Our community enters a new era

Last week the citizens of our community were told about the coming of the Radar Bomb Scoring Unit of the Strategic Air Command to Statesboro, bringing sixty men, most of them with families.

Already a group of the unit's personnel is here, making their homes. In a short while the entire unit will have become a part of our community.

These young men and their families will have a great impact upon the economy of this community. The salaries they receive will represent "brand new wealth" and it will become a part of the city and county's economy.

The fine quality of these young men is recognized in those already here and it can be seen that they will find a welcome here.

On behalf of the community we say "thanks" to Mayor Bowen for the time and effort he expended in presenting the advantages and desirability of Statesboro as the site for this unit. He worked at it diligently and with patience. And the fact that Statesboro was selected is testimony to the fine presentation he made.

Now this week Mayor Bowen, Thad J. Morris, Ike Minkovitz, C. B. McAllister and W. G. Cobb Sr., who make up the industrial committee of the Bulloch County Development Corporation, join in making the announcement that a contract has been let for a $2,300,000 building to house a new industry which will employ approximately 300 people, sixty percent to be male workers.

Work is now under way on the building to be located on the Old River Road, just off U. S. 301, North, at the Ogeechee Lodge motor court.

The impact of these two announcements upon our community is beyond estimation. It is enough to say that it will be tremendous.

The contractors for the new building for the industry say they will use local labor as much as possible. The management of the new industry has assured the development corporation that Bulloch Countians will be given preference on jobs as far as local labor is available. And management plans to bring only four or five families to Statesboro.

The selection of Statesboro and Bulloch County as the site for this new industry was not accidental. Many months of careful study by those whose responsibility it was to find a site preceded their final decision. Much time and energy was spent by the officials of the Bulloch County Development Corporation in the presentation of Statesboro and Bulloch County's advantages and desirabilities as the site for the new industry.

And then in the final phase of the plans of the new industry to come here, the Statesboro and Bulloch County Chamber of Commerce joined forces with the Development Corporation and, following a mass meeting of the business and professional community, funds were raised to purchase the property upon which to locate the new industry. The community responded quickly and with enthusiasm.

With the completion of the new building for the new industry the economy of our city and county will be given a great boost. It will be felt in all segments of our community.

We commend all those who devoted so much of their time, their personal funds, and energies to secure for their community these new segments to our economy and to our community.

We commend them for the careful patience they exercised in assuring the community of a fine industry and the fine type of men attached to the SAC unit. They worked under the pressure of bringing here the finest that industry affords. And we believe they have succeeded. And to them we say "thanks on behalf of the entire community."

Now let's make the men and their families connected with SAC, and the management of the new industry know that they are welcome and that they will find their home here with us.

Mr Will Cromley gets Service Award

We're not surprised, for it's no more than he deserved, though he's the last one to admit that he should be recognized.

Senator Herman Talma made notified us last week that the U. S. Weather Bureau in Washington, D. C. has honored Mr. William C. Cromley, the Weather Bureau Cooperative Weather Observer. He has been awarded the John Campanius Holm Certificate for Faithful, Conscientious Service.

The award is based upon Mr. Cromley's service as a voluntary weather observer at Brooklet since September, 1910, carrying on the service established by his father, the late J. C. Cromley, in August, 1907.

We commend Mr. Cromley upon the recognition given him for his devoted public service performed without pay all these years.

STILL HANGING AROUND

This Week's Meditation

By Rev. Lawrence E. Houston Jr.

DR. PAUL REES, preaching in Holy Week services this year in Pittman Park Methodist Church, emphasized again and again the place of the Holy Spirit in the life of the Church today. He said: "As I grow older, I am convinced that we can do nothing as Christians apart from the power of His Holy Spirit." Do we believe this? Hasn't Christianity settled down to an easy existence as one of the major religions of the world? So much of the work of the Christian church in our times is done out of a sense of necessity rather than that out of a spirit of love and desire for God and mankind. Our loss of the power of the Spirit is indicative of our inability to challenge the Church and the world with the claims of Jesus Christ.

WE SAID LAST week one of our primary needs was to "return" and "learn." We must return to the record of the Book of the Acts of the Apostles, and we must learn from the experience of the early Christians the source of spiritual power. The first chapter of the Acts marks the preparation necessary for one to receive the Holy Spirit. Jesus commanded his disciples to wait. They were to tarry in Jerusalem until the coming of the Holy Spirit. He was saying to his followers: "You cannot do my work without my Spirit." He is saying that to us also.

Our present age believes in action. One discerning mind has observed: "We find it difficult to believe that time spent in waiting is not wasted time." Often we make all the necessary preparations for an effort except the most essential one: the preparation for the action of the Holy Spirit.

THE DISCIPLES waited in the upper room. They also devoted themselves to earnest prayer. Again, their activity makes us uncomfortable because we devote ourselves to everything else, but prayer. We know that the heart of the Christian life is "conversation with God," but we rarely take time to converse with Him.

Part of the preparation necessary for the coming of the Holy Spirit to our lives is to wait in the right place in the spirit of earnest prayer. How much of such preparation have we made?

AA helps those who come seeking help

By DR. JOHN MOONEY

ACCORDING to an old story there was once a salesman who fell in love with a beautiful cigarette girl, but thought he should have a character report before popping the question to her.

He hired a detective who made an investigation and rendered this report: "Fine reputation, regular church attendance, past without a blemish; has a circle of friends of excellent character, only breath of scandal is that lately she has been going around with a salesman of doubtful reputation."

The salesman may not have been an alcoholic, but he was showing a symptom that is characteristic of most alcoholics—a closed mind. He was looking for deficiencies in other people. At the same time he was not aware of, or chose to ignore, his own defects of character.

SOMEONE HAS SAID that evidence of a closed mind is a closed mind. Perhaps the most frequent is "fault-finding." Like the secretary who indignantly left her job with this comment:

There are many indications of a closed mind. People who frequent is "fault-finding." Like the secretary who indignantly left her job with this comment:

If there is any doubt in your mind about the activities of the American Legion in Statesboro and Bulloch County, read this report of their activities for their 1960-61 year.

Commander Walter J. Barry of Dexter Allen Post 90, Statesboro American Legion reports that Post 90 had one of the best years in its history during 1960-1961. The Post had an all time high in membership of 590 members, which per capita is the highest percentage in the State of Georgia.

Under the leadership of Commander Barry the Post achieved the following under the four cornerstones of the purpose of the American Legion, which are Rehabilitation, Child Welfare, Americanism, and National Defense.

Contributed $88.89 to Georgia Southern College for use under the National Defense Student Loan Program, which, when matched with Federal funds, made almost $9,000.00 available for student loans for tuition.

Defrayed the expenses of delegates to State and National Legion meetings in furtherance of veterans benefits amounting to $855.63. Invested $600 in the American Legion Junior Baseball Program through the local Recreation Department. Contributed $177.00 to Statesboro High School Band fund. Christmas parties for members and their families amounted to $598.64. Spent $202.17 in observance of Veterans Day, November 11, 1960.

Sent eleven Bulloch County High School boys to the American Legion's Boys State program which teaches them the principles of democracy and a democratic state is operated at a cost of $385.00. Purchased a portable public address system which is available for use by all local civic and fraternal organizations for $318.93.

Spent $1,439.10 on direct aid to local veterans and their families, aid to veterans in VA Hospitals in Georgia, help in some of the American Legion Auxiliary Programs, and various other Legion projects and community services. Spent $2,727.61 on improvement to Post Home.

Post 90 also sponsored a Sunday morning radio program aid to local veterans and their families, aid to veterans in VA Hospitals in Georgia, help in some of the American Legion Auxiliary Programs, and various other Legion projects and community services.

Without any doubt this country is rapidly approaching a new form of Government. Day by day we move closer to the kind of Government found in Germany in the early days before World War II. We are a Democratic Socialist Government, or at least we seem rapidly heading in that direction. In Germany in the late 1800's the idea was known as Social Democracy.

Before such a Government can become in complete control of the people of a nation it must through decree and various laws which must be used to eliminate the system of lesser governments found within its jurisdiction. There are those in Washington who are rapidly moving in that direction.

FOR A LONG TIME I have believed that such a movement in the United States would not be allowed by the people to pass beyond a certain point. There would be a successful effort to turn back toward a more real Democracy. I even believed that such a movement in Washington did not have in mind the complete subjugation of the rights of the states.

What parents do with their children during the summer will greatly influence the type of school work they do in the fall. School slowly passed the car. They had purchased a "balloon man" from a man on the street corner. One child held the "balloon man" while the other held the instructions. She read quite well and I could not help wondering that many children had many experiences where reading was a real part of them.

SHOULD IT SEEM that reading is being over-stressed, just stop and think how our lives are influenced by our ability or inability to read.

But there are other good things to do this summer. The Teacher's Edition of "My Weekly Reader," a "May" following suggestions:

"Read and share Summer Weekly Reader with parents, brothers and sisters. Read at least one library book a week. Read aloud (some) each day. Spring-clean your library. Go over your library and have a back-yard exchange of books no longer wanted. Organize the remaining books into categories: fiction, biography, poetry, and so on. Mend damaged books. Make an appropriate bookmark for each book.

Keep a diary to record experiences, books read, summer gains in height and weight, visits made, guests entertained, trips taken.

"Write letters, stories, plays, crossword puzzles, riddles. Make plays out of Summer Weekly Reader stories and act them out.

"Learn to do something you could not do before—to weave, sketch, cook, sew, paint, swim, grow flowers, make kites, create puppets, carve soap.

"Identify five native birds; five wild flowers; five native trees; cirrus cumulus, and stratus clouds; prominent constellations, planets, and stars.

"BE A SPECIALIST in rope tricks, science experiments, cooky making, puppetry, walking on your hands, storielling, bird watching, or whistling.

"Collect stamps, old coins, buttons, colored cards, shells, maps, unusual names of streets, and roads, state car license and every illness or death where drinking is involved.

It is also an impenetrable barrier to the alcoholics and the agencies who are trying to help him. Even Alcoholics Anonymous cannot help until the victim can open his mind, we bit and say to himself: "Maybe, just maybe, part of my trouble could be due to drinking."

Rockwell Award is Sonny Granger's

N. W. Rowan, General Manager, Rockwell Manufacturing Company announced that Sonny Granger of Statesboro High School is the winner of the Rockwell Manufacturing Company prize this year being an 8" Delta Tilting Arbor Saw. Sonny's prize winning entry was a Hi-Fi set and is a beautiful piece of workmanship. Elements considered in the judging were workmanship, appearance, originality, finishing methods, and drop procedure.

Part winners in the annual contest have been Jack Webb, 1960, Walnut China Cabinet; Fred Shearouse, 1959, Hi Fi; James Webb, 1958, Radio; Photograph; Marie Turner, 1957, Gun Cabinet.

Mr. Rowan states the students, their instructors, and principals are to be commended for the progress made in the last few years.

sharper. Actually they are duller. To themselves they are witty. To others they are corny. Imagined courage and brilliance is really recklessness and stupidity.

AND WHAT IS MOST important, when very, very drunk, they think they are sober.

One man at an AA meeting told this story about himself: "Not being able to remember what had happened the night before because of blackouts," he said, "I decided one time to write myself a note as the evening was drinking went on. On a Saturday morning, while fighting weeds and a hang-over in my back yard, I reached absentmindedly into my pocket and found a small piece of paper, folded twice. Opening it, I barely recognized a scrawl that proved to be in my own handwriting. It read: '12 o'clock—sober as a judge.'"

THIS CLOSING of the mind to self examination, this self-deception, seems to be the major factor in the trouble resulting from alcoholism. Called dishonesty, lying to oneself, it hampers the mind and leads to every divorce, every vehicle accident, every job loss, every court conviction, every physical illness or death where drinking is involved.

It is also an impenetrable barrier to the alcoholics and the agencies who are trying to help him. Even Alcoholics Anonymous cannot help until the victim can open his mind, we bit and say to himself: "Maybe, just maybe, part of my trouble could be due to drinking."

Vive la difference!

AND WHAT A DIFFERENCE! Food cooked in a modern electric oven just seems to taste better, and it's such a pleasure to prepare.

When you cook electrically, your kitchen remains as cool as an ocean breeze. Electricity delivers the heat to the food—not the kitchen—leaving you cool and fresh.

Because of even heat and pinpoint control, electricity guards the flavor and goodness of foods. Your favorite meats and vegetables simmer in their natural juices, preserving precious vitamins and minerals.

Electric cooking is wonderfully convenient. And you'll be pleasantly surprised at the low cost. You can cook a meal for a family of four for only about two cents worth of electricity.

For fast heat and perfect temperature control... as well as comfort, convenience and economy... nothing cooks as well as electricity. Why not try it yourself?

School is out... Happy Vacation

By MRS. W. H. MORRIS

Today school is out. I know there are a lot of mixed feelings among the graduates. Many of them have made close friends of other communities and will miss seeing and being together every day as they do while in school, and a good many will be going to college to further their education in the fall. Some of them will be going to work after they finish this school, and yes a few will be getting married.

Anyway, whatever they plan to do, we want to wish them the very best luck in whatever they choose to do. May God Bless them all. May I say congratulations and Best Wishes to each one of you, especially to the seven Honor Graduates at Southeast Bulloch High, Miss Mary Alice Belcher, Miss Patricia Ann Bunkley, Miss Sarah Ruth Gillenwater, John Oscar Martin, Miss Henrietta Royal, Miss Lillian Morris, Miss Patricia Linda Strickland.

MRS. JOSEPH E. CARRUTH stands with F. Everett Williams, Dr. Zack Henderson and Dr. Donald F. Hackett at the open house of the Joseph E. Carruth Arts and Industrial Building. This ceremony officially named the beautiful new addition to the campus.

Carruth Building Is Officially Opened

Dr. Zach S. Henderson, president of Georgia Southern College, officially named the new Arts and Industrial Building for the late Dr. Joseph E. Carruth in a ceremony during open house Sunday evening, May 20.

Before a large audience, including Dr. Carruth's widow and four of her five sons, Dr. Henderson described Carruth as "a dedicated educator and a Christian gentleman in the truest sense of the word."

Dr. Donald F. Hackett, chairman of the division of Arts, gave background information and a description as follows: This building is the result of a grant by former governor Marvin Griffin to provide an expanded program of Industrial Education for industrial Georgia.

This grant was obtained through the efforts of our own Everett Williams, then Senator, and which have earned him a lasting place in its history.

The motivation for this grant was provided by Dr. Zach S. Henderson, president of Georgia Southern College, whose leadership and far-sightedness have spurred this college and one of regional importance to one of national reputation.

This building represents over two years of intensive research and planning by the members of the division of arts which is housed here. It represents another two years of tortuous anticipation while awaiting its construction.

The building contains approximately 37,000 square feet of floor area. With a value of more than a half million dollars, this addition to Georgia Southern College provides facilities for the most up-to-date instruction in Art and Industrial Education.

It contains laboratories for research and study in six major industrial areas, namely, drafting, painting, sculpture, elementary teacher art education, art appreciation and history, ceramics and a variety of crafts.

The various programs offered here lead to a B.S. degree in Art Education or Industrial Arts Education, a master's degree in Industrial Education, and a newly inaugurated six-year program of specialization in Industrial Education, and a two-year program of industrial technology.

Miss Gladys Waller, assistant professor of education, currently at Marvin Pittman School, received her B.S. from Georgia State College for Women and her M.S. from George Peabody College.

Mr. James Walter Lynch is a temporary assistant professor of math. He received his B.A. degree from the University of Georgia as well as his M.A. degree from the University of Alabama. He also served as a graduate assistant at the Aberdeen Proving Grounds as a mathematical technician.

Two new administrative members have been added to the staff and have been previously mentioned in the George-Ann. They are Mr. W. H. Hancock, who will serve as the new Dean of Men and Mr. Lloyd L. Joyner, as Registrar.

Mr. Hancock is a native of Georgia and is presently doing independent research on an improved Motivational Performance Test.

Mr. Joyner's hometown is Perkins, Georgia. He is presently serving as president of the First District High School Principals' Association and an executive secretary, Region 2-B.

Peabody College. A native of Swainsboro, he taught in the public schools of Brunswick and Swainsboro before coming to Marvin Pittman. In 1954, she was selected by the Marvin Pittman faculty as the Teacher of the Year.

For the past six years, Miss Waller has been teaching in the elementary curriculum workshop during the summers at Georgia Southern College and at Mercer University. She was director of the workshop at Georgia Southern College and will serve in the same position again this summer prior to joining the full-time faculty in September.

for faster, more economical curing!

High temperature flue or radiant pot type curing bakes tobacco . . . leaves brittle, "cooked out," leaves, Gasstobac's low temperature curing system avoids extreme heat, dries your tobacco faster, safely, evenly. Air pulled in through bottom vents is heated at a low temperature, then rises through the tobacco. This warm, even flow of air picks up moisture from the leaves, carries it out the top vent. With Gasstobac curing, more of the valuable gums and oils remain in the leaf . . . produces a cleaner, heavier-bodied leaf that brings higher price at the market.

Gasstobac ventilators have a direct one-pull outside control for easy, accurate setting.

Farmers begin to fight cotton bugs thinking about getting at least two or maybe three applications of a recommended insecticide on their cotton, beginning this week, if they have not already started.

We now have the widest selection of good insecticides for cotton insects that we have ever known, but some of them are more effective against certain insects than others. On some farms ticks cause a lot of damage to cotton, while on small, and reduce early fruiting. Toxaphene is used by many farmers for checking thrips, and at the same time they get rid of most of the early weevils. Two applications of toxaphene at seven day intervals will usually bring thrips under control.

When overwintered weevils are found in the cotton fields it is best to apply three applications of insecticide about seven days apart, and then wait until infestation is observed after cotton begins putting on squares. Proper timing of applications of insecticide during fruiting season of the cotton is very important, and our entomologists recommend at least 4 applications five days apart to effectively control weevils and possibly boll worms.

Extension circular dealing with Cotton Insects is available at the County Agents' office and gives information on proper amounts of all insecticides now being recommended for controlling weevils, boll worms, and spider and other cotton insects.

Poultry and poultry products accounted for about 63 percent of the total receipts from livestock in Georgia last year, according to the Georgia Crop Reporting Service.

The Georgia poultry industry used 900,000 pounds of soybean meal last year, reports Extension Agronomist J. R. Johnson.

Sealing Silo
Reduce feed loss

Plastic covers that seal bunkers or silos reduce feed losses much more than might be indicated by comparing the spoilage losses in these silos with those in unsealed bunkers.

More significant — but less obvious — is the reduction made possible by use of plastic covers, in silage losses caused by seepage and by gas. The latter is an invisible loss not due to spoilage or seepage.

In addition to about half as much silage spoilage, a sealed bunker at USDA's Agricultural Research Center, Beltsville, Md., had less than half the seepage and gas losses of a comparable unsealed bunker.

Visible spoilage in sealed and unsealed bunkers actually accounted for about one-seventh the total dry feed loss in a 2-year period experiment. The visible spoilage layer never exceeded 3 inches in thickness, even in the unsealed bunker.

Orchardgrass ensiled in the unsealed bunker lost 37.1 percent of its dry matter compared to a loss of only 19.1 percent in the sealed one.

The loss rate for 1960, including lightning damage not always resulting in fire, averaged 14.2 percent of the total dry matter available at the end of the year. This compared with a rate of 14.8 percent for 1959.

Building losses were about 65 percent of total loss payments by companies for which a breakdown by property class was available. Almost three-fourths of the building losses were on main buildings—dwelling houses, barns, etc.—and about 15 percent from lightning.

On this basis, the cost of the aggregate loss payments resulted from fire and about 19 percent from lightning. The only criterion for judging the value of the seals, however, the covers wouldn't have appeared economical.

Much of the higher seepage loss from the unsealed bunker was due to moisture from the leaves, carried out the top vent. Precipitation leached nutrients out.

On the other hand, seepage measurements from the sealed bunker revealed that silage juices exuded for the only moisture loss.

The sealed bunker saved more feed and produced better silage. Feed from the sealed bunker was preferred by dairy cattle to feed from the unsealed bunker and lost less weight than cattle fed from the unsealed bunker. Seals used in the study were anchored to the surface of the silage by covering with 3 inches of sawdust.

Spanish moss in pecan trees

Spanish moss, or common gray moss, has become a pest in many pecan trees of South Georgia.

This moss is not truly a moss, but is a member of the pineapple family. It obtains its nutrients from the air, dew, and rain, and from the tree, however, when it is present in large amounts, the shading causes considerable leaf damage.

Moss is most troublesome in cases where recommended spraying and fertilization practices have not been followed. It is also frequent in abandoned groves.

Where Spanish moss is a problem one dormant application of spray material per year for three years will practically eliminate the pest. Use 10 pounds of Calypso per 100 gallons of water and apply as a dormant spray during February or early March.

Many commercial egg producers and firms have already felt the effects of hot weather — right in the pocketbook. Following recommended practices for maintaining egg quality can prevent these profit losses.

Basically, the problem of quality centers around temperature control. Other factors such as humidity, age of bird, etc., effect quality, but temperature is still the most important factor.

At the farm proper refrigeration is the prime requirement for maintaining quality. Coolers or daily delivery to the processing plant are not substitutes for farm cooling. The most rapid rate of quality breakdown takes place in the 24 hours after eggs are laid. This refrigeration is most necessary to pull down the temperature of the eggs during these early hours.

These points for developing your quality control program:

1. Gather eggs 4 to 5 times early in the day.
2. Clean eggs properly and cool immediately.
3. Pack eggs with small vent at 55 degrees F. or lower.
4. If possible, maintain a relative humidity of 75 percent.
5. Pack eggs with small vent down in precooled cases.
6. Transport in insulated or refrigerated truck.

Building losses were about 65 percent of total loss payments by companies for which a breakdown by property class was available. Almost three-fourths of the building losses were on main buildings—dwelling houses, barns, etc.—and about 15 percent from lightning.

On this basis, the cost of the aggregate loss payments resulted from fire and about 19 percent from lightning. The only criterion for judging the value of the seals, however, the covers wouldn't have appeared economical.

A Prize-Winning Newspaper 1960 Better Newspaper Contests

VOLUME XX—Established March 26, 1937—P.O. Box 210

THERE HAVE BEEN SOME CHANGES MADE—The Herald photographer visited the site of the new industry coming to Bulloch County and caught these huge earth movers at work, changing the looks of the land. Work on clearing and grading the property off U. S. 301, North, near the Ogeechee Lodge motor courts got under way on Tuesday of last week.

US House committee approves funds for new Statesboro PO

Funds for new public buildings and veterans hospitals in twenty-two cities — including Statesboro — were recommended Friday, June 2, by the House Appropriations Committee as it approved two money bills amounting to $14,412,644.000.

The public building for Statesboro is the new federal building to house the Statesboro post office and all federal agencies in the county.

The General Services Administration's $335,390.00 allotment included $171.6 million to construct new federal buildings in thirteen states one of which is Georgia including Statesboro and Windsor.

The estimated cost of the building for Statesboro is $761,000.

The architects, Stevens and Wilkinson of Atlanta, are already at work on the design for the building. A perimeter survey has already been made of the property recommended for the building on North Main Street at Sharpe Street.

According to Dr. William H. Hitchcock, director, counselor education, the following procedure will be used in working with students: (1) The student will meet with the counselor at an appointed time for an initial interview. (2) Tests will be administered if they are needed. (3) A summary of the interview will be made in light of the particular concern the student has presented. (4) A written report will be sent to the student for personal reference.

The time involved will vary depending on the number of tests the student will take. It is anticipated that from 4 to 8 hours would be sufficient in the majority of cases.

Those who are interested may call Mrs. Anna Parrish at PO 4-3410 and sign up for the experience.

Legion sends eleven Bulloch boys to Georgia Boys State

Dexter Allen Post No. 90, The American Legion is sending eleven Bulloch County high school boys to Georgia Boys State at the University of Georgia on June 11, according to Post Commander Walter J. Barry. The boys will be among some 320 juniors from other high schools in Georgia spending the week of June 11-17 at Georgia Boys State.

A national program of The American Legion, Boys State is a course of instruction in, and practical application of, fundamental principles and procedures of city, county and state government under the American system.

Boys going to Boys State are selected because of their qualifications as top-ranking boys from the standpoint of leadership, character and scholarship as citizens. While at Boys State the citizens will elect their political party officials and their city, county and state government officials who will actually perform their respective duties. Religious services and supervised athletics are part of each daily program in addition to the instructions in government and court procedures.

Through this program The American Legion is endeavoring to prepare our youth for their role as our community, state and national leaders in the future years.

Francis Trappnell of Post No. 90, who has been on the staff at Georgia Boys State each year since 1956, will be there with the boys again this year.

Bulloch county retail sales for first quarter total $5,787,864

Retail sales in Bulloch county for the first quarter of 1961, January, February and March — totaled $5,787,864 which is $146,171 less than the same quarter of 1960 when sales were $5,934,035.

Total sales for the year, 1960, were $24,761,010, which was $1,087,295 more than for 1959 when sales were $23,673,716.

Bulloch County held its position in the 1959 counties in the state for the first quarter. For the fourth quarter, 1960, the county was thirty-third in sales and held that same position for the first quarter of 1961. For the third quarter in 1960 the county held thirty-second position in the state.

Retail sales for the first quarter in 1961 of some of the other counties are as follows: Candler, $1,791,383; Coffee (Douglas), $5,847,373; Emanuel (Swainsboro), $4,268,809; Evans (Claxton), $3,914,809; Screven (Sylvania), $3,132,376; Wayne (Jesup), 5,942,081.

Since the Herald began keeping records on the county's retail sales in 1953, the year-by-year totals are as follows:

The retail sales figures are based on the actual bank deposits of the Georgia State Sales and Use Tax collections and are furnished through the cooperation of the Georgia Department of Revenue. Sales and Use Tax Unit, the Georgia Department of Labor and the Georgia State Chamber of Commerce. In some cases, the figures may not reflect an entirely accurate economic picture of a particular county because of collections of delinquent taxes, lump sum tax payments on large purchases of building equipment, etc. The figures represent only the taxable sales within any given county.)

Kiwanis Club to sponsor driver training course

Announcement is made this week that the Statesboro Kiwanis Club will sponsor a driver training program for boys and girls who are fifteen years old and older.

The course will start Monday, June 12, at 9 a.m. at the Statesboro High School. The class will meet each morning, Monday through Friday, for six weeks. Mr. Troy Mallard will be the instructor for the course. A training car will be available for the training. To complete the course, a student must have thirty hour class room work and six hours driving practice.

There will be a fee for the course of $20 per student, and a minimum of two students must register for the course.

The members of the Kiwanis Club feel that the Driver Training Program would mean much for safer driving.

The automobile insurance companies think well of the program and give a reduced rate to those who complete the driver training program, according to the sponsors.
