We say that the first purchase by J. W. Griswold & Co. of Davis Sewing machines, to be run by steam power, was in June, 1877.

Some of our people are still in use by us to-day. We have from time to time made further purchases, until now our entire manufacturing, of 125 machines, is equipped with the Davis. After several trials with other makes we have rejected the Davis as being the easiest and the least expensive to keep in order, and one our operators, who all work by the piece, greatly prefer to use.

The following lines were sent to the Times for publication by some unknown party.

There were two hearts that beat as one.

Two souls that in love did blend.

Each of their thoughts was one.

And he or she could love to the end.

Something mysterious has divided their love.

And is there but one pure spirit to weep.

Can only read their thoughts, and this he will keep.

How To Build Up.

To spend your money patronizing fortune tellers and sorcerers, to expend your substance for liquor and riotous living, to dress in high fashion, and put on the grandness of the peacock, to cry down your home and native land, to be a coward and an eternal fault-finder, to have no confidence in your own vicinity, all these are ways that lead to ruin, and prevent progress.

To build up a town or county, the people must have local pride. They must unite for the advancement and welfare of the general public. They must depend more on themselves, and less on people at a distance. And yet, how strange is it, that people who should be the best judges of their own interest, our beautiful southland would-to-day be filled with the hum of busy industry, and the sound of the spindle and loom, and the smoke of the factory, if our people would look to the material welfare of our country. It takes co-operation to bring progress, and wealth. If people want to increase money in their midst, they must learn that it can only be done by patronizing and fostering home industry. There is enough money in Bulloch county to organize banks, warehouses and factories, yet selfishness prevents its use for the public good. The private car that takes the place of the lawful bank, the factor in a distant city, holds the cotton, that should be at home, and the wage worker in a New England village, or British mine, takes the wages that should be paid to home labor. The weakness of the southerner is his aversion to home enterprises. He will buy from a stranger, before he will from his neighbor. The thrifty Yankee on the New England mountain top, has grown rich on a barren soil, by building up home enterprises, and the result is, that the savings banks are bursting with money. The Southerner goes on, and makes cotton at a loss, neglects every industry, and wonders why he grows poorer, and the reason is just as plain as the noon-day sun. Our people have brought this thing and that thing, and sent their money to distant places, until mortgages, and interest, and credit have made them desperate, and as a consequence, anarchy reigns in their midst, and a new party springs into life, in response to the poverty of the people and the mismanagement of the government its helping hand in the dark hours of their trouble and tribulations. It is true that had government, had had something to do with the situation, and in a measure bring relief. But he who depends on the government, will die in debt and despair. Now the only panacea, and remedy for the disease, is home enterprise. It is the only star that will lead us to a port of safety, and to a condition of prosperity. Let the men of Bulloch county who have money, put it in banks, at home, and let it be used at home. Let them build warehouses, and factories, and cotton gins, and the advancement of the community, make things at home, use home-made things, patronize home people, and help the general public, and thereby help themselves.

When we do this, we will build up our home-wealth, concentrate our money, and be lenders instead of borrowers; sellers instead of buyers. And in the course of years King cotton will be defunct, debt will not be burdensome, interest will cease to eat away the vitals of the body politic; the dark clouds of depression will be lifted from the faces of the toiler; the wage-worker, their wives and children will be happy and contented. Low tariff, nor free silver will by themselves accomplish much. The government can do but little; and as the citizens must bring about this revolution by enterprise and co-operation.

POSTMASTERSHIP.

As there are already some applicants for the postoffice at this place, it is a good idea to hold a primary to ascertain who is the choice of the patrons of this office for postmaster, allowed that Democrats recover their mail at this office a right to vote. It seems to me that this would be the most satisfactory way to adjust this matter, then the whole people would have a voice in the matter, giving the postoffice to the best man for the place, and the same who is the political boss who generally runs such things as this. The people of Atlanta are now considering a primary to combine a postmaster for that town and why not Statesboro do likewise? Let hear from the people on this matter.

HOW IT IS.

If you think there are any lawyers who are not gill-gidded, and absolute perfect in their line of business, it might be a good idea to hold a committee meeting and fix the value of their stuff, and notify them to take your figures, and get out of the way for a stranger from another state. This is one way to show your appreciation of past services of a fellow, and when he has helped carry the flag, and win the victory, to come out and show his incompetency and get a stranger to reap the rewards and wear the laurels.

Especially should you do this, if you have been the recipient of favors and help from the fellow who you seek to supplant, with another fellow who stood "afar off" while the battle raged, and the cannon roared. If this plan was resorted to, there might be some others, besides the Times editor, who would measure up to the full standard of a perfect business man.

The name of Gov. W. J. North is being prominently spoken of by the diles of the State as the successor of Senator Colquhoun two years hence.

Cleveland proposed to find out how the people of the world feel, and makes cotton at a loss, neglects every industry, and wonders why he grows poorer, and the reason is just as plain as the noon-day sun. Our people have brought this thing and that thing, and sent their money to distant places, until mortgages, and interest, and credit have made them desperate, and as a consequence, anarchy reigns in their midst, and a new party springs into life, in response to the poverty of the people and the mismanagement of the government its helping hand in the dark hours of their trouble and tribulations. It is true that had government, had had something to do with the situation, and in a measure bring relief. But he who depends on the government, will die in debt and despair. Now the only panacea, and remedy for the disease, is home enterprise. It is the only star that will lead us to a port of safety, and to a condition of prosperity. Let the men of Bulloch county who have money, put it in banks, at home, and let it be used at home. Let them build warehouses, and factories, and cotton gins, and the advancement of the community, make things at home, use home-made things, patronize home people, and help the general public, and thereby help themselves.

What we need in this town is a factory of some kind to give our young men employment. We have got the capital, but we have no place to do it with, if there that have it would only turn it loose.

The farmer with plenty of home supplies is all o. k. at all times. The farmer who depends on credit, and buys his provisions, will all ways want the government to do something for him. If all the gold was in the bottom of the sea, it would not hurt the farmer who lives at home and boards at the same place.

A Democratic Cabinet. Hon. Thomas B. Cabaniss, the factory and cotton gins, and the advancement of the community, make things at home, use home-made things, patronize home people, and help the general public, and thereby help themselves.

He reports having had a pleasant time and speaks highly of the people of the State.

Secretary of State Gresham, says Mr. Cabaniss has made a splendid impression upon all Democrats who have called upon him. He is a man of "no airs," and the humblest man feels at home in his presence.

I think, continued Mr. Cabaniss, that Mr. Gresham will appoint good Democrats to office as soon as he can consistently do so without detriment to the public service. He has a great deal of personal magnetism and grows more popular each day with the rank and file of Democrats.

Washington Letter.

From Our Regular Correspondent.

Senator Gorman was chairman of the committee that made the Senate committee assignment and therefore a position of honor was conferred upon a personal friend. There has been a lot of nonsense talked and printed about the position upon the prominent Senate committee having been purposely arranged by the Senate committee so as to antagonize the President. There is absolutely no foundation for any such statements. The assignments of the old Senate were made according to the well-known precedents which have governed such assignments ever since I have been a member of the Senate, and for many years before, and the new one "according to the best judgment of the committee." Although Senator Gorman did not attend his remarks for publication, it is but justice to him and the members of the committee that they should be made public. This committee had no authority to say that this or that Democratic Senator should not have committee positions to which they were entitled by seniority, because of their views upon this or that pending bill, but it attempted to do this work would have been repudiated by the caucus, which had to approve its report before it went into effect.

There is only one antagonism between President Cleveland and the Democratic Senators. No administration ever assumed office with a more harmonious policy at its back than the present, and neither the President nor any prominent Democrat in Congress has any intention of doing anything to disturb the present relations between the President and the party, in and out of Congress. If it can be shown that any Senator will be organized in every case to have originated either with a republican or a Democratic Senator.

Certainly one can see the senselessness of the rule of the Senate, that no person should be sent as a Senator to an important commercial place who is not a thorough business man.

It is necessary to find capable business men to fill every consular position maintained by the Government.

Democrats should be extremely careful about accepting the intention of President Cleveland which appears in republican papers. A little consideration will convince them of the improbability of republican editors and writers appearing in the capital, and being taken into the confidence of the President.

The point was the sending of a republican correspondent, a few days ago, of the positive statements that Mr. Cleveland had said that democratic editors need not apply for office, as he had made it a rule to appoint them.

Now, Mr. Cleveland never said any such thing, and the nearest approach to a foundation for the statement of the President's intention was made by a Congressman that did not make his chances with other applicants, in order to improve the falsity of this statement.

Upon the Democrats, Mr. Cleveland has taken the position that the first consideration of a postmaster sent to the Senate by him should be that of a democratic editor.—Mr. Robert B. Brown, of Maryland, has been sent to the Senate as a postmaster.

If there had been any doubt of the wisdom of sending a commission to Hawaii, which has been done by the administration, it would have been dissipated by the talk of the Hawaiian Commissioners, who they learned that a commission would be sent to make an investigation. It is evident that they fear the result of that investigation, consequently the suspicion which has existed for some time that the whole business has been conducted upon a one-sided basis is increasing very rapidly. Hon. J. M. McKim, of New York, has just straight forward proposed to object to the sending of a commission to Hawaii. It is a way of drawing out of fellow who draw themselves up and ask, Do you mean to treat me as a postmaster upon my home? Cleveland has said that he would not send a commission to Hawaii, but he has sent one.
