First round of golf tourney well underway

First round matches are well under way in the annual Golf Handicap Tournament at the Forest Heights Country Club, according to a statement by Lewis Hook, committee chairman in charge of the tournament.

John Dekle, a scratch handicapper, is favored along with "Duke" Benbow, to be this year's winner. But according to Mr. Hook, the Handicap Tournament is one in which even the most successful duffer could win. The tournament uses each golfer's own established handicaps.

First round results to date are: Tommy Martin defeated Al McEachern; Lewis Hook defeated Bob Pound; Wes Krissinger defeated Datus Atkins; Charlie Robbins lost to Jim Devane; Watson; Wheeler Tate won over Louis Dupree; G. C. Coleman defeated Fred Wallace and John Dekle first round matches are yet to be completed, but Chairman Hook stated that as soon as all first round matches are completed the consolation flight will be formed and second round matches in the Championship bracket will be formed.

The tournament is scheduled to wind up April 5 and on that date an Awards Supper will be held at the Club.

In the Ladies Division, Velma Rose defeated Roberta Appel while Mary Barnes and Maxine Foyre rep. their mates in a since they wound up in a

Violators of dog ordinances warned

Risking the wrath of dog lovers and dog owners who are not necessarily dog lovers, we again join the city police chief in labeling dogs as one of the community's most persistent nuisances.

Nothing irks a home owner more than to see his or his neighbor's garbage scattered by dogs about his yard or along the street next to his home or the home of his neighbor.

Nothing is more disconcerting than to be kept awake at night by the howling or intermittent barking of a dog or dogs.

Nothing makes a homeowner more mad than to find his flower beds or his garden scratched up by stray dogs, or by the dog or dogs of his neighbor.

No parent can think of the tragedy which could befall one of his children if bitten by a dog infected with rabies. The thought is terrifying.

Chief of Police Allen has instructed the police officers of Statesboro to destroy all stray dogs whose owners cannot be identified.

And dog owners who have not complied with the city ordinance requiring that dogs be "treated and registered with the City, penned up, tied or on leash," are warned that unless they do comply with the law they will be booked in the Recorder's Court of this city.

There'll be some screaming, but, for the safety of our community and to maintain its clean look, we commend our police department on their expressed intention of seeing the law enforced.

Big and small thieves at work

There was much ado over the holdup at Georgia Southern College gym Saturday night which netted the lockdown criminal about $450 of the gate receipts of the last night of the Junior College basketball tournament.

And rightly so. We hope the law enforcement agencies catch the sneaking character and throw the book at him.

There has not been much ado over the series of small thefts which have been plaguing the newspaper publishers of Statesboro, Savannah and Augusta who serve their single copy customers by means of the self-service newspaper dispensers placed in several locations in Statesboro.

In the past several weeks the Bulloch Herald, the Bulloch Times, the representatives of the Savannah Morning News, the Evening Press and Augusta Chronicle and Herald, have had their news dispensers stolen, and ripped apart in order to get the few nickles the coin tube may hold.

The take is very small. Hardly enough to risk being caught nor the effort it takes to rip the coin tube open.

One of these days these petty thieves will be caught at their dirty, stupid work.

Let this be their proper warning.

SPRING'S A-COMIN'

This Week's Meditation

By Lawrence E. Houston Jr.

FEBRUARY 15th marked the beginning of another season of the Christian year. Lent should be an enriching experience for all Christians. Actually, it is the forty-day period before Easter when many Christians turn aside to follow devotionally the pilgrimage of Christ in His holy, pious journey to the Cross. It is much more than a relief from some dizzy social whirl; much more than a recess in which we do some moral mauling; much more than depriving ourselves the indulgence of some luxurious or senseless habit. It is a time when Christians should recover the perspective for life; renew spiritual vitality, and regain focus in worship.

We toss our hat high into the air in acclaiming the seventy adults in Bulloch County who serve as 4-H leaders.

We commend the more than 775 young people in 4-H Club work for their interest in and love for the soil and the good things it brings to them.

Let's talk about the Congo crisis

EDITOR'S NOTE: Believing that it to be good for our community to know what its youth are thinking, we present a guest editorial this week written by a high school student.

By JOHN BROCK

It seems as if everytime one picks up a newspaper all he sees splashed over the front page is the Congo situation. Well, sure, you say, this is important. But we may be inclined to see this from just one viewpoint, ours. There has been a big to-do made over Patrice Lumumba's death. In my opinion this will be just another scape-goat for certain pressure groups and the Communist party.

His death will be held against the U.N. by the Communists. They will say Lumumba was a dear friend, ally, etc. Don't be fooled for one minute; Lumumba lost all his usefulness to the Communists when he lost his power. He is more useful dead now.

We shouldn't hold it against these people for wanting their independence. In fact, we should help them gain it, but in the right way. It is our duty to see that these people don't fall under the influence of the Communists. It is our duty to ourselves as well as to the Congolese. If Russia gains another foothold, they will put an economic squeeze on us by putting a stop to our imports and exports to and from certain major countries.

Then we will see a cold war get hot.

(THE COLUMBIA STATE)
"Because some marriages prove disillusioning experiences to both parties, it is always refreshing to hear of one where one party discovers, after the ceremonies that she or he has really consummated an unbelievably favorable transaction."

Harlem Congressman Adam Clayton Powell, also a minister, recently married the lowest-paid member of his staff, Y. Marjorie Flores. The worth of her services at that time, as evaluated by the congressman, was $256 per month.

"Then came the Powell — Flores nuptials, and a remarkable discovery by the Congressman. He discovered that his wife deserved a much higher salary, and as of January her pay was jumped from $256 per month to $1,009, a mere $9,000 per year salary increase."

Powell's wife now draws, as his top secretary, over $12,000 per year, which is reportedly $5,000 dollars a year more than he paid his former first secretary, Louise Dargans. But Louise Dargans now has a $17,000 job with the House Education and Labor Committee, which makes it appear that she got a salary raise of $10,000 per annum as compared to the paltry $9,000 per annum raise Powell gave his wife.

"Having given a non-wife deed constructively with ourselves. Sometimes this means spiritual surgery. Jesus said something about plucking out that which offends; rooting out that which hinders growth toward Christian maturity."

During Lent, we have opportunity to deal with the person who gives us the most trouble — our own dear self. Someone has observed: "There are seven deadly sins. The first is dishonesty, and the other six are selfishness. Then the seven are one—self-centeredness."

LENT ALSO PROVIDES us with a time to practice compassionate living. In fact, we should begin new spiritual habits during Lent which will carry over into every day of the year.

Compassion means suffering with another. Christ's compassion for people was born out of His identification with them in their suffering. Compassionate living is a deep concern to remake the conditions that create hell for others.

Lent is a good time for us to evaluate the motives that direct our living. Do we have a desire to give, or simply a desire to get?

WE SHOULD KEEP LENT secret and cheerfully. Our Christian discipline should not show itself. Instead, it should hide itself so that one is able to look through it to the One who binds our hearts with the cords of Christian love.

Christian living is serious, but not solemn; merry, but not flippant; winsome, but not woebe-gone. We keep Lent by keeping company with Christ and by practicing His spirit in our everyday affairs.

NOW, SO SHORT a time later there was a warmer type of beauty. Nothing seemed to be hiding from this gloriousness. All of earth's creatures were stirring and awakening. A small toad had hopped out to seek the insects. The insect was busy after such a killing freeze?

But the birds were certainly responding to the new scene of weather. They seemed to be making music for some newly-crowned king. A closer observation found a mockingbird busy with his building material in his beak. He knew spring had begun its yearly celebration.

AT LEAST in the lower animal kingdom, an animal seems to know instinctively how his enemy is. In the man kingdom, man isn't always fully conscious of who his enemy is. In the man kingdom man finds it isn't just the need for survival but ways to travel by land, sea and air. Only man can see how perfectly God has planned the world in which we live. Only man can feel sorrows and griefs. Only man can experience joy (if he lives in the will of God).

The wife knew the husband was right. As great as the momentary desire was not to ever think again—because sometimes thinking gets one in trouble, because thinking is harder than blindly following — the wife knew that the need for enjoying the spring was God's will.

THE WIFE knew that the lower animal kingdom had not been given the great privilege as man has, of glimpsing God's great works. Only man can think about the pattern of the world, with its forests, rivers, oceans, plains and climates. Only man can think up ways to travel by land, sea and air. Only man can see how perfectly God has planned the world in which we live. Only man can feel sorrows and griefs. Only man can experience joy (if he lives in the will of God).

SURELY THERE are men everywhere in positions of influence who are willing to speak out against such practices as men in positions of public trust and against the continued trend in government which is leading to higher and bigger government and more and more waste and higher costs.

We have about the same number of representatives in the House and Senate that we have had for many years. Yet more and more buildings are being constructed to house our Congress. A new building is nearing completion in Washington for the members of the House which will be bigger than the old house and senate buildings combined. The old buildings are still to be used when the new building is completed. The new building is to be used for the Congress and their committees. Where will this trend eventually take us?

HERMAN TALMADGE Reports From WASHINGTON

THOSE WHO DARE challenge the wisdom or effectiveness of foreign aid policies and programs can expect to have their intelligence questioned and their patriotism impugned.

Large segments of our mass communication media have decided themselves to making a sacred cow of foreign aid. They shroud in secrecy, devoid of individual merit and, if it would be a program of military assistance to dependent allies and a practical program to help feed the hungry and clothe the poor. However, as long as the approach is insisted upon, I cannot be true to my convictions and do other than vote against it.

Congress should examine each foreign spending proposal on its merits. I would vote for a reasonable program of military assistance to dependent allies and a practical program to help feed the hungry and clothe the poor. However, as long as the approach is insisted upon, I cannot be true to my convictions and do other than vote against it.

4-H Cotton Champs are picked for 1960

Billy Nossmith, son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Nossmith of the Westside Community, was named first place winner in the Senior Cotton Production in the Southeast District, at the Bulloch-Half Cotton club meeting held at the 4-H Center.

Young Nossmith planted two bushels of Coker 100A certified seed on April 11, using 800 pounds of 5-10-15. The cotton was side dressed with 65 pounds of actual nitrogen. Following recommended practices in cultivation and insect control he produced 3122 pounds of seed cotton. Billy's reward for this accomplishment was a check for $20.00.

Bill Smith, the State Cotton Champion in 1959, was second in the District in 1960 with a production of 2617 pounds of seed cotton. Being state winner in 1959, Bill was not eligible for awards.

In the Junior Cotton Production Projects, Randy Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Smith, won second place with a yield of 1946 pounds of Seed Cotton, and was awarded a check for $15.00.

The Junior and Senior Cotton Production projects will be open again this year to 4-H boys and girls in Bulloch County. The State prize is 100 dollars and a 500 dollar Scholarship.

Farmers planted 561,000 acres of peanuts in 1959, of which 491,000 acres were picked and thrashed. The remainder, according to J. Frank McGill, Extension agronomist, were used mainly for hogging.

Events and developments since have served to strengthen that view and I have endeavored in speeches and statements to make it clear that my opposition is to indiscriminate foreign spending, particularly in the economic realm and not to the program of mutual security or the program of foreign aid. It is such a program which seeks to achieve the impossible and utopian end of making the world over in our own image.

Miss Faye Sanders is bride of
John Hollis Martin

Miss Faye Beverly Sanders of Statesboro, daughter of Elder C. E. Sanders and the late Addie Prosser Sanders, of Metter, and John Hollis Martin, son of Mrs. J. O. Alford and the late John Martin, were married Sunday, February 26, 3:30 p.m. at Lanes' Primitive Baptist Church.

Elder A. R. Crampton performed the double ring ceremony. Presenting the wedding music were Mrs. Milton Norris, pianist, and Miss Danilyn Lee, soloist.

Lighted candles in tree candelabra, centered with a sunburst arrangement of white gladioli and Easter lilies against a background of palms and a blackwood fern, added nuptial beauty.

The lovely brunette bride, given in marriage by her brother, L. D. Sanders of Brooklet, wore a gown of cloud silk tulle and rose point lace. The bodice featured a portrait neckline, lavished with pearls and iridescent sequins. Traditional long sleeves ended in points over her hands. Cabbage roses adorned the back of the voluminous skirt which extended to a chapel train. Her veil of pure silk illusion was attached to a Queen's Crown of pearls and sequins. She carried a white orchid showered with valley lilies on a white satin ribbon.

Mrs. Jerry Brown, matron of honor, wore a street length dress of delicate pink peau de soie, fashioned with a cummerbund terminating in a large butterfly bow in the back. Her hat was of pink silk illusion with a scalloped circular veil. She wore pink peau de soie mitts trimmed with pink tulle, and carried a semi-cascade bouquet of pink carnations tied with azalea ribbon.

The bridesmaids, Mrs. Horace Knight and Mrs. Cloyce T. Martin, wore dresses identical to that of the honor attendant with identical bouquets. Polly Russell, niece of the bride, was flower girl. Her dress was similar to the attendants. She carried a pink tulle basket filled with rose petals. The ring bearer, Tew Martin, wearing a tuxedo suit, carried the rings on a pink peau de soie pillow.

Cloyce Martin served as his brother's best man. Ushers were Aldrie F. Cox, Thos. Sanders, and Jimmy R. Phillips of Savannah and Jerry Brown of Jacksonville, Florida.

Mrs. Sanders wore a pure silk printed sheath, with green satin slippers and matching hat. She wore a yellow orchid. Mrs. J. O. Alford, mother of the groom wore a green linen sheath with black accessories. Her corsage was a purple orchid.

RECEPTION FOLLOWS
CHURCH SOCIAL ROOM

Immediately following the ceremony, the bride's parents entertained at a reception in the social room of the church.

Mrs. Minnie Lee Johnson met the guests and introduced them to the line composed of the bride and groom, their parents and the attendants.

The bride's table, with a floor length satin cloth, was decorated with a silver candelabrum centered with pink carnations. The three-tiered wedding cake was cut and served by Mrs. Jack Gardner.

The crystal punch bowl at another table was served by Mrs. Rebecca Jacobs, assisted Mrs. Jimmie DeLoach, Mrs. Norwood Bennett, Mrs. Bill Alderman and Miss Edna Tillman of Savannah, were guests Sunday of Mrs. H. L. Atkins.

Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Anderson visited Sunday night with Mr. and Mrs. D. Anderson.

N. W. Rowand attends meeting of Rockwell officials Feb. 20

Mr. N. W. Rowand, general manager of the Rockwell Statesboro Corporation, plans to visit Statesboro, Ga., on Monday, Feb. 20, to attend a meeting of the company's top management officials, including the general manager of Rockwell's twenty-six U. S. Canadian and West German plants, who attended the company's annual four-day Management Meeting at the Hotel Webster Hall in Pittsburgh, Pa., which began Monday, February 20.

Once a year Rockwell brings together its plant managers, division sales managers and headquarters staff to review the year just closed, discuss budgets for the new year, and to clarify management plans. The meeting, rather than routine sales meetings, represents an integral part of the company's communication program - particularly in portant in a diversified and centralized company like Rockwell.

According to Willard F. Rockwell, Jr., president, the meeting is "unique in industrial circles because of the open discussion and financial data to such a large group of management people."

"Last year one of our junior executives expressed surprise at the 'content' of the sessions and remarked that he thought such information was confined to a few of the top executive staff and the Board of Directors."

"But the broad disclosure of such information to people who, we believe, have a right to it has been a part of Rockwell policy for a long time. This policy of sharing information usually closely guarded arises from

KILL WIREWORMS and other soil insects with HEPTACHLOR INSECTICIDE

SAVE REPLANTING! INCREASE YIELDS!

KILL WIREWORMS with CHLORDANE IN TOBACCO TRANSPLANT WATER!

Wireworm damage causes considerable reseedling. It also causes stunting of many plants. This results in a low yield of poor quality tobacco. Heptachlor kills wireworms, and protects your valuable crop. Heptachlor also kills cutworms, white fringed beetle larvae, Japanese beetle larvae, mole crickets, seed corn maggot, billbugs, tobacco webworms, green June beetles, and many other soil insects.

WHEN TO APPLY—For best results, Heptachlor should be applied to tobacco 30 days before tobacco is set. This early application will allow for better distribution of insecticide in the soil. If weather conditions prevent earlier application, Heptachlor can be applied right before planting, but the results generally are not as satisfactory. Apply 2 pounds actual Heptachlor per acre broadcast. Application should not be made until the land has been plowed. Disc into the soil immediately after application.

HOW TO APPLY—Heptachlor is available as a liquid, dust, or granular. It can be purchased to suit the particular equipment you have on your farm. Large acreage can be treated with a tractor mounted sprayer or line sower. Small acreage can be treated easily with a hand-operated cyclone seeder.

conviction that the sound growth of our company depends to a great degree on the teamwork of the people who are directly interested in it. Teamwork, we believe, stems not only from sharing a common goal, but from sharing information pertinent to progress toward that goal. You tend to play a better game when you know what the score is."

Rockwell Manufacturing Company is a leading manufacturer of portable and stationary power tools; control devices such as valves, regulators and electric control system; and measuring devices such as petroleum, gas and water meters, parking meters, taximeters and voting machines.

Discussing the meeting N. W. Rowand, general manager of Statesboro, said, "This meeting is particularly valuable to the plant general managers not only because of the distance to the 'home' office for most plants but mainly because in the Rockwell organization the plant general managers are on their own to take sales peaks and valleys do not to a greater degree, perhaps, than in most companies. This is
