the rules heretofore published to the races will be: the horses will be divided as follows, for instance in a race where the purse is $100.00 the winning horse will get $50.00, the second $25.00, the third $15.00 and the fourth horse in the race will get $10.00, this is the established rule of the American Racing Association.

Wednesday, October 21st will be educational day, all the schools of the city and county will be admitted to the grounds for ten cents each. Governor John M. Slaton has been invited, together with State School Superintendent M. L. Brittain who will be the orators of the day. County School Superintendent B. R. Olliff has been asked to consult the schools and make up a programme which will be published next week in full.

Thursday, October 22nd will be set aside again as Savannah Day; also as Candler county and Evans county Days. Hundreds of people from Savannah came to see us last year on Savannah Day and they are expressing themselves as anxious to come again, the fact that Chatham county will have a magnificent agricultural display here this fall is expected to add interest to Savannah Day at the Bulloch County Fair. People from Candler county and Evans county, respectively, both counties of which embody Bulloch county territory will come in large numbers to mix and mingle with the people of the mother county, they are two of the latest stars in Georgia's crown, being Georgia's two baby counties, doubtless their people will come over in goodly numbers.

Friday, October 23rd will be Confederate Veterans Day, the commander of the Jos. S. Cone camp of Confederate Veterans has been asked to co-operate with the fair management in making this day one of the big days of the fair and giving to the old soldiers a day of enjoyment and of meeting with each other again. All Confederate veterans, either of Bulloch county or elsewhere, together with their wives and all widows of Confederate veterans will be admitted to the fair grounds on that day free of charge. It is expected that a large number of visiting veterans from adjoining counties will be here. The fair management will give a spread which will be a sumptuous dinner at some point in the fair grounds to the Confederate veterans, their wives and widows of Confederate veterans.

Plenty of Fun at the Coming State Fair

The Georgia State Fair will have something for everybody this year and one of the most attractive features of all is the amusement program. People must be amused and the State Fair management realized this. Several thousand dollars were spent to secure the highest priced attraction for this year.

After the visitor to the fair has seen the exhibits, watched the horse races and indulged in pleasant recollections with old friends, he can enter the Midway and find fun staring him in the face on every hand. The Midway is to be bigger than ever this year and addition to the freaks, musical shows, death defying acts and motor-dramas, there will be the biggest Roller Coaster or Scone Railway in the South. This Scone Railway is patterned after the biggest of the roller coaster at Coney Island. Everybody will be riding the Roller Coaster after the first day. It cost so much money to build it that the fair association has decided to keep it as a permanent amusement attraction for Macon.

In addition to these attractions, there will be a well known band which will give free concerts daily. A singer of national reputation will be with the band.

"Jesus Paid It All"

Cordele Dispatch

"Refused Notice." Every editor has received them. The postmaster sends them to the editor. For instance, there is a man by the name of John Blank, who refused to take his paper out of the postoffice. He did not want it any longer, and he wondered what was the matter. Upon investigation of our subscription books we found that John was short $1.50. He stopped the paper as a matter of economy to us. One evening we went to church and John's voice rang out loud and clear in that soul stirring song, "Jesus Paid It All." We might have been mistaken, but his earnestness impressed us so that the next day we sent him a receipt in full, begging his pardon for not knowing that he had made arrangements for his liabilities in that manner.

ans free of cost. We expect to make this a dinner which will satisfy the palate of all the veterans who accept the invitation which is hereby extended to them. A programme will be made up for entertainment during the day which will be definitely announced next week.

Saturday, October 24th will be known as Negro Day, on that day the colored people of the county will be invited to come and take in the fair, of course they are welcome on all other days, but on day the programme, together with their wives and all widows of Confederate veterans will be admitted to the fair grounds on that day free of charge. It is expected that a large number of visiting veterans from adjoining counties will be here. The fair management will give a spread which will be a sumptuous dinner at some point in the fair grounds to the Confederate veterans, their wives and widows of Confederate veterans.

The friends of Rev. H. G. Everitt will regret to learn that he does not improve in health.

Getting Ready for the Fair Lumber Wanted

One of our well known citizens met us on the street one day this week and said: "I want season tickets for myself and family to the fair; times are so blue that I know of no other place on the face of the earth where a man can feel good, both wealthy and busy, except at the fair; it's my intention to take my whole family and spend the entire week."
