

H. P. Foxhall dies at his home in Tarboro, N. C.

H. P. Foxhall, political, civic and business leader in Edgecombe County, North Carolina, died at his home on Park Ave. in Tarboro, N. C., early Monday morning.

Mr. Foxhall, also a business leader in Bulloch County, was one of the county's most beloved tobacco warehousemen, having with Mr. W. E. Cobb, operated the Cobb and Foxhall Tobacco Warehouse for nearly twenty years here. They were also associated together in two large warehouses in Rocky Mount, N. C.

Mr. Foxhall was a president of the Rockmount, N. C., Tobacco Board of Trade in 1921. He was a former mayor of Tarboro, and chairman of the county Democratic Executive Committee, and a former member of the State Democratic Executive Committee, a member of the Edgecombe County Highway Commission, a member of the State Board of Agriculture, and a past commander of the Tarboro post of the American Legion. For a number of years he was a member of the vestry of the Calvary Episcopal Church.

Funeral services were held at the Calvary Episcopal Church Tuesday afternoon in Tarboro. Burial was in the church cemetery. He is survived by his wife, two brothers, Lindsey Foxhall of Virginia, and Ed Foxhall of Tarboro, and one sister, Miss Susie Foxhall of Tarboro.

Those from Bulloch County attending the funeral were Mrs. Bruce R. Olliff, Mrs. Isobel McDougald, Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Cobb, who had been spending the Christmas holidays here, Rastus Akins, Hilton Banks and Jeff Moore.

March of Dimes set for January

"Let's finish the job!" According to W. D. Granger, director of the Bulloch County March of Dimes, this is the theme announced by March of Dimes headquarters for the campaign that will be carried on through January.

The "Job" is two-fold: To raise funds for repair of the damage that polio has done to thousands of Americans in the past and to prevent the disease from crippling more thousands in the future.

Mr. Granger explained that an estimated 80,000 persons have been left handicapped by polio, throughout the length and breadth of the United States; and they point out that the job of conquering the disease cannot be considered finished until these patients have been helped to regain normal and productive lives.

The second objective of the campaign is to promote the widest possible use of the Salk vaccine, which was developed under March of Dimes sponsorship, and which has been proven safe and effective many millions of times over.

Commenting on the 16,000 cases of polio reported in 1956, Basil O'Connor, president of the March of Dimes organization said:

"We of the March of Dimes are determined that 1957 shall see a repetition of the polio record of 1956. Even so, we know there will be attacks of the disease, and we must provide for the care of all who need it."

"We must also remember," Mr. Granger added, "those persons for whom the vaccine came too late. When we give to the March of Dimes, we are helping those who need help and protecting those who don't."

Mrs. T. J. Cobb dies at age 82

Word was received by Mr. W. G. Cobb, president of the Bulloch County Bank, at noon yesterday (Wednesday) that his mother, Mrs. T. J. Cobb, had just died at the home of her daughter, Miss Nell Cobb, in Erie, Pennsylvania. The body will be brought to Statesboro, but details were incomplete yesterday afternoon.

A. B. McDougald, president of the Statesboro and Bulloch County Chamber of Commerce presents to Mrs. Jackie Rowell, secretary of the local organization, a certificate awarded for completion of a course of study at the Southern Institute for Chamber of Commerce Executives held in June at the University of North Carolina in Chapel Hill. The institute is held each year for professional Chamber of Commerce executives throughout the nation and is sponsored by the U. S. Chamber of Commerce. The certificate was awarded at the regular meeting of the local group on Tuesday, December 4, when Mrs. Rowell was cited for her work.

1957 auto tags on sale at T.C. office

Automobile tags for 1957 went on sale Wednesday morning at the office of Bulloch County Tax Collector, Winfield Lee.

Mr. Lee has announced that "there will be no number reserved. We will sell the tags just as the numbers come up with the low numbers being sold first."

All Bulloch County tags will have a pre-fix number of "29" this year under a new system of numbering whereby all Georgia counties are designated a number. The number is awarded a county on the basis of population and Bulloch's number indicates that this county is 29th in size among Georgia's 159 counties.

The tax collector, who will be selling auto and light truck tags for the second year, has announced the price schedule for tags this year:

Cars weighing up to 3,000 pounds in year models of 1954 and previous years, $3.00;

For 1955 year models and current year models weighing up to 3,000 pounds the price will be $5.00;

In the weight classification of 3,001 to 3,500 pounds the price will be $7.50;

Ten dollars will be the price for cars weighing 3,501 to 4,000 pounds;

Cars weighing 4,001 and over will have tags costing $15.00.

All the tags which come in the $7.50 classification will carry the prefix "29-1" and up. The $10.00 tags will carry the prefix "29-J" and the $15.00 tags will carry the prefix "29-A." All license plates for passenger cars, 2 ton trucks and under, trailers 3,000 pounds, empty weight and under must be purchased at the county courthouse in the county of applicant's residence. All other tags must be purchased from the Department of Revenue, Motor Vehicle License Unit, 109 State Capitol, Atlanta 3, Georgia.

License applications are now available at the office of the tax collector in service stations and garages. Mr. Lee said any public business desiring a supply of applications may secure them at his office.

The applications have been further simplified this year making it possible for about half of the application to be made out in duplicate.

License plates will be sold only to those who sign an affidavit that all city and county taxes, current and back, have been paid.

Health district completes safety program

Dr. Hubert U. King, medical director, Health District Seven, announced last week that the District Health Department has concluded its Christmas Safety Drive.

"An 'all out' campaign was conducted to promote Christmas safety and reduce the number of preventable and tragic accidents occurring during the holiday season," stated Dr. King. The safety drive was centered around a district-wide program, with safety posters and pamphlets being distributed throughout the district. The schools conducted chapel programs on "Christmas Safety," and widespread publicity was given to the program by local newspapers and radio stations.

The mayors and fire chiefs of Statesboro, Metter, and Claxton gave their support to the program in inspecting public meeting places for fire hazards.

The Bulloch-Candler-Evans Tri-county Medical Society headed by Dr. Robert Swint, Statesboro, gave its full support to the program, passed a resolution requesting support of the city officials in the area. In addition, the Medical Society agreed to report to the District Health Department all accidents occurring during the holidays.

"We are hopeful that our program materially reduced the number of avoidable home and community accidents which could have turned an otherwise happy season of the year into tragedy for those involved, and that our efforts will be reflected in the absence of accident reports to this office," Dr. King concluded.

Health District Seven with headquarters at Statesboro, Georgia, is comprised of Bulloch, Candler, Effingham, Emanuel, and Evans counties.

Rockwell ups Tom Newsome

Rockwell Statesboro Corporation general manager, Ralph A. Purcell, has announced the promotion of Mr. Thomas R. Newsome to assistant foreman of the gasoline and oil products department effective January 1, 1957.

Familiarity with gasoline, oil, and industrial meters gained from his work as a repairman, however, will enable him to very ably assist the foreman of, not only the gasoline and oil products department, but also to assist the foreman of the industrial meter department.

After graduating from Marvin Pittman School in 1944, Mr. Newsome attended Georgia Teachers College and then went into the military service. After his return to civilian life, he was employed by several local concerns. Prior to coming to Rockwell he was with the Community Freezer Locker Company in Brooklet.

Nevils Methodist Church holds unusual birthday celebration

A most beautiful, unique and impressive Christmas celebration was the "Jesus Birthday Party" at the Nevils Methodist Church on Saturday night, December 22.

The program was similar to the one given in December, 1955, when the building program for the education annex to the church was begun.

The "Birthday Party" was held this year in the building, now almost complete.

The program began with a fine supper, including Christmas salads, meats, sweets and other foods.

The tables were decorated with red and white ribbons along the centers, with red and green burning tapers, at intervals flickering out of nests of glittering ivy, holly and red berries.

The lighted Christmas tree and other seasonal decorations glowed with beauty against the warm, mist-green walls.

After the Christmas supper the group reassembled in the church for a program of Christmas music including solos, duets, quartets and group singing, furnished by members of the Sunday School classes from the nursery through the intermediate and the M.Y.F. groups, under the direction of Miss Maude White.

Alwyne Burned, president of the Nevils M.Y.F., was master of ceremonies. Judy Nesmith was the pianist and Jane and Julia Bragan, vocalists.

The principal feature of the program was the Rev. Ernest L. Veal, pastor of the church, stood in the pulpit to light the twelve candles, each candle representing a month in the year, and identified in silver. The candles surrounded a huge white birthday cake which held a giant white candle which was lighted by John Thomas Hodges in honor of the birthday of Jesus.

As the January candle was lighted, all guests whose birthdays came in that month came forward and placed a "love of" candle.

Dr. R. J. Kennedy

Dr. R. J. Kennedy is dead. And Statesboro and Bulloch County lost one of their most beloved citizens.

Many steps in the progressive history of Bulloch County were initiated by Dr. Kennedy and because of his love for this community every step made for its advancement had his ardent support. Dr. Kennedy was one of our citizens who worked long and hard to establish the tobacco market here. He was active in the liquidation of the old Bank of Statesboro in which depositors received every bit of money they had in the bank at the time of its closing. He was active in the organization and establishing of the Bulloch County Bank.

But his happiest years were spent as chairman of the Bulloch County Board of Commissioners. Roads and highways were his life. And U. S. 301—to him it was the "Burton's Ferry Route"—was his delight. He saw the concrete bridge go in at Burton's Ferry connecting South Carolina and Georgia and the route officially designated as U. S. 301. He watched it grow and grow until today it is the heaviest traveled highway in Georgia and one of the great traffic arteries of the nation.

He was a strong force in the church of his choice, the Presbyterian. He was a strong force in Statesboro, in Bulloch County, and now he is dead.

There comes along a Dr. Kennedy once in a generation.

And now we honor his memory.

Let's finish the job

This week the month-long March of Dimes opens here and throughout the nation.

Happily, the 1957 campaign opens on a note of triumph, for the Salk vaccine dramatically cut the number of polio cases during this year. However, there are today about 80,000 children and adults, 1,444 right here in Georgia, who urgently need help in their long, difficult struggle. These thousands—people of all ages—are the ones stricken with polio this past summer and during the preceding years of heartbreaking epidemics. For many of them, the road back is rugged, requiring not only extreme effort on their part but also financial assistance. Over 1,500 are dependent on iron lungs or other equipment to keep breathing.

That assistance is provided through the patient aid program of the National Foundation of Infantile Paralysis which has assisted almost one-third of a million polio patients since 1938. The National Foundation is also dedicated to programs of research and the training of urgently needed specialists in the care of the disabled. All of these vital activities, requiring millions of dollars, must continue if polio patients are to be assisted in rebuilding their lives and assuming useful places in their communities; if the job of conquering polio is to be finished.

With the total defeat of paralytic polio in sight, everyone is grateful. A source of terrible fear is being removed from our lives because of research made possible through March of Dimes funds.

Our gratitude may be expressed through assistance and contributions to the March of Dimes. Let's help "Finish the Job."

Because of them

Because of the Statesboro Junior Chamber of Commerce's Empty Stocking Fund and the Statesboro High School's "White Christmas" and Rockwell Statesboro Corporation and numerous clubs and organizations, more than 125 families had a wonderful Christmas which might have been a desolate one otherwise.

Miss Sara Hall, director of the Bulloch County Welfare Department, who handled the distribution of the Christmas to the county's needy families, stated that this year's contributions to these peoples' Christmas was the finest in all the years she has been working with the department.

More than sixty families were outfitted with clothes, given food, and toys provided for the little ones by the Jaycees' Empty Stocking drive. Rockwell Statesboro Corporation provided twenty families with Christmas boxes, each containing a twenty-pound turkey, in addition to toys and other items. The Statesboro High School's "White Christmas" provided fifty families with Christmas boxes, each containing a ham and a side of bacon, together with canned goods and other staples. There were several individual contributions of cash with which food was purchased for the Christmas boxes.

And the Brownies—those little girls not yet in their teens—gave their time and wrapped many packages in pretty and gay Christmas wrappings. And Miss Hall says "thanks" on behalf of all those families who had a fine Christmas because of the open heart generosity of the people of Bulloch County and because young men like the Jaycees, and the youth like those in our schools, believe that all should find in Christmas something to be loved.

Check for hazards

Your postman is subjected to numerous hazards as he goes about the everyday business of delivering your mail. We've already discussed the hazards set up by unfriendly dogs.

Now comes word that your postman is plagued with the hazards causing slips and falls. These are the same hazards which plague meter readers, the milkman, the delivery boys, the newspaper boys.

Hazards set up by broken or defective steps, uneven walkways, and holes in front yards.

Postmaster Reppard DeLoach this week appeals to the residents of Statesboro to help reduce these hazards of slips and falls for letter carriers and other postal personnel who call at their homes. He stated that a random check by Acting Postmaster General M. H. Starns of 281 accidents selected for analysis showed that, of the 281, a total of 209 occurred on walks, steps or stairways of postal patrons.

So do a little checking about your home. It may also prevent an accident to some member of your family, as well as to your postman.

BEGINNING THE NEW YEAR WITH GOD
"Thou crownest the year with thy goodness." Psa. 65: 11a.

Another year is dawning.
Dear Father, let it be.
In working or in waiting,
Another year with Thee;
Another year of progress,
Another year of praise,
Another year of proving,
Thy presence all the days.
Another year of mercies,
Of faithfulness and grace,
Another year of gladness,
The glory of Thy face;
Another year of learning,
Upon Thy loving breast,
Another year of trusting,
Of quiet happy rest.

Another year of service,
Of witness for Thy love,
Another year of training,
For holier work above;
Another year is dawning,
Dear Father, let it be,
On earth, or else in heaven,
Another year for Thee.
—Frances R. Haverall

Our Prayer:
O Almighty God, who alone are without variableness or shadow of turning, and who safely brought us through the changes of time to the beginning of another year, we beseech Thee, Thy honor and glory, to keep us from sin and temptation, committed in the year which is past, and give us grace that we may spend the remainder of our lives in Thy service, through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

Father, let me dedicate
All this year to Thee,
In whatever worldly state,
Thou wilt have me be;
Not from sorrow, pain, or care,
Freedom dare I claim;
This alone shall be my prayer:
Glorify Thy name.

Can a child presume to choose
Where or how to live?
Can a father's love refuse
All the best to give?
More Thou givest every day
Than the best can claim,
Nor with oldest ought that may
Glorify Thy name.

If mercy Thou wilt spare
Joys that yet are mine;
If on life, serene and fair,
Brighter rays may shine,
Let my glad heart, while it sings,
Thee, in all proclaim,
And, what'er the future brings,
Glorify Thy name.
—Lawrence Tuttle

APPLES MOST POPULAR FRUIT
Apples regularly take top or second rank among the country's most widely used fruit, says Mrs. Betty Alexander, Extension Service consumer information specialist. "They furnish us with some vitamins," she adds, "and in addition, a crisp, firm apple helps to keep teeth and gums in good condition. One medium size apple contains about 75 calories."

It Seems to Me...

max lockwood

I am writing this on the last day of the year and in just a few hours now we will find ourselves in the New Year. This New Year will hold for us the answers to many of our questions and will unfold for us secrets we never dreamed could become reality.

DURING THESE last few hours I find myself with many different thoughts and in the rush of the end of the year it is difficult to try to understand or to evaluate them.

Will 1957 bring the awful war we were so afraid would come in 1957? Now we stand committed in the Middle East and our President will be given authority he wants to send our troops into battle there should the enemy push us too far.

Will we in the South find a way to solve our problems of segregation in order that all of us can continue to live and work together, not for the welfare of the white or Negro race, but for the welfare of all of us?

Will the rest of the nation somehow realize the true seriousness of the invasion of the rights of states which has been made by the Federal Government through the Supreme Court decisions? Can not they somehow know that in the end this trend will eventually lead to the concentration of Government in Washington which will absorb all of the rights of states and of the individuals in those states?

Will the trend in criminal activity continue as reported after report points out that criminal activity of every type other than robbery took another climb in 1957?

Will this 1957 will be an easy year for any of us. Along with all of our personal problems there will be much mental anguish which we have to suffer as the international situation becomes more and more real to us through our mediums of public information.

Am I concluding that I am reminded of the words of Franklin Roosevelt as best I remember them in his speech to the Congress at the test of our selves in the second great war. "With confidence in our Armed Forces and with the unbounded determination of our people, we shall win the inevitable triumph, so help us God."

ARE THERE not enough of our leaders left who have no care that the concentration of power in a federal government has in the end meant the destruction of the very freedoms which it supposedly is created to protect? It is not a country left in the world today which is without the test of our selves in the second great war, when the leadership has been concentrated to the extent that the sections represented in government last their freedom to be heard, thus denying true representation to the people.

WE'RE NOT MAKING any resolutions this year. We've lived with ourselves for a great many years and we've learned that we get along with our conscience better by doing the best we can from day to day without nailing ourselves down with a set of New Year's resolutions.

TWO NICE THINGS happened at our house during the Christmas holiday season. On Christmas Eve three of our small fry friends in our neighborhood came to our door and sang Christmas Carols. They were Danny Robertson, son of Dr. and Mrs. Hunter Robertson, and Van and Raney Lanier, sons of Mr. and Mrs. Josh Lanier. It was the nicest feeling to know that our neighbors' youngsters think enough of us to visit us and sing Christmas Carols. On Tuesday evening, December 18, the entire William James High School Chorus sang Christmas Carols on our front lawn. We sat and listened to them and as they sang the traditional Christmas songs our thoughts dwelt upon the vast potential that lies in the great reservoir of good will man holds for man.

"I SHOULD like to set before you what may seem a crackpot idea. The notion is that the best place to teach philosophy is not the university but the elementary school; and that the ideal student of philosophy is the child from eight to twelve."

"We are told that the child is unable to absorb generalizations; we must feed him only concrete until he is old enough to take on abstract thought. This is the basic presupposition on which the doctrine of learning-by-doing rests."

"I BELIEVE, on the other hand, that it is just because the American child is carefully guarded from any consideration (except in Sunday school and church) of the persistent problems of philosophy, that he tends to become an adult incapable of generalized reflection. This is why American conversation is almost nonexistent, except on a gossip-and-news-exchange level."

"Now the fact of the matter is that the child is by nature more interested in abstract questions than is the grownup. It is he, not you and I, who wonders about the world: why it was made, who made it, how large is the universe, how long will it last, what makes people different from animals, how do we think, what does it mean to be brave or good or truthful, and so on. These are basically philosophical questions."

"I am not asking that the child be turned into a philosopher at the age of twelve. All I suggest is that somewhere along the route his fresh, active, inquiring mind be led to wonder about the universe, the world, his place in nature, his glorious talent for reflection, and some of the statements that wise men (who should never be named) have made about these matters."

"THE TECHNIQUE of developing what is in essence a philosophy is to let the child find out for himself that many of the nation's most outstanding leaders participated in the program, like the president of the National Manufacturers Association, to top labor leader, president of the Prudential Insurance Company, research workers, several United States senators, and many others that these farmers wanted to know first hand just what their plight is like at the present."

These thousands of delegates did not for the first time indicate that they were taking on a defeatist attitude toward their situation. They did give every reason to believe that lasting solutions to their problems could be worked out when all the facts are presented and understood. Mr. Hodges declared in reporting on the convention to see if Florida did have a better climate than California.

This convention had the largest attendance of any previous annual meeting, with official estimates running as high as 20,000. Illinois, Indiana and Iowa all had larger delegations than Georgia, all indicating the real interest farm people have in their problems. The sincere discussion heard in commodity conferences were further evidence of this attitude toward working together and helping to present a united front in solving some of the problems individual farmers cannot work out satisfactorily.

When the group left Miami, they had drawn up some seventy-five pages of resolutions as a guide for the American Farm Bureau to use in its plan of action for 1957. They dealt with every phase of farm life so that every organization and legislative body would know the farmers thinking on problems that involved his standard of living. These will be printed in brief in the various publications of the Farm Bureau so that all may read them.

Naval stores short course

With the outlook very favorable on naval stores for next year, the first of a series of short courses for Bulloch County farmers will be on forestry and turpentine production.

C. Dorsey Dyer, extension forester, Athens, will lead the discussion in this short course in the Statesboro Recreation Center building Monday, January 7, at 2 p. m.

U.S.M.C. taking enlistments

The Marine Corps is now accepting enlistments for assignment to their aviation branch, according to Staff Sergeant James M. Pridden Jr., local Marine Corps recruiter.

In making the announcement the sergeant said that men accepted for aviation duty only will be guaranteed assignment to one of the Marine Corps' many aviation technical schools.

These schools include jet mechanic, helicopter mechanic, radio, radar, guided missiles, flight equipment, air traffic control and many others. All of the Marine Corps' aviation schools are operated in conjunction with the Navy.

According to the sergeant, this is the first time in about ten years that the Marine Corps has been able to guarantee recruits a specific assignment. "I realize that many men in this area are interested in the technical fields in aviation and I will be glad to give them further information on this subject," the sergeant said.

Farm Bureau

F. B. delegates find differences of opinion in all sections of U. S.

Bulloch County's twenty-five delegates to the American Farm Bureau convention held the middle of December in Miami found "it amazing to see the differences of opinion from the various areas of the country, the depth of discussion by farm people, and finally the determination of policy by farmer-elected delegates."

W. C. Hodges, county president, reported on his return.

Mr. Hodges led one of the largest county delegations in the nation to this annual meeting. Some reports gave Bulloch County first in number from one chapter. Georgia had some 245 delegates at the convention, but California better this number by more than 100. Mr. Hodges expressed the feeling that the 360 delegates from California just came to the convention to see if Florida did have a better climate than California.

These thousands of delegates did not for the first time indicate that they were taking on a defeatist attitude toward their situation. They did give every reason to believe that lasting solutions to their problems could be worked out when all the facts are presented and understood. Mr. Hodges declared in reporting on the convention to see if Florida did have a better climate than California.

This convention had the largest attendance of any previous annual meeting, with official estimates running as high as 20,000. Illinois, Indiana and Iowa all had larger delegations than Georgia, all indicating the real interest farm people have in their problems. The sincere discussion heard in commodity conferences were further evidence of this attitude toward working together and helping to present a united front in solving some of the problems individual farmers cannot work out satisfactorily.

When the group left Miami, they had drawn up some seventy-five pages of resolutions as a guide for the American Farm Bureau to use in its plan of action for 1957. They dealt with every phase of farm life so that every organization and legislative body would know the farmers thinking on problems that involved his standard of living. These will be printed in brief in the various publications of the Farm Bureau so that all may read them.

Lancer Meets Lancer at Air Force Base

AMERICA'S two famous "Lancers"—the Air Force's new F102A jet plane and Dodge's trim 1957 hardtop—stand poised for action at the Duluth Air Force Base, where the world's first super-sonic all-weather interceptor plane guards the northern air frontier. Similarities in styling of the Convair F102A Lancer with the new Dodge Royal Lancer are pointed out by Capt. Earl Weaver, jet pilot, to Sue Waggoner, Hollywood starlet. The F102A Lancer's name was picked from 5,000 entries after a Duluth newspaperman suggested the "faster-than-sound" fighter plane should have an appropriate name.

Extension Service agronomists, working with county agents and farmers of the state, have set 1957 crop goals. They are striving for an average yield of corn of twenty-six bushels per acre, compared to twenty-four in '56; 500 pounds of cotton, compared to 347 pounds last year, and nine-tenths of a ton of hay, compared to 82 of a ton in '56.

In moving portable calf pens, Agricultural Extension Service dairymen recommend starting on the lower side of slopes and working up the slope. They explain that surface drainage is thus away from the clean area.

Stilson News

Rattlesnake story winds up 1956 news in Stilson community

Well, I think I will wind up my 1956 news with still another snake tale.

On Saturday, December 22, Edward Blitch, after finishing the chores at hand, decided to have a little relaxation, and in so doing took his dog and shot gun and went out into his field to hunt quail. He stopped to visit for the dog to find quail, and suddenly Mr. Blitch thought the ground seemed mighty soft under his feet, and too, it began to move, and as he looked down to see what was happening underfoot, he heard a noise which was hard to misunderstand. So Mr. Blitch jumped in the other direction, or so Mr. Blitch thought (maybe he jumped twice as far as he thought he did). But anyway Mr. Blitch bagged the snake which would have measured approximately four feet and had ten rattles, and was about four inches in diameter. So, after finding that rattlesnakes come out at this season the folks that enjoy hunting birds should be very careful while hunting in the woods. Mr. Blitch feels very thankful that he was not bitten by the big rattler which he stepped on.

This community spent a very quiet Christmas with many relatives and friends greeting each other during the holidays.

MISS ROGERS WEDS

MR. HOOKS

Miss Helen Florine Rogers became the bride of Private Day Travis Hooks in a late afternoon ceremony Friday, December 21, at the home of her mother on Zetterover Ave.

The Rev. John Denmark, uncle of the bride, officiated before a background of white wrought iron screen laced with fern fronds by tall matching baskets filled with white gladioli and chrysanthemums. Nuptial music was presented by Mrs. E. L. Barnes, organist, and Mrs. Dick Rogers, soloist, who sang "I Love You Truly."

Mrs. Hooks is the daughter of Mrs. W. S. Rogers. Mr. Hooks is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Allen A. Hooks of Millen.

The bride was becomingly attired in a Dior blue cashmere suit. Her feathered hat, bag and shoes were navy. Her corsage was an orchid.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Rogers chose a dress of petal pink silk with a black velvet bolero. Her corsage was of pink carnations.

The groom's mother wore a smart black dress with a white carnation corsage. Mrs. L. F. Denmark, maternal grandmother of the bride, wore black with a white carnation corsage.

Reception After Ceremony

Following the ceremony, Mrs. Rogers entertained the wedding party and guests at an informal reception.

The home was decorated throughout with lovely arrangements. The mantel in the living room was centered with bleached driftwood based in silvered spruce, flanked by large white candles. The bride's table, overlaid with an imported linen, clothed with white, was centered with the lovely tiered wedding cake, topped with a miniature bride and groom. Three branched silver candelabra holding lighted white tapers were at each end of the table. Silver compotes held the nuts.

The mantel in the dining room was wreathed with ivy and interspersed with white carnations. A bowl of white carnations, frosted spruce, and lighted candles were placed on the buffet.

Mrs. Jim Denmark presided at the coffee service. Mrs. DeWitt Thackston was assisted in serving coffee and wedding cake by Linda Rogers, sister of the bride, and Angela Denmark.

NO TRUMP CLUB ENTERTAINS HUSBANDS AT CHRISTMAS DINNER

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Franklin Jr. was the meeting place for the traditional Christmas party of the No Trump Club when they entertained their husbands at dinner.

Turkey and dressing, string bean casserole, cranberry salad, hot rolls, coffee and apple crisp, served with ice cream, made up the menu. Twenty-two were present.
