OUTLINES HIS VIEWS.

THE FINANCIAL FAITH OF A PROMINENT PROHIBITIONIST.

Why He Opposes Free Trade—Charge That the Law of 1878 is a Crime the New States Have Proved—Fair Experience With Debasement Currency.

In a letter published in The New Era, Chairman Russell Dickie of the Prohibition National Committee outlines his views on the currency question as follows:

Without undertaking an argument in behalf of any proposition herein, I submit the following as in part a declaration of my financial faith:

First—Upon any satisfactory plan for equalizing the intrinsic and nominal value of our coins I am a minimalist. An international agreement or an increased ratio might sufficiently approximate the desired result. To decrease the amount of gold in our gold coins might accomplish the same end, but would be a palpable fraud.

Second—As between gold monometallism and silver monometallism I unhesitatingly declare for the former. As to free coinage—several years ago when this question began to attract public attention I found myself inclined to sympathy with the advocates of free coinage. Before committing myself to any position I sought to make a careful examination of the question, and believe that I was able to solve the problem as a student and not as an advocate. I began my examination of the question with the belief that a serious investigation would only lead to confirm and strengthen impression and prejudice which, at the time, I knew rested on a well established foundation.

An examination of the issue in all its bearings has led me, almost against my will, to the conclusion that the free coinage proposal, and without international agreement, the free coinage of silver by the United States, would result in a loss of no mean magnitude. In this position I find myself in harmony with the best thought of the Prohibition party, and witness the rejection of a free coinage plank at Cincinnati by the decisive vote of 343 to 296 against it. The following are among the conclusions which have forced themselves upon me:

First—That the change that the law of 1878 was a crime and the outcome of "conspiracy" by the violent demagogues of the day.

Second—That there is no direct testimony, the circumstantial evidence is entirely inadequate, and the absence of motive is important.

Third—That the effort on the part of the silver men to get the law of 1878 repealed is the effort of the friends of the workmen and of the "gold bugs," "silver bugs," etc., is a most disgusting exhibition of the demagogues of the day.

Fourth—That the effort on the part of the silver men to get the law of 1878 repealed is the effort of the friends of the workmen and of the "gold bugs," "silver bugs," etc., is a most disgusting exhibition of the demagogues of the day.

Fifth—That the effort on the part of the silver men to get the law of 1878 repealed is the effort of the friends of the workmen and of the "gold bugs," "silver bugs," etc., is a most disgusting exhibition of the demagogues of the day.

Sixth—That the effort on the part of the silver men to get the law of 1878 repealed is the effort of the friends of the workmen and of the "gold bugs," "silver bugs," etc., is a most disgusting exhibition of the demagogues of the day.

Seventh—That the effort on the part of the silver men to get the law of 1878 repealed is the effort of the friends of the workmen and of the "gold bugs," "silver bugs," etc., is a most disgusting exhibition of the demagogues of the day.

Eighth—That the effort on the part of the silver men to get the law of 1878 repealed is the effort of the friends of the workmen and of the "gold bugs," "silver bugs," etc., is a most disgusting exhibition of the demagogues of the day.

Ninth—That the effort on the part of the silver men to get the law of 1878 repealed is the effort of the friends of the workmen and of the "gold bugs," "silver bugs," etc., is a most disgusting exhibition of the demagogues of the day.

Tenth—That the effort on the part of the silver men to get the law of 1878 repealed is the effort of the friends of the workmen and of the "gold bugs," "silver bugs," etc., is a most disgusting exhibition of the demagogues of the day.

PLENTY OF READING.

The Times has made an arrangement whereby for the next few weeks it will be able to furnish four papers for almost the price of one.

The Atlanta Weekly Journal is a large 8-page paper, containing all the important news of the week.

The Woman's Health Journal is a 10-page monthly magazine, containing various articles on health and hygiene.

The two-week edition of the New York World has been converted into a weekly paper.

Our proposition is to send: The Times ($1) and Ladies' Health Journal ($1) and Atlanta Weekly Journal ($1) and New York World ($1).

The Valdosta Times says that Mr. John Roberts, of Lowndes county, will clear $10,000 on his farming operations this year.

That appears a large sum for any individual to make at any kind of a business, and in fact, more than any other man in the county.

That nobody need think that this is the result of ordinary efforts. To clear this sum, Mr. Roberts has been very successful.

Suppose the whole of this 1,000 acre had been planted in corn. It would have yielded 40,000 bushels of corn.

THE BIRTH OF A BABY.

I Saw the Light First Away
Up in the North

OUR MADE OVER THE EVENT.

Interest is in the fact that it is an American baby, and no American baby has ever been so far North before. Their mothers were there to welcome the little stranger.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 6.—An American baby has been born on Heral

...close to the north pole as San

...The island lies north of the ...day line, being the extreme port of Alaska and the northern portion of British America. It is now possible to fly an air line from Sitka to Herschel, the traveler would have to fly 1,600 miles straight north before could see the bold headlines of the island.

The story of the birth of this northernmost of American babies has been told here by Captain Mason of the U. S. S. Albatross.

It seems that Captain Sherman and his wife had no children.

land, and Mrs. Sherman was used to the midnight sun of the arctic and the long darkness of the arctic night. There was a great interest in the birth of the baby. There were four women at Herkell Island to see the little one. They were the wives of whaling captains. The whalers, most of whom had been in the arctic from home for more than 18 months, were interested in the event and sent presents to the happy mother.
