To My Friends and Customers.

Avoiding myself of this opportunity to say a word to the hundreds of good loyal friends and citizens of Bulloch county, with whom I have done business for the past thirty years or more, I want to say, that it has become necessary for me to buy out the interest of my partners in the Statesboro Mercantile Co., and in so doing I have in mind the many warm friends and customers that we have had the pleasure of doing business with in the past. And it is for their interest as well as that of the business that I take it over and add to its capital stock a sufficient reserve to assure them of its ability to take care of them in the future. In doing this I will of course have to have the cooperation of those who have been with us, still have to have settlements of the obligations due to them as I have to meet the obligations of the firm to other parties.

Come forward men, and pay us all you can, and make arrangements to be carried over for the balance until next fall, by giving us paper that we can use. It has never been my policy to enter suits against my customers, and carry them into the courts and put them to extra cost, but there comes a time in the affairs of men and of business firms when something is compelled to be done, and that time came with me and my firm. I have met the obligations and in order that I may sustain myself and give to the people that they will need in order to make another crop I will have to see each and every customer who owes the firm money, and these things have got to be arranged. We can do these things and come through all right, but you must come and meet me and make arrangements, so that it will be necessary to incur cost on your obligations.

Messrs Dean Anderson and Frank Grimes will be with me and a number of the other members of the force in the business, who will be pleased to meet you and take care of your needs.

These are plain words, and I hope that I will have that response to them that a business man may expect from his friends and customers of long years standing.

Resp. R. Simmons.

The response was made by Dr. Jackson of Savannah after which the meeting went into active business affairs of the order. A number of very able and interesting papers were read and the different subjects discussed. The program as outlined in our last issue was carried out to the letter. The sessions of the convention last night until late in the afternoon with only a short interval for lunch. A banquet was served at the Jackel Hotel in the evening after the Convention adjourned.

SALVADOR RULER DIES OF WOUNDS.

San Salvador, Feb. 9.—Maximilian Arango, president of the republic of Salvador, who was wounded by the bullets of an assassin on February 4th, died today.

President Arango was attacked and shot last Tuesday night by several men, one of whom, a Guatemalan named Virgilio Mulatillo, was arrested. Mulatillo is in a confession declaring that the plot to assassinate President Arango had been contracted in Guatemala City.

Claxton After New County.

A movement is on foot to make a fight for a new county at Claxton taking from Bulloch that part of the Sink Hole district below the Dublin road, running through this county beginning at what is known as Kennedy's bridge on the Canoochee river to the Sink Hole bridge, then following the Rebel road to the county line in the direction of Groveland.

A meeting was held at Claxton on Monday night and another one held Friday afternoon when steps were taken to prosecute an active campaign for the proposed new county. Both meetings were largely attended, and the people living on the Bulloch county side of the river were much in evidence, taking an active interest and expressing a desire to go with the new county. It was stated in the meetings that ninety per cent of the people on this side of the river living below the Dublin road wanted to go.

Statesboro Gets Appropriation.

The Public Buildings Appropriation bill reported late Saturday evening by the finance committee of the lower house of Congress and it carried with it an appropriation of $50,000 for the construction of a post office building for Statesboro.

This is good news to the people of Statesboro, and shows that our interest in Washington is being well cared for by Mr. Edwards.

The Statesboro public building has long been the fond dream of Congressman Edwards. He has worked for it in session and out of session. As soon as he secured the site he went to work for the building, working when many of us regarded his efforts as a huge joke.

The news hastens to lift its hat to Mr. Edwards for his splendid piece of work.

Mr. George Humphrey, of New York city has been spending the past ten days with Mr. H. M. Robertson at Brooklet on a bird hunt. Mr. Robertson owns some of the finest hunting lands in this section of the state, and has a number of friends every spring come down and take a hunt with him. Mr. Humphrey left for his New York home today.

TWO TURKISH SHIPS SUNK

TURKS LOSE 3,000 MORE AT CHERKEZ—MOSLEM BATTLESHIP LOST.

Two Troop Ships Filled With Asiatic Troops Reported Sunk in the Black Sea.

Athens, Greece.—Two Turkish troop ships, filled with Asiatic troops, are reported to have been sunk by Bulgarian artillery off the port of Kerest, on the Sea of Marmora. The ships were preparing to disembark the Turkish soldiers when a hidden Bulgarian battery opened fire. A Sofia dispatch, sent in the general interchange of war notices among the governments of the Balkan league, stated that 3,000 Turks were killed in the attack at Cherkiz upon Turkish transports by the Bulgarians. The Bulgarians have taken up positions at every port on the Sea of Marmora to prevent the landing of Asiatic Turkish troops.

The Turkish battleship Assariv, which went aground in the Black Sea and a late wireless report indicated that she was irretrievably lost. The Turkish government immediately ordered to cruiser Mesoudiyeh and two torpedo boats to the scene. Crown Prince Constantine, who is with the Greek army besieging Janina, has telegraphed that some of the Turkish officers are trying to prevent their fanatic Mohammedan troops from carrying out the instructions of the government to turn the struggle into a holy war of extermination. Major Hall, one of the best known Turkish officers in Epirus, was shot to death, after being court-martialed for allowing his troops to massacre Christians.

BILL VETOED BY PRESIDENT

Reveals Reasons for Veto to the Senate in Special Message.

Washington.—President Taft vetoed the Dillingham-Burnett immigration bill, which would revolutionize the immigration policy of the United States by imposing a literacy test upon all foreigners seeking a home in America. In a short message to the senate, in his own handwriting, the president announced his disapproval of the measure solely because of the provision which would lock the doors of the United States against the alien who could not read some language. The veto message was accompanied by a letter to the president from Secretary Noyes denouncing the literacy test as a radical provision, "based upon a fallacy in undertaking to apply a test which is not calculated to reach the truth and to find relief from a danger which really does not exist."

Bathub Trust Found Guilty.

Detroit, Mich.—The so-called bath tub trust was found guilty of criminal conspiracy in restraint of trade by a jury in the United States district court. The act as charged is a misdemeanor and the penalty provided for imprisonment not exceeding one year or a fine of $5,000 or both. Last November the so-called trust was dissolved by the supreme court in a civil suit instituted at Baltimore. The criminal case was a retrial, the first trial having resulted in a disagreement.

Standard Bales Wanted.

Savannah, Ga.—At a meeting of cotton exporters and others held here, a campaign to eliminate complaints of improper baling of cotton at interior points was decided upon. The exporters assert that because of the lack of a standard bale the staple cannot be compressed sufficiently to come with in the recognized 22 1/2-pound density to the cubic foot. They are penalized 20 cents a bale in consequence. They want a standard size bale can be had only through the changing of the baling process used in baling in the country.

GOTHAM TO GIVE UP NAVY

Cost of Maintaining Training Ship for Merchant Marine Proves Too Expensive for Results Obtained.

New York.—The navy of New York will be put out of commission within the year, unless something unexpected comes up to the contrary. The flag of New York will be seen no more on the high seas or in the ports of the Mediterranean and the north Atlantic.

Ever since 1874 New York has maintained a naval school for the training of officers for the American merchant marine. The fact that there was no American merchant marine to speak of did not at all prevent a great many boys from attending the school and cruising six and eight months at a time, partly at the expense of the state, partly of the city and partly of the nation.

In accordance with a long-established policy, the United States navy has furnished a vessel and a commanding officer for each of the naval schools of the coast states. During the winter the ship lay at a pier in the East river, comfortably housed over and furnishing a convenient and cozy schoolhouse for the boys, numbering from 125 to 250, who were students. The board of education of New York city has had charge of the school since the organization of Greater New York, and it has grumbled occasionally because of the cost of maintaining the schoolship. A few years ago the St. Mary was recalled and the gunboat Newport was substituted. The Newport, unlike her predecessor, has engines and she has proved to be a mighty coal eater at a time when coal is costly. Also, the board complained, where they could load boys and get rid of them for half a year in hands that were capable of handling them without gloves, it was necessary to apply for a change in the city charter abolishing the naval school altogether.

STUDENTS TOIL AS LABORERS

Columbia Man Earn $27.02 by Hard Work During the Summer, Says a Report.

New York.—John J. Mallon, on coastwise vessels, day laborers, subway platform guards and factory workers were among those who students at Columbia filled during last summer's vacation in their struggle for education at the university, according to a committee's report on the employment of students. The report shows that more than 200 men knocked down to hard work in the summer and earned a total of $27,02, the best showing since record has been kept of vacation work.

Blamed Carrier for Loss.

New York.—"I want to know the name of the parcel post carrier who lost the other half of this cake!" demanded an indignant sufragette who rushed into the New York post office, exhibiting part of a sponge cake. "I suppose he got hungry while he was carrying it around and kept nibbling at it," Postmaster Lewis explained that the cake had not been eaten, but smashed into crumbs.

EDUCATIONAL VALUE IN BOYS' CORN CLUBS

Superintendent of Education M. L. Brittain Talks of Their Far-Reaching Effect.

Atlanta, Ga.—(Special).—State Superintendent of Schools, M. L. Brittain, sees great value to Georgia in the Boys' Corn Club movement and its crystallization in the annual Georgia Corn Show, not only from an agricultural, but from an educational standpoint, and expresses confidence that the results will soon be abundantly reflected in improvement in the country schools wherever the corn club movement is active.

"There are to my mind, few movements which have done more for Georgia in the last quarter century than these Boys' Corn Clubs," Superintendent Brittain said.

"Agriculturally they have been of great help to the state, stimulating agricultural energy, leading to the adoption of new and approved methods and increasing production beyond what was even hoped for a few years ago. Naturally, I look to, for the educational value in movements of this kind, and I feel confident that from this standpoint, the movement is going to be of no small value and import to the state.

"I made a special study of the Georgia Corn Show held in the capital last December under the direction of Mr. H. G. Hastings, chairman of the agricultural committee of the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce, and I was much gratified over the showing made. Mr. Hastings has done much for the state in the active and effective interest he has shown in this work—a work that must command the widest commendation."

French Market Coffee Has Never Been Successfully Imitated It Cannot Be

COFFEE roasted the ordinary way is only partially roasted, according to French ideals. The French Market Coffee was the scientific way, producing a perfect roast. Slowly—carefully—the roasting goes on until exactly the right moment arrives. The slow roast reduces about 10 per cent more weight than the ordinary roast. All excess of oil vanishes. Yet the delicate flavor and aroma is there, intensified and enhanced.

Chilled, Ground and Hermetically Sealed

DIRECT from the roasters, the coffee is chilled in a cold-air-blast machine. This chilling closes the pores of the bean, thus preventing a single breath of the entrancing aroma to escape in the vapors.

Before you Buy your Fertilizers Consider These Vital Facts.

Every farmer knows the need of fertilizers; that each crop takes a certain amount of Nitrogen Phosphoric Acid and Potash out of your soil. If these plant foods are not replaced, the soil becomes worn-out, and crops diminish to almost nothing. There must be enough of each element. An abundance of one plant food and the lack of another never brings big yields. For one plant food cannot take the place of another. To supply these three elements in forms that will feed the crops every day is the one important point.

And farmers prefer the chemically mixed fertilizer to fertilizers that are dry-mixed or home-mixed. For in dry mixing the crude materials are only mixed together. No chemical action takes place. The goods are often sticky, undrillable, and less available than the chemically mixed goods.

Many of the materials sold for home-mixing are not suitable. Mixing flour and salt and water does not make bread. So it is with fertilizers. Chemically mixed fertilizers are as superior to dry-mixed or shovel-mixed goods as bread is to wheat.

After years of improvement, we believe that these fertilizers come pretty close to fertilizer perfection. From analysis other brands may seem the same, but analysis only shows the number of pounds of plant foods. It does not show the forms in which those plant foods exist. It is in the fields that the value of our precautions and improvements are most plainly shown. If you are among those who have never tried "AA" brand fertilizers—resolve to try these fertilizers this year. Write our nearest sales office for full information and the name of our nearest dealer.

We improved where improvement was possible. We employed these elements in forms that would keep "AA" fertilizers from being acid—that would not sour the land.

The real difference is never shown only in the real test—the field test.

TELLS OF POLE TRIP

Amundsen Declares He Found It Under a Hot Sun.

Explorer and Party Reached Southern Axis of Earth in Shirt Sleeves, He Asserts in Story to Chicagoans.

Chicago.—Roald Amundsen discovered the south pole in his undershirt. The Norwegian explorer, who on December 15, 1911, planted his country's flag at the earth's southern axis, is himself authority for this statement. It need not startle any one. The sun was shining in a cloudless sky and the thermometer registered only 15 degrees below zero. This seemed real warm and summery to a man who had become inured to temperatures 60 and 75 degrees below during the antarctic winter.

Captain Amundsen arrived in Chicago. As he sat in the University club, immaculate and smartly groomed as any dandy of the boulevards, he did not appear as if he should be capable of anything so unconventional as discovering the south pole in his undershirt. One would fancy he would have done it wearing a tuxedo. "Our journey was very pleasant," said the suave Norwegian. "We underwent no hardships to speak of. We had a little trouble getting over the great ice range of the Queen Maud mountains at 85 degrees south, but after that we came out on a high plateau, which lay down in one smooth and unbroken expanse of hard, frozen snow to the pole.

"It was downhill all the way and we were on skis. So you might say we tobogganed to the pole. The sled dogs had hard work to keep up with us.

"There were five of us—Holmer Hansen, Oscar Wisting, Sverre Hassel, Olaf Bjaland and myself. We had plenty to eat, banqueting every day on pemmican, biscuit, chocolate and powdered milk. The weather was hot. We dripped with perspiration, even in our light clothing. "Our first observation, on December 16, showed 89 degrees, 55 minutes. We were five miles from the pole. We hurried forward. Skating along under a blazing sun—that's the word, blazing—made us hot. We took off our sweaters and silk coats and threw them on the sleds. Still it was warm work, even in our undershirts. When we thought we had covered five miles we took another observation. We were at 89 degrees 59 minutes. That left the pole a mile away. We traversed that mile and erected a tent and placed a Norwegian flag on top of it above what we believed was the pole itself.

Capt. Roald Amundsen.

"We remained at the pole three days and set up flags in all directions. Then we went forty-five miles beyond the pole. The land or the ice and snow, that covered it to an unknown depth still sloped downward. It seemed as if we were still going south. But we were not. We were going north. In taking two steps at the pole we went both south and north, and I may say that at that point where all meridians converge one stride would take us from the longitude of New York to that of San Francisco.

"There was no excitement when we found ourselves at the pole," Captain Amundsen added. "No one danced or hurrahed. I knew we would get there. We all knew it. We had never doubted it. It seemed a perfectly natural thing to be there. We felt at home. If we hadn't got there, there might have been occasion for some excitement."

They were William J. Hartnett, white, and Robert Gould, colored.

They only four miles out of Sparkhill when they started trouble and were arrested. Hartnett was committed to the county jail pending his return to Auburn prison, from which he was recently released on probation. Gould was committed for six months.

THE STATESBORO NEWS.

(Incorporated.)

Published Tuesday and Friday.

At Statesboro, Ga., by The Statesboro News Publishing Company.

Entered at the post office in Statesboro, as 2nd class mail matter.

Post Office Building in Bad Way.

The latest information from Washington indicates that the bill which includes as an item an appropriation of fifty thousand dollars for a post office building at Statesboro is going to have a rather rough passage through the senate. Congressman Edwards wired here from Washington that it is rumored that there was opposition to the bill and advised that the people get busy. A gentleman just from Washington gave some news that was anything else but encouraging. The bill is being fought on the ground of the immense sums it carries for different towns all over the country. It is characterized as graft and as having been pushed through the House by the combination of congressmen who pooled their interest in order to railroad schemes through in order to boost themselves politically in their various districts.

With all these facts before us and with the fate of a $50,000.00 public building hanging in the balance an effort was made to hold a mass meeting. That resolutions might be sent on to our senators asking them to look after our interest in the bill. The city was canvassed for two hours or more, and the telephone was used freely, but at the appointed hour only a handful so far as people were concerned. Most of whom were begged and teased into going. Many heavy real estate holders completely ignored the meeting, and the expressions from some of them showed they felt no interest at all. One large property owner and a director in one of the banks, refused to attend stating that he did not care whether we had any post office building at all or not. Another man who makes his living out of the community attended the meeting as an onlooker stated when told of the meeting that he thought that a $30,000.00 wooden building would be better, than he was afraid that box rent would be too high in a $50,000.00 building. There were other expressions of a like public spirited nature. In fact the news of the splendid efforts on our congressmen has been received here as a rain in cold blooded indifference. They organized after a number of the leading lights had escaped through the front door. They sent up a ringing set of resolutions just like an overflow meeting had been held.

The latest from Washington is to the effect that the senate committee has reported the bill favorably and that it still retains the Statesboro item. There are those here who take the position that they don't want any building here, the street corners are filled with groups of that class, they say it would be graft of the rankiest sort, and in this we thoroughly agree with them. We deeply deplore any efforts on the part of either our congressmen or senators to take things away from the "dear yankees." It is wondrous waste to be extending Federal money down south when there is still so much to be done up north. Why it would be better to use this fifty thousand in dredging out some creek either up in New York state, or out in Minnesota. And there are still many post office buildings and post roads to be improved among those "dear ones" the other side of Mason and Dixon's line, and still the old soldiers up there are still to be cared for and pensioned, they did valiant service fifty years ago by shooting southern men and we do so much dislike to learn of any effort on the part of our heartless representatives in either branch of congress to rob those "dear people" of anything and allow it to be "grafted" by bringing it down south for any purpose whatever. We believe that our representatives up there ought to be memorialized about this line, and stop this foolishness trying to bring things this way when there is still so much to be done for the people in the north and west. It has only been about a half century that they have had things coming their way, and we believe that it ought to last at least that much longer. There is no need in cutting them off in such short order and taking from them anything that they may be able to use to advantage themselves. Why there is no telling, they may need funds to pay the expenses of The Grand Army of The Republic to attend the inauguration at Washington, and this fifty thousand appropriation may interfere with "the boys in blue" and hamper them and render them unable to compete with the Underwood brethren both north and south in the grand charge in the direction of the pie counter.

Now the truth is the matter is no one in Statesboro would dislike to see this handsome building erected, but there are those here who don't want anything if it comes at the hands of Charlie Edwards, they have been against him from the jump and the next time he hears from them they will be fighting him still. Added to this army of "undesirables" is a lot of fresh recruits who are sore on the post master's endorsement. This list includes a whole row of full of disappointed applicants and the friends of applicants. There are at least a half a hundred men in this community who had rather be shanty than to see the other fellow handing out mail through a brown stone front. If Congressman Edwards were to erect a building in Statesboro the dome piercing the clouds, it would make a particle of difference here, they are going out after his political scalp. They want nothing at his hands and everything he does for them along as "line" will be received by them as "graft."

Speaking of unnecessary expenditures carries our mind in the direction of the proposed court house annex. There is proposed to lay out an expenditure of some fifteen or twenty thousand of the tax money of Bulloch county for improvements that will not be needed until the next generation. If there is a single officer in that building who is cramped for space we don't know who he is.

Georgia now has one hundred and forty seven counties. Some of them are small affairs, while a few like Bulloch are good size counties. A few years ago Bulloch lost part of its territory to Jenkins county, and the people who were cut off into the new county, wish to day that they were back in old Bulloch. The trouble about the new county business is that it does not benefit any body except a few people who own land around the new county site where the court house is to be.

It is a fact that the tax rate for many years will be much higher in the new county, than it was in the old, and besides all of the records remain in the old county, and the people who are cut off into the new county, for many years are compelled to go to the old county court house. Many people are injured to help the new county business because they think it easier to get a public office. Suppose a new county is created, not for a man in ten years will hold any public office.

The argument that a man will be nearer the court house in the new county will not help him as a juror or witness, because he usually has to stay at the county site any way the argument that he will have better roads is very doubtful.

The argument that a man will be nearer the court house in the new county will not help him as a juror or witness, because he usually has to stay at the county site any way the argument that he will have better roads is very doubtful.

Is it not better to be a citizen of a big county, with a large population, than it is to be a citizen of a small county. If you were going to move would you move to Glasscock county with only a hundred square miles, and a handful of people, with only a high tax rate, or would you go to a large, prominent county with a small tax rate. Better go slow, before you sign a petition to go into a new county. Remember when you get there you are going into a county with the corners of other counties, and among strangers. When you leave the old county, you part to a certain extent with old friends and associations. Talk to the people who were cut off into Jenkins, before you decide to give up the grand old county. Most of you will then be in the corner and edge of the new county. If you are now twenty miles from Statesboro, will you better off to be twelve miles from some other county site, with more water between you? Stay with us we want you. We want you good, large county and we want that to be Bulloch county. Your children will be proud of it.

After listening to the Judge's charge the jurors retired and entered upon their duties. The district attorney's office will have enough criminal business to keep the grand jurors busy about four days. Most of the cases to be presented are for alleged violation of postal laws. There are some for postoffice robberies, illicit distilling, etc. The grand jury was late getting down to work because some of the members were delayed in reaching court on account of a wreck on the Central.

ODE TO WASHINGTON.

The following ode was found in an old scrap book, and is supposed to have been written by Mayor George of New York when he was still too young to persuade the magazines to publish his literary efforts.

Again we celebrate the birth
Of one of the greatest men of earth—
Great in peace and great in strife,
Great in the council hall,
Great in the sight of a critic,
The greatest thing of all.

Neither a saint nor a demigod,
Just a stout fellow, with a good wife,
Fought his battles as a common man,
He sowed a seed of wild oats, too,
But he did his duty sublimely
He found that the thing to do,
Was to be true to his own soul,
Weak in the flesh, he still could stand,
Columbus-like for his native land,
He drew in the face of the jealous foe,
The sword of his own looking glass,
And was plunged in the deepest depths
Of a freckled country lass.

Of one of the greatest men of earth!
He had his faults, he loved and made
A fool of himself as often as he did,
When women praised him he displayed
A human greed for flattery, too.

Let us praise him,
Let us raise him,
To fame's high place, since he
Though an earnest to counter-act
And in war was, after all,
So very much like you and me.

Foretold the Conflict That Later
Sundered the Two Countries.

George Washington was not one of those who was disposed to consider France as a trust-worthy friend of the United States. He had been reluctant to take up arms against England, and after the war he was deeply anxious to re-establish and maintain friendly relations with the mother country. A letter which he wrote in 1789 to a former friend in England throws an interesting light upon his feeling at that time. The letter is as follows:

"Mount Vernon, 15th August, 1788.

"Dear Sir,
"I know not how it has happened, but the fact is, that your favor of the 8th of Novr. last year, is but just received; and at a time when both public and private business pressed so hard upon me, as to afford no leisure to give the 'View of the Causes and Consequences of the American Revolution' written by you, and which you had been pleased to send to me, a personal.

"Not having read the Book, it follows of course that I can express no opinion with respect to its Political benevolence, and with confidence, there is no man in either country more zealously devoted to Peace and good understanding between the two Nations than I am—nor one more disposed to bury in oblivion all animosities which have subsisted between them & the individuals of each.

"Peace, with all the world, is my sincere wish—I am sure it is the true desire of the people of this country, and it is a Nation whose interest, and restless disposition, and attempts to divide, distract & influence will not suffer us, I fear, to enjoy this blessing long, unless we will yield to their rights, and submit to greater injuries and insults than we have recently sustained, to avoid the calamities resulting from War.

"What will be the consequences of our Arming for self defence, and our Evidence which permits these things to the Disturbers of Mankind; and we must submit, whilst we hope that the justice of our Cause if War must ensue will entitle us to its protection.—With very sincere respect I am,

"Rev'd Sir, Your Most Obedt. Servant,
"G. WASHINGTON."

UNOSPHICATED GEORGE.

George never saw an Indian, nor heard of Alexander's band; He holds a skin in George's day; He thought a thing as you are; He never had Wall Street to fight, Nor fought his shirt at night, And when he journeyed home at night He did not dangle from a strap.

No man could lead him, Nor shouting noise on his heels; With dynamite he never played, Nor bought his shirt at bargain sales.

Never Saw a Hobbie Skirt.

He never dined a taxiderm, Nor feared the teeth in Tenth's mouth; He never started out to spring, A delegation from the South.

He never heard Congo sing In anybody's phonograph; He never wrote an ode to spring, And Champ Clark never made him laugh.

He never heard of "Schedule K," Nor drew three rows of his hair; He never walked the Gay White Way To see the actors strolling there.

He never met a suffragette, Nor ever traveled that far; He never had to go in debt, To get him a motor car.

He never sent for Morzen when A punk threatened or began, Nor ever used a fountain pen, Poor, unsophisticated man!

Washington.

If our American institutions have done nothing else but furnish to the world the character of Washington, that alone would have entitled him to the respect and admiration of mankind—Daniel Webster.

LETTERS THAT WASHINGTON NEVER WROTE

Dear Sir: I am in receipt of your favor of the 4th inst., and I heartily approve of your suggestion. The gentleman whom you name is, I think, to be trusted. Instruct him to keep copies of them from falling into the hands of reporters. It is evident that the dummies hide, but the greatest caution in the entire matter, and we must not overlook any of the circumstances that are likely to arise.

I am convinced that you will have nothing under to insure the success of our project. See to it that your accomplished and you may depend upon me to look after your interest in the division of the profits. Kindly have read it. Very truly yours, G. W.
