Editorials

So the summit meeting blew up

The "summit" meeting blew up. For a few hours peoples all over the world felt it was a touch and go situation.

Now, most think we have a breathing spell.

Maybe so. We can only join the peoples of the nations in prayerful hope.

So now comes the painful period of self re-evaluation, to borrow a phrase from the diplomats and the politicians.

Politicians are now rushing in to print to place the blame. The Democrats want the people to believe that the Republicans are to blame. The Republicans want us to know that it was not their fault.

But the real reasons for our predicament are more basic than that.

Can it not be traced all the way back to our preoccupation with things material? To our concern with the business of making as much money as we can in as short a time as we can? To the gradual deterioration of our moral fiber as manifested in our mounting crime incidence. To our casual acceptance of government by bureaucracy? To the growing philosophy of our college youth which focus attention on the dollar value of their education? To our increasing acquiescence to the continuing demands of our military establishment without examining their validity? And on and on.

Of course it's not that simple. It goes deep into our inner being - the inner being of the individual.

There must be a stiffening of our spirit. There must be a toughening of our moral fiber.

We are a young nation, historically viewed.

But already we are heading down the road followed by the Romans which lead to their total destruction.

Our great churchmen are warning us and have been warning us that if we are to survive and maintain our status as the world's greatest nation, we must bring ourselves up to a short stop, reverse our way of life and turn to Him in whom our hope for survival rests.

Their warning is on firm foundation.

And unless heeded - then there'll be Hell upon earth, and it'll be by our own hand.

Then, there'll be no need for "summits."

LOOK AT 'EM GROW

This Week's Meditation

Lawrence E. Houston, Jr.

In a totally different setting. When persons or families are looking for a church home, they should consider these facts. Having observed the personalities of the several congregations in question, they should make their decision based on certain considerations.

DO I FEEL AT EASE in this worshiping group? Have I given the people an opportunity to befriend me? (This is the proper question rather than, "Are these people friendly?") Can I make a contribution in Christian service in this situation? Finally, (but not the least important) Is this the place where God wants me and my family?

Taking seriously the task of rightly choosing a church home can avert spiritual disaster.

I think most pastors and congregations sincerely want individuals and families to attend the church of their choice. Of course, we have our own good reasons why we think our church is the right choice. But, over and above our own feelings of denominational pride, there is the overwhelming certainty that choosing a church home is the individual's or the family's responsibility.

Prayerfully, carefully, and intelligently made, issues forth in spiritual happiness and usefulness in the Kingdom of God.

NO TWO CHURCHES are ever the same. The difference in the character of churches is as marked as the difference in human personalities. After all, who is the church? Men and women, boys and girls, make up the character of the people of God.

Also, churches are seldom the same. One is a landmark of the community, while another is the expression of the new day, of community progress. One is born against the background of one set of cultural conditions, while another comes into being.

How did you do?

Before going further, let us ask another question. Why does the alcoholic, faced with the important decision described and unable to make a choice himself, reject help from those who love him?

The total answer to this could be quite complicated. In general, it lies in the one word, ADVICE. Everybody gives him advice, tells him what he should do. They say he would be drunk if he could see what is happening to him and his family. They tell him to pray and to go to church. They say he can stop drinking if he will only use enough will power.

THE ALCOHOLIC resents

the editor's uneasy chair

SO SOMEONE accused you of being lazy.

Well, now, that's nothing to be ashamed of or to be ashamed of.

There's a lot of us lazy people about. There's nothing wrong about being just plain lazy.

You hear a lot about "you must exercise if you want to be healthy." You are advised to get a bicycle, or fill your week-end with riding gently in the park or doing home repair work.

"Don't sit still!" is the watchword of the exercise advocates. "It's bad for you," they allow.

Don't pay any attention to the cult of physical activity. Take it easy, we prescribe.

Just sit still for a spell. It's wonderful. Get yourself an old fashioned rocking chair. And when you sit and rock, do so conscience-free. Don't make excuses or try to hide when your friends find you thus. Don't feel ashamed as you sit there just rocking, with a book on your lap, or nodding gently in the first stages of a nap.

There's nothing wrong with just doing nothing. You'll live longer—that is if you wish to live longer.

NEED A buggy? (well, if you have a horse, you could use a buggy. According to the Market Bulletin, R. Q. Brown of Toccoa, Georgia, has a good buggy in real good shape, and a set of practically new harness to go with it. Sounds like a good buy to us. Course, we don't need a buggy.

AND if you have some Broom Corn seed, we know where you can sell it. Mrs. Oliver L. Platt of Rt. 1, Dacula, Ga., wants to buy a cup of Broom Corn seed. She explains that the kind she wants is "the kind to grow and make your own brooms."

WHAT about a good work mule that works good and is gentle in pasture with cows . . . a mule that is not too fast, about ten or eleven years old? Write Walter A. Long Rt. 2, Chatsworth.

those served by city carriers, would place their boxes at the curb it would allow delivery from the vehicle and service would be much faster. This statement was made by us in error.

The Postmaster wishes all patrons to know that he is not asking anyone to move a box to the curb. The Policy of the Post Office Department prohibits the soliciting or encouraging of moving city mail boxes to the curb line.

During these days when there is talk of doing it seems to me that we should be to me that our greatest undertaking seems to be for all of our public officials to try to see their positions of influence, they could dictate the course the world might take. It is fortunate indeed for the world that this is untrue.

IN THESE TROUBLED TIMES, these are the phrases of our day. Over and over we use them as if almost in belief that the more we repeat them the more apt they are to go away.

Man in himself will never be able to solve the problems of his world. Only as he relies on the Master of the Universe will he be able to conquer space or destroy the world.

The only comfort I have ever been able to find in this business of all of our power, geared to destruction, is my belief that our Lord has not relinquished the control of the Universe to man nor is he likely to do so at any future time. Man may be able to destroy himself in his folly but only in such a way as it shall become a part of the Master's plan for survival.

THERE ARE MANY problems in my everyday world which are lots more important to me than what Khrushchev thinks of Mr. Eisenhower, or vice versa. Getting our five-year-old over the

I could not help wondering why teachers can't go on and accept the fact that school's out to the children and make the best of it. So, when the reading group came in we played charades, allowing groups of three and four to a charade. Those viewing the charades had to find the scene in the reading book and read the paragraph from which it was taken. This was a gratifying experience because it showed how well they remembered the stories down to the minute details. It was hard on the neighbors, because each performance was noisy.

AT THE SELF-EVALUATION period that next afternoon I accepted the fact that such a restless ending is almost essential to condition teachers to give their charges. For, after nine months with children in a classroom, sharing with them their joys and sorrows, watching them develop and mature, and loving them a little more each day, it is almost necessary to separate them from under a little stress, else it would be impossible.

Still I wonder what would happen if we surprised them and turned school out a month earlier than they expected?

Pastures graded in five classifications

PASTURE GRADES

By Roy Powell, County Agent

We talk about excellent, good or poor quality pasture. But just what do these grades of pasture mean? The USDA and Extension Service use five grades to classify pasture. These grades are excellent, good, fair, poor, and scanty.

When a pasture is "excellent" it is furnishing an abundance of lush, actively growing palatable forage. Such forage is generally furnished only in the flush pasture season. Temporary pastures of well fertilized small grains such as oats, rye, barley, and wheat, and combinations of rye grass and crimson clover, will fall in the excellent category. Alfalfa pasture during late spring and fall might be considered excellent. Lush Coastal Bermuda, that is well fertilized and has had ample rainfall, does supply excellent grazing during the summer and early fall. Temporary summer pastures such as Starr and Galt millets or Sudan grass, well fertilized, should be excellent if grazed when about 10 inches high.

"Good" pasture is not as abundant as excellent pasture. Forage varieties or soil fertility may limit the growth. But the pasture does furnish considerable grazing, and cows are always getting a full easily. From 50 to 80 percent of the grasses should have a good green color, with 80 percent or more of the land covered. Most supplemental grazing crops provide good grade pasture.

"Fair" quality pasture is usually one that was previously excellent or good, but which has been heavily grazed or is in the latter half of the grazing season. Pasture that makes slow growth but contains few weeds is in this category. Fair grade pasture also includes supplementary grazing plants past the succulent stage.

"Poor" pastures are those making some growth, but which are weedy. Pasture that is in a dry season becomes dry and tough also is classed here.

A "scanty" pasture is generally one where the forage is dry and short, overgrazed, weedy, and on low fertility soil. Pastures that afford no or little grazing except in low places are in this class.

ROLL WEEVIL CONTROL

Applications of sprays or dusts to control overwintered boll weevils are due in South Georgia this month. This early season insect control should begin when the first squares appear on the stalk. Three applications of insecticide should be made at 7-day intervals. The objective is to kill overwintered boll weevils before they lay eggs in the squares.

In North Georgia cotton is ready for control of thrips. Two light applications of sprays or dusts at 7-day intervals are recommended. These should be applied as soon as the cotton is up to stand. Control of thrips helps cotton to grow faster and begin fruiting earlier.

For more complete details on controlling cotton insects ask your county agent for revised Circular 372, "Cotton Insect Control."

EGG SWEATING

Now that hot weather is here, the sweating of eggs becomes a more serious problem. Moisture on eggs increases opportunity for bacteria to get in the egg and for the eggs to collect dirt. Sweating is determined mostly by the dew point, which is the temperature at which moisture in the air condenses out as water. When the temperature of an egg is below the dew point of air surrounding it, moisture condenses on the egg.

Sweating usually takes place when eggs are removed from refrigerated rooms for transportation or for grading and packing.

The use of air conditioning in the grading and packing room will aid in reducing the rate of sweating. In this way differences in temperature between the refrigerated box and the grading and packing room is reduced. In the same manner, the use of refrigerated trucks in picking up and delivering eggs lessens rate of sweating.

Your Opportunities In industry as a technician

By DON HACKETT
Professor and Head of Industrial Education Department
Georgia Southern College

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is one of a series of articles prepared by Dr. Donald F. Hackett, professor and head of the Industrial Education Department of Georgia Southern College, designed to inform young people of the opportunities as technicians. It is an adaptation and a quotation, in part, from a National Association of Manufacturers publication "Your Opportunities in Industry as a Technician."

Less than a lifetime ago the Wright brothers made the first successful flight at Kitty Hawk, North Carolina, and "aerodynamics" was a word still to be added to the dictionary. The Wrights' historic, but brief excursion covered a distance about equal to the wing span of a modern heavy bomber.

Air transportation today is one of the most important influences in our daily lives and almost thirty million people a year take to the air to travel fast, comfortably and safely.

Aircraft manufacturing (the nation's largest field of manufacturing employment) research and development are loaded with opportunity and challenge for technicians — as tool designers, technical writers, electronics, specialists, draftsmen, engineers, and sales representatives. In fact, at least 138 different classifications of technicians are needed to build a modern jet fighter!

There are thousands of complex steps and procedures that must be followed in the design and manufacture of aircraft. Experimental rocket planes that now fly several times the speed of sound required from eight to ten years to pass through the design, fabrication and testing stages. During the construction history of the F-84 jet, 315 engineering changes a week were made.

The 101st Airborne Division, a major STRAC unit, constantly maintains an immediate readiness force for airborne deployment to any area in the world.

Ranow, an assistant gunner in the infantry's Company A at the fort, entered the Army in April 1958 and completed basic training at Fort Jackson, S. C.

The 20-year-old soldier is a 1957 graduate of Statesboro High School and was employed by Brown Trans. Corporation, Statesboro, before entering the Army.

NOW LOOK WHAT CORVAIR'S GONE AND DONE!

The same Corvair that tallied a thumping 27.03 miles per gallon in the Mobilgas Economy Run . . . went right on to climb Pikes Peak earlier in the spring than any car has ever tried!

We wanted to show you what the fabulous traction of Corvair's rear-engine design and the sure-footedness of four-wheel independent suspension really mean. So the identical Economy Run car went right on to 14,110-foot Pikes Peak—and right up to the top of that savage mountain, on April 15, still deep in winter's snow and ice. No other car—even specially equipped—had ever been able to conquer that nightmare alpine road so early in the spring. But Corvair (with United States Auto Club officials aboard to certify that not one nut or bolt was changed) purred right to the summit without chains or even snow tires! That just underscores the fact that Corvair is totally unique. But you'll find that out the first five minutes you're at the wheel!

See The Chevy Show in color Sundays NBC-TV—the Pat Boone Chevy Showroom weekly ABC-TV.

Let's go 1st class on concrete!
When they give you concrete—they're giving you a first-class highway. Reports from state after state show that concrete pavements have outlasted other types 2 to 1. The new roads will do even better!
Fifty years from now, cars will still be rolling smoothly on this same concrete... and the same surface. (It won't have to be resurfaced 4 or 5 times.)
Concrete grows stronger with age—doubles in strength in 20 years. Other paving materials act just the opposite. Sun, rain, freezing can't hurt concrete.
That's why it stays flat and smooth-riding—doesn't get rippled and wavy. That's why upkeep costs stay so low—up to 60% lower than for asphalt.
Engineers build for your safety. Concrete means a skid-resistant pavement, and one that lets you see better at night. To learn more about how you can go first class on concrete highways, write for free new booklet.

The semi-Annual Furniture shows will soon be in full swing in Atlanta, High Point, and Chicago.

It is our custom to attend these shows in order that we may keep up with all that is new. We usually get carried away and buy too much. This will probably happen again as the summer markets open.

SO—if things go as they have in the past, we are going to need some room. The only way we know to get it is to move some furniture out. Moving it to the warehouse won't help. We want to move it to your home and we are making these low prices to make it worth your while: Won't you come in and look around. Thank you.

Robbins Packers trim Portal 7 to 2

By Ralph Turner

The Robbins Packers of Statesboro playing in the Little Ogeechee League won their second game in as many starts Sunday, May 22, at Georgia Southern College.

The Packers downed the Portal team 7-2 behind the sensational pitching of Lou Shipes. Shipes allowed seven scattered hits and struck out 19 Portal batters. Shipes was never in serious trouble and struck out one batter five consecutive times.

His excellent control and curve ball was the big difference because he walked two men in nine innings which is really something.

The Packers out hit Portal nine base hits to seven base hits.

Blitch-Winter wedding breakfast held at Long's

Mrs. Hinton Booth, Mr. and Mrs. Reppard DeLoach, Mr. and Mrs. B. P. Lamb and Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Rucker were hosts to the Blitch-Winter wedding party at Long's Restaurant.

The tables, overlaid with white damask, were centered with lovely pink Mary Wallace roses and places marked with net bags of rice.

Places were laid for the bride, Miss Charlotte Blitch and the groom, J. H. Winter Jr. and William Minter, Mrs. W. H. Blitch Sr., Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Blitch Jr., Mrs. Margaret and daughter, Carolyn Blitch, Mr. and Mrs. Marc Sundholm, Mrs. William Walker, Mrs. Gibson Johnston and Mrs. Joe Zetterower.

Miss Charlotte Blitch, the bride, was maid of honor and wore a white embroidered gown.

The groom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Winter Sr., the groom's parents, entertained the wedding party and out-of-town guests Saturday evening at a dinner party at Mrs. Bryan's Kitchen.

A large arrangement of roses centered the table and bridal cards with silvered wish bones attached marked the places.

A four course dinner was served.

The guests were the bride, Miss Charlotte Blitch, the groom, J. H. Winter Jr., Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Blitch Sr., Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Blitch Jr., Mrs. Margaret and daughter, Carolyn Blitch, Mr. and Mrs. Marc Sundholm, Mrs. William Walker, Mrs. Gibson Johnston and Mrs. Joe Zetterower.

The theme for the service, "A Story to Tell," was presented in an Open Bible which served as an interest center. An arch of candles stood behind the Bible and was flanked with standing cathedral candleburn on either side.

Atop graceful white columns were matching arrangements of gold gladioli and white mums. Sprays of fresh ivy completed the G. A. colors of green, white and gold.

Mrs. Bill Kooley, wearing a gown fashioned of orchid lace, and a corsage of pink roses led the service.

The maidens entered wearing dresses of various colors and carrying dainty nosegays of roses or carnations, encircled with ruffles of tulle and satin streamers to match their dresses. Those presented as maidens were: Joyce Kirby, Virginia Morgan, Vivian Crowder, Patricia Pye, Becky Kirby, Martha Campbell, Betty Ann Morgan, and Linda Rushing.

To the music of "I Love to Tell the Story" the ladies-in-waiting entered. They were Melanie Humphrey wearing a light pink dress with a bouffant overskirt of pink net. She carried a crescent spray of pale yellow tulips tied with a light green bow.

Diane Lynn entered next wearing a dress of lavender embroidered organza. Her bouquet was yellow tulips encircled with tulle and orchid streamers with graceful cascades of ivory. Dianne Brannen wore a gown of red net and taffeta and carried a crescent of red roses with white satin streamers lovely against the red of her dress.

Nancy Gay, who was presented as princess, wore a pale blue dress with a cascade bouquet of roses on shades of rose and pink with the bow and streamer matching the darker roses.

The queen-in-service was preceded down the aisle by former G. A. Queens, Miss Floy Wood and Fay Bunch. They were lovely wearing their crowns and carrying lace-covered Bibles topped with an orchid and lilies-of-the-valley. Little Debra Tripp was flower girl. She wore a pale green dress of organza with an overskirt of several pastel shades of net. She wore a tiny corsage of pink sweetheart roses.

Crystal Dwinell, sister of the Queen-in-Service was album bearer. She entered wearing a pale pink organza with inserts of dainty lace on the bodice. She wore pink sweetheart roses. The Missionary Album, which was presented to the Queen-in-Service was carried on a white satin pillow edged with gold braid.

Miss Vicki Dwinell, Queen-in-Service, entered with the sound of the trumpet, wearing a lovely yellow gown of embroidered cotton with a bouffant overskirt of yellow net. She carried an bouquet of talsman roses.

Mrs. Jimmy Hatcock was at the organ and Mrs. Donald Scarborough gave the charges and made the presentations. The pastor, Rev. Auston Youmans, prayed the benediction.

Miss Charlotte Blitch and Mr. Winter are wed

On Sunday afternoon May 15, Miss Charlotte Blitch, daughter of Mrs. William Homer Blitch Sr. and the late Mr. Blitch, became the bride of James Homer Winter Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Winter Sr., in a impressive home ceremony.

Elder T. Roe Scott, the brides pastor officiated. Mrs. Joe Zetterower, organist, presented the wedding music and accompanied by Mrs. Morris, soloist, sang "Entreat Me Not to Leave Thee" and "Prayer Perfect."

The vows were exchanged before an improvised altar in a bay window of the dining room. Emerald ferns and tall, seven-branched, candleabra with burning tapers, formed a background for a massive arrangement of white, gladioli, mums and white peonies.

The bride given in marriage by her brother, Parrish Blitch, wore a wedding gown of chintilly long tapering bodice with attached to a full net skirt over lush satin which extended in the back to form a chapel train.

Her bridal veil of illusion was applied with lace medallions and attached to a lace cap edged with pearls. She carried a bouquet of white brides roses and lilies of the valley, centered with three white orchids.

Miss Margaret Chambers, Daytona Beach, niece of the bride, was maid of honor and wore a white embroidered gown.

Lynn Chambers carried white satin ribbons to form an aisle for the bride. She wore a white organza dress over aqua taffeta.
