Robert Frost At G.T.C.?

Robert Frost is one of America's most popular living poets of the first rank. Despite his eighty-one years, both his mind and his poetic touch are as sound today as they were forty years ago when he became one of America's leading poets. Each year Poet Frost makes a jaunt throughout the South and visits and lectures at different southern colleges and universities. Mr. Frost makes his annual visit to Georgia schools next month. Students at the University of Georgia, Georgia Tech, Emory University, and Agnes Scott College will have the privilege and supreme satisfaction of hearing New England's poet laureate give one of his rich and interesting talks.

Those who have had the good fortune to hear Mr. Frost lecture and read his poetry have been highly impressed with his entertaining and unusual performances. He speaks extemporaneously. His lectures are never written or rehearsed. Each one is different.

One famous critic, upon hearing Frost speak, remarked, "The man's talking presence is unforgettable. He loves nothing better than to work away at his talking until he surprises himself into saying a new thing. He keeps this state of readiness of mind always."

Would it be worth while to try and bring Robert Frost to G.T.C.? The answer is, of course, that it definitely would. A large segment of the student body and of Statesboro citizens would certainly see that Mr. Frost had an appreciative audience. No literary figure of Robert Frost's standing has ever appeared on the G.T.C. campus. It would be a welcome innovation in the cultural life of this campus to have one of America's outstanding poets as a guest.

Is it possible for the school to secure Mr. Frost for a lecture when he comes to Georgia next month? Most probably it is. In his swing around the state he might have time to add G.T.C. to his lecture list. The administration here would have to contact his agent and find out if he can fit G.T.C. into his schedule. They would also have to provide the amount of financial backing that would be required. Statesboro civic organizations would possibly be interested in lending a hand in this capacity. But if things did work out and Mr. Frost saw fit to visit our campus, then it would certainly be a worthwhile accomplishment for the school.

Dr. Daniel Hooley Granted Ed. D. from Columbia University

By JO ANN PARKER

Dr. Daniel S. Hooley, G.T.C. Associate professor of music, has just been granted his Ed. D. degree in music education from the Teachers College of Columbia University, where he has taught summer classes for a number of years.

Well known in this area for his appearances as a pianist, director of clinics, and instructor in both Marvin Pittman School and G.T.C., the professor began his study of music in the third grade, where he started piano lessons.

His music lessons later extended to violin and organ, with the young musician playing violin in the school orchestra, and serving as church organist while in high school.

On finishing high school, Dr. Hooley entered The State Teachers College in Mansfield, Penn. Although he began his freshman year as an English major, fate took an upper hand, and by his sophomore year, he had become a devoted member of the music world.

Our professor took time out to serve in the artillery division of the army, then returned to the college for his B.S. degree in music.

Degree in hand, he took off for a year in New York, to earn his master's diploma at the Teachers College of Columbia University.

During this year, he performed as a professional accompanist for such organizations as the American Theatre Wing, appearing with such artists as Ann Blyth, Jerome Hines, and Marcia Callas, Italy's leading opera star for several years.

From Columbia, Dr. Hooley went to Mercersburg, Penn., where he was city music supervisor for the public schools. It was here that cupid drew his bow, and the professor met Adele, later to become his wife.

In 1952, he returned to Columbia for a year as a demonstration teacher of piano classes while working on his doctor's degree there. Completing his degree courses that year, the G.T.C. instructor spent the next three years working on his dissertation during odd moments he snatched while holding a year-round teaching job, making numerous appearances as a pianist, serving in music clinics, helping produce a music education film, and helping with anything else musical that came up in this area.

In 1953, the professor married Adele, just one week before he was to begin teaching at G.T.C. (They now have two children, Steve, two and one-half years old, and Ellen, nine months.)

His present teaching schedule includes methods classes for elementary and music majors, piano classes in the college, supervision of student teaching for vocal music majors in the Lab School, and serving as music consultant and choral director of the Marvin Pittman School.

Dr. Hooley still teaches keyboard harmony at Columbia's Teachers College during the summer, and last summer worked with Robert Pace, head of the piano department there, in helping make a music education film. The film is now being used in methods classes by music dealers, P.T.A.'s, and

THE G.T.C. PHILHARMONIC CHOIR will make its first public appearance of this quarter early in March at the First Methodist Church in Sandersville, Georgia. This is the second in a series of concerts to be presented this year, the first being the Christmas concert given December 10. The membership is the largest in the history of the college, with ninety-seven voices. A drop is probable in membership during winter quarter. The choir is under the direction of Dr. Ronald J. Neil, head of the music department here and the accompanists are Choyce "Doodle" Jackson and Kitty Kelly.

Dr. Swilley Will Be Speaker For Religious Emphasis Week

Profs of M.P.S., G.T.C. Ed. Dept. To Attend Meet

Several members of the Marvin Pittman School faculty along with members of G.T.C.'s education department will attend the mid-term in-service conference of the Bulloch County Teachers Association to be held in Statesboro on Friday and Saturday, January 24 and 25. The main speaker for the conference will be Dr. Alec Terroldin of the University of Georgia. His topic will be "A Pace-Setting Elementary School."

After the main address there will be a series of group meetings for the teachers. They will include, (1) reporting to parents, (2) preparing accounting (tests and records), (3) exploring ways of counseling parents, and (4) identifying and helping children with special needs. Attending from M.P.S. and G.T.C. will be Miss Marie Wood, Miss Constance Cone, Miss Bertha Freeman, Dr. Marshall Hamilton, Miss Gladys Waller and Dr. J. D. Park.

While at the conference Dr. Park will be working with a high school group on using evaluative criteria of the Southern Association.

Masquers Will Present Skit To B.C. G.E.A. Group

On Thursday, January 24, Masquers will present a skit entitled, "The Classroom Teacher's Dilemma," written by Miss Bertha Freeman, associate professor of education. The skit will be put on at the Bulloch County G.E.A. meeting.

The skit reveals the attitudes of various members of the community toward teachers and their responsibilities.

Masquers that will appear in the cast are Sandra Tindal, Billy Sanders, Bill Hinson, Bill Sanders, Emory Giles, Anne Waters, Molly Williams, Gladys Brown, and Bob Spell.

The meeting will take place at 4:00 p.m. at Statesboro High School.

Miscellany Publication Set; February 1, Probable Date

Movie Tonight Is 'The Titanic'

The movie for tonight will be "Titanic." The movie is based on the famous sea disaster which occurred April 14-15, 1912, with a loss of 1,517 lives. Clifton Webb will be starred in the production.

Byrd Announces Valentine Motif For H. C. Dance

A valentine motif will color this year's Home-coming dance according to Bob Byrd, chairman of the Student Council's social committee.

Featured theme for the annual event will be "The Sweetheart Campus Opens Its Heart to the Alumni." Selected because the dance comes so near to Valentine's Day, the idea grew out of last Monday's meeting of the Student Council, official hosts for the occasion.

All members of the council and the social committee will work with all phases of preparation, but co-chairmen were selected to be in charge of the different jobs.

Decorations will be planned by Bob Byrd and Fred Fagnant, with Rose Watkins, Jerry Brown, Liz Morgan, and Romana Wall also helping. Beverly Perkins, John Hurst, and Britt Fayssoux will take charge of refreshments, while entertainment for the evening will be arranged by Ralph Walton, Jane Jackson and Dewayne Dutton.

REFLECTOR CONTEST

Students are reminded that the Reflector is sponsoring a snapshot contest for snapshots to be put in the annual. The contest ends February 1, and entries are to be turned over to Emory Cartrett or Mickie Webb.

Assembly Held Tuesday, Thurs. Of Next Week

Next week, beginning on Tuesday, January 29, Religious Emphasis Week will be observed here on our campus. The purpose of this week of religious emphasis is to bring out the importance of religion in the lives of college students. This is an annual observance at G.T.C. and has proved very effective in the past.

The visiting pastor, who will be the featured speaker is Dr. Monroe Swilley of Atlanta, Ga. Dr. Swilley is pastor of the Second Ponce DeLeon Baptist Church and also serves on the Southern Baptist Foreign Mission Board.

During Religious Emphasis Week assembly will not be held on Monday, January 28. However, assembly will be held on Tuesday, January 29, and Thursday, January 31, and attendance is compulsory. Besides speaking at 10 a. m. on Tuesday and Thursday, Dr. Swilley will also speak on Tuesday and Wednesday evenings at 6:15 p. m.

It is hoped by the organizations supporting this week of religious emphasis that as many students as possible attend the sessions that have been planned.

According to Britt Fayssoux, co-editor of G.T.C.'s new literary magazine, MISCELLANY, will be ready for distribution about February 1. However, Fayssoux states that there has been some trouble with the printing of the magazine and that publication might be delayed for a few days. An announcement will be made later as to the exact date that it will come out.

The literary magazine is a publication put out by the public relations office. Serving as co-editors for MISCELLANY are Jane Williams and Britt Fayssoux. A slight fee will be charged for the magazine. It will be twenty-five cents and is to cover printing costs.

The primary purpose of this literary digest is to present the creative writings of G.T.C. students. It will also contain works from outstanding writers of the South and G.T.C. faculty members.

MISCELLANY will be published every quarter from now on and will be a fine addition to G.T.C. publications.

Duncan Grants Late Extension

The house directors and the Dean of Women wish to grant an extension of hours for those girls who will be needed to work on floats. To do this, all clubs should turn in a list of the girls who will be doing actual construction on floats the night of the Beauty Revue. These girls will be granted the late extension.

If the float is to be constructed off campus, please indicate where. The faculty should be responsible for seeing that the girls have transportation back to the campus.

This information should be turned into the Dean of Women's office as soon as possible.

Construction Bid For Warehouse Let Last Week

The Somers Construction Company of Vidalia, was the successful bidder on the $36,500 warehouse to be erected on the campus. Bids were received on January 17 and the contract was awarded to this company. Construction is to get underway immediately.

The contract calls for 120 working days for completion, so the new storage building should be ready by late spring or early summer. The building is to be erected on the site of the old barn behind where Coach J. I. Clements now lives. This is one of the many improvements planned for G.T.C. campus.

'Seek and Ye Shall Find'

We are indeed fortunate here at Georgia Teachers College to have a week set aside each year to be observed as Religious Emphasis Week.

We should be exceedingly glad that we have this unique opportunity to strengthen our spiritual lives. We should be glad that we have the capable leadership that we will have during this week. For a speaker, we were fortunate to get Dr. Monroe Swilley of Atlanta. Dr. Swilley is a great spiritual leader, and we feel that under his guidance we will be able to come closer to God. Our student leaders also are much for us to be thankful for, because it is they who set up this program that gives us closer communion with God.

Religious Emphasis Week is our Week, and unless we enter into it with open minds and hearts, we will receive very little spiritually, and thus have wasted this wonderful opportunity for spiritual development.

We will have special assembly on both Tuesday and Thursday that will be compulsory by rule of the college. We will have many other sessions throughout the week that we do not have to participate in, but we have to look after ourselves and unless we receive the strength that we need, how can we expect to carry on with our daily duties.

If we are to find the success that we are in college preparing for, we must go all out in locating the keys to the doors of our futures. For He said, "Seek and Ye Shall Find."

T.C. or G.T.C.

Georgia Teachers College abbreviated is G.T.C. This has been generally accepted all over the campus, and we are wondering why the winner of the Beauty Revue is referred to as "Miss T.C." instead of "Miss G.T.C."

There are teachers colleges all over the United States, and the only way to distinguish this teachers college from the others is by putting Georgia in front of Teachers College.

The words to our Alma Mater were changed so that G could be added to T.C. and The George-Anne and college publications use G.T.C. When someone asks us where we attend college, we say Georgia Teachers College. Yet, the winner of the Beauty Revue is still referred to as "Miss T.C." It seems to us that we should be consistent and refer to the winner as "Miss G.T.C." This could also apply to the floats and other decorations that will be used in this year's Home-coming activities.

Stop, Look, Listen!!

There is a saying "The pedestrian has the right-of-way." However true this is, there are always exceptions to the rule.

The little mishap that occurred last Friday in front of the little store probably could have been avoided if both the pedestrian and the driver of the car had been aware of the rights of others. There is no rule stating that vehicles are not to pass through this area and there are no sidewalks or prescribed walkways for those pedestrians in this vicinity. As it is now, it cannot be determined who is in the wrong.

With the new parking areas it seems that traffic by the post office should not be permitted. This is a congested area from morning until night. Parking could be allowed at the end of the music building and in the area between there and the little store with traffic not passing by the post office.

If this is not possible, could we as students take it upon ourselves to be careful as we drive on campus. There are many pedestrians on each street on the campus. With the two-way traffic around front campus, safety will have to be exercised if we are to preserve the health of the students. When the stop and speed limit signs are placed at the appropriate spots, we should obey them. They are put there for the protection of the pedestrian as well as the operator of the car.

Students must realize that if they are walking in the street they are treading upon the right of the on-coming car, and should move over to the side. And if you are the driver of a car you are obligated to watch for the pedestrian as well as for your car.

LITTLE MAN ON CAMPUS

by Dick Biblei

"I TAKE IT YOU'VE JUST RECENTLY LEARNED TO DANCE."

Dear Editor:

My personal dignity and sense of individuality refuse to let go unnoticed the obvious reference in the recent issue of The George-Anne to my own code of ethics regarding hygiene.

If I choose to handle and love a cat who, by the way loves me in return (and is obviously the only creature on campus who does) I see it as my concern; I shouldn't think that the worthy "columnist" would have time or intelligence to judge my conduct in relation to the dearest creature I know, nor should I consider it the smallest slight if in the future of my problems of health as he sees them. Of course, I could not be more delighted really that someone other than the cat seems to care.

However, the vocalization of true interest lies chiefly in decorum.

May I say also that any derogatory reference to Savannah was appreciated as the sturdy oak who knows its own worth and longevity appreciates the insult of the new-blown transient rose-bud, whose beauty lies in color and swiftness of life's speed. So may I stand like a sturdy young oak and revel in the fact that although many more delicate sweet-heart roses are born, few shall reach my strength and level of dignity.

—Name withheld

Dear Editor:

Since I have been here at G.T.C., there have been a number of things that I have been impressed with that I did not find at the school I transferred from. Things that bring the students closer together.

After being in school only a few days as a freshman, and seeing members of the student body acting toward each other they way they did, I became discouraged and wondered if all colleges were that way.

The things that have impressed me most are as follows: Athletic enthusiasm, student response on school problems, student - faculty relationships, campus religious life, and student publications.

Well, Mr. Editor, I really like the school here and I think that it tops any in the state.

—A Pleased Transfer

Dear Editor:

I don't mind being quoted but I shall not be misquoted. Neither shall I be asked one question by your reporter and have my answer published as the answer to an entirely different question. I would ask that this mistake be corrected.

Hyde and Seek

By LARRY HYDE

What are your feeling toward intoxicating beverages in connection with members of the opposite sex?

This has been the topic for many "bull sessions" in the men's dormitories and I thought it would be interesting to see how each individual would answer the three following questions. 1. Do you drink intoxicating beverages? 2. Do you associate with women that drink intoxicating beverages? 3. Would you marry a woman that drinks intoxicating beverages? The answers for these questions were yes or no and maybe being added for an answer to the third question.

In order to make this survey as brief as possible, I did not ask to what extent the person in question drank. If could be from one can of beer in his life to a case every night. I conducted this survey personally by asking the question to 200 male Georgia Teachers College students and the results are as follows:

1st question Yes 59% No 41%
2nd question Yes 65% No 35%
3rd question Yes 35% No 62%
Undecided 3%

As you can see, there is not too much difference between the first and second questions but there definitely is a difference between the first and third questions.

The general answers that were given ran something like this: "I don't mind being around a girl that drinks but I wouldn't want to marry her." Someone else: "Anytime my wife wants to take a social drink, its OK by me but I wouldn't want her to make a habit of it." Still another version: "I wouldn't ask my wife not to drink if I drink myself!"

I'm not saying this survey proves anything but it is interesting how the results turned out. In the long run, the question of your drinking, your girl drinking or your wife drinking depends upon the individuals involved.

Do you have any comments that you would like to make on the subject? This column is open to all comments and opinions, especially the woman's side.

Just For Kicks, Maybe?

A few weeks ago actress Marie McDonald was supposedly kidnapped from her home in Southern California. She was supposedly abducted by two young men, beaten and then left in the desert several miles from the scene of the abduction.

Marie McDonald is the girl with the hourglass figure, that has wowed audience both here in the good old U. S. and abroad. Marie McDonald has always been a publicity happy individual that has succeeded in many different ways to get her name in the papers and her picture in the news reels.

Was this latest experience in the life of Marie planned as a gimmick to claim more of the nation's affection that she has always loved so much or was it a unfortunate incident that involved her abduction, and her separation from her small children.

Marie and her most loyal press agent claim foul play, while the law enforcement authorities in and around Palm Springs seem to think that this was just another caper carefully planned to gain a little attention to a person who was slowly slipping out of the limelight. The office of the U. S. district attorney in Palm Springs bases his supposition on the fact that although Miss McDonald has so cleverly enacted the abduction, one clue indicating foul play is yet to turn up.

Sure she had a black eye and a couple of loose teeth, but does this necessarily mean that foul play on the part of two young kidnapers has occurred? After all, many a gay Hollywood party has developed into mayhem, so why couldn't this have been caused by one of her most intoxicated friends.

While the police are trying desperately to locate two kidnapers, the office of the district attorney is still unsuccessfully playing a game with Miss McDonald called twenty questions.

For another thrilling chapter in the life of Marie McDonald, keep your eyes peeled on the national papers for the next few days, for you never know what may turn up. It is my guess though that Marie will again get a part that she likes in an upcoming motion picture. Why, because she is once more a national figure, and might still be able to draw crowds at box offices.

Was this just a caper devised by a clever, but money hungry agent and his lovely client so that thicker gravy might appear on the tables of two Palm Springs homes?

Was this done just for kicks?

There has been some comment on whether or not the Student Council is fulfilling its obligations to the student body. The question, "Do you think the Student Council is fulfilling its obligations to the student body?" has been asked to twelve people and here are their answers:

BILLY SANDERS—Definitely, it does all it can do with the conditions as they are.

BILL SANDERS—I agree with Billy.

HUBERT MANNING—Yes, I think they are doing an excellent job.

EMORY GILES—I think they are doing as much as they can to a certain extent. I don't think they have had full co-operation from the student body.

DONALD SCOTT—I think they do a fairly good job.

FRANKLIN PIERCE—Under the circumstances I would like to congratulate each member on the Student Council for the splendid way that they have endeavored to solve our many problems.

JACKIE CALLOWAY—I think they have done an excellent job considering the co-operation they have received from the student body.

BETTY JAN SAUNDERS—I think they are doing a good job according to the co-operation they have gotten.

JOYCE RAHN—So far, I think they are doing a wonderful job, but I also think they should keep working to prohibit the breaking in line at the dining hall.

JOYCE KIRKLAND—I think they are doing as good as they can under the restrictions put on them by the administration.

'T.C. 20-20' To Be Produced By Earl Smith

"T.C. 20-20," a story of the campus life at T.C. in the Twenties, is an original composition written for the music students by Juicy Smith. It is to be presented February 18 by students from many phases of the music department and will be entirely composed of students.

The results of the cast try-outs are: Mr. T.C., James Jones; Mrs. T.C., Joyce Ryan; Dr. Russell, Bobby Godwin; Larry Hyde, Guy Thompson; Aunt Sophie, Kitty Kelley; and announcer, Danzil Sellars.

Producer and director will be Juicy Smith, conductor; Du-Ward Whelchel; stage manager, Stanley Brobston; make-up, Maralon Westbrook; choreography, Kitty Kelly.

SCEARCE SPEAKS

G.T.C. basketball coach, J. B. Searce, was a guest speaker at the Harlan, Kentucky High School banquet last Monday night. Coach Searce spoke on "What is Football."

CHOYCE JACKSON—Yes, they're doing all they can to make regulations for betterment of the student body. It's up to the students to realize the needs for these regulations and to enforce them.

ANN GOWEN—Yes, definitely. I think they are doing a fine job. They seem a conscientious group doing all they can for the student body.

Luckenbach Admits First Days At G.T.C. Were Very Confusing

By JANE JACKSON

Talk about trouble! I've had it! Following the suggestion of our feature editor, I innocently trampled over to the chemistry building to find Mr. Luckenbach (pronounced "Lookin' back to see if you were lookin' back to see, etc. with a 'Cisco Kid' accent) to get my feature material on him.

I told him who I was and what I wanted, and he said, "I don't think I want you to write it." I begged and bit by bit I dug little dabbles of the sought information from him. All together it amounted to:

"My name is Leon Luckenbach, it has a German-Dutch origin, I call Dade City, Fla. my home."

After many more questions I found out that our difficult subject is a graduate of the University of Florida. He got his B.A. degree in English, his M.A. in math, and has completed his Ph.D. in education except for writing his dissertation.

Before he entered the college teaching field he was supervising principal for some public schools in Fla. While working in public schools he sponsored several school papers and wrote articles for them also. He served in the Royal Canadian Air Force and the U. S. Army during World War II.

Mr. Luckenbach has taught math at the University of Maryland and at Troy State Teachers College in Alabama.

He is now teaching basic math, statistics, and college algebra here at G.T.C. This is Mr. Luckenbach's first year in Georgia. He said "I like Georgia because it's progressive."

The first impression the new professor had of G.T.C. was that his class would meet in a different room each day. First his math class met in the biology building. The next day it met in the ad. building and the next day in another room in the ad. building. Becoming somewhat frustrated, the professor would dismiss his confused class with, "We'll meet tomorrow, same time, but I surely don't know where." Finally a specific room was assigned them, however.

"I have a wife and three kids," he replied to my question, "Are you married?"

"My kids are seven, twelve and eighteen," he said.

"Which is what?" I asked.

"The boys are at the extreme ends," he replied.

(I knew he'd pull some mathematical language on me before it was over.) Being unable to figure out what in the world he meant, he laughed and told me, "My boys are seven and eighteen, my girl is twelve."

Getting this dab of information was like pulling eye teeth and as he had given me the last bit, I had said the proper "Thank you," and started to leave the chemistry building he called, "Wait, I've decided I don't want you to print it after all."

I left in despair, checked the catalog, found out I don't have any math under him during my college career. So, here's the story.

Students Asked Not to Ask Guests At Homecoming

Because of the already crowded conditions in the men's and women's dormitories all students are urged to discourage any overnight Homecoming guests in any of the dormitories.

This weekend is especially for graduates and currently enrolled students of G.T.C. In order to make space available for their guests, any students who will be leaving campus Homecoming weekend and are willing to have their beds used are requested to notify their house directors immediately.

All students are reminded that neither the college nor house directors provide linens for guests.

East Hall parlors will again be used for alumni registration. Lewis Hall will be the scene of an alumni open house following the parade. Alumni and other visitors will want to meet friends in all parlors.

Our students may co-operate by not loitering or "dating" in the parlors during Homecoming weekend.

The regulation permitting wearing of pedal pushers, Bermudas, and so on on Saturdays will not be in effect Saturday, February 9, as this is one of the times "when the college is playing host to outside groups." (See T Book, p. 31, 6e.)

Girls who find it necessary to wear Bermudas for work on floats should go and come from the dormitories as inconspicuously as possible and should not tarry in the parlors in their "work clothes."

HIT PARADE

By DILLARD MAXWELL

Applegate Heads Cheering Squad

Rosalyn Applegate is the new captain of the cheerleader squad as per announcement by its members on Tuesday of this week.

Because of a slight injury to her back, Beverly Perkins has been ordered by her doctor to leave the squad for the more quiet role of spectator. The alternate member, Charlotte Owens, has officially become a cheerleader in this emergency.

The other members of the squad are Dexter Hughes, Martha Tinker, Diana Bair, Beverly O'Conner and Martha Brantley.

Still leading the hit parade this week is "Singing the Blues" by Guy Mitchell. Lavern Baker's "Jim Dandy" is coming up very fast and by next week I think it will be well on its way to the top ten if not sooner.

"Moonlight Gambler" by Frankie Lane, and "Since I Met You Baby," by Ivory Joe Hunter are among the juke box favorites around Statesboro. Other tunes still on the hit parade are "Blue Berry Hill" by Fats Domino, "Don't Forbid Me" by Pat Boone, and of course the "Banana Boat Song."

Each week in this column a popular music artist will be featured. This week's popular artist is Kay Starr recording for R.C.A. Victor. Vivacious, husky-voiced singer Kay Starr was born July 21, 1922 in Dougherty, Oklahoma. She was the only child of Harry and Anne Starks; of Irish and Cherokee descent. Kay got her start in the music field on radio station WREC, Memphis, Tenn.

Vet's Corner

By TOM BRYSON

In the last few weeks there have been many verbal complaints made regarding the quality of food served here on campus, and in the last issue of this paper, several criticisms were committed to writing. Constructive criticism is always welcome, and is very healthy in that students are permitted to voice their opinions on certain vital interests. It is true that the quality of food served in the dining hall is not comparable to that of certain of the better restaurants around town, but then the prices are not exactly in line either, and the differences, if any, in the quality of food is not justified by the higher prices charged in the restaurants.

Several conditions are submitted for the consideration of those who would adversely criticize the quality of food served:

1. In the past ten years the cost of living in the United States has increased 17.9 per cent, whereas the increase in the cost of board at G.T.C. has only been 9 per cent or $9 per quarter.

2. The per diem for board here is approximately $1.37, averaging about 45 cents per meal, and it is seriously doubted if three meals of substantial quality and good quality could be purchased for this price in an average restaurant. Too, there is no additional charge for extra servings in the dining hall, whereas this is the case in all restaurants.

3. This college is operated on a low cost basis, the students deriving the benefits thereof. An increase in the quality of food would necessitate an increase in the cost of board, and it is questionable whether or not a substantial hike in the latter would be met with too much enthusiasm on the part of students.

A number of veterans and transfer students have been interviewed regarding the quality of food served here as compared to that which is served in the service and at other colleges, and the consensus is that the quality is equal to, if not superior to, that which is served to men in service and to students at other colleges. Being both veteran and transfer student, the above opinion seems valid.

Those of you who will be obliged to enter the service in the next year or two, and it is seriously doubted that you will do so in order to obtain better "chow," are advised to appreciate that which you now have, for a steady diet of field rations and/or beans, potatoes, dehydrated milk, cold cuts, and chipped beef on toast can be-

While she was in high school she sang with Joe Venuti and Bob Crosby. Kay appeared in Columbia's picture "When You're Smiling," in 1950, singing her hit "Mama Goes Where Papa Goes." She has starred in night clubs such as El Rancho Vegas, Chicago's College Inn, Slapsie Maxie's in Hollywood, and New York's Cafe Society.

Some of Kay Starr's well known records that have made the hit parade through the years are "Wheel of Fortune," "Man Upstairs," "Side by Side," "Three Letters," "Noah," "Swamp Fire," and her two latest ones today, "Rock and Roll Waltz" and "Second Fiddle." Kay Starr has a style of singing all her own. She was one of the first to record in the echo chamber.

There is no trick to her style of singing, she simply records the record once and then plays it back and harmonizes with her own voice. Kay has dark hair, brown eyes, she is 5 feet 3 inches tall and weighs 125 pounds.

Students Given Second Chance On Past Grades

The following is for the benefit of those students who received an Incomplete or a Condition, "E," last quarter on their report cards.

Students whose report cards for last quarter showed grades of Condition or Incomplete must make up the work required by at least six weeks following the beginning of this quarter.

They are permitted by the registrar to complete the courses and remove conditions, but if this work is not done by the end of the six weeks period, the grade will automatically revert to a failure.

GEOGRAPHY TRIPS

Dr. Rogers, along with the students of Geography 301 class, went on a field trip Monday, January 21. The purpose of the trip was to observe the processes of soil erosion.

Their next schedule field trip is on February 11. The topic for observation on this excursion will be the types of vegetation.

The North Carolina Tarheels led by all-American candidate Lennie Rosenbluth finally edged Kansas for the top position in the basketball polls held throughout the country this week. This is indeed a great triumph for their fine coach, Frank McGuire.

McGuire, after tutoring St. John's of Brooklyn to many winning seasons, took over as head man at Chapel Hill in 1953. He immediately started a revamping job at the North Carolina school and his hard work is now paying dividends.

It is interesting to note that McGuire has tapped the metropolitan area of New York City for most of his talent. Only three members of the Tarheel squad are from below the Mason-Dixon line.

North Carolina will probably be among the nation's ten best teams for the next two or three years. This year's starting five only Rosenbluth is a senior. The remaining members of the squad are mostly sophomores.

McGuire and Carolina probably have one of the best back court men in the business in 5-11 guard Tommy Kearns. Kearns is classified as the take-charge type of player that is so necessary for a winning team.

In the Tarheels' 90 to 86 overtime victory over South Carolina, Kearns was the one player who was most responsible for his team's victory. He displayed devastating clutch shooting from the field as well as from the foul line. His tremendous performance broke the Gamecocks' backs and paved the way to their downfall.

This North Carolina team is one of the best coached teams I have ever seen play. Even though they may drop a few games this season they are no worse than No. 3 in the country. Their current record as of this writing is 15-0.

You sports fans who enjoy a rough and tumble type of sport are really missing something if you haven't witnessed the Professional Hockey matches on Channel 11 TV every Saturday afternoon. Without a doubt, hockey is the fastest moving team sport in this country today. It combines two sports in one, the sport of ice skating and the sport of hockey.

The TV coverage of the matches is handled exceptionally well considering the fast moving action. The skill the players have in handling the puck is almost unbelievable. A thorough explanation of the rules of hickey is given between periods by the announcer as well as the referees.

All in all it adds up to two hours of fine athletic entertainment.

Profs Victorious Over Oglethorpe

Our Profs walloped Oglethorpe University's Petrels 93-60 Saturday night with Bo Warren and Don Wallen showing the way on 21 and 18 points respectively. G.T.C. led from the start as Doug Corry opened up with a field goal and Bo Warren dumped in a free throw for a 3-0 lead. Then Buck got the Petrels underway with a two-pointer. But then the margin started suddenly and steadily increasing until it reached 39-18 at one point and 51-24 at intermission.

The second half was a little better as the few who expected a good game were given some consolation by Searnes, Sewell, and Sullivan, who tried to make it half-way close.

The final score read 93-60. Leading scorers for the losers were Sewell with 19 and Starnes 15. The Profs out rebounded the Petrels, grabbing 64 off the boards to the visitors' 38. G.T.C. also had a very commendable shooting percentage of 45 per cent to the Petrels 33 per cent. Other fairly high scorers for the Profs were Corry and Curry with 12 points each.

Profs To Battle Presbyterian Blue Hose Here Saturday Night

BO WARREN is this week's Varsity Player of the Week. Bo played an outstanding game against Oglethorpe University as he poured in 21 points for high scorer.

Potts and Westbrook Named Intramural Players of Week

EAGLES WIN THIRD STRAIGHT

The day students won two games this week to take the lead in the intramural basketball league. The Eagles defeated the Colts 72-37 as Potts with 25 points led the way. Ed Brown with 17 points was high for the losers. Other scorers were: Colts: D. Johnson 8, Smiley 6, R. Smith 4, and Calloway 2. Eagles: Morris 14, Collins 13, McLeod 11, Rocker 3, Browning 3, Adams 2, and Nevil 1. Halftime score was 41 to 18 in favor of the Eagles.

In the second game the Eagles stomped the Flyers 65-36. McLeod and Potts with 20 and 17 points respectively led the day students. Griffin with 18 points led the Flyers. Other scorers were: Flyers—G. Ragsdale 8, Miller 8, and Sanders 2. Eagles: Adams 10, Morris 9, Pollak 4, Collins 3, and Dack 2.

FLYERS DEFEAT RAMS

The Flyers led by Billy Hobbs with 18 points and Skeeter Griffin with 15 points defeated the Rams 62 to 44. The Rams were led by Bucky Thomas and Reuben Neely with 21 and 16 points respectively. Other scorers were: Rams—Dykes 2, Orom 2, Fain 2, and Jenkins 1. Flyers—Ward 12, Stephens 4, Bennett 4, Corley 4, Ragsdale 3, and Cartrett 2. The halftime score was 35 to 22 in favor of the Flyers.

BLACK STALLIONS LOSE TWO GAMES

The Black Stallions from third floor Sanford had a rough week by losing two games. The Cardinals defeated the Horses 64-35. They were led by Cary Moore with 22 points. The losers were led by Sutton and Godfrey with 11 and 10 points respectively. The Cards were out front at the half 30 to 10. Other scorers were: Stallions—Tyler 4, Flournoy 4, Head 2, Stallions 2, and Barker 2. Cards—Houston 10, Denham 7, Trice 6, Lee 4, Rachels 4, Smith 3, Alewine 2, Myers 2, Bacon 2, and Walton 2. In their second game the Black Stallions lost to the Rams 55-51. The Stallions were led by Briggs Tyler and Charles Head with 13 and 12 points respectively. The Rams were paced by Bucky Thomas and Franklin Pierce with 21 and 16 points. Other scorers were: Stallions—Flournoy 9, Haywood 7, Godfrey 4, Sutton 1, and Barker 1. Rams—Dykes 10, and Fain 7. The halftime score was 30 to 18 in favor of the Rams.

WILDCATS STOMP CLODHOOPPERS

The Wildcats stomped the third floor Clodhoppers 83-47 as Vondall Hall led his team with 25 points. The losers were paced by Ralph Berryhill for the second straight week with 21 points. The Wildcats were leading 52 to 27 at the half. Other scorers were: Clodhoppers: Benton 9, Sawyer 5, Simpson 4, Mims 4, and Connor 4. In another game the Lewis Hall girls (Toppers) defeated the Rebels from West Hall 58-32. The Toppers were led by Westbrook and O'Connor with 22 and 19 points. The Rebels were led by Jane Jackson with 18 points. The toppers were leading 23-10 at the half. Other scorers were: Auston 4, Nobels 12, Theus 1. Guards were Ledbetter, Williams, Ricketson, and Hodges. Scorers for the Rebels were: Thrift 2, Goff 8,

South Carolinians to Provide Tough Opposition for Profs

Coach Russ Murphy will bring his highly touted Presbyterian Blue Hose to Statesboro tomorrow evening to take on the Professors. The Hose will probably be one of the finest college quints to appear at the local gym this season.

Murphy rates his two co-captains, Bruce and Dave Thompson, as two of the best performers in the Southland. Dave is a 6-0 senior forward and Bruce is a senior center, standing at 6-4. They netted 720 and 662 points respectively last season while leading their team to a 21 won-6 lost season.

Presbyterian dropped a 61-59 decision last year to McNeese State of Louisiana. McNeese won the N.A.I.A. tourney held in Kansas City later in the season.

Rounding out the starting lineup for the Blue Hose are 6-1 sophomore forward, Clayton Adams, 5-8 sophomore guard, Bill Sullivan, and 5-11 sophomore guard, Ken Caswell.

Mercer nipped Presbyterian by two points in an overtime game early in the season at Macon, and dropped a 30-point decision to the Hose in Clinton, S. C. on January 18.

Coach Searce is expected to encounter with Doug Corry and Chester Curry his two fine forwards, Ronnie Rush at center and Don Wallen and Bo Warren at guards. Jimmy Long will provide additional board strength when the going gets tough.

The steady improvement of Don Avery will be a shot in the arm for the Profs. Don has been shooting well in the practice sessions held this past week.

Cadle 4. Guards were McCormick, Harden, Wiggins, Booth, Rhodes.

GIRL PLAYER OF WEEK

Louise Westbrook scored 22 points as she led the Toppers to victory. Louise is from Summerville, Georgia.

Profs Defeat Leathernecks

For the first time since the beginning of the basketball series between Quantico and G.T.C. the Profs defeated the Marines here last night 86-80.

Bo Warren led the red-hot Profs with 25 points. Chet Curry, freshman sensation, hit 15, and Doug Corry and Don Wallen collected 14 each.

The Professors are undefeated on their home floor. This made the eighth straight home victory for the Searcemen.

Coach J. B. Searce said, "It was a complete team effort and one of our most satisfying victories."

George A. Teachas Says . . .

Often in expressing his personal selfishness, a student that has a gripe about the school or the way certain affairs are being handled forgets to look at but one side of the problem.

Do you suppose that our star grippers have ever thought that the reason we do not have a new girls' dormitory, or a new dining hall-student center is because it takes money, and plenty of it, to build these things? This money has to come from the Board of Regents who are given only a small amount of money each year to disperse to our state colleges. This money comes from state funds which are made up largely of taxes. Taxes are those things that all of us hate to pay all the time. Now, mister gripper, do you wish to sacrifice any more of your material means so that our school can have the many things that it needs. If not, my advice to you is to stop this meaningless chatter.

Do you suppose that these same people ever stop to think that it is not the fault of the dining hall personnel or the administration that we do not always get the choice pent house patron at each meal? Reckon he has ever stopped to consider that sometimes there are mistakes in the ordering and the shipping of food so that we have the same things sometimes twice a week. Besides, if these unhappy individuals will take the advice of many of our transfer students who have had to eat in other dining halls throughout the state, they will soon find that our school is among the tops in the state as far as the food content and preparation is concerned.

Well, I suppose some people just never learn.

other interested groups all over the nation.

He has been invited to start work this year on a second film of this nature, featuring a first grade music class. This film might possibly be made here on campus.

Not content with this project, the versatile musician is now working on a series of public school music books for use in kindergarten through the eighth grade. Composer Hooley hopes to have books for kindergarten and the first and second grades completed and off the press by next fall.

G.T.C. audiences have especially enjoyed hearing him in duo-piano performances with Jack Broucek, also an instructor in this school's music department. This past week found the two in Savannah playing Saint-Saens' "Carnival of Animals" for some 8,000 school children on four Savannah Symphony children's concerts.

The George-Anne joins with the whole campus in congratulating Dr. Hooley on his newest achievement.

Home Ec. Club Lists Candidates To State Offices

The Home Economics Club has been very active during the past week. At the meeting Monday night candidates for state office were elected. The candidates are as follows:

President, Beverly Perkins; first vice president, Sis Heys; second vice president, Martha Brantly; secretary, Betty Rahn; treasurer, Joyce Crosby. The members wish these candidates a most successful campaign.

On Thursday nights the club has been sponsoring a hot-dog sale in the girls' dormitories. Proceeds from the sale has been submitted to the treasury.

The members are very busy and enthusiastic in planning a float for the Home-coming parade.

Martha Brantly will represent the club in the Beauty Revue.

AVERRITT SPEAKS

Jack N. Averitt, professor of social science, spoke to the Chatham County social science teachers on Thursday evening, January 24. His topic was "Preparing High School Students for College."

This program was under the direction of Mrs. Hazell Tuthill, social science teacher at Savannah High School. Professor Averitt's talk was in connection with a two-day planning program for spring holidays.

Corry Named Fire Marshall

Sanford Hall floor monitors and fire officers were selected last Monday afternoon by the Sanford House Council, and announced at the general house meeting Monday night.

Monitors selected were Emory Giles, Ed McLesky, Jerry Brown, and Joe Waters. Doug Corry was appointed general fire marshall, with Ed Brown, Dexter Hughes, John Carroll, Bobby Teasley, Sam Rogers, and Joe Waters chosen as hall captains.

Also selected at this time were two exit orderlies for each floor, including Dick Lipscomb, Bobby Forester, Ed McLesky, Ralph Turner, Jerry Brown, and John Chambliss.

Hooley, Broucek Play for Kids

Dr. Daniel Hooley and Jack Broucek, G.T.C. music instructors, entertained Chatham County children with a duo-piano performance at Saint-Saens' "Carnival of Animals" on last Monday and Wednesday.

The work was performed with the Savannah Symphony as part of a series of children's concerts.

'Li'l John' Got Lost. Where? In Library Deep In a Book

By BOB SPELL

"Little John," they called him at college, had been missing since lunch. Frantically, all his friends searched the dormitory, the administration building, the little store; but nowhere could he be found.

"It's amazing how someone could just disappear like that," remarked Bill, his roommate.

Ed spoke up, "Can you imagine someone like Li'l John getting lost at G.T.C.?"

"Have you checked the old gym and front campus?" Bill asked.

"Sure," Betty sighed, "we've looved everywhere!"

Just then Dan, who had been in a haze of serious concentration (if that's possible for a college student), added his suggestion, "Why not look in the library?"

"WHAT?" exclaimed everyone.

"Libraries are just for creeps," Bill sneered.

"Only squares go there, bird-brain!" spoke Ed while giving Dan a little shove.

"Well, it wouldn't hurt to try," Dan said meekly.

Betty looked at the gang and suggested, "We might as well buzz through that building too."

The gang walked over to the library and started at it as if it were a house of holy terror.

"Betty, you and Bill check the downstairs part of the building while Dan and I look for him in the reading rooms," Ed advised.

As they were breaking up, Dan told Betty and Bill to meet them in the rotunda if they couldn't find Li'l John. In a few minutes the group had assembled once more with no clues to their lost companion's whereabouts.

"Let's check the stacks before we give up," Dan suggested.

The gang, led by Dan, walked through the stacks until they came to the most remote corner, and lo and behold, there sat Li'l John all six feet of him knee deep in books.

"Well I'll be the son of a hot rod," Ed exclaimed.

"Holy cow" Betty squealed, "what in the name of my grandmother's false teeth are you doing here!"

"Oh, hello fellows and Betty," Li'l John said absently, "I guess

I forgot all about the time when I got interested in these books. I was only going to thumb through one or two, but they were so fascinating I must have gotten lost in them, I guess."

No, maybe this isn't a true story, but it illustrates a point which I think most students are unaware of. How often do you go to the library and use the material it has to offer? If you are one of the students that can say truthfully, "I do!" then this article is not for you.

But if you are one of the students that can't ever seem to find time (or doesn't want to find it) to go to the library as often as you should, then I hope that you will think my little story over.

There is so much to be found in the library. It is not only a place to find facts, dates, and books for outside reading, but a place to lose yourself in the enjoyment of reading about things that interest you, no matter what your interests are. There are magazines, pamphlets, and books that appeal to everyone. Some of the best fiction that is on the market can be found in the brick structure located between East and Sanford Halls.

The library is here for the use of all the students, not just the "brains." Maybe these "brains" became smart by utilizing the material found in our well-developed building. Here's hoping that you will have a barrel of fun with reading. You might even find a book on "A College Education in Seven Easy Lessons."

Campus Column

By JOYCE JACKSON

Hi Fellow Students:

It seems like the weather man can't make up his mind, doesn't it? The singing of the birds wakes you up in the morning. All day it looks like snow and in the afternoon it winds up raining. Sounds like a description of the temperament of college students, doesn't it?

President Henderson's announcement that the drive was to become two-way became second in importance during assembly Monday when two straight and dignified Marines marched down the aisle and sat down on the front row. Too bad they weren't trying to get the girls to enlist.

Some information we were glad to get was about the prospect of a student center. We all have our fingers crossed that this dream will come true.

Tuesday night several students attended the French Ballet in Savannah. Those attending were music majors and minors and members of the French class.

I have noticed the appearance of a new mode of dress (new for college students anyway). These overalls and plaid shirts are the most!

If you see any girls walking around with books on their heads, necks straight, and shoulders back, you will recognize them as the contestants who have begun practice for the Beauty Revue. "Official" practicing began Monday night.

On the subject of beauty, I overheard one boy, who was very concerned about his friend, telling him, "Please take care of yourself, 'cause if anything happens to you I'll be the ugliest man on campus." And that's the way it goes.

See ya'.

Heys, Perkins Attend Councils

Sis Heys and Beverly Perkins, G.T.C. home economics majors, attended the district meeting of the Home Demonstration Councils at Darien and Swainsboro on January 22 and 23. At this meeting they participated in the program by giving talks on "Why I Majored in Home Economics." They tried to point out in their talks their reasons for majoring in home economics and also the advantages of having a degree in home economics.

They were accompanied on their trip by Mrs. Thigpen who is extension agent for Bulloch County and Betty Jean Potts, a former clothing national champion.
