

Bios of Presenters

Ms. Brittany Bellamy is a doctoral candidate in the Educational Leadership Department at Mercer University. She has a bachelor's degree in political science from Valdosta State University and a Masters of Social Work degree from Howard University. Brittany currently works for the U.S. Department of Education, Federal Student Aid Division as the Director of the Chief Operating Officer's Production Unit, where she manages enterprise-wide executive communication.

Mrs. Julie Eavenson is a doctoral candidate in the Curriculum and Instruction Department at Mercer University. She has dual certification in Elementary and Special Education and works with students of all abilities. Mrs. Eavenson received a bachelor's degree in Elementary/Special Education and a master's degree in Elementary Education, both from Mercer University. She serves as a team member on her school's Positive Behavior Interventions and Supports team, specializing in behavioral intervention support to improve overall school climate.

Ms. Tiffany McBride is a doctoral candidate in the Educational Leadership Department at Mercer University. She holds a bachelor's degree in Mass Communications from Columbus State University, an MBA from the University of Phoenix and a Master of Arts degree in Strategic Communication from Troy University. Tiffany is currently a full time instructor of public speaking at Auburn University (AL) and an adjunct instructor at Columbus State University (GA).

Dr. Olivia Boggs is an associate professor of Education at Mercer University and a registered civil mediator with the state courts of Georgia. She has a bachelor's degree in mathematics from Hampton University, master's degree in rehabilitation counseling from Boston University, and doctorate in administration, planning, and policy studies from Harvard University where she was elected to the editorial board of the Harvard Educational Review.