

Churchill Down

The esteem with which the world holds Sir Winston Churchill was evidenced recently when the famed World War II leader took a fall in France and broke his hip bone.

The British flew an R.A.F. jet to get him. French police escorted his ambulance to the airport and crowds greeted him everywhere along the return path to England and the hospital.

Some among them flashed the still familiar V-sign, in remembrance of World War II's grim days. Churchill at one point flashed it back, at 87 years of age.

At this advanced age, of course, any accident or injury can have serious repercussions and this the world knows. Thus the concern when Sir Winston went down. The concern also belies a feeling among millions that Churchill symbolized something good, something tough, about the human race. He is the living personification of bulldog tenacity in the face of dictatorship flouting the rights and freedoms of man.

It is good that the people of the world have not forgotten. There are some things we should not forget and Churchill and what he accomplished in World War II are among them.

Defying The Court

The recent Supreme Court ruling on prayer in public schools has brought about a sharp reaction, especially from some religious denominations. So outraged have some citizens and priests become that open defiance of the court ruling is shouldered in the face of the bench.

The present Supreme Court finds few defenders. It is certainly true. It has in recent years fallen to a low. This public defiance is the cause of so many decisions which seem to completely reverse earlier ones, and even the layman sees through the inconsistencies in such a turn of events.

A few years back, when the Supreme Court reversed itself on the separate-but-equal school facilities doctrine, for the races, many in the South voiced alarm at what they considered to be the political turn of the court and the crumbling of states' rights. Some voiced defiant statements.

Now the very people who criticized these statements, in many instances, are outraged by the latest court decision. And some are voicing brazen determination to defy the court.

The country was so whipped up over Southern defiance of the integration decision that President Dwight Eisenhower called out the U. S. Army to force integration in a school in Little Rock, Arkansas. One might ask if the military will be used against those who pray in the schools? Of course, it will not and should not be used.

But it is a little amusing to see so many of the southerners who condemned defiance of the high court on the question of religion in the schools. It all depends, once again, on whose toes are being stepped on.

I've Been Thinking...

LEHMAN FRANKLIN, JR.

"There are at the present time two great nations in the world which started from different points, but seem to tend towards the same end. I allude to the Americans. Both of them have grown up unattended; and whilst the attention of mankind was directed elsewhere, they have suddenly placed themselves in the front rank among the nations, and their greatness at almost the same time."

All other nations seem to have nearly reached their natural limits, and they have only to maintain their power; but these are still in the act of growth. All the others have stopped, or continued to advance with extreme difficulty; these alone are proceeding with ease and celerity along a path to which no limit can be perceived. The American struggles against the obstacles which nature opposes to him; the adversities of the Russian are men. The former combats the wilderness and savage life; the latter civilization with all its arms. The conquests of the American are therefore gained by the plowshare; those of the Russian by the sword. The Anglo-American relies upon personal interest to accomplish his ends, and gives free scope to the unguided strength and common sense of the people; the Russian centres all the authority of society in a single arm. The principal instrument of the former is freedom; of the latter, servitude. Their starting-point is different, and their courses are not the same; yet each of them seems marked out by the will of Heaven to sway the destinies of half the globe."

These words were written in 1835 by a Frenchman, Alexis de Tocqueville, and are contained in his book, "Democracy in America."

One hundred and twenty-seven years later we can all too clearly see the fulfillment of his prediction. The Soviet Union rules over a billion people and has domination over half the earth's surface. Since 1917 they have transformed a weak, obsolete military establishment into one of the most powerful military machines in the world. Their economy has become one of the most productive in the world. In comparison the United States has an equally powerful military machine, and our economy is the most productive in the world. Russia is predicted over a hundred years ago?

ESTABLISHED 1892 1,573 Miles Of Construction Completed

The records of the State Highway Department's construction division reveal that some 1,573 miles of improvements have been completed to date under the Federal-Aid Highway Act of 1956.

Highway Board Chairman Jim L. Gillis says that the 1962 projects completed to date consist of approximately 710.1 miles of widening and resurfacing and 828.2 miles of new construction. He added that by far the major portion of this work has been completed during the current construction season, which indicates that the state's road contractors should be able to finish up the year's work by the end of the season.

A LARGE and enthusiastic group of supporters were on hand in Statesboro last Saturday to hear former Governor Marvin Griffin. Making his address at 3:30 p.m. at the Courthouse square, Griffin was the featured speaker at the annual convention of the Georgia Highway Builders Association.

In accordance with customary procedure, the Committee requested that the House Committee on Public Works adopt a resolution directing the Corps of Engineers to conduct a survey of the river which rises near Union Point, Georgia, and flows through several counties in the state.

"Commercial navigation does not now exist on the Ogeechee River and was last reported only in 1910," Hagan said.

Bloodmobile Moving To New Location July 31

The Bulloch County operation of the Red Cross Bloodmobile is moving to a new location. Beginning with the next visit on July 31st, future operations will take place at the new Army Reserve Center on the four lane highway U.S. 80 west. Attention is called to the new location, and to the hours of from 1:00 to 6:00 p.m. on Tuesday, July 31.

In making this announcement, Mrs. Buford Knight, chairman of the Bulloch County Chapter of the American Red Cross, expressed appreciation to the Statesboro Recreation Center for the use of their facilities where since the beginning of the program almost 13 years ago, most of the Bloodmobile operations have taken place. She emphasized that the new location is a central location and offers the convenience of one of Statesboro's newest buildings, including air conditioning and ample parking.

The blood program is vital to all of us individually and as a community," Mrs. Knight said. "There are many who have already benefited from it and none of us know when we or a loved one may need the life saving more of blood. In order that there may always be an adequate supply available we have the fortune of good health donors. Large all those who are eligible, new donors, as well as those who have given in the past, are asked to take a half hour of time to go to the Reserve Army on July 31st to give a pint of blood. Remember that one pint of blood given entails one's self as well as the immediate members of the family in an unlimited supply of blood for a period of three months. These gifts of blood prevent humanitarian service in helping to save lives and prevent needless suffering. And surely we can buy no cheaper life insurance for ourselves or our families."

Plans for the workshop have been coordinated through Mrs. Frances Lewis, Assistant State School Lunch Supervisor, Statesboro, Georgia; Mrs. Sidney Jenkins, Assistant State School Lunch Supervisor, Statesboro, Georgia; Mrs. Frances Lewis, Assistant State School Lunch Supervisor, Statesboro, Georgia; Mrs. Sidney Jenkins, Assistant State School Lunch Supervisor, Statesboro, Georgia; Mrs. Frances Lewis, Assistant State School Lunch Supervisor, Statesboro, Georgia; Mrs. Sidney Jenkins, Assistant State School Lunch Supervisor, Statesboro, Georgia.
