This Is The Story of Bulloch County

By BROOKS and LEODEL COLEMAN

Statesboro

Editor's Note: This week we continue "The Story of Bulloch County" which we began on August 29. This week we continue describing the early business community here.

Cotton was moved from the market here by two railroads. Shipping reports by the railroad officials reveal that 12,000 bales of cotton were shipped from here during the 1902 season, which at that time, was one-eighth of the entire cotton crop of the world.

One of the biggest cotton operators of this decade was the late Ralston Simmons. A newspaper publisher of that time wrote of him, "not having been born with a bale of Sea Island cotton in one hand and a stock of goods in the other, but as handling many of them since. Rafe Simmons has been worth thousands of dollars to the farmers of Bulloch County. He has been responsible as much as any man for the establishment and maintenance of our great cotton market, a market that furnishes the farmer a half cent more on the pound for his cotton than any other market in the state. Mr. Simmons has always been a boomer of prices and has kept the local market up to the boiling point."

During the same period there was a great market here for the sale of buggies. It was an acknowledged fact that more top buggies were sold in Bulloch County than any other county in Georgia. A writer of the day suggested that "if this be doubted one should visit a Baptist Association meeting in the county and see for himself." The writer continued, saying that the average young man of that decade was not satisfied until he got himself a red-wheeled top buggy. Buggy dealers said that they sold twice as many high priced buggies here as they sold cheap ones.

Statesboro ranked second to Atlanta as a market for mules. In the early 1900's there were three large stable houses here with each one handling hundreds of mules and horses every year. The leading dealers were W. T. Smith, J. W. Olliff, R. Simmons and B. T. Outland. It was said that mules and horses, moved into Statesboro from Tennessee, Kentucky and Missouri, were sold cheaper than in any other section of the state. Dealers here sold to out-of-state buyers as well as people in neighboring counties.

And so Statesboro began shaping up into the city it was to become. The steady increase in its population was established during this decade when the number of citizens here increased from 1,150 in 1900 to 2,630 in 1910.

Franklin, held to a first half rushing total of 12 yards, sprinted 91 yards for a touchdown. It was the longest run of the year for Statesboro. Janan again converted and the score after three quarters was 26 to 0.

In the fourth quarter Ben Hogan threw a 45-yard strike to Alex Brown for his sixth touchdown pass of the year. Then Coach Seacore has been looking for a long time for a Bulloch County boy capable of playing college basketball, and this year he's hit the jackpot.

Waters, at 6-7, the tallest boy on the squad, will understand Rush at center. Anderson has been looking like the third guard, and Akins, a little red-headed ball of fire from first year's Class C state runners, will be in charge of the service line.

G.T.C. Profs To open 1957-58 season on road

A rebuilding Georgia Teachers College basketball team will open their 1957-58 season with three road games in four days over the coming weekend.

G.T.C. will play Rollins at Winter Park, Fla., on Friday, December 6; Stetson at Deland, Fla., on Saturday, Dec. 7; and Mercer at Macon on Monday, Dec. 9. The first home game will come against Johnny Renfro's Pikeville College team on Wednesday, Dec. 11.

Mr. Hodges added that the team will open their 1957-58 season with three road games in four days over the coming weekend.

G.T.C. will play Rollins at Winter Park, Fla., on Friday, December 6; Stetson at Deland, Fla., on Saturday, Dec. 7; and Mercer at Macon on Monday, Dec. 9. The first home game will come against Johnny Renfro's Pikeville College team on Wednesday, Dec. 11.

Old man graduation has removed the last of the starters who made it to the second round of the N.A.A.U. tournament at Kansas City two years ago. Only four fulltime return and only two a letter man regular last year.

Chester Curry, the bombastic jump-shooter from Wheelwright, Ky., is the returning starter. The 6-2 sophomore averaged 31 points last year for a new G.T.C. record, or 13 more points than Chester Webb scored as a freshman in 1953. The date calls for Ronnie Rush, the 6-6 center captain-elect from Savannah shared the pivot post with two others last year, and in his previous lettering year ran second string to Webb.

Other monogram winners are Walker Cook, Pineview forward and Bob Belton, Eustis, Fla. forward. Belton earned his letter two years ago.

A tougher schedule makes it highly unlikely that Coach J. B. Seacore's squad will equal last year's record of 18 wins and seven losses. The date calls for 14 of the 26 games to be played on the road, and road games are always tough to win. Last year's team won 14-1 road games, but could win but four of 10 away from home.

Two newcomers to the squad at currently holding today's first string berths following a month and a half of practice. They are Don (Whitey) Verstraete, a 6-3 Moline, Ill. sophomore transfer from the University of Iowa, and Cary Moore, LaCetra, Ky., junior transfer from Mercer.

There's an election

There is to be an election here tomorrow, Friday, December 6. But there will be few to vote.

And that's to be expected for all the incumbents in the election for City Council and Mayor are on the ballot without opposition.

The fact that Councilman A. B. McDougald, Tommy Rushing and Osborn Banks and Mayor Bill Bowen have no opposition indicates that the citizens of Statesboro are satisfied with the way they are handling the affairs of our city.

Of course there are desenters—there always have been and there always will be—and that is as it should be. For it is the desenter who keeps the feet of our elected officials to the fire.

It is to the credit of those who are serving our community that the number of desenters are outweighed by the approvers. But when the number of desenters become greater than the approvers, then our city officials will find themselves confronted by opposition for their places.

Even though there is no contest tomorrow, it will give you, as a voter, personal satisfaction to take time out and go to the polls and vote. Let us not be lulled into an apathy toward the ballot, our most important privilege and right, simply because we become satisfied with our elected officials. Such apathy could lead to acceptance of the status quo which in turn could lead to abuse of the authority we grant to our officials.

So go vote tomorrow. It'll take only a few minutes.

We can!

When we have to we can!

Bulloch County was about to lose its participation in the regional blood program.

For months we had been falling down in providing our proper and fair share of blood to go into the blood bank. As a matter of fact our "credit" had just about played out and those in charge of the blood program here had been given the word.

When the citizens of the county were made to realize the status of our blood program they rallied around and when the bloodmobile was here on Monday of last week 250 people turned up at the Recreation Center to offer a pint of their blood. 188 pints were contributed. 48 who wanted to give were rejected because of sufficient reason.

And now our "credit" standing at the blood bank is back in good shape.

It's to our advantage to keep it in good standing. Watch for the next blood collection by the bloodmobile and stand ready to contribute.

Strength in numbers

The Bulloch County Farm Bureau wound up its membership drive for 1958 with 1,149 on their rolls. W. C. Hodges, president of the Bulloch County chapter, says that the true membership will not be known for a while, but the indications are that it will again lead the state of Georgia.

Our county had led the state in Farm Bureau membership ever since 1938, with the exception of two or three years when Laurens and Colquitt challenged Bulloch for that leadership.

We commend the local chapter leaders and the county leaders on the excellent work they have done in building up a strong farm organization. They recognize that in numbers there is strength and in strength lies the future of the farmers of our section.

Georgia's great

Who in your opinion are the ten greatest Georgians?

Or have you even given it much thought, or any thought?

Or are you so unfamiliar with Georgia's history that you have no idea?

Well, see if you agree with the list selected by a group of historians made up of Dr. Judson C. ("Jake") Ward, professor of history and dean of the College of Arts and Sciences at Emory, Dr. Kenneth Coleman, assistant of Georgia history at the University of Georgia, and Dr. Martin Abbott, associate professor of Georgia history at Oglethorpe.

The Georgians they named, in order of their importance, are Henry W. Grady, journalist and orator; Alexander Stephens, vice president of the Confederate States of America; Thomas Edward Watson, lawyer and U. S. Congressman; Crawford W. Long, first man to discover the use of ether as an anesthetic during surgery; Hoke Smith, governor of Georgia; James Jackson, Revolutionary War hero and governor of Georgia; Sidney Lanier, soldier, poet, lawyer and scholar; George M. Troup, state legislator and U. S. congressman; Joel Chandler Harris, newspaperman and writer of the famous Uncle Remus stories; Abraham Baldwin, state legislator, U. S. senator, and Benjamin H. Hill, state legislator and U. S. Senator. (In making up the list the judges, working independently, tied on the last two, so eleven names of great Georgians appear on their list.)

These men have given Georgia a rich and colorful historical background and we honor them. We suggest that you get out your Georgia history book and delight in the things they did for your and our state.

When the Georgia Legislature meets in January we hope that one of the things they will do is to allow the State of Georgia to buy Stone Mountain and develop it as a memorial park.

Make it a memorial

When the Georgia Legislature meets in January we hope that one of the things they will do is to allow the State of Georgia to buy Stone Mountain and develop it as a memorial park.

We believe that Georgians would approve such an action on the part of their government. It has the approval of Governor Griffin and his recommendation should carry weight when the General Assembly meets in January.

If you should approve this idea let your local representatives and senators know it. They'll appreciate your "stand on it" for after all they are your representatives and want to do the things you want.

Renew The Spirit That Built Our Country

AN ORGY OF CELLOPHONE

One of our television stars was quoted the other day as saying, "To me, the Christmas season is just an 'orgy of cellophone'." Perhaps, he is speaking for more than himself since, even now, we are hearing the groans and complaints of Christmas shoppers.

WE MODERNS are so adept at losing sight of the good, the true, the beautiful. Just the other day I read a story about a hospital in England named St. Mary of Bethlehem. What happened to this institution for serving the sick points up the futility in our thinking today about the purpose of the Christmas season. Here is the story.

St. Mary of Bethlehem was founded a hospital in 1247. Two centuries later it was turned into a hospital for the insane. The noise and confusion of that institution became known throughout the country. The original name, through contraction and corruption, was changed to Bedlam.

THERE IS LITTLE in a name, and if there were not more here than the corruption of a word, we would be unconcerned. Sad

Press Lauds Program

Editor's Note: This editorial appeared in the Savannah Evening Press this week. We believe this is very well stated and are reprinting it here.

A decision which will prove valuable to local teachers and all teachers in middle and southeast Georgia both from an educational and economic standpoint, has been announced by the Board of Regents of the state university system.

The board has authorized graduate work on a "commuter" basis at Georgia State College for women at Milledgeville and Georgia Teachers College at Statesboro.

This program allows GSCW and GTC to award master of education degrees in seven fields each. It is designed primarily to serve teachers already in the field and will be confined to summer and Saturday classes. It will be possible for teachers to get the extra degree in three summers or three years of Saturday work.

It is estimated that 2,100 teachers in 27 counties surrounding Bulloch will benefit from the program at the Statesboro College. Between 300 and 400 teachers are expected to enroll for the first classes at the two schools.

Georgia Teachers College at Statesboro has long been one of the most valuable institutions in the First Congressional District. The new authorization by the Board of Regents increases that value, not only to teachers, but to all citizens whose children will benefit by having more fully trained teachers in the schools.

Spotlight on Statesboro B.P.W. Career Women

Eather Gross is the very efficient chief clerk. Selective Service System, in the Statesboro office, with state headquarters in Atlanta. Her work in this field covers a period of three years.

Mrs. Gross' business and personal qualifications include ability, deep regard for the feelings of others, and high standards. These qualifications have made her most valuable to the Statesboro Business and Professional Women's Club, of which she is a charter member. For three years she was the lady who took in the money and sent off the dues. She served as district treasurer for two years.

While serving on the membership committee, Mrs. Gross never overlooked any opportunity to interest the business women and the community in the purposes and scope of the Federation, and the splendid stabilization and extension which the Statesboro B. & P.W. Club has enjoyed can be attributed to a considerable de-

WE'RE GLAD our name is already on our county registration list. For if it were not and we had to pass the proposed list of questions that prospective voters must be required to answer at the time they register to vote, we would find ourselves outside on voting days.

An election laws study committee of the Georgia General Assembly has prepared a new list of questions to be used to determine the "qualifications" of a citizen who wishes to register for the first time.

We "took" the test in the comfort of our living room last Sunday morning. We failed and would have been refused to register, had the test been the real thing. And we are a high school graduate and a newspaperman.

one puts you on the spot immediately—"What is a republican form of government?"

Well now, let's see. A republican form of government is one like we got in the United States. But somebody says we got a democratic form of government in the United States. We looked it up in the encyclopedia and it says, "Republic, a term used to name or describe states or governments of diverse kinds. It comes from the latin res, things, public, public and since all governments have to do with public things, this original meaning can be taken as warrant for use of the term to represent any kind of government." There was a lot, lot more but we got to thinking, they won't let you have an encyclopedia with you when you are taking the test. Let's try another one. Number two. "What is the difference in the Constitution of the United States and Georgia regarding the suspension of the privilege of the writ of habeas corpus?" That's a dilly. We had to go back to our encyclopedia to learn what "habeas corpus" is. A habeas corpus is "a writ of common law origin, designed to secure speedy release by judicial decree of persons illegally restrained of their liberty." Now the difference in the Constitution of the United States and Georgia regarding the suspension of the privilege of the writ of habeas corpus—we couldn't find that in community and not in some far away place. Why not begin now to clear out your family wardrobe and take down those clothes you haven't worn for a long time. There are so many of us who for no real good reason keep old clothes taken after year. Then finally when they are no longer of value either throw or give them away.

I KNOW HOW hard it is to part with that suit which is still "good" and at some future time may be of value. Just remember, if it is of no value to you it probably isn't of any value to anyone else. You will find little warmth will come from the giving of clothing which has little value, but when you give clothing you know can be used and worn to bring pride and warmth to the wearer, then you will have a special feeling in your heart.

Start now to look around and through your home and set aside those things which still can be used by those in need but are no longer really needed in your home. You will be surprised how many things you can find which may be used to bring joy to those around you.

PLEASE DON'T feel that I try here to lessen the value of those organized programs which help so many in need all over the world, everyday. I'm just suggesting to you a way to bring into your heart that real feeling of Christmas which somehow so many of us seem to have lost somewhere along the way.

There are children and adults of all races who need warm clothing at this time of year. Many of those people live in our

ONE THING, for sure, Thanksgiving was certainly going to be a quiet time at our house this year. Thanksgiving is hard to work up when half the children aren't at home. Besides, those few, free hours had to be spent in preparing for Christmas. (Well, everybody has to think and plan even if nothing works out that way.)

THANKSGIVING, eleven years ago hadn't worked out exactly as we planned it either. Two neighbor families had been in- vited to dinner. The meal was partly prepared and the house was very clean.

Instead of the dinner party, though, we had a party at the Bulloch County Hospital. Our Tech (both freshmen and regular games). Three and one-half hours still later we arose to go to the church. Our daughter had volunteered her regular services. He was to cook non-cakes for the young folks. He did. From there we went to the First Baptist Church and heard an excellent sermon. It was good, though, that we hadn't prepared a feast because the sermon would have spoiled it.

WE DID HAVE a turkey because it was the cheapest meat in town. We were thankful, too. When the eldest son left he carried the sister, her teddy bear, her parakeet, and many other of her belongings with him, leaving the emptiest, biggest, house and most forlorn-looking papa and mamma in town.

There are those days at Christmas to look forward to. But sometimes, we feel like the school children. "Why can't we have nine months' vacation and three months of school?" they ask.

Chapter V Bulloch County Goes Democratic

This week we continue our "Story of Bulloch County" which we began on August 29, 1957.

Early in the 19th Century Georgia became politically a one party state. This party was the Jeffersonian Party. However there were two State parties which bitterly opposed each other. These parties centered around personalities and took the names of their leaders. They were the Troup party whose leader, George M. Troup, represented the large land-owning class and the Clark party whose leader, John Clark, represented the small farmer.

An important political question among Georgians in the 1820's was getting the Indians completely out of Georgia and opening up their lands to white settlers. The United States Government had succeeded in securing a treaty with the Creeks in 1821 in which they gave up a great stretch of territory from the Ockmulgee River to the Flint River. Two years later the Creeks refused to cede any more territory. The people of Georgia were determined to put the Creeks out and in this year Troup became governor. He was willing, if necessary, to involve the State in a war with the National Government in order to have the Indians removed from Georgia. Due to much pressure from Troup, President Monroe appointed in December, 1824, two Georgians, James Merriweather and Duncan Campbell to treat with the Creeks for the cession of their lands. They persuaded 400 Creek Indians to sign a treaty in which they were committed to give up all their lands in Georgia in return for an equal amount of land in the West and in addition they were to receive $400,000.

On the Indian Question

The Bulloch County Grand Jury presentations of November 28, 1825, reveal how the county felt about the Clark Party as well as how they stood on the Indian question. The presentations read:

"Whereas, it has been generally understood that the county of Bulloch has been in favor of the election of General Clark... we approve the firm action taken by Governor Troup to obtain for the State of Georgia a portion of land which is so necessary for the civilization and increase of said state and moreover we appropriate the conduct of our commissioners, James Merriweather and Duncan Campbell. We further express a hope that the present legislature of the state of Georgia will pursue such course as will most effectually secure to us the ratification of said treaty by the Senate of the United States.

"These, our presentments, we request to be published in the Savannah Republican."

The Indian question was brought to a successful conclusion when a treaty was made with the Creek Nation in 1827 while John Quincy Adams was president.

The tariff issue was another political controversy which was a matter of interest. Georgia at one time just after the war of 1812 had favored a protective tariff. Having been saddled with it, the Acts of 1816, 1824, 1828, and 1832 raised the tariff higher and higher. Since Georgia had not developed manufacturing to any great extent and had become chiefly agricultural the people realized that the tariff was taking money from the State and enriching the Yankee manufacturers.

The Troup party began suggesting that Georgia should no longer obey the tariff but should nullify it. Leaders in the nullification movement were Wm. H. Crawford, John M. Berrien and Augustus S. Clayton. The Clark party supported John Forsyth who opposed nullification.

Nullification Movement

The nullification movement came to nothing in Georgia, but following the split on the question two parties arose. The Troup party, which had stood for nullification for the most part, resented the way Andrew Jackson had treated South Carolina, became the enemy of nationalism and took the name of States Rights Party, soon becoming part of the Whig Party.

The Clark party supported Jackson, took the name Union Party and soon became the Democratic Party. Bulloch County fitted into the pattern of this Democratic Party and through good times and bad times he remained faithfully in the party's ranks.

In 1832 presentations of the Bulloch County Grand Jury state: "We consider it a privilege and duty to say we are opposed to a re-establishment of the Penal Code and request our senator and representative to oppose such a measure. We also oppose a court for the corrections of error and appeals."

This referred to an attempt to re-establish the State Penitentiary which the Clarkites claimed did nothing but furnish jobs for the Troup political payoff.

The Troup party had sponsored the establishment of a Supreme Court, guaranteeing uniformity of law for appealed cases. The Clark following opposed this. They urged that it would be too expensive to travel to a large city for their appeals. Furthermore they wanted the jurisdiction to remain in the local Superior Courts where the jurors would be of their own group.

Stand on Banks

The Bulloch County Grand Jury of 1837 felt that "Because of the unusual and oppressive course pursued by the several Banks of Georgia we instruct our senator and representative that we consider the banks have violated their charters and oppose any law to relieve them."

Georgia received from the Federal Government some of the surplus from the tariff which was put into the state banks. These banks discounted notes requiring a minimum of $2,000 collateral. The small farmers in Bulloch County, as well as those in the other counties felt that this gave a definite advantage to the large planter and consequently disappeared.

In the 1830's there was an effort to reapportion the members of the State Legislature. The counties of Middle Georgia had increased in population and the tidewater counties had not. Two conventions, called "Reduction Conventions" met, the first in 1833, the second in 1839. Malachi Denmark represented Bulloch County in both of these. The new counties that came in from the Cherokee lands and the older counties with small populations of which Bulloch was one were afraid the reapportionment would give too much power to the rapidly growing counties of Middle Georgia and together they were able to defeat the attempt.

For over twenty years Peter Cone represented Bulloch County in the Senate of the State. All the constructive things he did while in office have been overshadowed by the one thing for which he is remembered unkindly to this day—the fact that the main line of the General of Georgia railway does not run through Statesboro and Bulloch County because of him.

Savannah, wanting to tap the rich cotton trade of central Georgia, secured a charter in 1833 to run a railroad to Macon in the center of the state. The proposed route would have crossed the Ogeechee River and come through Statesboro and Bulloch County. Peter Cone told the people of the county that if the railroad came through Bulloch the sparks from the engine would burn up the county. He certainly did not stand alone in this opinion for he carried a petition opposing the proposed route to the Legislature signed by just about every constituent in the county. And so today the Central of Georgia railway hugs the north side of the Ogeechee swamp for about a hundred miles, bypassing Statesboro by about ten miles.

"IT WAS A NICE TRY, BUT..." seems to sum up public opinion about competitive cars attempting to equal the styling and features of the Swept-Wing 68. They tried to get as low, but had to lower the roof to do it. (Less headroom, same high, boxy, cooped-up look). Their windshields got smaller, while ours got bigger. Most of them still don't have Total-Contact Brakes to assure smooth, even, safe stops when needed. Nor do they offer push-button TorqueFlite, the proven automatic transmission, and Constant-Control power steering that works full time—not part time as some other systems do. And Dodge no-way, no-dip Torsion-Aire is standard equipment. (Bus-type air springs offered by some cars cost over $100.00 extra.) So compare all the 1958 models with Dodge. We think you'll agree: Other cars are catching on, but they can't catch up.

Blue Devils defeat Lakeview 12 to 0; to play Forest Park here for state 'A' championship

Here's how they line up Fri. night

The Statesboro Blue Devils, swift and smooth operators of the T-formation, convincingly defeated the Lakeview Warriors Friday night at Rossville's Memorial Field to earn the right to oppose the Forest Park Panthers on Friday night.

Representatives of Statesboro and Forest Park met in Macon early this week and Statesboro won the toss of the coin after suitable neutral site could not be found.

Local authorities predict a crowd of 5,000 for the state championship game here Friday night. Game time is 8 p. m. at Memorial Stadium and extra seating has been arranged for Forest Park defeated North Habersham 14 to 7 to earn their way to the final. The Blue Devils are defending co-state champions, having tied Carrollton 6-6 in the state finals last year.

Pushing across their first touchdown with 3:10 still left in the first quarter, and then adding another for good measure with only 4:34 remaining in the game, the Blue Devils had the situation well in hand all the way.

Methodists plan Hymn Festival for December 15

Sunday night, December 15, a Hymn Festival, featuring the hymns written by Charles Wesley will be held at the Statesboro First Methodist Church.

The Rev. Charles Wesley was born December 18, 1707, and Protestant Churches of several states are joining this year in commemorating the 250th anniversary of his birth.

Charles Wesley and his brother John came to Georgia with General Oglethorpe. Both brothers were clergymen and both played prominent roles in the beginning of the "Methodist Movement" which was the beginning of what is now the Methodist Church.

Sammy Parrish and Lehman Franklin are co-captains of the team. Ernest Tel is head coach. Ray Williams is assistant coach and John Groover is "B" team coach. Jerry Bass and Billy Lee are managers.

High school officials here have announced that admission prices for the championship game, tomorrow night, will be $1.50 for adults and $1.00 for students. No passes, other than those issued by the Statesboro High School Association will be honored. Plenty of seats will be available with additional seating being added for the game. Game time is 8 o'clock.

Jaycees make Empty Sock Drive Dec. 16-18

Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, December 16, 17 and 18 will be "E.S.F.D." for the members of the Statesboro Junior Chamber of Commerce as they concentrate their annual Empty Sock Drive in these three days with the members making door-to-door visits between the hours of 7 and 10 o'clock in the evening.

In addition to making this concerted drive, the members of the city will be asked to contribute merchandise to the collection. Dry cleaners, hardware stores, clothing stores and all businesses will be given an opportunity to clear up items on their inventories through the Empty Sock Drive.

Every member of the Jaycee organization is participating in this concerted effort to "find empty stockings" at this Christmas time.

The organization is working closely with Miss Sara Hall to make sure the distribution of the stocking filled collection will be to the proper places.

Unused clothes, canned goods, toys, giftable items and money are all items that might go to this Empty Sock Drive.

Have them ready when some member of the Jaycees call on you one of the three nights, December 16-17-18.

Vital down

Lakeview's failure to pick up a vital first down in the fourth quarter also set up the other Blue Devil marker. The Warriors gambled on a fourth-and-two situation with the clock showing 8:26 left in the game. They fumbled by inches. Statesboro took over in the Lakeview 40 and quickly marched to a touchdown.

Substitute fullback Jerry Kiefer was the big gun in the series. He piled over right guard for four, six, nine, and ten yards. Then a personal foul penalty moved the ball to the three from where quarterback Ben Hagan sneaker over for his 14th six-point of the year. Jansons' kick for the point after was wide to the left but it didn't matter.

Estimated 2,000 fans turned out in the clear, cool weather for the title battle.

About thirty children are expected to attend. The program for the party will include various forms of entertainment including songs, toys, and fruit and refreshments given to each child. Santa is expected to be there to help with the fun. Members of the club will be presented as guests.

W. G. Cobb is a trustee of Baptist Village

At the recent meeting of the Georgia Baptist Convention at Valdosta, Mr. Willis G. Cobb Sr., was elected to serve on the board of trustees of Baptist Village. This is the home for the aged which was begun by the Baptists several years ago. Mr. Cobb was a member of the executive committee and the convention when these plans were first initiated.

The first unit of Baptist Village was dedicated in November. This unit was to take care of twenty-eight persons and was constructed at the cost of $238,000.

Mr. Cobb's term is for four years. He has already attended a meeting of the trustees. Locally, he is president of the Bulloch County Bank and a member of the Rotary Club. In the First Baptist Church he has served as deacon, Sunday School teacher and general superintendent, and in various other capacities.
