

The Early Hours

It is still true that the early bird gets the worm, as far as work and accomplishing it is concerned. For some reason or other — as every business man knows — interruptions can kill much time during the normal working hours.

More than one successful executive knows that the early morning hours, or even in the evening hours, one can work more or less undisturbed. The morning hours are even better than the evening hours, since the mind is clearer and both the body and mind fresh. At night one sometimes must fight fatigue.

The farmer who rises at four o'clock in the morning knows that much can be done between then and eight or nine o'clock. Unfortunately, the hired man or woman who must work steady hours cannot test this theory.

Finally, the busy life of the twentieth century to be seen will be viewed at sunrise — in case you have forgotten. The earth is still and beautiful and it is a wonderful time for spiritual thought and contemplation, which few of us have enough time for in our rush for the dollar in this twentieth century.

Summer Vacation Time

In the United States just about every worker gets a vacation. That is not true in some countries of the world, and it was not always true in the United States.

The summer vacation season is about half over and before the year is out Americans will spend millions of dollars on vacations. This means that tens of millions will have spent time at the beaches, the mountains or lakes or other vacation areas.

And while many will travel by air or train or bus, most of them will travel by car. And every day during the summer a hundred or more Americans will die on the highways. Several hundred will be injured, lose legs or arms and be scarred for life.

Vacations are of great importance. Physiologists agree they are necessary — in most cases — for proper mental and physical health, and variety in living.

In order to enjoy your vacation to the fullest, the experts suggest you take your time in coming and going and relax and go slow and easy while vacationing. Drive safely at all times and help reduce the death rate, which might include you.

Our Music

Radio is a wonderful medium for music and for those who like to work, or in the work, or who just drive a lot, radio can bring them fine music at practically no cost — when they can find it on their dial!

The stations which offer the listener good music are few and far between. Most of the popular music we hear these days is somewhat weird. One can understand how foreigners, exposed to some of the wails and sounds of popular U. S. music, fail to get the message, assuming a comparison with the music of their own States when this music is compared with the music back home.

Radio stations play what the public likes to hear and one cannot expect any station to go too far, away from the public taste, in presenting its music. Stations must have listeners. And so our taste for music is what is really at issue here.

All of us should try a little harder to cultivate our taste for good music. To do this we must listen to it, and play it. The simple, novel, and catchy tunes of the past are a fact of life. But good music does not die and can be enjoyed forever, and in all parts of the world.

An investment in good music takes some time, some initial effort and some understanding and appreciation. More of us should make the investment.

BACKWARD LOOK...

TEN YEARS AGO

From The Bulloch Times, Thursday, July 31, 1952

With the induction of new officials at the last meeting, Statesboro Rotary has been set forward with a full working schedule for the coming year; the various committees have been assigned and program leaders have been named for the entire year. This document has been placed in the hands of every member.

Plans are shaping up for two cattle sales in Statesboro in the near future. The first will be a purebred Hereford sale and then later a feeder cattle sale. The Hereford sale is set for August 29 at the Producers Co-Operative Livestock Exchange, when W. E. Aycock and Sons, from Moultrie, will again bring some sixty purebreds here for auction. Rayford W. Williams, manager of the market, announces.

Dr. Leland L. Wilson, of Richmond, Ky., has accepted an appointment as associate professor of physics at Georgia Tech. Dr. Wilson, President Zach S. Henderson has announced.

President E. Smythe Gambrell, of the Georgia State Chamber of Commerce, has announced the appointment of Alfred Dorman, of Statesboro, to the Industrial Development Division of the state organization.

H. W. Gauch and his son, Hal, students, five, about the same, and only one, less than in 1955. The survey indicated that there existed an enthusiastic new cracking of intellectual atmosphere in the schools. "Students today have so much more consciousness about learning than those of five to ten years ago."

The youth of the 60's have been labeled the "explosive generation". The reason for one notes the dynamic nature of the student of this generation. Last spring a bunch of college students and teenagers tumbled the strong man of South Korea, Syngman Rhee. In Turkey students defied troops and tanks to shout for freedom. Soon that government, too, was overthrown. In Japan, well organized masses of students prevented the most powerful man in the world, the President of the U.S., from visiting that country. Students at the University of Mexico have many times forced the government to alter its policies. This truth has been experienced by thousands of Christians around the world.

After several earthquakes took place in Chile, a group of church people were found safe, singing a hymn in a small room. Happiness and gratitude were in their hearts in spite of the fact that the church building and parsonage had crumbled.

Another group of Christians, while the ark below their feet trembled, took hold of one another's hands in order to keep on their feet. They are men and women who seek after truth, they dispose reason of its home. They distract from justice with trivial observations.

When the Lyons players started to leave, each one fearing the loss of an eye or ear congratulated the self-appointed judge on a wonderful job he did. His only regret was, "Well, to be a good judge, you must be just."

On the way home, Bill Estroff, our catcher wryly said, "Who got up this game anyway. When I play at Stillmore once more I will be twice, just confidentially, I am not going back. I sure wish that new judge umpired for us."

An Endless Struggle

I've Been Thinking...

LEHMAN FRANKLIN, Jr.

It has often been said that America's young people are the most idealistic and idealistic of all peoples. They have the fiber and vigor of their forefathers. They have been labeled as mediocre, and seekers of security. They have been hounded for their apathy toward the issues, problems and questions of the day. It has been said, with a great deal of truth, that they are physically weak and that they will not prove to be the strong, hard fighting military soldier characteristic of the American fighting man. In the public's eye the typical student is one who seeks the easiest courses and studies just enough to get by.

Ten or fifteen years ago, possibly these assertions were true; but today, I think there is a different animal from his counterpart of 1952. He is more serious. He works harder; he has a keener desire for education, and believe it or not, he is aware of the problems and issues of our times. I have such strong evidence of the results of a recent survey conducted by Look magazine.

In each state, high school representatives were asked to make four comparisons of their present students with those of 1955. Of the educators answering 32 called present students more serious about education, only one judged them to be about the same. Thirty principals replied that today's students are harder working; three that they are about the same. None called them less hard-working; sixteen found present students showing more interest in art and culture; 15 found about the same interest now as then, and three less. On the crucial matter of intellectual curiosity, 27 principals reported finding more in today's students.

Hot, Mutter, Hoosier

Everything is judged by comparison. Think it's hot? Let's compare. Death Valley, California, for a summer, and drops to 107 degrees below zero in winter. It is surrounded by mountains 5,000 to 10,000 ft. high. At one time it was an inland sea. The reason I am thinking about that hot spot, Death Valley, is because understanding the world is like understanding the mind. I explain, in the midst of this warmest weather my refrigerator has gone "kerfuffle." Just get water, I can't much blame the poor thing; I get tired of working, too.

Did the Doctor down in Apalachicola, Florida, who accidentally made artificial ice, do him a favor? When your refrigerator is "on the blink," you decide that he was the world's greatest benefactor.

Now, maybe I am thanking the wrong man! All praise to Benjamin Franklin and his kite that chained electricity! Nothing in the food line can be quite as unappetizing as sour milk or runny butter.

Our forefathers were remarkable women! The more I remember about them the more I admire them. I can't recall our milk or messy butter. But we did have a waterbucket that went down into the well and brought up the milk. I don't think I can't much blame the poor thing; I get tired of working, too.

My game playing is getting boring! I am tired of pretending to be Old Scotty of Death Valley and of imitating my ancestors. I was my own refrigerator to get back to her work of keeping the milk sweet and cold, and the butter, or oleo firm and stable.

I'm kinder glad I don't live in the dear, dead, good old days when life was uncomplicated, but uncomfortable.

Give me, then, comfort, and ice!

The Power To Judge

"Everyone is wrong save thee and me, and sometimes thou art wrong too," is more often applicable than we ordinarily believe. "Judge not that you be not judged," is the great warning of all time seldom practiced. To judge is one of the most serious undertakings on earth and should be made alone is not sufficient, because prejudiced opinions destroy all that character stands for.

Justices in all spheres of human endeavors have misused, because whatever contest they judge, they want to play all the times up on all the positions. This brings to mind a baseball game many years ago. It was a hard fought game, the rivalry was strong, all the players of both teams were aggressive athletes. While our boys drank Coca-Cola between innings, the others from Stillmore drew their liquid from a keg beside a tree and had a scant scent of spoiled corn.

About the 7th inning, the umpire, a sort of smartie, college graduate, called some close ones against Stillmore. Grounds, cans, rocks and a few curse words appeared in the air, but no one listened at the umpire's out of hand. The umpire said, "Get off the field, I am the next pitch, the batter hit the ball over the tree tops for what all the Stillmore fans were in a row, but the umpire said, "Foul ball."

From everywhere boys, men, old men, women and children appeared in the stands. The umpire said, "Get off the field, I am the next pitch, the batter hit the ball over the tree tops for what all the Stillmore fans were in a row, but the umpire said, "Foul ball."

When the Lyons players started to leave, each one fearing the loss of an eye or ear congratulated the self-appointed judge on a wonderful job he did. His only regret was, "Well, to be a good judge, you must be just."

Another group of Christians, while the ark below their feet trembled, took hold of one another's hands in order to keep on their feet. They are men and women who seek after truth, they dispose reason of its home. They distract from justice with trivial observations.

Thoughts Of An Oldster
by MAUDE BRAUNEN

Hot, Mutter, Hoosier

Everything is judged by comparison. Think it's hot? Let's compare. Death Valley, California, for a summer, and drops to 107 degrees below zero in winter. It is surrounded by mountains 5,000 to 10,000 ft. high. At one time it was an inland sea. The reason I am thinking about that hot spot, Death Valley, is because understanding the world is like understanding the mind. I explain, in the midst of this warmest weather my refrigerator has gone "kerfuffle." Just get water, I can't much blame the poor thing; I get tired of working, too.

Did the Doctor down in Apalachicola, Florida, who accidentally made artificial ice, do him a favor? When your refrigerator is "on the blink," you decide that he was the world's greatest benefactor.

Now, maybe I am thanking the wrong man! All praise to Benjamin Franklin and his kite that chained electricity! Nothing in the food line can be quite as unappetizing as sour milk or runny butter.

Our forefathers were remarkable women! The more I remember about them the more I admire them. I can't recall our milk or messy butter. But we did have a waterbucket that went down into the well and brought up the milk. I don't think I can't much blame the poor thing; I get tired of working, too.

My game playing is getting boring! I am tired of pretending to be Old Scotty of Death Valley and of imitating my ancestors. I was my own refrigerator to get back to her work of keeping the milk sweet and cold, and the butter, or oleo firm and stable.

I'm kinder glad I don't live in the dear, dead, good old days when life was uncomplicated, but uncomfortable.

Give me, then, comfort, and ice!

When Bulloch Countians Get-To-Gether

Last week in Macon, it so happened that Grover Brannen, Jr., son of Mrs. Grover Brannen and the late Mr. Brannen was giving lunch and ran into Mrs. Helen Cone Sanderson, sister of Gilbert Cone. Sanderson is Librarian in the hospital where Grover is in charge of the Drug Room. Naturally the conversation turned to home, Bulloch County. So Helen immediately conceived the idea of a party for the former Bulloch County folk who now live in Macon for Open House. Imagine their surprise to learn so many did live in Macon. Helen invited them for Open House at her lovely home on Beverly Place Sunday afternoon.

Attending this Open House were Lucy May Deal Garland, and J. W. Garland, Dr. Waldo Floyd, Jr. and Joan Peterson Floyd, Frank Olliff, Jr. and Nell Brannen Olliff, Grover Brannen, Jr. and Ann Mages Brannen, Frank Everett Lester and Farris Pritchett Lester, Claudia Cone Lockhart and Gelson Lockhart, Mrs. Aline Cone Crowe, Sara Moore Riege and Bert Riege, Miss Beulah McElveen, Sallie Sorensen Brannen and M. L. Brannen, Hazel Lewis Sowell and C. L. Sowell, Francis Deal Joiner and Joe Joiner, Anne Attaway Turner and Ben Turner, Sue Nell Smith Crumley and Larkin Crumley, Albert Powell and Birdie Key Powell Louise Denmark, Breedlove and Ben Breedlove, Helen Cone Sanderson and Cahoun Sanderson.

Mrs. Sanderson and Grover, Jr. called on invited guests. Mrs. Brannen and Mrs. Charles E. Cone to spend the week end and help entertain the group. Delicious refreshments were served. It was such an enjoyable occasion catching up on all the home town news, the good old try and form a Bulloch County Club.

Morning Party Fetes Miss Mary Alice Chaney

Mrs. Bob Brooks and Mrs. J. S. Anderson entertained Miss Mary Alice Chaney, a bride-elect with a morning party at Mrs. Bryant's Kitchen Friday, July 28th.

The table was centered with a lovely mum arrangement in white milk glass featuring an Angel cupid. The cupid theme was carried out in individual place cards, that held a white heart centered with pink tulle and white ribbon. The party plate consisted of individual salad molds, banana rolls, pastries and petits fours, with punch.

Mary Alice was very lovely in a melon and beige linen sheath, worn with melon accessories. The gift to the honoree was a tea-spoon in her chosen silver pattern. Those attending were, Miss Mary Alice Chaney, the honoree, guests, Mrs. Tom Brown, Mrs. Marvin Copeland, Mrs. Max Lockwood, Mrs. Gene Rachels, Mrs. Wallace Cobb, Jr., Mrs. George Rogers, Mrs. Johnny Thayer, Mrs. John Cobb and Mrs. Joe Franklin.

Outdoor Party Honors Recent Bride Couple

Mrs. Frank Simmons, Sr. and Mrs. J. P. Poy, entertained on Tuesday evening at a delightful outdoor supper party in the garden surrounding Mrs. Simmons' lovely Moore Street home. Honorees on this occasion were a recent bride and groom Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Howard.

The tables were all covered with checked cloths and on the long refreshment table was a massive arrangement of a variety of vegetables and fruit.

The hostesses served fried chicken, butter beans, potato salad, sliced tomatoes, hot rolls and iced tea. For dessert trays holding iced cream, watermelon, figs and peaches were passed and the guests selected the one of their choice.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard were presented a wicker basket filled with delicious home made pickles, preserves and jelly.

Guests included other than Mr. and Mrs. Howard, Mrs. John Strickland, Mr. and Mrs. Don Hackett, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Bravell, Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Varber, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Harper, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Scott, and Mrs. Scott's sister, Mrs. Aubrey Brown, Mr. and Mrs. Jones Lane and Mr. and Mrs. Bill Keith.

Kennedy-Williams Nuptials Performed July 15

The Gracewood Baptist Church was the scene Sunday afternoon, July 15, at 2:00 o'clock of the marriage of Miss Martha Carolyn Kennedy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Durwood Kennedy of Statesboro, and A-2 James Williams, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. James Warren Williams, Sr. of Denmark, Georgia.

The Rev. Gus A. Smith, pastor of the Gracewood Church, performed the double ring ceremony. The wedding scene had a background of palms and fern trees, with a lovely arrangement of white gladioli, asters and mums on a beautiful column in front of arch music. A white candelabra bearing white tapes with the kneeling bride and groom in white lace and white ribbons, with tall matching arrangements on either side of the pulpit.

The wedding music was presented by Miss Juan Beth Smith, pianist, and Mr. Bernard Morris, soloist, who sang "Wither Thou Goest" and "Oh Perfect Love" as the "I do" prayer repeated by the wedding prayer, followed by the couple.

The pretty bride given in marriage by her father wore a gown of chantilly lace and silk organza. The chantilly lace bodice was designed with a sabrina neckline encrusted with seed pearls and iridescent and extended to the traditional long sleeves which ended in points over the wrists. The bouffant skirt fell from a fitted V-waistline and was designed with a lace trimmed organza overskirt which cascaded over a billowing skirt of chantilly lace. The full length chapel train fell from a self fabric rose and bow. A lace cap looped with a half crown of aurora crystals held her two tiered veil of illusion. She carried a white lace covered prayer book, centered with a white feathered carnations, miniature mums and ribbon streamers.

The maid of honor, Miss Joyce Kennedy, sister of the bride wore a dress of white lace and silk chiffon. The lace jacket was designed with brief sleeves and a jewel neckline. The softly gathered skirt fell from a fitted pleated cummerbund. Her bouffant veil fell from a bandeau of bows. She wore matching shoes and short white gloves. Her nose-gay was of light pink asters centered with a sweet heart rose and tied with pink ribbon. The bridesmaids were Miss Sandy Sharpe, and Miss Linda Kennedy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Durwood Kennedy of Statesboro, and A-2 James Williams, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. James Warren Williams, Sr. of Denmark, Georgia.

The flower girl was little Betsy Hendrix, dressed like the attendants carrying a white basket filled with pink asters and tied with pink ribbons.

James Warren Williams of Denmark, father of the groom served as best man. The usher-groomsmen were Butch Sharpe, and Walter Waters. DeVon Dale Smith served as ring-bearer wearing a white jacket with black pants similar to the usher.

Mrs. Kennedy chose for her daughters wedding a blue sheath styled dress of lace and silk chiffon. The bodice was designed with a draped beaded effect neckline which extended over the shoulders. She wore matching accessories and a corsage of white feathered mums.

The mother of the groom wore a pink lace sheath dress, featuring a round neckline and satin self trimmed sash, with matching accessories. Her corsage was white featured mums.

Immediately following the ceremony a lovely reception was given by the parents of the bride in the social hall of the church. The bride's table was overlaid with a Madeira line, cut work cloth, with single decorated tapers. The silver covered wedding cake was decorated with white and pink lilies and asters. On the serving table the punch bowl was encircled with a white candelabra bearing white tapes with the kneeling bride and groom in white lace and white ribbons, with tall matching arrangements on either side of the pulpit.

Vets Given Preference In State Exam

War veterans, their wives, and especially disabled veterans are given special preference by the Georgia State Merit System in exam competitions for state jobs. It was pointed out this week by Veterans Service Director Pete Wheeler.

All war veterans are given five points in addition to their earned rating in examinations for entrance to classified jobs. Passing grade for such veterans is thereby reduced from 70 percent to 65 percent, and in cases of the veteran's name is listed above the name of the non-veteran on the register.

Veterans and their widows desiring such preference need only make application for the added points when taking any State Merit System examinations. Any veteran or member of a veteran's family who desires assistance in securing any veteran's benefit should apply at the nearest field office of the Georgia Department of Veterans Service which is located at Statesboro. The office manager is Benjamin Hodges.
