Editorials

The show is on the road

The scene is familiar. The sets are the same. The characters are, for the most part, familiar faces. The audience is the same. There is the feeling that prompts one to say to oneself, "Why, I've been here before and saw the same thing then."

And you could be right. For you see, the 1958 tobacco market opened here on Tuesday of this week. This was the thirty-first time that there has been a tobacco market opening here. Though the one here Tuesday was vastly different from that first opening back in 1928 when only 2,306,283 pounds of tobacco sold for a total of $248,246.07.

Some things remain the same as that first day in 1928 on our tobacco market. There is that same concern of the farmer about the price he might expect for his labor. There is that same feeling of carnival in the air with the sound of the auctioneer, the double row of buyers and checkers following along behind.

There are some of the same people here this year who sold tobacco here that first year. There is the same heat, the inevitable small boys selling boiled peanuts. There is still that tobacco smell. And there's the bevy of pretty girls standing around.

The big difference today is to be found in the production of the golden weed.

Back in 1928 it was a slow, backbreaking process. "Ole Jake," the mule pulling the plow to cultivate the land. The tedious job of hand-setting the plants. The heart breaking chore of bucket watering. Then the poisoning of the leaf with the cloth doper. The hand picking and stringing and hanging in the curing barn to be cured by heat from brick furnaces fired by oak.

And the average price in 1928 was $10.76 per hundred pounds.

And maybe there are some who still do it the way of 1928.

But progress has had its way with the farmer.

He plants his seeds, waters the tiny plants as they emerge from the soil with a sprinkler system. He treats them according to formulas for specific diseases, he pulls them and sets the plants in ground prepared by tractor. When they need watering he turns on his irrigation system. He dusts and sprays with tractor equipment. He picks it and strings it while seated in a high tobacco harvester with a canopy to protect him from the heat of the summer sun. He rides it to the barn in his harvester where it is hung in a concrete block barn and cured by controlled heat from oil or gas fired furnaces. He brings it to market in a two-ton truck which the family may use on Sunday to attend church.

And he's guaranteed a price by Uncle Sam. Not many sigh for the "good ole days."

Before the 1958 selling season is over Georgia and Florida will have sold more than eighty-four million pounds of the golden weed.

Acres are generally down in our section of the state. But the warehousemen, men who know tobacco best, agree that the 1958 when 10,156,882 pounds were sold here last year.

Rains in our county may cut down our volume some this year, though better prices are expected to offset any losses.

With the market now already three days old, Statesboro, Brooklet, Portal, Register, Stilton, and all Bulloch County merchants are offering attractive stocks of merchandise to fill the needs and desires of the tobacco grower and his family. There is no need for him to take his family to Savannah, to Atlanta, Augusta, Macon—he can find it here and at a more reasonable price, figuring nothing on the cost of travel to and from our neighbor's stores. Your home town merchants welcome you.

The show is on the road. Only when the curtain is down on the 1958 production can we know if it has been a good one. We hope it will be so.

Regardless of the reviews, we commend the farmers of our county upon their courage, their willingness to work hard, never knowing when their labor will be nullified by Providence upon when he is completely dependent, but always conscious of the fact that His will be done, and accepting it in good spirit, remembering that 1959 is another year.

We commend them

We commend our City Council and our County Commissioners upon agreeing to share the cost of building a new armory here for our units of the National Guard. The funds they pledge are only a small part of the total cost, but it is necessary that they do so, if we are to stand a chance of the federal government and state government participating in the project with us.

And we commend the members of the Bulloch County Military Association for pledging the funds they have in hand which resulted from the final disposition of the armory property on East Vine Street.

And we commend our congressman, Prince Preston, for volunteering his aid to assure the federal participation.

We believe the men who are in our National Guard unit here deserved better than they now have. The equipment with which they work deserves better housing than now given. And we believe that our community deserves a better Armory than it now has out on U. S. 301 at the airport area.

Great day for hot dogs

It was a great day for hot dogs.

Hundreds of Statesboro and Bulloch County's small fry gathered at the Swim Center in Memorial Park on Wednesday afternoon of last week awaiting their term for a "go" at those Robbins Lanky Franks in the first annual Eat-A-Rama jointly sponsored by the Recreation Department and Robbins Packing Company.

It was a great contest, and we are looking forward to the 1959 Eat-A-Rama.

Tougher to Build These Days

This Week's Meditation

By The Rev. L. E. Houston Jr.

IF WE ONLY KNEW

THIS PAST week has been a sad one for me. If I were the "tender-hearted" type, I would have cried.

It came about this way. I walked out to the construction site of our new church (my favorite spot these days) last Friday and watched as the concrete was poured for the floors of the educational building. To be honest, I felt a twinge of regret when I realized that I was looking at the dirt floors for the last time. But, that's progress!

AND, SPEAKING of progress, did you ever stop to consider the amount of time, energy, and money spent on that which is invisible to the naked eye? For instance, you will never fully appreciate a new building unless you have witnessed the process of its erection. Just ask any couple who have built a new home!

Beneath those concrete floor slabs in our new church is a maze of concrete air ducts which will supply the hot and cold air for the comfort of the congregation in the winter and summer sessions; there is a vast number of electrical circuits which will supply the entire building with necessary electricity; not to mention the yards of concrete poured as the foundation upon which the building will rest. And all of this is underground, unseen to the eye. Yet, the comfort which we longingly look for could not be possible without these underground installations.

Perhaps, before we glibly say "I wish" again, we should investigate the "ground" beneath our feet. If we ONLY KNEW!

Herman Talmadge Reports From Washington

FURTHER PROOF of the waste, mismanagement and total disregard of the interests of the taxpayer which characterize the American foreign aid program is found in a recently-released letter and Congressional Committee report.

The letter is one written by Nathaniel Rafier of the International Cooperation Administration offering to finance the establishment of textile plants in Indonesia by American manufacturers. The report is that of the House Committee on Government Operations which discloses that I.C.A. has "let nearly a billion dollars in contracts without clearly formalized standards for their award and administration" and which concludes that I.C.A.'s administration of overseas building projects is "inadequate, inefficient and incompetent" and is biding procedures "a type of Russian roulette."

THE RAFIER LETTER was written to the American Cotton Manufacturers Institute offering loans to any of its members "interested in establishing textile plants in Indonesia" and stating I.C.A. was "prepared to insure such investments against political risks of expropriation, inconvertibility of currency and war damage." It additionally offered to finance the training of native workers for such factories and to install utilities not available at desirable plant sites.

The House Committee cited the Cambodia Port Highway project as an example of the

The Editor's Uneasy Chair

My reaction was: "Good gracious!" Well that gives you an idea of the feelings I had. But when we saw the meanness, the viciousness, the repressiveness, lying there in that cardboard box, dead, it evoked strong feelings.

Ben Collins drove up in front of our office and invited us to come outside and see what he had.

We accepted his invitation. What he had, he had a rattlesnake—dead—in that box in the trunk of his car. SIXTEEN RATTLESNAKES that dead snake had. And as big around as... oh, about ten inches or more we guessed, since no one wanted to put a tape measure around him, or her. Billy Tillman came along and professed knowledge on such things, volunteered the information that the snake might be a female, "cause it's a short one."

We stood there and looked at the dead thing. Ben said that his son, Benny, now eighteen years old, had shot the rattler with a shotgun... there was evidence near the snake's head to confirm that. William McCrary, a Negro on Bill Bowen's farm, flushed the rattler and hit-tailed it to find somebody. He got Benny and they went back to the place where William saw the thing, and traced it into a den under some trash piled on some wire. They dug, the wire from the den with a tractor and let the snake have it.

Billy asked us if we wanted to know how death felt. Being a newspaperman we allow as how we did. "Touch that thing there, and you'll get the feel of death." We did so, and Billy's right. Hard, scaly, giving under pressure. We withdrew our hand quickly with a feeling of revulsion overcoming us.

Mr. Collins told us that they had killed six rattlesnakes in the summer in that section on his and Mr. Bowen's farms, west of Statesboro.

The others in our office came out and looked at the horrible sight. That was when we learned that M. L. Hall and Charlie Jackson had killed a rattler about as big this spring while NOTE: For some time I have been wishing to do a column on conservation. My opportunity came with the fishing edition of the Georgia Game and Fish magazine published by the Georgia Game and Fish Commission. Bob Short, the editor, did an editorial, "Let's Make Conservation A No. 1 Goal." We use it here in full.

LET'S MAKE CONSERVATION A NO. 1 GOAL

Outdoor living and a penchant for God's wild creatures are not new American traditions. They have been enjoyed since the time of Captain John Smith and Pocahontas, except today outdoor enthusiasts can be multiplied by thousands. I am sure that over 150 million people took advantage of state and national parks last year. The fact that there are over 25 million licensed hunters and fishermen, which excludes those too young to purchase licenses and old enough to be given an honorary license in some states, further proves America's love for the great outdoors.

Poet Sidney Lanier made lasting impressions on the minds of Georgians with his "song of the Chattahoochee" and "Marshes of Glynn." Ed Dodd, creator of comic-strip conservationist Mark Twain, has made a profound impression by Georgia's water and woodlands. The late Arthur Woody, "ranger Woody" to his innumerable friends, made a wildlife paradise in the unconquered Chattahoochee national forest, so strong was his love for nature and wild things.

Everyone searches for quiet. off to the cemetery. On the way a neighbor asked about his going. The friend explained that old man Jones was starved to death and he was on his way to bury him as soon as he could. The neighbor told the man to turn right around because he aimed to give the man a load of grief. Hearing this, old man Jones raised up enough to ask, "Is it shocked?" The neighbor said, "No." Old man Jones said, "Drive on!"

WE FELT pretty like we were about as trifling as the starving man when our friends not only raised this delicious food but gathered it and brought it to us. If one has ever had a garden, vegetables bought in a grocery store never taste as good as those things raised out of the garden. Since we decided to turn our garden into an orchard we've never really enjoyed vegetables except those given us by friends. At least we had hoped this year to have something to give to friends but alas, there was only one peach. We watched it every day only to find it one day, still green, lying on the ground with one bite taken out. Some little one had discovered it too. The twelve blueberries must have been watched by the birds and they were the early ones. But there is another year.

WHEREVER we've gone this summer everyone is talking about how much she or he has put in the freezer. My neighbor and I (neither of us has a freezer) were talking about our plight if a famine comes. We agreed to share her five pints of plum sauce until some friend comes with his wagon.

Seriously, though, there is much to be grateful for in the way of wonderful foods this season. Surely the Lord has blessed our daily bread, and our blessings are greater even though undeserved.

Mulch farming tour set for Proctor's farm

A mulch farming tour is to be conducted Friday, August 1, 1958 on Frank Proctor's farm on the Oliver Road near Ogeechee School. Mulch planting of soybeans, millet, corn, etc., following combined small grain without burning or any land preparation, can be done by this method with modern mulch planting equipment now available.

This method of farming is gaining widespread popularity in Bulloch County because most of our farmers are against burning any crop residue. They have been burning grain straw because there was no other alternative. Now a new method of planting and cultivation has been developed by the Soil Conservation Service which will eliminate the need for burning.

Everyone is invited to attend this tour.

Cotton growers faced with critical cotton insect situation

COTTON INSECTS
Georgia cotton growers are faced with a critical cotton insect situation in many fields. First generation boll weevils are already at work in South Georgia and have caused a big increase in the infestation in many fields. Second generation weevils are emerging and these will cause additional damage. A series of four or more applications at five-day intervals should be started at once in most fields that are not already on this schedule.

BOLLWORM
The worst bollworm infestation on record in Georgia continues to cause severe damage. Applications of all insecticides except endrin and toxaphene should contain DDT for bollworm control. The addition of DDT to sprays containing these insecticides will increase their effectiveness. Make applications at four to five-day intervals.

APHIDS AND SPIDER MITES
Aphids (plant lice) are building up to damaging numbers in some fields. Where these pests are a problem, use a mixture containing parathion or malathion. Spider mites, also called red spiders, are building up to damaging infestations in some fields. Other fields should be watched carefully for symptoms of mite damage. Infestation on a new miteicide, Thionex, is available in the office. See the Cotton Insect Control circular for other recommended materials.

CABBAGE LOOPER
Watch fields closely for this insect. For cabbage looper control use 2 per cent Endrin or 20 per cent Toxaphene plus 5 to 10 per cent DDT as dusts at 20 to 30 pounds per acre; or use sprays containing 0.4 to 0.5 pound of endrin or 2 to 3 pounds of toxaphene plus 1 to 1.5 pounds of DDT per acre.

The cabbage looper is very difficult to kill and 75 per cent control of large looper is about all that can be expected, says Dr. C. R. Jordan, Extension entomologist.

MAKE THOROUGH APPLICATIONS
Remember, in treating cotton for insect control, the right method of application is just as important as the right insecticide. Don't make the wasteful and ineffective mistake of dusting in too high a wind or of allowing nozzles to drag through the cotton plants.

Here's why your Fire Insurance costs have been increased

Fire insurance rates are based primarily on the ratio of fire losses to premiums paid. This is known as the burning rate. When the burning rate is high, rates go up. When it is low, rates go down.

Insurance companies use experience over a five year period as a basis for rates. When the figures for the years 1952-1956 became available they showed that Georgia's insured fire losses during the period were $70,000,000. This increase of more than $26,000,000 over the years 1947-1951, plus increased operating costs made the recent rate increase necessary.

This was the first increase in Georgia's fire insurance rates since 1948. During this 10 year period, rates had been reduced eight times because of the low burning rate. Even with the recent rate increases, Georgia's fire insurance costs are still 16% below those in effect in 1948.

Four Named To Fall GTC Faculty

Four additional faculty members for the 1958-59 school year have been announced by Dr. Zach S. Henderson, president of Georgia Teachers College.

The appointments include one each in fine arts, English, home economics and social science.

Dr. Lawrence Huff will be an associate professor of English. A native of Madison County, Georgia, he received A. B. and M. A. degrees from the University of Georgia, where he attained membership in Phi Beta Kappa.

Dr. Huff earned a Ph. D. at Vanderbilt University in June of this year. Since 1956 he has been assistant professor of English at Georgia State College in Atlanta. He has also taught English and French at the University of Georgia.

Miss Lucille Goughly will be assistant professor in clothing and textiles in the division of home economics. She is a native of Gadsden, Alabama. Miss Goughly attended Alabama College at Monticello, and received a B. S. at Auburn and an M. S. at the University of Tennessee.

Her most recent teaching experience was as head of the home economics division and dean of girls at Pensacola (Fla.) high school. She has also taught in the public schools of Alabama and Mississippi.

William E. Parker will be an assistant professor of fine arts. A native of Jacksonville, Fla., he has been for the past two years an administrative specialist in the U. S. Army.

His B. A. and M. A. degrees were earned at the University of Florida. He has taught there and in Florida high schools also.

Dr. Samuel Tilden Habel will be associate professor of social science. Widely experienced in research and study, he received a B. A. at the University of Richmond, Th. M. at Southern Baptist Seminary, and his Ph. D. at Scotland's University of Edinburgh.

His major fields are philosophy and social psychology. He is the author of many articles, as well as the book "Twelve Apostles" in 1956. Dr. and Mrs. Habel have a boy and a girl.

Dr. Sam P. Wiggins, G.T.C. graduate of 1940, is the author of a new book, "Successful High School Teaching," published this month by Houghton Mifflin Publishing Company.

Dr. Wiggins received his B.S. at G.T.C., his M. Ed. at Duke University, and Ph. D. at George Peabody College.

A frequent contributor to the Education Journal, Dr. Wiggins is the author of "The Student Teacher in Action" (1957).

Now associate professor of secondary education at George Peabody College, he has had wide experience in public school teaching, supervision, and administration. He has supervised student teaching at Emory University and Agnes Scott College.

The holding power of college indicated by these figures represents a significant improvement over those shown by a study done in 1937.

Among freshmen, general dissatisfaction with the instructional and counseling program ranked highest among causes for withdrawal.

For sophomores, juniors, and seniors, personal problems ranked highest.

Of interest to faculty and students alike is a recent report by the U. S. Office of Health, Education and Welfare.

During this year, the office completed a 4-year study of the extent and causes of the retention and withdrawal of college students. It was based

Graduate Student Reveals Facts About Her Peers

Miss Anne Black, fifth grade teacher in Baxley, has come up with some interesting statistics about graduate students at Georgia Teachers College.

Working with an Educational Research Project in Dr. Georgia Watson's education 503 course, Miss Black studied questionnaires completed by 207 graduate students. She has also completed one summer of graduate work at Florida State University, and she received her A.B. degree from Mercer University.

Miscellaneous, yet interesting facts uncovered include:

Teaching Salary
The average teaching salary of the graduate student was $3,540 for the preceding year. This is $515 below the national average of $4,055 but $80 above the average of $3,450 for the Georgia teacher.

Teaching Assignment
Of those surveyed, 34 per cent were doing work in the elementary field and 66 per cent in secondary subjects. According to actual college registration, 57 per cent are enrolled in elementary education and 43 per cent indicate a secondary field major.

1. The enrollment of the graduate school is about equally divided between the men and the women.

2. The women are on the average eight years older than the men students.

3. There are more single men enrolled in the graduate program than single women.

4. More graduate students' fathers were farmers than any other occupation.

5. The graduate student comes from a larger family than does the average American.

6. The majority of the graduate students have done some college work in the last five years.

7. The women graduates have taught six more years than the men surveyed.

Political Statement

Subject to the rules of the State Democratic Executive Committee, and the First District Democratic Executive Committee, I hereby announce my candidacy for renomination for the position of representative from the First District of Georgia in the 86th Congress in the Democratic primary to be held on September 10, 1958.

It has been a high privilege to serve the First District for the past twelve years and during that time I have sought at all times to achieve a posture in the Congress of the United States which would enable me to make the voices of those I represent as effective as possible in Washington. I am now one of the senior members of the House of Representatives and am in a position to accomplish any reasonable undertaking. Should you see fit to return me for another term of service, I shall dedicate my efforts to the best interests of those I represent. I respectfully solicit the endorsement of the people of the First District.

Sincerely,
PRINCE H. PRESTON

AT MORNING PARTY
Mrs. Clifford Park of Jesup on a visit to her aunt, Miss Alice Wilcox, and her granddaughter, Mr. Alex Fitch, while her husband was at Rock Eagle with a group of 4-H Club members, was honored at a Coca-Cola party Tuesday morning at Mrs. Don Thompson and her daughter, Miss Donnell Thompson, at their home on 304 College Boulevard. Summer flowers were used in the decorations. The dining table, covered with an exquisite cut-work linen cloth, was centered with a silver compote filled with sweetheart roses. Dainty party sandwiches, cheese straws, Coca-Cola and ice cream served in punch cups on the plates. Mrs. Stothard Deal assisted in serving. The hostesses presented Mrs. Park a stainless steel barbecue set. Miss Genevieve Guardia, bride-elect of August, was entertained with a lovely teak wood cocktail tray. The honoree was charming in a pale blue chiffon dress with a bouffant skirt. There were twenty-five guests invited.

DAVID AND DOROTHY WALKER RETURN FROM THE BELGIAN CONGO
Mr. David Walker, his wife, Dorothy Ann and their four children, Stephen, who will be five in November, Becky, three in February, and the twins, Pat and Peg, who will be a year old in September, arrived in New York City last week and reported to officers in that city and stopped over in Washington for other business and reached Statesboro Saturday, July 19. Mrs. Walker is the daughter of Mrs. Mamie Lou Bonard. They plan to make Statesboro their home until January. These children were all born in The Belgian Congo and this will be the first time that they will be seen by their grandmother, Mrs. Mamie Lou Bonard, or their great-grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Howard.

Mr. and Mrs. Walker served as missionaries, under the supervision and direction of the Methodist Church. Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a ballerina-length dress of Chantilly lace over white satin with sequin and pearl embroidered Sabrina neckline and long pointed sleeves. She carried a cascade bouquet of white carnation and tuberoses centered with an orchid. Mrs. Wallis Cobb Jr. was matron of honor. She wore a peacock blue chiffon dress and carried a bouquet of rubrum lilies. Mr. Williams was his son's best man. Ushers were Curtis Jones and Max Barlow. Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents. For a wedding trip, Mrs. Williams changed to a tan silk dress with matching jacket and tan accessories. The Statesboro Regional Library distributes what in many ways is the most valuable commodity in a busy community—books, enlightenment facts, information and new ideas.

We Go Places

Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Cox and daughters, Sara Eloise, and Frances of Jackson, Miss, have been visiting their mother and grandmother, Mrs. Hudson Metts. They left Thursday for their home in Mississippi with the exception of their sister, Eloise, who remained for a longer visit. Card from Louise and Albert Guldage, Greeting from the United Nations (A view of the Security Council Chamber). Everyone should see and study what this organization is striving to do for the world. Commander Guldage and his wife, Louise, couldn't have visited at a more opportune time to see the activities going full steam ahead. Janet, Judy, and Sandra Thompson, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Bob Thompson Jr., have returned from a visit to their grandmother, Mrs. J. B. Deese, in Macon, Mrs. Thompson and her daughters are leaving Friday for Charlotte, N. C. to join R. H. Thompson Jr. who has transferred from Columbus, Ga. to Charlotte. One day last week Mrs. Thompson and her daughter, Sandra, had as their guests for the day at Tybee: Donna Minkovitz, Cheryl Welchel, Jean Holloway, Linda Rogers and Olivia Atkins.

ELABORATE TEA IN CLAXTON HONORING MISS LANIER

On Tuesday afternoon, Miss Madge Lanier of Brooklet was the central figure at a lovely tea given by Mrs. Joe Edwards Sr., mother of the groom-elect, at the Plantation Room in the Town and Country Restaurant at Claxton.

The guests were met by Mrs. N. A. Thaggard, who introduced them to the receiving line in which were Mrs. Edwards Sr., the mother of the groom, Miss Lanier and her mother, Mrs. James Lanier of Brooklet, and sister of the groom, Miss Peggy Edwards.

Miss Ann Edwards presided at the table where the guests registered. The table, overlaid with an imported linen and lace cloth, had at one side a circular arrangement of pink roses, glads, and asters, centered with a single silver candle stick holding a white burning taper. Mingling with the guests were Mrs. B. J. Calhoun of Beasley, Mrs. W. D. Sands, and Mrs. Tom Edwards Jr. of Claxton. The tea table was exceptionally lovely, overlaid with a white damask banquet cloth, was centered with a large arrangement of gladioli, asters, and roses in shades of pink, accented with white statice. The focal point of the decorations was a miniature bride doll with blonde hair, half, like that of the honoree, wearing a wedding gown with veil, bouquet and wedding slipper. Candelabra flanking the central arrangement held lighted pink candles. Up and down the length of the table, silver sandwich plates for the party sandwiches, trays of stuffed dates and compotes with bridal mints and nuts. At each end of the table were brilliant crystal punch bowls from which Miss Julia Adams and Linda Smith served punch. Others assisting in serving from the table were Sally Jones, Sally Edwards, Lynn Edwards and Norma Edwards. The rendering of lovely music through the hours from 5 to 6:30 p. m. were Mrs. W. L. Adams and Mrs. Frank Smith. The lovely honoree wore pink silk organza fashioned with an off-shoulder neckline with tiny straps over the shoulders. The very full skirt ended with sculptured embroidered designs in deeper pink, accenting the lovely length-hemline. Her flowers were white feathered mums.

On Friday evening, July 18, Miss Dottie Daniel was hostess at a dessert bridge party at her home on Park Avenue, a lovely home to Patricia Brannen and her fiancé, Jimmy Blitch. The entrance hall and the living room were decorated with pink glads and rubrum lilies. The dining room held arrangements of pink asters.

There were five tables. The guests were served meringues filled with ice cream, fresh strawberries, and nuts. Later on punch and these wafers were enjoyed for a card break.

For ladies' high, Patricia Brannen won a lipstick. For men's high, a china valet went to Jimmy Blitch. Miss Diane Strickland won during powder kit went to John Dekle for men's low. Dottie's gift to Patricia and Linda was a vegetable bowl in her china pattern.

Mrs. H. D. Everett assisted Mrs. Daniel in serving. Guests included Patricia Brannen and Jimmy Blitch, homecoming guests; Dr. and Mrs. Tommy Powell, Mr. and Mrs. Aubert Brannen Jr., Willette Woodcock and Bob Brannen, Bonnie Woodcock and Smets Blitch, Diane Strickland and Glenn Jennings, Ann McDougald and Smith Banks, Glenda Banks and John Dekle, George Ann Prather and Marshall Thigpen, Linda Pound and Harry Johnson.

Patricia was lovely in a pink sleeveless cotton with lace bodice and a full skirt.

Guests were Miss Lanier and Mrs. Edwards, Mr. and Mrs. James Lanier, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Edwards Sr. of Claxton, Miss Peggy Edwards and Joe Gilson of Claxton, Jerome Jones and Ginny Lee of Brooklet.

The gift to the bride was a salad plate in her china pattern. Miss Lanier was attractively attired in a cotton sheath dress with the tucked bodice, light pink, and the slim skirt a deeper pink accented with a green cummerbund.

On Sunday, July 20, Mr. and Mrs. Lester Edfield and their children, Beck and Randy of Atlanta, attended a reunion of the Edfield family held in Swainsboro at the 4-H Club building.

On Sunday, July 20, Mr. and Mrs. Lester Edfield Sr. and their son and family, Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Edfield, and their children, Beck and Randy of Atlanta, attended a reunion of the Edfield family held in Swainsboro at the 4-H Club building.

MISS LANIER, BRIDE-ELECT, FETED AT PARTIES

On Wednesday evening, July 23, Miss Barbara Griffith and her brother, Ronnie Griffith, entertained with a buffet supper at their home in Brooklet for Miss Madge Lanier and her fiancé Joe Edwards of Claxton.

The home was beautifully decorated with a fruit arrangement with a white linen and lace cover, was centered with pink carnations and white summer flowers.

The dining table, overlaid with a white linen and lace cover, was centered with pink carnations and white summer flowers.

Place cards at the tables, set up in the den, were interlocking wedding rings with valley lily sprays. The honoree's place was marked with a corsage of tube roses and carnations.

The guests helped themselves from the table which offered a most appetizing and attractive menu, including sliced turkey with apple rings, green beans with mushroom sauce, asparagus, casseroles, and a variety of rolls, iced tea and meringue shells with ice cream for dessert.

Guests were Miss Lanier and Mrs. Edwards, Mr. and Mrs. James Lanier, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Edwards Sr. of Claxton, Miss Peggy Edwards and Joe Gilson of Claxton, Jerome Jones and Ginny Lee of Brooklet.

The gift to the bride was a salad plate in her china pattern. Miss Lanier was attractively attired in a cotton sheath dress with the tucked bodice, light pink, and the slim skirt a deeper pink accented with a green cummerbund.

New books in Library

OLD CAR BOOK IN LOCAL LIBRARY

The automobile show was held at Madison Square Garden November 3, 1900, under the auspices of the Automobile Club of America. There were 51 exhibitors, 31 showed cars, the other accessories. A ramp was built to show the hill climbing ability of the cars and barrels were placed on the floor to show their steerability. Braking contests and starting contests were held. Available at the Statesboro Regional Library, THE OLD CAR BOOK by John Bentley.

PARTY HANDBOOK

Practical guidance on all aspects of successful party-giving is available in the newly published "Good Housekeeping Party Book," which has been added to the book collection at the Statesboro Regional Library.

SELF HELP BOOK

Advice on how to ease the nervous strains that can so easily turn into physical ailments if given in Dr. Walter Alvarez' new book, "Live at Peace with Your Nerves," which is available at the Statesboro Regional Library.

INTERPRETER'S BIBLE

The Statesboro Regional Library has the complete set of "Interpreter's Bible" in 12 volumes. The set represents the work of 150 scholars, consists of some 10,000 pages, and cost more than $1,000,000. The Bible prints side by side at the top of each page the text from both the 17th century King James version and the Revised Standard Version. This is followed by an explanation of the historical background of the verses by a scholar and the application of the text to modern times by a leading protestant preacher.

Macedonia W.M.S. Meets With Mrs. George Miller

The Macedonia W.M.S. met at the home of Mrs. George H. Miller on July 16. All members were present and took part in the meeting. The program was from the Royal Service. Mrs. Miller served refreshments during the social hour.

In 1937 there were approximately 130 stockholders in the Statesboro Tobacco Warehouse Company. In 1937 the officers were R. J. Kennedy, president and Edwin Groover, secretary and treasurer. The directors were R. J. Kennedy, Edwin Groover, Alfred Dorman, S. W. Lewis and Grady K. Johnston.

When the market opened here in 1928 one house was leased to W. H. Gaudin for a period of five years and the other was leased to R. P. Holt and W. E. Cobb. At the termination of the Gaudin lease that house was leased by R. E. (Bob) Sheppard.

Mr. Cobb, a partner in the first Cobb and Foxhall Warehouse, is still on the market here and still operates here with his son, Billy Cobb, and Rastus Atkins. The Cobb and Foxhall Warehouses.

Mr. Cobb and Mr. Holt operated the warehouse until 1931, when Mr. Holt died and H. P. Foxhall became a partner with Mr. Cobb.

In 1938 Mr. Cobb and Mr. Foxhall bought the two warehouses from the Statesboro Tobacco Warehouse Company and operated them as No. 1 and No. 2.

Surprise is planned for C. of C. meeting

For centuries men have dreamed of finding gold at the foot of the rainbow, and in recent years many have found gold at the foot of that rainbow through the medium of that famous radio show "Pot of Gold."

Many have read the book "Acres of Diamonds," which tells the man who spent his life looking for riches, only to find that he had an acre of diamonds in his back yard. That could be true right here in Statesboro! Do you realize that there is a "Gold Mine On the Streets" of Statesboro?

It is something to get excited about! According to Kermit R. Carr, program chairman of the Statesboro and Bulloch County Chamber of Commerce, the next meeting of the chamber, Tuesday, August 8, has to do with prospecting for that gold. If you are interested—as a citizen as well as a gold-hungry individual—Helen Deal told how a program on mental health can be helpful. Others speaking were Miss White, Mr. Bob Mikel.

Bulloch County needs to raise $3,000 to provide its share of the cost of a mental health clinic here. The state of Georgia will provide $5,000 of the total cost of $10,500. The balance is to be provided by Bulloch, Emanuel, Effingham, Camden and Evans Counties.

Letters seeking contributions from citizens of this county have been mailed out. A group of community workers will contact friends and neighbors.

Mr. and Mrs. William Lanier Olliff announced the birth of a son at the Bulloch County Hospital on Monday, July 21. He has been named William Lanier Olliff Jr. Mrs. Olliff is the former Miss Myra Jo Zetterower.
