

Phi Kappa Phi Book Drive

Phi Kappa Phi is holding a book drive and is asking for donations of new and gently used books.

Donation boxes are located in Eidson House, Henderson Library, COE lobby, CEIT atrium, Russell Union - Office of Student Leadership, and the Statesboro Regional Library.

The book drive ends Oct. 15 and is a project of Phi Kappa Phi and Southern Leaders with support from SPAGE.

Campus Farmers Market

The University Wellness Program & the Center for Sustainability have partnered with the Mainstreet Statesboro Farmers Market to bring the market to campus! Local farmers provide fresh produce, baked goods, honey, meat, dairy products and fair trade coffee. These farmers/vendors use environmentally sustainable practices including fewer pesticides, no antibiotics or growth hormones, and no preservatives. Stop by before or after class to meet new people, grab lunch, learn something new, try free samples, or to pick up a free giveaway! Cash, credit card, debit, Eagle Express, and EBT are accepted!

Thursday, October 6 at 4:00pm to 6:30pm
