Statesboro's 1960 population shows 37 percent increase for '50-'60 decade

Thirty-seven percent more people live in Statesboro today than lived here in 1950. And two and three-tenths per cent more people live in Bulloch County today than lived in the county in 1950.

According to Mr. Alfred Mann, district supervisor for the 1960 census, the 1960 population of Statesboro is 8,384 and the 1960 population of Bulloch County is 24,299.

The 1960 city population shows a gain of 2,287 over the 1950 census figure of 6,097. The 1960 county population shows a gain of 674 over the 1950 census figure of 23,625.

Mr. Mann made it plain that these figures are the "preliminary figures" and could change with the release of the final and official count.

Mayor Bill Bowen expressed delight that both the city and county show population gains. He pointed out that there are still a lot of people who call Statesboro their home who live just beyond the city limits and are not included in the city's population figures.

Previous census counts for the city and county are: 1880, Statesboro, 27; Bulloch County, 8,053.

1890, Statesboro, 525; Bulloch County, 13,701.

1900, Statesboro, 1,150; 1910, Statesboro, 2,630.

1920, Statesboro, 3,996; Bulloch County, 26,509.

1930, Statesboro, 5,028; Bulloch County, 26,010.

1940, Statesboro, 6,097; Bulloch County, 23,625.

1950, Statesboro, 8,384; Bulloch County, 24,299.

Rotarians hear story of local phone company

From thirty-five subscribers on a magneto line in April, 1901, the Statesboro Telephone Company has grown to more than 3,500 stations on an automatic dial system today.

That's the story C. J. Mathews, president of the company, told members of the Statesboro Rotary Club in his "classification" talk at the club Monday of this week.

"In 1950 the total plant investment was $190,000 and today it is $750,000. Today we are employing forty-nine people and our April payroll was $13,000. Our total operating expenses averaged out about $17,000 a month today as compared with $7,000 in 1950, Mr. Mathews said. "These figures explain why we contend that the Statesboro Telephone Company is one of the big little industries in our community," he added.

Mr. Mathews, in reviewing the history of the company, said that Alexander Graham Bell was granted a patent for the first telephone in 1876. "Approximately twenty years later, some far-sighted Bulloch County citizens established telephone service in Statesboro. Among those were the late J. L. Mathews, W. S. Prentiss, John W. Olliff and James A. Brannen," he said.

In 1913 the company purchased the building on South Main Street and converted the telephone system from a magneto to a common battery exchange. Then in 1954 the new dial system replaced the common battery system and is housed in a modern plant on East Grady Street. The business office remains in the South Main Street building.

In telling about the future Mr. Mathews said: "Within the next few months or years, you may expect to dial your own long-distance calls. As a matter of fact this is already in the engineering stages for Statesboro. You may look forward to more telephones in automobile. This is in the engineering stages for Statesboro."

Mr. Mathews presented Miss Bernice Woodcock chief operator for the company, Mr. Eddie Bibisi, plant superintendent and D. B. Franklin, head of the company's commercial department.

"Miss Lilly Deal retires"

And so Mrs. D. L. Deal, "Miss Lilly" to the hundreds of students who came under her tutelage, retired from the profession of teaching on Monday of this week.

Her retirement closed a period of more than forty years during which she taught English and Journalism to the students of Statesboro High School.

Monday morning at the Statesboro High School auditorium she stood before a capacity crowd of students, friends and admirers and accepted a standing ovation with the same dignity which has characterized all her public appearances over the state of Georgia. She endeavored herself forever with her simple statement, "I hope I have never said anything to hurt anyone . . . If I have, I now beg your pardon."

Mrs. Deal loved young people. She loved to teach them English and Journalism. She had the happy faculty of turning English into something exciting, something not found in the text books she used. She sort of made up her English course as she went along, turning away from the text and leading her students into delightful paths which revealed the subject as something to be enjoyed. To her, Journalism was not something out of a textbook, but was today's headlines, p. o. n. d. s. and daily events tumbling over each other seeking expression through the press and over the radio.

We have a feeling for those students who will be attending Statesboro High School in the coming years. For to them will be denied the experience of sitting in Miss Lilly's English or Journalism class and listening to her as she breathes life and excitement into these two subjects.

According to the records in the City of Statesboro's office Mrs. Deal began teaching here in 1917. Except for two years, 1930-1931, when she served as principal of the Stilson School, her teaching has been continuous in the Statesboro High School, though not confined to Statesboro. She served one summer as a member of the summer faculty of Georgia Southern College for six years, and for four years she served as a member of the board of trustees at G. S. C. W.

She received her Bachelor of Arts degree from Mercer University in 1931, her Master of Arts degree from the University of Georgia in 1938 and her Bachelor of Arts in Journalism from the University of Georgia in 1931. She is a member of the National Education Association, the Georgia Education Association and the Bulloch County Education Association. She is also a member of the National Council of Teachers of English, the National Association of Journalism Directors and the National Association of Quill and Scroll.

As faculty advisor for the Hi-Owl, student newspaper at Statesboro High School, she has guided the publication to many state and national honors. The newspaper received two top awards in the Georgia Scholastic Press Association for the past two years, in addition to other awards. Recently in Athens she was cited as being one of the "most distinguished journalists in the nation."

As so to that grand lady of Statesboro High School we doff our hat and throw it high into the air and say,

"You've performed a wonderful service in your time . . . may your retirement bring you all the joy and happiness you deserve."

We commend you

We congratulate all those young people who were given special awards, who were acclaimed as honor graduates and who were presented with scholarships, in the annual Honors Day Assembly at Statesboro High School on Monday of this week.

We do a lot of screaming about our young people, but when we see such a large number being honored for the good things they do and being recognized for the distinction which they bring to their parents and school, we must admit there are many fine youth in our community.

We commend you all and hope that your future will be as bright for you as it appeared during Honors Day on that Monday May 30, 1960.

The two Miss Sallies

Miss Sallie Zetterower and Miss Sallie Prime have retired from the profession of teaching. In special ceremonies at the Sallie Zetterower Elementary School last Friday evening, their former students and friends honored them and paid high tribute to them for their great and wonderful service to the children of this community.

Miss Sallie Zetterower, with over fifty years of teaching in Statesboro, can look back upon her career with great satisfaction for a wonderful work, well done. Her friends and admirers are many and loyal and devoted. We can't think of a sixth grade without Miss Sallie Zetterower as the teacher.

Miss Sallie Prime looks back over a period of eighteen years teaching children in the elementary schools of Statesboro. She too has earned a place in the hearts of the children who have called her "my teacher."

The elementary schools of our community will find it difficult to fill the vacancies created by the retirement of these two devoted and dedicated teachers.

The children of the future who moved from the fifth grade into the sixth grade will never know the joy of going to school to one of these two Miss Sallies.

We commend them upon their great service. And may their retirement bring them peace and joy.

Go... Go... Go Eagles

The baseball fans in Statesboro and Bulloch County are tossing up their hats high into the air this week.

For Monday of next week the Georgia Southern Eagles will be in Sioux City, Iowa, to play in the 1960 NAIA national baseball championship. They earned the right to play after defeating Carson-Newman in two out of three games in the NAIA playoffs held here last weekend.

To the GSC Eagles we scream a wild "GO... GO... GO!"

DEAR GRADUATE
I rejoice with you in your having accomplished a major milestone in your educational life. Soon you will receive your high school diploma and "commence" another part of the maturing process.

Perhaps you have already applied for entrance to a college, a business school, or for a job in the business world. Whatever your choice, as your pastor, I want to share with you certain basic convictions which I hold about "the living of these days."

THE FUTURE BELONGS to those of strong moral character. I am convinced of this. Criticism of our present day lack of moral stamina comes not from the pit alone. The American people must become ruthlessly honest with themselves and make integrity a primary virtue.

The future belongs to those who will employ self-discipline in all things. This quality is noticeably absent in modern living. It means a person will continue in the learning process whether he is in college or the business world. We never outgrow our need to learn. It means he will keep a balance

This Week's Meditation

Lawrence E. Houston, Jr.

Between work and play, and never let one become detrimental to the other. It means he will develop into being a responsible person.

THE FUTURE BELONGS to those who will face it unafraid. Fear can gnaw like a canker upon the inner life of a person. It can destroy initiative and rob one of self-confidence. We must not collapse with fear in the face of U. S. incidents and Sumner's failures. Tomorrow belongs to those who are unafraid.

Your Christian faith seeks to provide you with these qualities of character which I have mentioned. We know the source of moral integrity, self-discipline, and fearless courage is found in Jesus Christ our Lord. I urge you to let your Christian faith undergird and guide you in all areas of living.

May the prayer of your life be: "God, grant me the serenity To accept the things I cannot change; Courage to change the things I can; And wisdom to know the difference. Amen."

SINCERELY YOUR PASTOR

AA helps those who come seeking help

By Dr. John Mooney

People who are trying to help alcoholics should keep in mind two facts about alcoholism. First, it is an illness—a physical allergy coupled with a mental obsession. This is the accepted medical opinion based on the best available evidence and appears to be the truth.

Since it is an illness, appears to be reason or conscience will not help. We might as well expect a cancer victim to cure himself of his disease by wishing it away.

Second, the alcoholic, in order to recover, must have a desire to stop drinking. This may be a skeptical notion, but things would be better if he didn't drink. The idea usually shows up in the form of a hangover and may disappear within hours. But if it is there at all, this spark of sobriety can be fanned into a flame strong enough to prevent compulsive drinking permanently.

One prominent authority calls these lucid intervals, "crises." He compares them to brief rays of sunlight breaking through heavy clouds. They shine brightly and then as quickly are gone.

During these periods, the alcoholic is receptive and may accept help. He is, for a short time, being honest with himself. Approached with understanding, the notion that he would like to quit drinking can grow into a valiant desire to be sober.

Except for these transient flashes of open-mindedness, the alcoholic mind is usually closed; talking to him about the wonders of sobriety is useless. Utilizing these facts, we can plan a more effective campaign against alcoholism. As it is an illness, we can stop preaching to him, criticizing him and blaming him. As he won't stop drinking until he wants to stop, we can direct our efforts toward helping him develop a DESIRE to stop and cease trying to MAKE him stop.

We have already noted that the alcoholic who is capable of self-appraisal has occasional moments of clarity when he wants to give up drinking. It is logical, then, that measures which prolong these periods or increase the frequency may in the end promote sobriety.

One of these measures is

Dear Editor:

I am taking the liberty to send you some "news" on a subject that seems to have had very little publicity in your area and that is the eradication programs of the diamond back rattlesnakes which has been carried on for some three years in several southeast Alabama Counties as well as several counties in west Florida.

I have been using all the means at my command to promote and endorse this very worthy program and have tried hard to stimulate more interest among the people of the entire South.

It is difficult to understand why many more of our people are not bitten by these deadly snakes when we have only a small conception of the density of the population of these snakes.

People throughout this area have gone a long way to reduce their number but these snakes multiply very fast and it will require long and continued efforts on the part of all our people who can lend a hand, one way or another.

I gave you this method so that in the event you can stir up enough interest to get some one to organize a club and go after these reptiles they will know how to proceed, but to make a snare with which to capture them alive, I suggest you ask the promoters to get in touch with Dr. R. E. Howell of Rockwell Manufacturing for twenty-five years.

I have visited your county several times and have done some quail hunting over there and it is easy to understand why you have ideal woods for the snakes to thrive and multiply.

Experienced hunters over here recommend and suggest that any one taking part in these hunts be extremely careful and seek the advice of professionals to avoid loss of human life.

The secret of getting the snakes to come up out of the gopher holes in which they hibernate during the very cold weather is to put a length of garden hose down the hole and pour a small amount of gasoline down the hose and sit and wait for them to come up and when the fumes began to take effect, usually you will hear the sound of their rattles and sometimes in minutes he will come to the surface.

of Dothan, Ala., who should be able to give instructions as to how to make the snakes. As to the program being harmful to the gopher family, I do not think the gasoline fumes will harm the gophers. Incidentally, of course all rattlers do not enter gopher holes to spend their winters but many of them do.

Best wishes for your success in promoting a big interest in this matter.

Soil Conservation Service

The U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service of the Department of the Interior has completed stocking 40 ponds in Bulloch County for our trout.

Georgia is under the direction of Mr. Fred L. Cox.

The hatchery truck came to Statesboro Tuesday, May 3, 1960 and parked in Winn-Dixie parking area to deliver the bass to cooperators of the Ogeechee River Soil Conservation District who had applications in through the Soil Conservation Service.

Those who couldn't get their bass on this date went to Millen on May 13, and May 27, 1960 and picked up their fish. This bass stocking completed the fish which were delivered last December and January.

Our thanks to Mr. Cox, Supt. of the Millen Hatchery, and the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service for this fine service to our cooperators.

Those receiving bass recently included the following District cooperators: Theron W. Anderson, Edwin Barnes, D. Lloyd Barnes, Harold Brannen, W. A. Bowen, B. B. Clifton, Charles Deal, B. B. Deal, Emmitt Deal, C. B. Gay, J. W. Holland, George Johnston, Allen Knight, Dr. Curtis J. Lane, Mrs. W. D. Lanier, also.

Farm and Family Features

Be careful around ponds and firearms

By T. R. POWELL, County Agent

RECREATION SAFETY
Two of the principal causes of non-occupational fatal accidents occurring on farmland and around service buildings are drownings and firearms.

Today, members of farm families have more opportunity than ever to take their families to drown than did their ancestors. Farm ponds and irrigation canals are far more numerous today than even a decade ago. In fact, there are approximately 1 million farm ponds on farms and ranches in the United States.

In 1958, nearly 15 percent of the fatal accidents caused by drownings were caused by drownings. Fire arms caused about 13 percent of all fatal accidents.

It is the responsibility of farm pond owners to make their ponds safe. The farm pond might be fenced or guarded by a fence without adult supervision. Lifesaving devices such as ring buoys, ropes and long poles also can be placed around swimming areas that are properly marked.

Reservoirs, ponds and dangerous sections of canals and ditches should be properly fenced, culverts and inlets need protective devices.

Mechanized agriculture has resulted in more leached and hence more time for vacations and recreation. Swimming, boating, fishing and hunting are popular recreational activities of many farm people. Many lives are lost by people of all ages each year while participating in these activities.

WOOD DEMAND
The demand for wood products, according to surveys, is expected to double in the next 40 years. The wood industry is expected to increase its output from this increase must come from small forest owners in the South.

Timber, corn, wheat, rice, and other annual crops, trees cannot be grown in one year. We must start now to grow the fiber that will be needed 15-20 years from now.

This need for a 100 percent increase in the demand for wood is a result of two main factors. Increased use of wood per person and an increasing population.

In 1952 each person required an average 78 cubic feet of wood per year. In the year 2000 each citizen is expected to need an average of 82 cubic feet. Our 1960 population is predicted at about 180 million. By year 2000 it is expected to be 300 million.

Many Georgia farmers have realized that there will be this increased demand for wood, and tree planting in Georgia is progressing at a very encouraging rate. However, it isn't fast enough to meet indicated future demands. A study in 1959 showed that there were still more than 1½ million acres that should be planted to trees. At the present accelerated rate of planting, it will take upward of ten years to complete the job.

What land do you have that should be planted to trees?

COST OF MASSITIS
Milk production may be reduced as much as 20 percent and as much as 30 percent of the cows in a herd may go to slaughter because of mastitis.

According to H. K. Welch, Jr., dairyman, Agricultural Extension Service, Milk from infected herds will be of inferior quality due to lower butterfat and milk sugar content and much of it confiscated because of antibiotic residues.

Lobloby pine is the principal commercial species of pine in the Southeast, according to Nelson Brightwell, forestry marketing specialist, Agricultural Extension Service.

To Beat the Band

By DALE JENSEN

Our thanks to those generous folks who helped us get our new ceiling in the band building. First to Don McDougall, and his fine staff at WWSN, and then broadcast the appeal, and then more thanks to those who heard and responded. Jones, Brewster, who is with the new architect firm in town, Ed Carison of Kansas to Jamestown Island for ceremonies commemorating the landing on May 13, 1607, of the first permanent English settlers in America and dedicating the Robert Hunt Memorial Shrine which honors the memory of the clergyman who accompanied them and who established the first Protestant church in America. During the course of our two-day trip we not only saw the re-created fort and settlement at Jamestown but also toured Virginia's restored colonial capital at Williamsburg and the battlefield at Yorktown where our independence was won.

THE RESTORATION OF WILLIAMSBURG was accomplished a foundation which spent $63 million in rebuilding the city exactly as it existed in colonial times. The Governor's Mansion, the Capitol Building and many of the other buildings which were destroyed in the burning of the city in 1862 have been reconstructed in their original splendor and the Mansion was filled with priceless antiques and paintings. In England, they now attract more than one million tourists annually.

The most moving part of our tour was our visit to the Chamber of the House of Burgesses which was the legislative body of the colony of Virginia and the State of Virginia. It was in this Chamber that Patrick Henry made his immortal speech, that George Washington and Thomas Jefferson sat as legislators and that George Mason first offered an ORDINANCE PROHIBITING THE OPERATION OF "GO-CART" TYPE VEHICLES ON THE STREETS AND SIDEWALKS OF THE CITY OF STATESBORO.

BE IT ORDAINED by the Mayor and City Council of Statesboro, and it is hereby ordained by virtue of the authority of said city that from and after the passage of this ordinance it shall be unlawful for any person to operate on the streets or sidewalks of said city any form of gasoline powered vehicle commonly called "Go-Carts" or any other such vehicle having such shape and dimensions, power and other characteristics of the go-cart type of vehicle, the same being described in a general way as having a flat platform for a body with no hood or fenders and powered by one or more small air cooled gasoline motors. In the opinion of the City Council of Statesboro, said vehicles are dangerous to the operator and to other traffic of the reason that they are small and fast and cannot be easily seen by other conventional type vehicles and are a traffic hazard and produce unnecessary noise.

Any person violating this ordinance will, upon conviction in the Recorder's Court of this City, be fined not to exceed $200.00 or imprisoned not to exceed thirty days in the city jail, either or both.

ALL ORDINANCES or parts of Ordinances in conflict herewith are hereby repealed.

Adopted at the regular meeting of the Mayor and City Council of Statesboro on May 17, 1960.

Special service at Trinity Mission Sunday

Father John R. Wooley, Vicar of Trinity Episcopal Mission at the corner of Lee Street and U. S. Highway 80, announces today a special "Instructed" Celebration of the Holy Communion to be held at the mission on Sunday, June 5, at the regular 9:45 morning service.

The purpose of this unique service is to explain the ancient Liturgy of Holy Communion, taken from the Book of Common Prayer, devotional classic of the Anglican Communion, and recognized as one of the most beautiful works of English literature," Father Wooley said.

"In place of the usual sermon, a narrator will explain the ceremonial and liturgical procedure in this oldest of Christian worship services," he said. Father

Woolley added that many prayers used in the worship services of the Protestant denominations are found in the Book of Common Prayer.

In inviting everyone to attend this instructed Eucharist, Father Wooley says he hopes this special service will aid in an understanding of the traditional worship of the Church. It is suggested that the early hour of this service will enable visitors to attend their own churches at their regular meeting times.

DRAINAGE OF PLANTS
T. G. Williams, landscape specialist, Agricultural Extension Service, points out that drainage is important for appearance and for good growth of plants. Provide for proper runoff of surface water before landscape plantings and construction materials are added, he advises.

CEMENT COATED NAILS
Cement coated nails are nearly twice as hard to withdraw from softwoods, say engineers, Agricultural Extension Service. This advantage tends to decrease with time. The coating has little or no effect when the nail is driven into heavy hardwood, they add.

Senior Citizens display fine array of hats

By MRS. DON RUSSELL

The Senior Citizen Club met at the Fair Road Center for their regular monthly meeting, Tuesday May 24th at 4 p.m. After the opening by the president, Miss Janie Jones, a short devotional was given by Mrs. Elaine Hulst.

The group quickly got underway with their Crazy hat contest which the ladies had been looking forward to. Winner for the very "craziest hat" was Mrs. H. M. Toets. Her hat was made from a lamp shade, highly decorated with colorful flowers of all kinds.

The most "original hat" winner was Mrs. Lucile Deal. Her hat was made original since it was from various kitchen utensils, beginning with a colander, she decorated it with everything from measuring spoons down to a mixture of fresh salad vegetables.

The "very best hat" was presented by Mrs. W. E. Helmy. Her hat was a lovely creation of pink background with dainty flowers all around even to a tiny bird nest with eggs in it. It was a hat anyone would be delighted to wear on most any occasion.

The three kind and brave gentlemen who were our judges for this event were Mr. R. L. Cannon, Mr. Leodel Coleman Mr. Max Lockwood. The judges were high in their praise for the work and talent shown in this project. There was much fun and laughter as the ladies modeled their hats. A lovely pot plant was presented as a prize to each of the winners.

Everett Williams heads Tech-Ga. 1960 Fund drive

F. Everett Williams of Statesboro, has been named chairman for the Joint Tech-Georgia Development Fund according to an announcement made recently by M. E. Kilpatrick and Walter M. Mitchell of Atlanta, general chairmen of the 1960 campaign.

Mr. Williams said that it is hoped that $2,000 would be raised in Bulloch County this year. He said that $183,000 has already been raised for the Fund this year in the state.

The Joint Tech-Georgia Development Committee was formed in 1956 as a result of a study of the two schools which had been made by business leaders who were shocked at the loss of faculty members which had developed into serious proportions over a period several years.

The study showed clearly that there were critical needs that could not yet be met from state funds even though state support for the University System had been steadily increasing. If Tech and Georgia were to maintain their standards and do the job that the developing and expanding businesses of this state demanded of them, something had to be done. The study committee recommended immediate action to supplement faculty salaries to stem the tide of losses and to fill important vacancies.

In 1956, 1957, 1958 and 1959 contributions were received could not yet be met from state from an increasing number of firms and foundations. By the end of last year more than 400 firms were making annual contributions totaling over $200,000. This is the equivalent of the income from an endowment of $5,000,000.

DEVORE DURDEN, drag line operator for the city waits for Homer Lanier, foreman, to give him the "go" sign to begin clearing for the new sidewalk construction on South Zetterower Avenue leading to the Recreation Swimming Pool and Park.

OTIS HOLLINGSWORTH, general superintendent of the city engineering department checks the first section of the new sidewalk on South Zetterower Avenue as Thurmond Durden sprinkles the newly poured concrete with water so that the concrete will "set-up" correctly.

"AND WILL WE BE GLAD," says Edwin Hill, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walker. "Tiny" Hill and Michael Sikes, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jim Sikes. Sam Rayburn praises Preston in Savannah

House Speaker Sam Rayburn of Texas in a speech in Savannah last Friday night called Preston of Statesboro "one of the ablest and best Congressmen that I've seen come to Washington from any state at any time."

In opening remarks of his speech before the Georgia Bar Association Convention, the Speaker said, "I have known Preston since 1913. At that time he was a young man, a lawyer by profession, was sitting on the platform when Rayburn praised his service in Congress. Following Fayburn's address, he joined Preston in an automobile trip to Statesboro where the distinguished visitor to Georgia spent the weekend with the Georgia Congressman in his home.

In 1955, "Mr. Sam," as he is known affectionately to his colleagues, spent a weekend with Preston in Statesboro and at that time predicted that Preston would become one of the great leaders in the U. S. House of Representatives.

Preston has long been closely identified with Rayburn, who has been in the House since 1913. Preston, who has been a Democratic patronage in the House since 1913, has been a close friend of Rayburn's since 1913. GSC Eagles to play in NAIA national baseball tournament

The Georgia Southern College Eagles will leave Statesboro Thursday, June 2 at 11 p.m. by bus for Sioux City, Iowa and the eight-team National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics national baseball tournament, starting June 6.

This will be the first trip by Georgia Southern (formerly Georgia Teachers College) to a national baseball tournament, although the Eagles participated in NCAA District Three's South-eastern playoff in 1957.

The 1960 Eagles are an explosive team offensively, with six regular hitters between 296 and 388. The team batting average is an impressive .291.

Coach J. I. Clements' team has won 17 of its last nine, with a 10-2 record against members of the N. A. I. A.

CSC earned the right to represent the Southeastern states by defeating Carson-Newman College of Jefferson City, Tennessee, two-out-of-three on Friday and Saturday, May 27-28. The two teams were picked by a selection committee to play off for the Area 7 championship.

The following teams are entered: Whitworth (Oregon), San Houston State (Texas), Omaha (Nebraska), University of Tennessee (Iowa), Southern Illinois (La.), Georgia Southern College (Georgia), Southern University (Alabama), and an eighth team to be named Thursday.

Georgia Southern will represent the Southeast in the national NAIA baseball tournament at Sioux City, Iowa, June 6-11.

Georgia Southern defeated Carson-Newman 19-10 in the second game of a doubleheader Saturday after dropping the first 6-4. GSC Friday won the first game of a best of three series.

Carson-Newman paraded five pitchers to the mound in the first game, but it was Jimmy Barr who absorbed the loss. C-N hurlers issued 11 walks. Barr closed out the season with a 7-3 record.

JUNE... is DAIRY MONTH

Since the beginning milk has played an important part in the life of man.

Georgia no longer imports whole milk.

It is a complete food.

Since 1935 dairying in Georgia has jumped by leaps and bounds.

Most dairymen have access to central station electric power thru Rural Electric Cooperatives.

Our progress in dairying could not have been so great without electricity.

Your Opportunities

In Industry as a Technician

By DON HACKETT

Professor and Head of Industrial Education Department Georgia Southern College

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is one of a series of articles prepared by Dr. Donald F. Hackett, professor and head of the Industrial Education Department of Georgia Southern College, designed to inform young people of the opportunities as technicians. It is an adaptation and a quotation, in part, from a National Association of Manufacturers publication "Your Opportunities in Industry as a Technician."

While science and technology probe the sun, moon, Venice and other planets, opportunities in research, development and manufacture are opening right in your own backyard. It is estimated that by 1975-1980 the Savannah River Area will develop into one of the most highly industrialized areas in the world.

The science fiction of yesterday is today's fact: Armatrol, Bizmac, Multa, Oracle, Serva, Univac - massive electronic brains can now see, feel, measure, control, count, sort, interpret foreign languages and perform repetitive operations with staggering accuracy.

Data processors can add or subtract 27,000 problems a second and multiply and divide problems at the rate of 4,000 a second. Better than just calculating and translating, these astounding devices can also remember. Thousands of symbols, words, letters or figures can be stored in the memory units to be later utilized as wages, costs, temperatures, production quotas or other data which can be coded.

In a few years "rock 'n' roll" may become as corny as "hog" is now. An electronic brain completed a few months ago "writes" completes songs at the rate of 1,000 per hour. The operator merely substitutes numbers in a precise formula for notes, and equations for tempo. Then the whole joint jumps.

The Forest Heights Country Club was transformed into the exotic color, costume, chair and decor of Japan for the annual spring dance of the Pirotte Dance Club Friday evening, May 20.

Japanese wind chimes, tinkled at the front door and at the door opening on the porch. Japanese lanterns furnished lights and shadows. Heavy silk Japanese costumes were draped on an intricately designed screen.

The mantel was decorated with beautiful Japanese dolls with dresses elegantly fashioned from heavily embroidered silk in vibrant colors and rich gold.

The refreshment table was centered with an arrangement of vivid red peonies flanked by wrought iron Japanese lanterns.

The guests were served colorful hors d'oeuvres, deviled eggs, a variety of dips, bacon biscuit stuffed celery, tiny sausages bubbling in pungent sauce in a chafing dish, fancy cakes and fruit punch. Mrs. Jack Tillman and Dr. Katherine Lovett were co-chairmen for the dance.

Music was furnished by the College Combo of Georgia Southern College.

Statesboro Report

by N. W. ROWAND,
Assistant Vice President
Rockwell Manufacturing Company

WITH SUMMER and the beginning of the vacation season coming along, we are all busy making plans for the happy days ahead. One of the most important items in our traveling, especially for those of us who are going to be traveling, is highway safety. Many organizations and groups do a great deal of worthwhile education and promotion in this field.

Recently the Statesboro Junior Chamber of Commerce were hosts to the district high school students and state driving rodeo. This Statesboro event promoted highway safety throughout the State of Georgia. We commend the Junior Chamber for the work they are doing in this field and for the fine job they are doing generally here in Statesboro and Bulloch County.

Many of our neighbors are unaware of the vital interest Rockwell has in driver safety and education. Our Driver-trainer Division at Jamestown, New York, produces units which are used in driver education at the high school level. The device uses motion pictures along with actual automobile controls to teach driving fundamentals. The Driver-trainer reduces the cost of training pupils since as many as fifteen "cars" can be operated under the supervision of one instructor. The Driver-trainer was developed by the Aetna Casualty and Surety Insurance Company.

We recently conducted our fifth annual industrial arts competition for the students in the industrial arts classes of the Bulloch County Schools. The quality of work produced by these students is really remarkable. James Webb was awarded the first prize, a Rockwell Lifting Control saw, produced at our Tupelo, Mississippi, plant. We have heard numerous comments on the quality of the industrial arts projects, and wish to congratulate all contestants and their instructors for the marvelous work they did.

Much favorable comment has been received from the display of our "Turbo-Meter" in one of the local store windows. The "Turbo-Meter" is one of our newest product developments and is used for measuring large volume flows of petroleum products, with a high degree of accuracy and reliability. We hope to continue this program by periodically displaying some of the various items produced at the plant. We might call it a "Built in Statesboro by Statesborians" exhibit. This will give everyone a better idea of what his friends and neighbors of Bulloch County are doing at the Rockwell plant.

Our fare register department is just completing on order of fare registers that "sound off" at irregular intervals. The registers are being installed in a fleet of 60 new air-conditioned buses in Wichita, Kansas. Each time the specially installed alarm goes off in the register, the customer whose call activates the register will receive a gift certificate from the bus company. The bus line hopes that the novel device will arouse public interest in mass transit riding. We hope other bus companies will take the idea and place orders with us for this novel fare register. The engineering to develop this idea was done here at Statesboro. It illustrates our product diversification and the ingenuity of our highly efficient engineering staff.
