DON'T LOSE IT.

There are one hundred and one ways to loose your money if it is not put in a bank. It might be stolen, lost, burned up, misplaced or misspent. But when placed in a bank none of these can happen to it. Furthermore, you have a written record of where it came from and where it was spent. Your deposit book shows just when every dollar was deposited and your cancelled checks show just when and how it was expended. You will find it a decided advantage to handle all your funds this way. We open an account for any amount, large or small alike have the same careful attention.

CENTRAL AWARDS SCHOLARSHIP.

Lewis, Son of Mr. Morgan R. Akins Wins Prize Scholarship to Athens School.

Herewith we reproduce a letter from Mr. W. A. Winburn vice president of The Central of Georgia Railway addressed to Mr. Lewis Akins of this county awarding him the free scholarship to the State Agricultural College at Athens. The letter follows, and speaks for itself.

Savannah, Ga. Dec. 27th, 1912.
Mr. Lewis Akins, R. F. D. No 1 Statesboro, Georgia.

Dear Sir:

I am advised that you are the winner of the prize offered by the Central of Georgia Railway for the Boys Corn Club contest in your county and have chosen the scholarship for the short course at the State Agricultural College, January 2-14, 1913. We have, therefore, arranged to deliver to you, through Mr. J. Phil Campbell, State Organizer of Boys Corn Clubs, on your arrival at Athens, $25.00, which will cover your railroad fare to and from Athens and your board and lodging at Athens for the twelve days during the short course. If you happen to live near Athens so that the railroad fare will be less, there will be some spending money left over for you.

In order to make your winning crop of corn, you had to learn considerable about the best methods of corn cultivation, and I am glad to note that it has inspired in you the desire to learn more about up-to-date farming methods generally, and I am sure you will profit by the instructions gained at the State College of Agriculture.

Wishing you a Happy New Year and a pleasant time at Athens, I am,

Yours truly,
W. A. Winburn.
Vice-President.

T. A. Waters Passes to Beyond.

On Friday night just as the clock struck the hour of twelve, the spirit of Mr. T. A. Waters, commonly known as "Uncle Aleck" passed to its maker. Mr. Waters suffered an attack of what was at first thought to be acute indigestion a few days ago, a physician was called and an examination showed that he had a case of appendicitis together with locked bowels, an operation was made at the Sanitarium where he was taken for treatment, and the patient rallied, but on Friday morning his condition began to grow worse, and death ended his sufferings at mid night.

The deceased was one of Bulloch's most highly respected and honorable citizens, everybody who knew him was his friend, he never lost an opportunity to assist his fellow man and was noted for his constant administration to the needs of those more unfortunate than himself.

He was a prominent Mason and his funeral which will occur Sunday morning at eleven o'clock will be attended with masonic honors. He has served as tyler of the Ogeechee Lodge of Statesboro for the past twenty seven years, and had only recently been elected to serve another year. Rev. T. J. Cobb will preach the funeral sermon at the cemetery tomorrow.

Change in preaching hours at Friendship and Oak Grove churches. Friendship 11 o'clock sun time. Oak Grove 3 o'clock sun time, both on first Sunday.

Messrs Z. T. DeLoach and C. M.

Davis on the Board of County Commissioners. Col. R. Lee Moore also steps into the shoes of Solicitor General Alf. Herrington, effective Jan. 1st.

The officers go in with the county affairs in good shape and will no doubt have no trouble in keeping them up to the high standard of management which has characterized them in the past. They will have the solid citizenry of the county back of their management of the county's affairs.

County Board Organizes.

At the called meeting of the Board of County Commissioners

Death of Malie Bland.

On Sunday morning at his home

Hubert, in this county, Mr.

Malie M. Bland passed peacefully away. He had had a complication of troubles, and had been in bad health for some time, but his death came unexpected to his family and friends. The funeral and interment was at Lane's church on Sunday afternoon. He leaves a family and many relatives and friends to mourn his loss.

McCoy Succeeds Denmark

The friends of Mr. D. F. McCoy will be pleased to learn of his appointment as state bank examiner, to succeed T. J. Denmark, who resigned to take charge of the Clerk's office here the first of the year. Mr. McCoy is thoroughly equipped to discharge the duties of the important and responsible position.

The Fire Alarm

How would you like to be sick and have to listen to our fire alarm?

It is an outrage on the people, and should be stopped.

If men cannot be brought to a fire by a bell, better let the property burn up. Stop it, this is a nuisance. Citizen.

WIFE EMPLOY MAN TO MURDER HUSBAND.

Macon, Ga. Dec. 30.—James King precipitated his own death by the discovery of intimate relations between his wife and Nick Wilburn, is the opinion of Detective Moore who worked up the case and arrested Mrs. King and Wilburn and received the later's confession.

Detective Moore stated this afternoon he ascertained that four days before the killing King communicated to a friend, John B.

Gordon, of Round Oak, that he had learned of the intimacy between his wife and Nick Wilburn.

It is believed that the pair also know that he had found them out and that they then decided that he should die without further delay.

Mr. Gordon says that King asked him for advice, but that he declined to be drawn into the affair and merely told him to use his own judgement.

Mr. Gordon stated that his advice was sought by King, but that he declined to be drawn into the affair.

Mrs. Kate King and Nick Wilburn were not to be tried for the murder of Mrs. King's husband until the regular term of the Jones supior court in April.

Because of the intense feeling in the case at Round Oak and all over Jones county, officials have abandoned the proposed idea of calling a special session and the case will take its regular course on the docket.

Mrs. King spent today in the Jones county jail without any callers. It is understood that neither she nor Wilburn have arranged for counsel.

The brother and sisters of Mrs.

King continued firm in their previously announced resolutions not to interfere with the course of the law in the prosecution of their sister. Following the announcement

Saturday that there would be no defence on the part of the relatives it was freely predicted they would soon weaken. However, at a conference yesterday afternoon, it is said vows to turn their backs on their sister were renewed by the members of her immediate family.

NEED EXPERT NO HELP.

The conference Sunday was held at the home of Mrs. John King, near Round Oak. All three sisters and W. S. Simmons, Mrs. King's brother were present.

At this conference the sisters' declarations that Mrs. King should hang if guilty were reiterated.

"If hanging is the penalty for her crime, then she should hang,"

Mrs. John King declared. "If Katherine were not guilty we would spend every dollar we have in the hope of saving her, but we feel she has disgraced us and her children, as well and she need not expect any assistance from us.

All Jones county is still dumb-founded at the revelations concerning the death of the planter. Everywhere feeling appears to be growing more intense and it was for this reason that the proposed special session of court was abandoned. There is little sympathy for either Mrs. King or Wilburn.

Sheriff Charles Roberts stated today that he will keep Wilburn in the Bibb county jail until the day of his trial.

The cell occupied by Mrs. King in the Jones county jail is that next to the gallows. Her chief widow seems to be that she will die on the scaffold. "If they only wouldn't hang me, I would welcome death," she has said.

Yesterday she told again of her relation with Nick Wilburn. "If I had only slapped Nick Wilburn face the first time he squeezed my hand!" she sobbed.

The five youngest children of Mrs. King are at the home of her sister, Mrs. John King, at Agattesville, Jones county. Charles the fourth year old boy who has never before been separated from his mother, cried for her for hours at the time.

Sympathy through out the section is entirely for the children and Mrs. John King.

Wilburn in the Bibb county jail continues sullen and sullen, and refuses to see visitors. He declared today that the newspapers are giving him a "raw deal" and that he has been misrepresented.

Detective Moore, of the South

Coast Detective agency, who worked with the one against Mrs. King and Wilburn and arrested them and who received Wilburn's confession states that he has ascertained some additional facts in this affair.

He has ascertained that four days before the killing King communicated to a friend, John B.

Gordon, of Round Oak, that he

had learned of the intimacy between his wife and Nick Wilburn.

RESPONSIVENESS.

THERE isn't a bigger word in the language than the word "responsiveness." In its simplest sense, it does not merely mean quick comprehension, ready grasp of a given subject. It means more. It means to be busy.

IT is just as true today as it ever was that "a house divided against itself shall fall." And this leads up to the thought that in just such measure as there is lack of harmony between the members of any organization, to that extent the organization is a loser.

SO LONG as men of varying temperaments and habits of thought are thrown together, there are bound to be cliques, clans, cheap ridicule, dissensions—discords. A recognition of this truth and an earnest effort on the part of each to be broader and more lenient in his views, will contribute a whole lot toward getting things done as they should be done. Petty jealousies and obstinacy are responsible for a good deal of lost motion and a certain degree of self-effacement is essential to the best interests of any well-organized body of men.

THE man who goes about with a chip on his shoulder in the constant attitude of "standing up for his rights," imaginary or otherwise, is not rendering the highest service he might, because he is thinking too much about himself to the detriment of the firm's interests. In the long run, he doesn't get the best he is capable of getting because he doesn't give it. The habit of looking for slights, of cherishing grudges, makes him irresponsive.

IT is a mighty hard thing to be patient and keep the peace when a dozen different things are going wrong, but you can sit down as a definite rule and depend upon it without exception that there is absolutely nothing in the habit of "getting mad." Anger pays no dividends, to put it more plainly, if the time that is sometimes spent scrapping and "knocking were concentrated upon setting discrepancies to right, a whole lot more would often be accomplished. We can't afford to be small and pitted, either in justice to the house, to our associates or to ourselves. None of us are infallible. Slip ups are bound to occur in any organization. The best we can do is to guard against them in every way possible, and when they do occur, deal with them deliberately and sanely.

WE ALL know that the first duty of a good soldier is to obey, but not all Housewives know that one of their chief duties lies in not giving orders that are unreasonable. Fortunately, there are executives whose influence is an inspiration and a positive benefit. They are far more rare, though, than they should be. Such men know exactly what they want. They make clear to others what they want. At the same time they leave plenty of leeway for initiative and individuality. Men of this calibre are above constant nagging and picking. They do more than expect responsiveness from their helpers. They are responsive to them. There is mutual sympathy—they work together, not at swords' point.

MUTUAL responsiveness is a remedy for many of those business ills that throw different departments out of balance. When misunderstandings and unpleasant relations arise between individuals, let us remember that we are not children that we are not here to quarrel and vent our spleen on each other—but that we're here to ravel the problem out—to work together, just as a good team works—to get the thing done as it should be done, by being mutually responsive.

VOL. 12 N

WE'LL DO IT.

"My main trouble," said a farmer, "is in keeping track of what I take in and pay out." We presume this is true of a great many people, and we wish to offer this plan of overcoming the trouble. Deposit all your funds in the bank as fast as received, and make all expenditures by check. From the bank records you can always tell the source, amount and date of your income, and your checks show on their face the amount and reason for all expenditures. Your bank book is a record of all transactions, simple, complete and convenient. In other words, let the bank keep your books for you.

Parcels Post Installed Here

The parcels post mail service has gone into effect at the Statesboro post office, and already considerable business is being done. This will enable the people to send their small bundles by mail instead of express, and the rate is only about one fourth. The parcels post will prove to be a popular feature, the postal service what it is, is understood and liked.

SAVANNAH TO REBUILD FIRE SWEEP SECTION

Savannah, Ga., Feb. 3.—Plans are already under way for the rebuilding of that section of the water front burned early Sunday morning. The Merchants and Miners' Transportation company, whose wharves were destroyed, has made arrangements for a temporary wharf and the Ocean Steamship company and Central railway which owned much of the destroyed property will at once begin its reconstruction.

It is expected the new wharves will be in many ways superior to those destroyed. A large number of insurance adjusters reached the city this morning to take up the question of losses for settlement. The question of losses for low the actual financial losses.

Many firemen are laid up today, suffering from various causes, as the result of their long tour of duty. Most of them complain of the effect upon their eyes of the heavy smoke, which was in some instances laden with fumes of acids stored in the burned warehouses.

Practically a half mile of the most valuable portion of Savannah's water front was raked by a fire at an early hour Sunday morning, that did probably a million and a half dollars' worth of damage and for several hours threatened the city with the most serious conflagration it has experienced in many years.

The magnificent wharves of the Merchant and Miners' Transportation company, with warehouses filled with freight just brought into port by steamers from Baltimore and Philadelphia, were quickly turned into a ruined mass by the flames.

Large storage warehouses filled with many articles of value were wiped out by the fire in a short time.

The heaviest losers are: The Ocean Steamship company, which owned the docks under lease to the Merchants and Miners' Transportation company; the American Steel and Wire company, which had an immense storage warehouse filled with its products intended for distribution to many points in the south; the Conklin Tin Plate company, which also had a distribution point here, and the Crane company, large dealers in plumbing supplies, whose warehouse had just been replenished for the early spring business.

The Atlantic Coast Line railway also had an office with valuable records in the ruins of the Planters' rice mill a few blocks from the center of the conflagration went up in smoke with the river front property.

The burned area extends from a point west of West Broad street to the Ogeechee canal, which divides the docks of the Ocean Steamship company from those of the Merchants and Miners'.

Because of the peculiar location of the fire, the fire department found it very hard to fight it. The river blanketed one side of the burning mass and the other was enclosed in massive warehouse walls, which were hard to get into and in which it was almost impossible to fight the flames because of the large freight accumulation.

A block away from the center of the fire lies Yamocora, a densely populated section of the city, made up largely of small wooden houses, and it was realized that if the fire reached this section the loss would run much greater than it did. The efforts of the firemen were directed largely to saving this section and keeping the flames from spreading eastward toward the river front.

of the city. In this they were largely successful.

Luckily there were no ships at the wharf of the Merchant and Miners'. One had been there early in the evening, but had sped on to Jacksonville after having deposited a large amount of freight.

Early Sunday morning the steamship Merrimack, bound from Jacksonville to Baltimore, via Savannah, reached port, but found its docks in flames. It docked at the lower Coast Line wharves and left at once.

There were two of the ships of the Savannah line in port and these were carried to a point of safety, although their docks were not damaged. The fire is believed to have started in a car of hay that stood upon the dock of the Merchants and Miners' Transportation company.

At one location in the fire the firemen were badly handicapped in their work by the blinding fumes of some powerful acid that almost put out their eyes. Several of them had to be sent to the hospital to be treated. It is not thought their injuries are permanent. There were some minor casualties during the fire but no fatalities.

Because of the extent of the fire and the network of electric wires that encompassed it, it was found necessary to cut out the electric current, the power house being but a half block from the flames. This left the firemen to work under a great handicap in impenetrable darkness except for the light from the fire itself. The large plant of the Savannah Brewing company adjoins the burned section on the south and J. Williams, the brewery watchman, was the first to see the flames.

He stepped out of the brewery office about seventy-five feet from the point where the blaze started, walked down the drive towards the warehouses, to make sure that the glow he saw in the sky was caused by a blaze, and returning, turned in an alarm.

As evidence of the quickness with which the blaze spread, Williams says that at 1:05 o'clock he stepped outside the office, but saw no glow. At 1:15 o'clock he again looked out, and the sky was lighted by the glow of the burning building. After he had made his examination and sent in an alarm he returned to the lane separating the brewery from the burning warehouses. He declares that fully fifty feet of them were in flames by that time.

All Savannah was sightseeing Sunday, with the ruins their objective point. It is estimated that 50,000 people visited the scene. The reserve fire engines were still playing on the ruins Sunday night.

Revival Service Draw Large Crowds.

Rev. Mr. Black of North Carolina has been conducting a Union service at the Methodist church during the week, the services have been largely attended both afternoon and evening, and a great deal of interest seems to be manifest. Prayer meetings are being held every afternoon in different parts of the city.

As the days pass the interest in the meetings increase, the church has been filled to its capacity at each service. There will be no private meetings this afternoon, but there are any services to night, but tomorrow morning services will be held at the Methodist church led by Dr. Black, and a service will also be held at the Baptist church led by the pastor. Tomorrow afternoon at four o'clock there will be three services, one at the Methodist church for men and boys over fourteen years of age only, at this
