(H. N. McKinney in Leslie's.)

I believe that today there is no product of real merit that cannot in some way be profitably advertised. I have no hesitation in stating my belief that if the United States Steel Corporation had spent a million dollars a year in advertising in newspapers, showing people who have as yet never thought of using them the possibilities of the profitable use of many of their products, their sales would have been increased to a point where it would not have been necessary to cut off the dividends on the stock. I believe the day is coming when the great insurance companies will learn that advertising is a science as deep as insurance and that there are possibilities in the use of newspaper advertising of which as yet they have never dreamed.

HON. W. J. BRYAN TO LECTURE HERE

The Great Statesman and Orator Will Appear Before Statesboro Audience Evening June 13th.

A telegram from the Alkehest Lyceum Association to Col. Hinton Booth on yesterday announced that the invitation to Hon. Wm. Jennings Bryan to speak here in the school Auditorium on the evening of June 13th, has been accepted. Mr. Bryan had been announced to speak in Claxton on the 13th at midday, and at Savannah next day. Statesboro will be directly en route from his appointment at Claxton going to Savannah.

The matter was taken up with the Lyceum Bureau, under whose auspices he is delivering these lectures. His subject will be "The Prince Peace." An admission fee will be charged to defray expenses.

The news that Mr. Bryan will come here will be hailed with genuine delight by a large number of our people, who had arranged to hear him at either one of the other appointments. We have not learned the exact price of admission, but suppose it will be one dollar for each adult.

W. J. Bryan is the most eloquent platform orator in the world today, and those who miss this opportunity to hear him will miss the chance of a life time. There is no auditorium in any of the large cities, either North or South, that will hold the crowds who flock to hear his eloquence.

It is expected that a large crowd will greet him here.

THE HUNTER CASE.

Atlanta, Ga., May 24.—Friday or possibly Saturday Governor Brown will have another hearing on the J. C. Hunter case from Savannah. Early in this month Governor Brown resented Hunter, who is under sentence of death, to use 9, for thirty days. Yesterday Solicitor General W. C. Hittredge, of Chatham, came before the governor by special request and presented the state's side of the case. About two weeks ago, Gov. Brown made this request of Solicitor Hittredge, because he wished to have all possible information in this very grave case.

It is understood that the solicitor said that Hunter was either guilty or innocent of the murder of his wife and two other women and that there was no possible middle ground about it. When the Rev. Mr. Wilder and Attorney Oliver of Savannah, appeared before the prison commission and made the pleas which won recommendation for commutation to life imprisonment, the state's side was not represented. Neither was it when the minister and attorney talked with the governor, hence Governor Brown's anxiety to get both sides.

Now Messrs. Wilder and Oliver have requested a further hearing, since Solicitor Hittredge appeared, and in response to their request Governor Brown said he would hear both sides at the same time either Friday or Saturday. All parties at interest will be present then.

Following this hearing Gov. Brown will announce his decision in the case.

KNOCKS GIVEN TO ROOSEVELT

For Recent Utterances in regard to Arbitration. Former Sec. of State Foster Says Roosevelt Holds Record for Erratic and Inconsistent Course on Question of Arbitration.

Mohawk Lake, N. Y., May 25.—Severe criticism of Theodore Roosevelt's recent public utterances regarding international arbitration marked the speech of John W. Foster, former secretary of state, before the 17th annual meeting of the Lake Mohawk conference on international arbitration. At the same time, said Mr. Foster, "notwithstanding Mr. Roosevelt's early declaration in opposition to arbitration in general, he has done more than any other living man to advance this cause."

Speaking of the Anglo-American treaty of arbitration now being negotiated, Mr. Foster declared that opposition to it in the senate ought not to be entertained as a serious possibility.

Some Knocks for Roosevelt. Mr. Foster's subject was "Unlimited Anglo-American Arbitration." The portion of his address relating to Mr. Roosevelt follows:

"I had concluded the preparation of my address at this point when the fulmination of Theodore Roosevelt appeared in the public press. While I regret its appearance as tending to embarrass the action of the senate, I recall the fact that no man in public life today has shown such an erratic and inconsistent course in relation to the subject of international arbitration. His early public career was marked by a strong hostility to arbitration in general. In a magazine article as late as 1895 he attacked President Harrison for submitting the Bering sea question to arbitration."

"But when he assumed the responsibility of the presidency, it was he who sent the first case to The Hague court of arbitration invited the nations in hostile array against Venezuela to resort to the same court. In the first instance he proposed to settle the Alaskan boundary dispute by sending the American army to occupy and hold the territory by force, but finally yielded to the pacific advice of Secretary Hay, and in 1903 submitted the question to the London commission."

Calls Roosevelt Petulant. "In 1904 he sent a number of arbitration treaties to the senate, and yet, because the body saw fit to insist upon the exercise of its constitutional duty, he denounced this action as 'a sham' and a subterfuge, and in a petulant manner refused to put the treaties into force. But four years later, following the advice of Secretary Root, he sent the same treaties with the senate's amendment to that body and upon its approval put them into operation."

"Notwithstanding his early declaration in opposition to arbitration in general, he has done more than any other living man to advance this cause."

NO PARDON FOR MORSE AND WALSH

President Taft Declines to Open Prison Doors to Former Ice King and Aged One-Time Banker.

Washington, D. C., May 24.—President Taft denied the applications for the pardon of Charles W. Morse of New York and John R. Walsh, of Chicago, the two most prominent bankers ever convicted and sent to federal prisons under the national banking laws. Not only did the President refuse to pardon either Morse or Walsh, but he also declined this time to exercise any other sort of executive clemency in these cases, or to shorten the sentence imposed upon the two men by the courts by which they were convicted.

In denying the pardons the President took the firm stand that the national banking laws or any other laws must be upheld when they meet the rich man even more than when they affect the poor.

Moral Turpitude.
The record in the Walsh case, the President said, from a consideration of facts in each case, "shows moral turpitude of the incidents and dangerous kind, to punish which the national banking laws were especially enacted."

In considering the case of Morse the President said, from a consideration of facts in each case, "I have no doubt that Morse should have received a heavier sentence than Walsh. Indeed, methods taken by Morse tend to show that he more keenly than Walsh did he realized the evil of what he was doing."

In his opinion in the Walsh case the President protested against the failure to discriminate between legitimate business and improper gain.
Must Draw the Line.
"The truth is," said he, "that in the mad rush for wealth in the last few decades the lines between profit from legitimate and improper gain from undue use of trust control over the people's property and money has sometimes been blurred, and the interest of society requires that whenever opportunity occurs, those charged with the enforcement of the law should emphasize the distinction between honest business and dishonest breaches of trust."

The President's denial of the pardon applications of Morse and Walsh does not mean that they must stay in prison until the end of their terms. Walsh began a sentence of five years in January, 1910, in the Leavenworth penitentiary and under the federal parole law is eligible for parole next September. The President's action tonight having no bearing whatever upon the future application for parole. Morse began his fifteen years' term in the Atlanta penitentiary in January, 1910, also. In denying his application the President granted leave to renew it after January 1, 1913. Under the parole law Morse would be eligible for release in 1915.

Resisted Big Petitions.
Both Morse and Walsh made strong efforts to have the President exercise clemency. He was besieged by friends and attorneys of both men. Mrs. Morse got up a monster petition, which was signed by scores of members of Congress and other prominent persons, and former Senator Hale of Maine did much in her behalf. The pleas of ill-health and reimbursement of all depositors in the Morse and Walsh banks were made in both cases.

Both applications were scanned closely at the Department of Justice by Attorney General Wickersham and his assistants and both were read with care by the President himself. His action tonight was in accord with the recommendations of Mr. Wickersham.

FIVE SISTERS BURN TO DEATH

Mother's Mistake Fatal. Kansas Woman Poured Gasoline Into Oil Lamp.

Union, Kan., May 21.—Five daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Roach, of this place, ranging in ages from 7 to 16 years, were burned to death late last night in a fire which started in the Roach restaurant. The parents were badly burned.

The mother of the young girls filled a lamp with gasoline by mistake preparatory to ascending a stairway leading to a second floor room where her daughters were asleep. She applied a match to the lamp and an explosion followed, sending a burst of flame up the narrow stairway. The woman's dress caught fire, but the flames were extinguished by her husband. He rushed up the burning stairs and caught his youngest daughter, 5 years old, in his arms. Calling to the other girls to follow him, he ran to a rear window and jumped to the ground, the little girl safe in his arms.

For some reason the others failed to follow him and in a few minutes the bedroom in which the girls were sleeping was a seething mass of flames. Later their bodies were recovered.

A DOG AT SIXTY DOLLARS AN OUNCE

The Smallest Pomeranian that Ever Sailed in the Biggest Boat.

Brownie, the tiniest and finest Pomeranian that ever sailed on the Mauretania, arrived in New York with a slight touch of grip contracted, his master said, through too much hugging by the women passengers on the big liner, says the New York American.

Although Brownie is but eight weeks old, eight inches in length and weighs but eight ounces, George F. Goeghegan, who brought him from North Scotland, refused an offer of four hundred and eighty dollars for him.

That was the sum a passenger on the Mauretania said he would pay for Brownie, and he made his bid at the rate of sixty dollars an ounce, or sixty dollars for every week the little dog has lived. Mr. Goeghegan said that he could not sell Brownie at any price, as his little daughter, Edna, would be at the pier to meet him, and he had brought the puppy as a present for her.

BLOODY DUEL ON PASSENGER TRAIN

Conductor Badly Wounded, But Mortally Wounds A. M. Thompson in Ga. R. R. Coach.

Augusta, May 21.—Capt. C. D. Bailey, conductor on passenger train No. 27 on the Georgia Railroad, which leaves Augusta at 3:20 p. m., eastern time, running between Augusta and Atlanta, was shot on his train half a mile this side of Mesina, and in turn shot his assailant, A. J. Thompson, a well known white farmer of Warren county.

Capt. Bailey was painfully but not seriously wounded, the bullet entering his leg between his hip and knee, and it is believed that A. J. Thompson, his assailant, was fatally wounded.

The shooting arose over the refusal of Capt. Bailey to stop the train at Mesina, a flag station four miles this side of Canak, and an argument resulted. When asked to stop Capt. Bailey stated he could not make a stop without orders and Thompson drew a gun, saying:

"You will stop this train at the muzzle of my revolver."

Capt. Bailey knocked Thompson's hand down, throwing the muzzle of the gun from his breast as Thompson fired, the bullet entering Capt. Bailey's leg. Thompson then turned to run and Capt. Bailey, who had drawn his pistol in the scuffle, fired and shot Thompson between his shoulders, the bullet penetrating his right lung.

Thompson was turned over to the county authorities at Canak, and Capt. Bailey was taken to the hotel.

SENATE FAILS TO VOTE ON POPULAR ELECTION.

John Sharp Williams Takes Slap at Senator Root.

Washington, D. C., May 23.—With a warning from Senator Root against experimenting with the constitution and a caution from Senator John Sharp Williams of Mississippi, that the South could not support federal supervision of senatorial election, though favorable to direct popular vote, the Senate spent two hours without action discussing the House resolution for electing United States senators by direct popular vote.

Mr. Root opposed the entire proposition to amend the constitution as to senatorial elections, his special objection being to depriving Congress of the supervision of senatorial elections. He thought popular elections of senators would result in the Senate's deterioration.

Mr. Williams said that Mr. Root, not only "distinguished but notorious" for his ingenuity, had not covered up the motives in retaining supervision of the senatorial elections. With the elections transferred to the polls, said Mr. Williams, and federal supervision retained, there would be exercise of federal control when a senator is to be elected and he expressed surprise that Mr. Bristow, the insurgent Republican senator, should push his Southern allies into this unsavory position.

"Can no form of administration be adopted without demanding from the South some sacrifice?" asked Mr. Williams, feelingly. Mr. Bristow explained that his substitute measure would only transfer from the state Legislature to the people the duty of electing senators, and promised to vote for the House resolution if his substitute failed.

Mr. Sutherland said that federal supervision would have been provided for senatorial elections, if in the beginning they had been of popular character.

Mr. Hayner said that federal supervision was meant to be exercised only in case of the failure of a state to act. Mr. Heyburn remarked there had been various such failures during the time of the Civil War.

"Of what earthly use was that part of the constitution during the Civil War?" asked Mr. Borah.

"Of what earthly use was the constitution or any part of it, during the Civil War?" asked Mr. Nelson.

There was a general discussion of the motives of the constitution convention in giving federal supervision.

RAIN WORTH $50,000 TO FARMERS OF WHITEFIELD.

End of Long Drouth Brought Cotton and Corn Up From Ground Overnight.

Dalton, Ga., May 23.—The rain which has fallen here since Saturday has been worth fully $50,000 to the farmers of this county," remarked a prominent farmer here, his remarks being sanctioned by a number of others here. "On account of the long drouth, some corn had been planted and that which had been planted was doing little good; but it was far better than the cotton which had been put in the ground, for the cotton was not coming up at all. The change over night from Saturday was wonderful, for the cotton plants had sprung up all down the rows. With timely seasons now for the rest of the year the farmers will produce the largest crops in the history of the county," he concluded.

Saturday morning the heavy rains came, breaking a drouth of several weeks' duration which had played havoc with the farmers. Many who had been planting corn were forced to abandon it on account of the long dry spell.

As has been the practice with the farmers in this section for years, corn and cotton make up the bulk of the crops planted, with the corn acreage considerably increased and the cotton acreage cut down.

Cow's Astray.

Strayed from my home, four miles east of Brooklet, March 1st, 1911, five head of cattle. One dark red cow, star in face, horn slightly broken; one light and white cow with unmarked hoofs; one yellow and white; one red and white. Four of the cattle marked—under square in one ear, crop and upper bit in the other. Any information will be gladly received by MRS. A. E. WOODWARD, Stillson, Ga., R. F. D. No. 1.

The Farm as a Home.

From the crowded, noisy streets, redolent of soot and dirt, to the pure, fresh air of the countryside. How surpassingly sweet is quiet, peaceful contemplation of the manifold beauties with which Nature has endowed the open country! More and more, people of the cities and towns are heeding the clarion call of the farm. From every profession, from every walk in life, people are getting back to Nature, and for the progressive man, the energetic, alert, wide-awake man, she is a storehouse of boundless opportunities. For there is a living to be made on the farm—a good living—for any man that will work—that's the word—and hustle. We say hustle, for 'tis a false notion that farming is a dull, monotonous pastime—it's a case of work one-half the time and of fun the other half, if one would succeed fully.

And work on the farm is by itself a very great pleasure—to look for the first green shoots peeping out of the ground in the spring-time, to watch with pleasure and pride the growing plants and, finally, to reap a rich reward in the shape of bountiful harvests, is all very attractive to the man with the hoe. To my mind, no earthly pleasure equals the joy of cultivating and watching from day to day the growth and progress of a fine crop of cotton, we'll say—or oats, or corn, or wheat, or potatoes.

Contrast the pure, sweet air of the country with the germ-laden city atmosphere; the pleasant groves, the fruitful orchards, the verdant meadows of the peaceful countryside with the grime and soot and noise of the city street. Which presents the most attractive aspect—which life the more desirable? Some have said that the country is "too lonesome," but we will endeavor to show where this argument fails flat.

In the first place, in most country districts are to be found churches and schools, there are neighbors with whom to exchange visits, telephones over which to carry on social converse or to transact business—in short there is just enough so-called "society" in the country—just enough, not too much, to serve as a diversion. For instance, while we believe that all work and no play makes Jack a stupid boy, we know that all play and no work renders him a very "undesirable citizen."

No indeed, life on the farm is anything but dull—

STRAIGHT POLITICAL FROM C. S. BARRETT

Union City, Ga., May 22.—"To the Officers and Members of the Farmers' Union: I conscientiously believe I am in a good position to advise the American farmer as 19-20ths of the men addressing him in any capacity today—and that for the sole reason that I have no political aspirations and never expect to harbor any."

"No man ever gets into politics directly. His 'friends' always drag him in, to hear him tell it, by the hair of the head. But none of my 'friends,' with or without the quotation marks, will get me within looking distance of a political office."

"That is why I feel free to tell you the truth about yourselves—about you, if that is necessary for your soul's welfare and the progress of your family."

"Farmers aren't used to being abused by politicians, or public men—except when the same farmer swabs one or the other out of office."

"Nobody so bland as the man out for votes. He may be shrewd enough to see where a word of blatant truth telling would help farmer more than a ton of flattery —but he generally hasn't the spine.
He just lays on sugar, rips the fellow the farmer dislikes up the back, handshakes the farmer and ambles the latter into office."

"I've heard some of them express their true sentiments about you when you licked them, however.
And they weren't complimentary.
They sometimes licked up the word 'idiot' with 'fool.'"

"Therefore, the farmer stands sorest in need of any creature on earth of having the truth told him —the truth told about himself, about his business, his own leaders, politics and politicians. His need in this direction is one of the most pathetic things in our day."

"The politicians have too long played with his passions, used them as a cat's paw and left him stupid as a hen. The time is here for a few homely truths. I haven't spared them heretofore, and I'm not going to now."

"In fact, I'm going to speak more and more plainly as I get older.
And if more agricultural leaders would do the same, the so-called 'redemption' of the rural districts would come with a rush. For while the farmer doesn't relish being told the truth at first, he soon cultivates a taste for it—it's so unusual you know. After a while he suddenly finds himself suddenly able to discriminate between the old hypocrite who would lie himself into office and the honest man. Then he looks back to the man who has kept his record clear, and that man stands out in his memory as the shadow of a great rock in a weary land."

"Just now I want to emphasize the value to the farmer, the indis-pensibility rather, of scientific distribution of products."

"A great many people are, with honest motive, striving to help the farmer produce more goods at less cost and labor. They really want to help him. And then, there are a few who are urging him on to production that prices may drop and everybody get a lift—except the farmer."

"I read in a current magazine recently of some turkey raisers in Vermont, who thought they were not getting enough for their production. So they began inclosing little notes sewed up securely in side each dressed turkey which read something like this: 'My consumer, I got so much a pound for this turkey. Please write me what you paid.'"

"They followed the same plan in other parts of the country with other products. The farmers showed such tremendous difference between the price the farmer received, and that paid by the consumers—many hundred per cent. in some cases—as to be startling."

As a result in many localities the farmers are employing agents to handle their products direct and getting more of what is coming to them.

"The high cost of living is frequently as much influenced by faulty distribution as under-production."

"This doesn't mean that we've got it in for the merchants, the stores, the bankers, or that we're going to try to put the commercial world out of commission."

"I guess we need the commercial world in our business just a bout as badly as it needs us. Some weak-minded brethren among us have indulged in wild threats about 'bustling' some special merchant or business. Don't take them seriously. Every organization has its cracks."

"But it is necessary for us and the consumer to simplify the machinery of distribution, to cut out a horde of superfluous and parasitic gamblers and many intermediaries between the products of the soil and their consumers."

"No matter how complex the question is, you've got to learn it sooner or later, if you expect to get your just due, whether it's in cotton, or wheat, or corn, or out-meats."

"Look at the Georgia peach growers, just as an illustration."

"Before they were organized, markets were congested and prices so low many orchard men thought of going out of the business."

"Today organizations have redeemed the industry, and the average grower comes nearer getting a square deal than ever before."

"What they've done, we must do."

"The farmer must make up his mind to it. The business man must make up his mind to it."

"To accomplish results we must increase our present number of competent and sacrificing leaders.
But that is a subject worthy of separate treatment."

"Charles B. Barrett, Union City, Ga., May 22, 1911."

RUNNING TO HER BOY MOTHER DROPS DEAD.

Mrs. Agnes Wilson Returned Monday From Funeral of Sister.

From an attack of heart failure brought on by her weakened condition, and the strain caused by a recent bereavement in her family, Mrs. Agnes I. Wilson dropped dead at her home No. 322 Hall street, West.

Mrs. Wilson had been in bad health since January, but her condition had at no time been considered serious, although medical attention had been deemed necessary. The shock of the death of sister, Mrs. J. C. Mock of States-boro, appeared to have reacted on her weakened condition and caused a relapse. She returned from the funeral Monday in much worse health.

Do Ghosts Haunt Swamps?

No, Never. It is foolish to fear a fanciful evil, when there are real and deadly perils to guard against in swamps and marshes, bayous, and lowlands. These are the malarial germs that cause ague, chills and fevers, weakness, aches in the bones and muscles and may induce deadly typhoid.
But Electric Bitters destroys and casts out these vicious germs from the blood.

"Three bottles drove all the malaria from my system," wrote Wm. Fretwell, of Laurens, N. C. "and I've had fine health ever since." Use this safe, sure remedy. Only 50c, at

SEA ISLANDERS IN CONFERENCE

Seeking Better Market. They Will Combine With Farmers Union.

Charleston, S. C., May 23.—One of the most important agricultural meetings ever held in this section of the South was that of the South Carolina planters of Sea Island or long staple cotton, over 100 of whom gathered here for a session which lasted nearly six hours.
The meeting came as the result of the long staple cotton planters' decision that some action would have to be taken to secure steady and reasonable market price for this staple.

It was decided at the meeting to commence the campaign for a better marketing condition by combining with the National Farmers' Union and attempting to have that body co-operate with the planters in marketing their crop at a profit. President U. S.
Barrett of the union who was present, assured the planters of the co-operation of the national body. It is also possible that the Sea Island planters may adopt the directly.

Several addresses were made, among the speakers being President Barrett, R. A. N. Wilson of Mississippi, one of the prime movers in the warehouse system and J. W. Reed, secretary of the South Carolina branch of the Farmers' Union.

E. S. Bacon, 11 East St., Bath, Me., sends out this warning to railroaders: "A conductor on the railroad, my work caused a chronic inflammation of the kidneys, and I was miserable and all played out. A friend advised Foley Kidney Pills and from the day I commenced taking them I began to regain my strength. The inflammation cleared and I am far better than I have been for twenty years. The weakness and dizzy spells are a thing of the past and I highly recommend Foley Kidney Pills." At W. H.

TWO PALATKA WOMEN DROWN

Palatka, Fla., May 22.—Mrs.
William Shields and Mrs. John D.
Cannon, members of prominent families here, were drowned while bathing in the surf South Beach cursion.

Mrs. Shields was the daughter known employee of the Wilson Cypress Company. Mrs. Cannon was the wife of John D. Cannon, who is associated with his brother in the meat business here. She leaves a little girl 3 years of age.

A long distance message states that the bodies were recovered

THIS LADY'S GOOD APPETITE

Mrs. Hansen, in a Letter From Mobile, Tells How She Gained It.

Mobile, Ala.—"I suffered for seven years, with womanly trouble," writes Mrs. Sigurd Hansen in a letter from this city. "I felt weak and nervous, had a headache and was always going to the doctor. At last I was operated on, and felt better, but soon I had the same trouble."

My husband asked me to try Cardui.
I felt better after the first bottle, and now I have a good appetite and sleep well. I feel fine, and the doctor tells me I am looking better than I ever saw me."

"If you are sick and miserable, and suffer from any of the pains due to womanly trouble—try Cardui.
Cardui is successful because it is composed of ingredients that have been found to act curatively on the womanly constitution."

For more than fifty years, it has been used by women of all ages, with great success. Try it. Your druggist sells it.
N. B.—Beware of cheap imitations. The name, "Cardui," is prominent on the box.
Instructions, and 64-page book, "How to Treat Womanly Trouble," sent on request.

DESERVED PENSION.

New York, May 22.—The language of sleeping with a pistol un-wound through the head.

Members of the family said McAlenean slept with a revolver at the head of the bed and shot himself during a bad dream.

LONGEST FLIGHT MADE BY A BIRD.

Golden Plover Travels 2,500 Miles Without Pause or Rest.

Such elliptical migration routes as that mentioned above are rare among land birds, but are used, and on a far larger scale by many water birds, notable among which is the golden plover, says a writer in the National Geographic Magazine. This species nests along the Arctic coast of North America, and as soon as the young are old enough to care for themselves fall migration is begun by a trip to the Labrador coast, where the plover fattens for several weeks on the abundant native fruits. A short trip across the Gulf of St. Lawrence brings it to Nova Scotia, the starting point for its extraordinary ocean flight, due south to the coast of South America.

The golden plover takes a straight course across the ocean, and if the weather is propitious makes the whole 2,400 miles without pause or rest. But if tempests arise, it may be blown out of its course to the New England coast and start anew on the advent of fair weather; or it may rest for a few days at the Bermudas, on-third of the way along its course, or at the nearest of the Lesser Antilles, still 600 miles from the mainland of South America. These, however, are emergency stop-overs, to be resorted to only in case of storms.
Having accomplished its ocean voyage, it passes across eastern South America to its winter home in Argentina.

After a six months' vacation here the plover finds its way back to the Arctic by an entirely different route. It travels across Northwestern South America and the Gulf of Mexico, reaching the United States along the coasts of Louisiana and Texas. Thence it moves slowly up the Mississippi valley and by early June is again at the nesting site on the Arctic coast. Its round trip has taken the form of an enormous ellipse, with a minor axis of 2,000 miles and a major axis stretching 8,000 miles from Arctic America to Argentina.

In the Wake of the Measles.

The little son of Mrs. O. B.
Palmer, Little Rock, Ark., had the measles. The result was a severe cough which grew worse and he could not sleep. She says:
"One bottle of Foley's Honey and Tar Compound completely cured him and he has never been bothered since." Croup, whooping cough, measles, cough all yield to Foley's Honey and Tar Compound. The genuine is in the yellow package always. Refuse substitutes. W. H. Ellis Co.

DIGGING FOR TOMB OF DAVID

In Ancient Jerusalem. Suspended Excavations to Be Resumed This Summer.

London, May 21.—Captain the Hon. Montagu Parker, who has just returned to England from Palestine, has made the following statement to the Times concerning the excavations recently carried out in Jerusalem:

"The purpose of the expedition, which started in 1909, was to find the tomb of David and Solomon and any Hebrew writing that existed of that period. We went immediately to Jerusalem, where we proceeded to carry out excavations. We met with severe opposition from persons in the locality, but being supported by the Turkish government in every possible way, we were able to carry on our work without active interference."

"At the end of four months the weather was so bad that we were compelled to shut down our excavations and return to England.
We determined, however, to resume our work in the summer of 1910. On arriving at Jerusalem on the second occasion in the first week of August, 1910, we resumed our excavations, but finding that the water from the Virgin's Well was very low we decided to clean the spring out and also the Pool of Siloam, the total distance being 1,700 feet. We found, roughly, about three feet of mud throughout the whole length of the tunnel, thereby proving that all existing surveys were entirely inaccurate, and that the tunnel at no place was deeper than 6 feet 6 inches. By cleaning out the well and the tunnel we increased the supply of water close on 50 per cent, which soon created an enormous amount of satisfaction among the villagers of Siloam, who held a big feast on the occasion of the water first flowing down the tunnel after these operations had been completed."

Meanwhile we were carrying on operations for the purpose of finding the tomb of David and Solomon and any Hebrew writing that might exist. Unfortunately, however, although our work was of extraordinary interest, we were unable to discover any Hebrew writing, notwithstanding that we had found definitely the spot where the City of David and the Jehosaphat city preceded it had existed. This Jebusite city was in existence undoubtedly, as was proven from the pottery which we there discovered, certainly 2,000 years before David captured the city. In the view of the Dominican Fathers who established a School of Biblical Studies at St. Etienne, Jerusalem, this discovery is quite the most important that has been hitherto made in Palestine. Publication of full details for the excavations are fully completed."

"With regard to the rumors which have been circulated concerning work undertaken in connection with the Mosque of Omar, nothing can be said until the commission appointed by the Turkish government to inquire into this question has presented its report."

The work of the expedition has been suspended since April 17, and Capt. Parker, having been in Constantinople himself on his way home and seen the officials of the Turkish government, has definitely arranged that operations shall be resumed on Aug.
1st."
