THE BULLOCH HERALD

DEDICATED TO THE PROGRESS OF STATESBORO AND BULLOCH COUNTY

VOLUME XVIII—ESTABLISHED MARCH 26, 1937—P.O. BOX 210

STATESBORO, GEORGIA, THURSDAY, AUGUST 27, 1959

NUMBER 41

NOBODY KNOWS WHAT this tobacco grower was thinking about while he and his son rode the tobacco harvester as he gathered his tobacco crop before the 1959 market opened on July 23. It could have been "I wonder if it's worth all the time, worry and effort?" At the time the answer could have been "I doubt it." But now, as he must think back over the season, he can say with a certain degree of satisfaction that "it's been a pretty good season."

Statesboro market sells 15,632,116 pounds of tobacco to lead state again

Dr. J. M. Norris dies Tues. after long illness

Dr. John Marshall Norris, 79, died Tuesday after a long illness. Dr. Norris was the owner of the Bulloch Drug Company and a native of Norwood, Ga. He purchased the Bulloch Drug Co. here after being associated with the business prior to that time. In his early years, Dr. Norris lived in Emanuel County and received his early training with Dr. Horace Durden in Twin City. He attended Pharmacy school in Macon, graduating in 1910. For six years he was associated with the J. E. Aaron Drug Company in Lyons before coming to Statesboro.

The Statesboro tobacco market led the Georgia-Florida tobacco belt in total pounds sold during the twenty-two day season which opened on July 23. This is the thirteenth year since 1946 that the Statesboro market has led the state in sales.

At the close of the season on Friday, August 21, total sales here amounted to 15,632,116 pounds for a total of $8,829,329.96, to average $56.48 per hundred pounds.

Total sales since the opening of the market here in 1928 amount to 278,248,306 pounds for a total of $109,022,153.10. Day by day sales for the last three days of the market were as follows:

Wednesday, August 19, 357,114 pounds for $183,811.77.

Thursday, August 20, 276,950 pounds for $129,639.37.

Friday, August 21, 322,048 pounds for $152,815.77.

The 1959 sales were the sixth highest since the market was established here in 1928.

Total sales on the Georgia-Florida belt for 1959 were 160,624,111 pounds for $82,918,856.00, for an average of $57.85 per hundred pounds.

According to the U. S. Department of Agriculture this is the third straight year that tobacco growers in the belt obtained a record high average price per pound for their tobacco. The average this year was 72 cents higher in 1958.

Proof of satisfactory prices is shown in the fact that only one and three-fourths million pounds, or slightly more than one per cent of the gross sales, went into the government loan. Most grades averaged $7 to $23, over their loan value. Better grades were $1 to $3 higher, and some poorer leaf and primings and non-descript were $25 to $29 above loan rates.

The Waycross market registered the highest individual market price average, $61.56 per hundred pounds.

Douglas was second to Statesboro in pounds sold with sales of 11,086,505 pounds for $6,653,018 pounds.

Rites held for Billy Robertson at Brooklet

John William (Billy) Robertson, 54, a prominent citizen of Brooklet, died early Sunday, August 23, in a Savannah hospital.

Mr. Robertson had been employed by the Central of Georgia Railroad and retired several years ago because of ill health.

Funeral services were held Monday at 4 p.m. at the Brooklet Methodist Church, conducted by the Rev. W. E. Chapple. Burial was in the Brooklet Cemetery.

Survivors are his wife, Mrs. Thelma S. Robertson; a daughter, Mrs. Peggy R. Yarbrough, Atlanta; a son, William F. Robertson, Lyons; parents, Mr. and Mrs. John William Robertson Sr., Brooklet; a sister, Mrs. Herbert Kingery, Statesboro; two brothers, Claude E. Robertson, Brooklet and Paul B. Robertson, Albany; one grandchild and several nieces and nephews.

Funeral services were held at the home of Mrs. Robertson, 1100 S. Main St., Monday, August 23, at 2 p.m.

Interment will be in the Brooklet Cemetery.

Robbins Packers win first round in tourney

By RALPH TURNER
Statesboro's Robbins Packers won the first round of the Ogeechee League single elimination tournament Sunday August 23, by defeating Port 13 0-0.

Ac pitcher Clyde Miller shut out the Port 13 team and allowed only four men to reach base by his sensational pitching.

The Packers' nine hits were well divided among the players with Jackie Anderson and Ralph Turner leading his offensive attack with two hits each.

Jack Turner was the losing pitcher for Port 13 as he gave up six runs on five hits before being relieved in the seventh inning.

Statesboro will play the winner of the Rocky Ford and Millen game for the championship next Sunday. The winner of this game will compete in the State Playoffs at Savannah Labor Day weekend.

JAYCEES GET TWO NEW MEMBERS AT AUGUST 11 MEETING

Two new members were inducted into the Statesboro Junior Chamber of Commerce at the club's August 11 meeting. They are Jim Sisson of the Georgia Power Company and Hugh Scott, veterinarian working with Dr. D. L. Davis.

Price of the reserve seats is $7.50 for adults and $2.50 for children. A reserve ticket will cover the five home games including Savannah on September 11, Dublin on October 2, Swainsboro on October 30, Groves (Savannah) on November 6, and Sandersville on November 13. A reserve seat will assure the purchaser of the same seat at each game.

The sale of these reserve tickets is sponsored by the local Jaycees.

Bulloch Flower Shop under new management

Announcement is made this week that the Bulloch Flower Shop is now being operated by Mrs. Sura Sisson and Mrs. Richard Andrew Brannen. It was formerly operated by Mrs. Arthur Brannen and Mrs. Billy Tillman.

Mrs. Sisson is the wife of Mr. Jim Sisson who is salesman with the Statesboro office of the Georgia Power Company. She formerly owned a floral shop in Louisville, Ga. and worked in a shop in Augusta, before they moved to Statesboro recently. They have two children, Jimmy and Cindy. They live at 3 Grenade St.

Mrs. Brannen is the former Dot Allen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Tos Allen. Her husband works at the post office. They have one child, Dianne.

Mrs. Sisson and Brannen invite the public to visit their shop located on East Inman Street, back of the Bulloch County

Bonnie Dekle is awarded a Kitsinger scholarship today

This morning about 9 o'clock three Georgia 4-H Club members were given a "helping hand" with their college education. At the assembly program conducted this morning at the 26th annual Georgia 4-H Council meeting in session at the University of Georgia, Leck Mansfield, Jr., Morgan, Ga.; Virginia Ann Williams, Aragon, and Bonnie Dekle, Register, received scholarships for outstanding 4-H work.

Miss Marian Fisher, state 4-H Club leader, Agricultural Extension Service, University of Georgia College of Agriculture, made the presentations.

Leck and Bonnie were recipients of the Kitsinger scholarships provided to "give recognition to two outstanding 4-Hers and to provide scholarships for them."

Ann won the Hugh Moss Comer scholarship, provided annually by Mrs. Mills Bee Lane, Savannah, and amounting to a two year scholarship of $500.

Bonnie is the 18-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leckman Dekle and belongs to the Statesboro 4-H Club and to the Bulloch County 4-H Club. She has been a 4-H'er for nine years and has realized a financial profit of $1,540.42 on her clothing, food, preparation, canning, home industries, frozen foods, garden, and home improvement projects.

"My parents and I have an oral agreement is regard to the financial part of my 4-H work," Bonnie says. "To pay for feed for my livestock, I paid my father after my cows were sold. The rest of the money went toward financing other projects, such as clothing. Recently I began sewing out the Port 13 team and allowed only four men to reach base by his sensational pitching."

BONNIE DEKLE

Registration begins at S.H.S. this morning at 9:00 o'clock

Principal James L. Sharpe of the Statesboro High School announced on Monday of this week that registration at the high school will begin this morning at 9 o'clock. Students who ride a school bus to school will register between 9 a.m. and 11 a.m., for the school buses will leave the school grounds at 11 a.m.

A program of renovating the high school building on West Grand Street has been in progress for some time. New fluorescent lighting fixtures have been installed in all the classrooms. Acoustical celotex has been used to sound proof the ceilings in some of the rooms. Painting and general repairs are included in the program.

Mr. Sharpe announced that the 1959-1960 high school faculty is as follows:

Mr. Napoleon Woodrum, social studies; Mrs. John Roach, mathematics; Mrs. E. T. Nabers, language arts; Mrs. P. C. Averitt, English; Mr. Albert Murray, industrial arts and mechanical drawing; Mr. Gordon Hendrix, agriculture; Mrs. Jeanette D. Brinson, English; Mrs. D. R. DeLoach, homemaking and biology; Mrs. I. M. Foy Jr., science; Mr. Guy Dasher, business administration; mathematics; Mrs. Chalmers Franklin, social studies; Mr. Ernest Teel, mathematics, civics and athletic coach; Mrs. Ernest Teel, languages and civics; Mr. Condel McKenzie, science; Miss Dorothy Brannen, English; Mr. Wendell Marsh, business administration; mathematics; Mrs. D. L. Deal, English and journalism; Mrs. Virginia Howard, social studies; Miss Velma Kemp, mathematics; Mrs. W. L. Coleman, girls physical education and coach; Miss Elizabeth Sorrier, librarian; Mr. Ray Williams, boys physical education, coach; Mr. Dale Jensen, band director; Mrs. Gilbert Cone, chorus; Mrs. Herbert Bice, guidance and counseling; Mrs. Gerald Groover, school secretary; Mrs. Brown dietitian.

Private instructors are Mrs. Bernard Morris, Mrs. George Byrd and Mrs. Bill Oluff, speech; Mrs. Gilbert Cone and Mrs. Lee piano.

Mr. Anderson carried some insurance, it was reported.

The gin's operator, Gordon Anderson, said he spotted smoke and sparks in the gin and examination showed that a piece of haywire had become mixed with the seed cotton. Friction caused the spark.

The Statesboro fire department went to Brooklet to assist the Brooklet fire department but upon arrival at Brooklet it was only necessary that the Statesboro department just stand by.

All boys living in Bulloch County who are eight, nine, ten and eleven years of age who are interested in playing football this year are invited to be at Memorial Park Wednesday afternoon, September 2, to register. Complete plans for the program will be announced then.

Four bales of cotton and some new machinery were destroyed in the fire.

Hoke Brannen's feed mill and office near the gin were saved through the efforts of the fire fighters.

The eight and nine year old boys will play their games on Tuesday and Thursday afternoons and the ten and eleven year olds will play on Monday and Friday afternoons, with special programs being planned for Saturday mornings. The game-time will be determined by what time the boys get out of school.

A special program for the seven-year-olds will be announced later, according to Max Lockwood, recreation superintendent. All seven-year-olds who are interested in playing football in this program are invited to be at the Fair Road Center on Wednesday afternoon, September 9 at 3 o'clock.

During the month of September the youngsters in the football program will be allowed to use the swimming pool, following practice, free of charge.

Boys who are twelve and thirteen years old who are not already enrolled in the football program and are interested are invited to register at the Rec Center on Fair Road immediately. This program is already under way.

The Statesboro Tobacco Market does it again!

The Statesboro Tobacco Market has done it again!

With all the figures in the Statesboro market led the twenty-eight markets in the Georgia-Florida Belt in total pounds of tobacco sold during the twenty-two day season which closed Friday, August 21.

According to the U.S. Department of Agriculture, Statesboro's sales totaled 15,632,624 pounds for $8,820,453, for an average of $56.48 per hundred pounds.

Total sales in the belt were 160,624,111 pounds for $92,918,856 for an average of $57.85 per hundred pounds.

Since 1946 the local market has led the Georgia-Florida Belt in total pounds sold every year except 1947.

The 1950 sales are the sixth highest since the market was established here in 1928. Only five other years have sales gone over this year's 15,632,624 pounds. In 1951 sales were 16,146,166 pounds for $6,770,871.55. In 1952 sales were 16,612,444 pounds for $7,694,119.00. In 1953 came the big year when 20,181,100 pounds sold for $9,350,362.00. In 1954 sales were 17,131,170 pounds for $6,733,449.00. And 1956 sales were 15,852,665 pounds for $6,907,348.

This season's sales pushes to a total sales here since 1928 to 278,248,929 pounds for 109,022,276.14.

That's a lot of tobacco for a lot of money.

Keep our government close to the people

We like what Senator Herman Talmadge wrote in the August issue of the Georgia Local Government Journal.

"Government which is close to the people is the most efficient and responsible government."

And he's right. When our government is close to home it comes under the watchful and critical eye of the man on the street, the man with his newspaper at breakfast, the man at the counter of the drug store or cafe with his early morning cup of coffee, the woman at her bridge party, the woman at the Woman's Club meetings and the coming generation of voters we now call "teen-agers."

With all these watching the government close at home they just up and change things if government fails to do their will.

"Government which is far removed from the people becomes bureaucratic and bogged down in red tape and regimentation. Under such conditions it becomes a virtual impossibility for the individual citizen to obtain redress of his grievances, or, in many instances, even to find out the identity of the appointive officer from whom he should seek redress," according to Senator Talmadge.

And that's bad. Our senator is trying to do something about it. He sponsored a proposed constitutional amendment to restore state and local control over public education.

He's having a rough time with his amendment, but it deserves the support of every citizen who is concerned with the growing tendency to "leave it to Washington."

You have the right to criticize

Back in June of this year James E. Byrnes of South Carolina, former senator, former justice of the United States Supreme Court and a former Secretary of State, spoke up and stated that the people of the United States have the right to express their opinions about the U.S. Supreme Court and that it is absurd for groups in this country to brainwash the people into believing that criticism of the Supreme Court's 1954 decision is unpatriotic if not unlawful.

Now comes Dr. E. Merton Coulter, eminent author of numerous historical works and University of Georgia Regents professor emeritus, who says that one of the greatest heresies of our time is the assumption that the U.S. Supreme Court has a sanctity that may not be questioned.

Dr. Coulter told a summer graduating class at the University of Georgia that the Supreme Court order for integration of schools "called for a greater fundamental social change and an upset of a way of life not only as old as the republic but antedating the republic back to beginning of the colonization of America."

This great Georgia historian charged that the Court actually amended the Constitution and that in so doing "The chief justice with his assistants assumed vastly more power than he could have exercised if he had been elected president of the United States, a position which he tried several times to attain."

According to Dr. Coulter one of the greatest dangers facing America today is that "little by little we may allow the whole processes of American government to be warped and changed by a federal judiciary."

We go along with these two Americans and reserve our right to criticize the U.S. Supreme Court, its members and its decisions.

Even as you and we, the U.S. Supreme Court is fallible, and to think that it can do no wrong, is to capitulate to the so-called "doctrine of infallibility of the U.S. Supreme Court."

For safety's sake

Most Georgia schools open this week which means one thing—every motorist must be on his toes to see that school children are protected from harm. Remember this, motorist, the child may be absolutely wrong—but each motorist is charged with the safety of children—so he must be prepared to expect the unexpected from children. Don't take chances where children are concerned.

Let 'em work 40 hours

We agree with Governor Vandiver—a man employed by the State of Georgia to work for the people of Georgia should not object to putting in forty hours of work a week.

And if the job he's doing does not require forty hours a week in which to get it done, find him something else to do to fill it out.

THE LONG ROAD BACK

This Week's Meditation

WORSHIP—THE CAMP MEETING WAY

Ways to worship are as varied as the facets of a diamond. Some people take the way of nature. They sing:

"This is my Father's world. And to my listening ears, All nature sings and round me rings. The music of the spheres."

A few well disciplined souls can find God in the out-of-doors. (Most of us are distracted by the babbling brook, a loving cow, or a swarming bass.)

Others come into the presence of God while quietly in a sanctuary set apart for worship. Still others find their best approach through group singing and the free expression of their feelings.

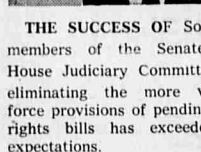

One of the unique ways to worship is through the camp meeting approach. I visited the Talmadge County Camp ground this past week. It is one of the two Methodist Campgrounds under the supervision of the Savannah District of the Methodist Church.

THE CAMPMEETING is unique in many ways. It is always removed from the busy areas either of the city or the town. In the center of the clearing there is a tabernacle with wooden pews, a pulpit, altar rail, and musical instruments, (usually pianos.)

Located in a circle around the tabernacle are the "tents" of the campmeeting constituency. These are usually simple buildings, suitable only for the Augusting with pine straw floors, campmeeting season. Of course, in later years, many of these

And the youth were there. Singing in the choir at every service; studying the Bible in morning classes; enjoying recreation and fellowship in the afternoons. The ringing of the bell, (tradition to most campmeeting) I went with the others under

Herman Talmadge Reports From Washington

THE SUCCESS of Southern members of the Senate and House Judiciary Committees in eliminating the more vicious force provisions of pending civil rights bills has exceeded all expectations.

With Congress headed during the rush for adjournment to a showdown debate on this controversial political issue for the second time in as many years, the surgery which has been done on these proposals in committee has made the difficult task of Southern Senators and Congressmen in striving to protect their constituents from the enactment of punitive legislation immeasurably easier. Because the committee system is so strong in Congress, it is exceedingly difficult to amend a bill during a floor debate—a fact which makes it to the South's advantage to get civil rights measures watered down as much as possible before they are voted out of the committee.

... A HOUSE MEMBERSHIP committee which does not have a single Southern member would be a bill so comprehensive and vicious that it would have been a credit to Thaddeus Stevens himself. Thanks to the determined and persuasive effort of Georgia Congressman E. L. (Vic) Forrester and others, the full Judiciary Committee knocked out sections which would have given the Attorney General unlimited power to police all civil rights, established a FEPC and given the Commissioner of Education authority to force and finance school desegregation in any state or locality he might choose. The committee also substantially modified the remaining five titles of the bill it approved. The Senate Subcommittee on Constitutional Rights did even better. Urging freedom of religion, Ervin of North Carolina and Olin Johnston of South Carolina, it killed all the bills before it and wrote a new two-page bill which would only extend the life of the Commission on Civil Rights and require the preservation of voting records. The liberals flooded the full Committee with new amendments embodying the proposals which were turned down but it was not anticipated that they would succeed to any great degree in overriding the Subcommittee particularly as regards force measures dealing with school integration.

... WHILE GEORGIANS may be assured that Southern Senators will fight this legislation with every effective means at their disposal, and that they will not let a single civil rights bill of some description pass the House if the Democratic and Republican leadership in both Houses vigorously pushes the matter.

Fortunately for the South, an attitude of moderation appears to be prevailing among all but the confirmed radicals and the odds are better than even that any bill which ultimately may be passed will be a far cry from what they are demanding. In 1957 Southern Senators and Representatives had to fight to get the force provisions. This year it will be a refreshing departure to see the radicals have to fight to try to put their back in.

The Editor's Uneasy Chair

THERE'LL BE no bells ringing on Monday morning of next week to announce that school is "taking in" for the 1959-1960 school year.

And there'll be very few students who'll be walking from home to school and back that day and the days to follow during the school year.

For the art of walking is one in which the young ones of today are only mildly interested—like walking from the car in the drive to the door of their home, or like walking from the car at the curb to the soda fountain at the drug store.

We're remembering the days when kids walked out to Lake View to go swimming in the roadway. We're remembering the days when walking the cross-ties of the old S and R Railway was an adventure and walking the rails was an accomplishment.

We're remembering the days when one walked a lot and thought nothing of it. And with the coming of the automobile, and its constant development the art of walking is being forgotten.

Except for a few. There are some who still find pleasure in walking. There's exciting things to be seen all around Statesboro to one who takes the time out to look for them while walking.

To us the art of walking is suggestive of the dignity of man. We're thinking about Mr. Bob Winburn, a great walker who walks for the sheer joy he gets out of progressive motion while keenly aware of the things all around him.

It was Dickens who prescribed "walk and be happy, walk and be healthy."

Well, we'll fill his prescription come October when the weather is a little cooler. But the art of walking holds little attraction for us "down-hillers" in the burning heat of August and early September.

... COMMANDER G.E.M.O.N. NEVILLE JR. of the U.S. Navy had a hectic time on the weekend. Admiral Halsey died. Commander Neville had come to Statesboro to spend a part of his vacation with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Neville Sr. He arrived here on Friday, August 14. On Sunday, August 16, the Admiral died. It isn't effective as it should be, not perhaps the reason is that we haven't given enough of our energy to make it what it should be.

The PTA can play a major role in the life of a school. It can unite parents and teachers in a way that many an individual child can receive the help he needs simply because parent and teacher understand each other and can work together on with which recessed what, to them, seemed like a short time ago.

Next Monday youngsters with faces scrubbed and hair carefully parted will enter into the class room, look around for their choice seat, and continue on with work which recessed what, to them, seemed like a short time ago.

Teachers with new vigor and with new ideas will begin again to accept the tremendous challenge which is theirs to instill in these youngsters the desire to learn, the ability to learn, and extend to them the opportunity for growth.

Teachers with new vigor and with new ideas will begin again to accept the tremendous challenge which is theirs to instill in these youngsters the desire to learn, the ability to learn, and extend to them the opportunity for growth.

Our schools play a huge role in the life of our community. All of us who have a sincere interest in the welfare of our area should in every possible way, endeavor to increase the strength of our school program. There is much we as interested citizens can do.

Those of us who are parents should make up our mind to support our Parent-Teacher Association. If we must take as much personal interest in our school program as we do in our own business, our home, our church, our recreation, our community, there is a little doubt as to the truth of the slogan used by those who support our schools. "Better Schools Make Better Communities." You had better believe that statement and, in believing it, do all within your power to strengthen it in every possible way of which you know how.

THERE IS A fresh grave in our garden under the big pine tree. There have been plenty of tears shed. "Lady" is dead.

"Lady" was a member of our family. She did not speak the English language because she was a Collie dog but she understood the language and she was able to make herself understood without speech.

When the daughter was still a baby in arms, "Lady" came, also as a puppy, to take up her abode with us. She fitted into our family perfectly. Her only trouble was sometimes being forced by one child to show her loyalty to an individual. She would wag her tail and her hind legs and she would break when "Lady" did die.

... A young dog came to live with us. At first, this was a terrible insult to the superior one. But, in time, she came to enjoy the puppy. The next greatest indignity she was forced to suffer was being chained like a criminal. We tried to explain about the city moving out into the country and city police and guns. But she just continued to wear her expression of persecution.

... HER LIFE WAS not an easy one, because she was often the victim of childish fuses. There was the time when we couldn't get her to fight to go to the less than six years old but he just disappeared into thin air. We called him, then we called her. All the neighbors could hear and we were almost ready to ask the police to help us when we heard a disturbance in the chicken house. We hurriedly investigated this and found the lost boy sitting on the roof with the chickens. He had been there all the time we frantically hunted and called him. He and his next door neighbor had fussed over "Lady." (Just exactly why I have forgotten.) He had lost the argument so he decided to become a hermit. These upsets worried "Lady."

... HOWEVER, as the children grew, life was more peaceful for the aging dog. Until, that is, when the mamma in the house about one and a half years ago began to worry about how sorrowful the house would be without "Lady" and made a puppy would help lighten the heart-breaking when "Lady" did die.

The next greatest indignity she was forced to suffer was being chained like a criminal. We tried to explain about the city moving out into the country and city police and guns. But she just continued to wear her expression of persecution.

... WE TOOK HER for walks and as time went on the walks were more laborious for her. She developed an asthmatic wheezing. Then there came a time when she couldn't hear and we were almost ready to ask the police to help us when we heard a disturbance in the chicken house. We hurriedly investigated this and found the lost boy sitting on the roof with the chickens. More and more electricity being used on farms says county agent

By Roy Powell, County Agent

ELECTRICITY ON FARMS. As many farms in the county become modernized, more and more electricity is being used.

But many of the wiring systems in farm buildings and houses are not well equipped to take care of the extra load of electricity.

The improper installation of electrical equipment, careless use of electrical apparatus and defective power machines are making electricity on the farm a greater hazard.

For greater safety electrical accidents you can:

1. Be sure all electrical equipment is installed by a trained electrician and property maintained at all times.

2. Be adequately protected in case lightning strikes. Learn what precautions to take during an electrical storm.

3. Keep motors around the farm clean and in proper working order.

4. See that electrical appliances are properly grounded and that circuits are not overloaded.

5. Have extinguishers for electrical fires handy in working condition at all times.

6. Above all, don't take chances with electricity.

... MOISTURE FOR PECANS. During the next few weeks, pecans will be filling with meat. This is the time that sap and moisture is extremely important for pecan trees.

To help conserve moisture pecan growers should destroy excess growth of grasses and weeds that are present in their orchards. This can be done by mowing or discing. If a disc or harrow is used in the grove, it is important that the soil not be disturbed more than a depth of two to three inches. Any pecan roots disturbed or damaged this time of year will be harmful to nut quality.

... FOREST INSECT DAMAGE. In almost another week, it will be September. This usually one of the worst months for forest insect damage. This summer, forest insects in Georgia have been less active than during any of the past five or six years.

However, landowners and home owners should stay on guard against forest insects, especially in September.

During previous months we've had some good rains, but now it is getting drier in some areas, and during September and October many more forest areas may become dry. Trees weakened from drought are favorite targets of insects. This is especially true for pine.

The black turpentine beetle is one insect that has caused considerable damage to pine trees in Georgia. It not only attacks pine worked for turpentine, but will readily attack any species of pine in Georgia. This beetle usually attacks trees near the ground, with the first attacks almost always being below waist height. One should watch for pitch tubes that occur where the insect attacks the tree. These pitch tubes caused by the turpentine beetle are about the size of one's thumb and look somewhat like a wedge of bubble-gum.

Home owners who may be doing any type of ditch work or construction should be especially on guard against attacks by the turpentine beetle. When homes are sprayed, be sure to spray the trees which are attacked and injured by heavy machinery. This damage often brings attacks by the beetles.

If work is planned which trees might be damaged, it is usually a good idea to spray the trees as a preventive measure. A 1 per cent solution of BHC in water or fuel oil is recommended. Water should be used in the mixture for spraying. BHC should be applied to yard trees where fuel oil may injure grass or shrubbery. Full details regarding the spray can be obtained at your county agent's office.

At six a.m. I slipped down stairs to see how she was. She was breathing quietly and peacefully. At seven she was quiet and at peace.

While the grave was being dug and tears were being shed on the sly by a boy and a man, I shed mine in the kitchen over the bacon and eggs. I didn't cry over "Lady." I had already adjusted myself to her going. I cried, because I had a legitimate excuse to cry. I wept for friends who have trouble and sickness and sorrow. I wept for mistakes I've made. And, very selfishly, I shed a few tears over by-gone times of little child in our house—those times that will never be again.

In time the grave, in the garden may disappear but our memories of "Lady" will live on.

New Education building at Black Creek Church to be dedicated

By Mrs. H. H. Zetterower

On the Fifth Sunday, August 30, there will be a dedication of the new educational building of Black Creek, which has recently been completed. The pastor, Elder Howard Cox, invites the public to come. A basket lunch will be served at the noon hour. Friends will be interested to learn that Elder Howard Cox has accepted the call to continue as pastor of Black Creek Church.

A group from Harville Baptist Church attended the Sunday School Association meeting at Elmer Church Monday night.

For a limited wardrobe, choose a neutral shade go with all items, advises Mrs. Avola W. Callaway, clothing specialist, Agricultural Extension Service. If you choose colored gloves, make sure they do not look "spotty" or give a harsh accent, she adds.

G. A. MEMBER'S MEET WITH LINDA ZETTEROWER

Linda Zetterower entertained the regular meeting of G. A. members of Harville Baptist Church Tuesday night at home, under the leadership of Mrs. Morgan Waters. During the social hour, party, sandwiches and coffee were served with cake.

Friends and relatives were invited Sunday to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Davis, who entertained with an outdoor dinner, honoring Mr. and Mrs. A. Zetterower on their 15th anniversary.

Mrs. Dorman DeLoach visited relatives in Claxton during the week.

Mrs. D. H. Lanier is visiting relatives in Jacksonville, Fla. Mr. and Mrs. Franklin Zetterower visited Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Williams Sunday.

Bobbie Ginn of Savannah and Jerry Ginn of Statesboro spent last week with Mrs. J. H. Ginn.

Mrs. D. W. Bragan and Ode and Jane visited relatives in Jacksonville, Fla. last weekend. Mr. and Mrs. R. Miller and Clifton spent last weekend with relatives in Jacksonville, Fla.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. H. Zetterower and Linda and Anne Laurie and James Moxley visited Hilton Head Beach Sunday.

VACATION TOGETHER

Misses Sylvia Anne Zetterower, Janice Miller and her guest, Beverly Perkins of Manches, spent last week with Mr. and Mrs. H. O. French and family in Biloxi, Miss. They expect to visit New Orleans before returning home.

Mr. D. S. Fields and daughter, Annette of Savannah spent last week with Mr. and Mrs. Hoyt Griffin.

Mr. and Mrs. Grady Jackson of Millen, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Ginn and family of Savannah, and Mrs. M. E. Ginn and children visited Mrs. J. H. Ginn during the week.

Mr. and Mrs. Chris Ryals and children of Savannah and Mrs. H. H. Ryals visited Mr. and Mrs. Wm. H. Zetterower during the week.

1859...Born In Freedom.... ...Working In Progress...1959 THAT'S THE STORY OF OIL'S FIRST CENTURY

THIS YEAR—Being a part of America's oil men, we're celebrating the 100th birthday of our industry—an industry that's one hundred years young. We must stay young in spirit and ideas to keep bringing progress to America.

TODAY, in transportation, food, clothing, housing, medicine and hundreds of other fields, we all live better thanks to the progress made in oil's first century—and the best is yet to come.

Civic activities should be a major goal of every business

Participation in all phases of citizenship of industrialists, businessmen and, in fact, by people at every level of responsibility, should be a major goal of every business, according to Willard F. Rockwell Jr., president of Rockwell Manufacturing Company.

As the guest editor in the latest issue of AMERICAN CITY Magazine, a publication devoted to the betterment of city government and services, Mr. Rockwell points out that it is every business' duty to foster a community spirit in which differences of opinion can be discussed, and resolved in an atmosphere of mature responsibility.

"The civic responsibilities—lack of them—of businessmen are being discussed increasingly in business publications, in various association groups and with in the industrial organization itself. Most of this discussion is apparently concerned with the pros and cons of participation in national politics by top management men. But there is another aspect which is also extremely important. That is the positive encouragement of political, civic and social activity on the part of everyone.

"For the industrial leader," Mr. Rockwell said, "participation in local government represents a sizeable investment in time, work and money, but it is a good investment. In civic affairs, silence is not golden—but at least as costly as gold."

Mr. Rockwell pointed out, however, that there are two schools of thought on this subject expressed by industrialists. "One school holds that full obligation of the organization in the community is discharged in providing jobs, paying wages and taxes. These men insist that civic participation, educational problems and welfare financing should be left to the community. To participate, they feel, risks financial commitments of serious proportions—without commensurate returns to the organization."

"The opposing view, a view we hold at Rockwell, is that business and industrial organiza-
