These cars could deliver top performance with only 8 of Super Shell's 9 ingredients. But they'll soon need the ninth. Do you know why?

If car engines could stay clean as new, they'd get along fine without Shell's TCP additive. But harmful deposits start building up the moment your car leaves the showroom—and can soon cut power and mileage. TCP works to keep that from happening. Here's how.

THE ENGINE of every car on the road has combustion chamber deposits. Nothing can stop them from forming. They're the inevitable result of combustion.

If your car has only a couple of thousand miles on it you probably won't know the deposits are there. But once they've built up, they can be rough on performance. Fortunately, something can be done about that. Shell's TCP additive does it.

engine. When certain types of deposits get hot enough, they can heat spark plugs to the point of igniting the fuel themselves.

These premature explosions are forms of pre-ignition. They give your pistons a terrific hammering. Your power falls off. And so does your mileage.

Instead of purring smoothly, your engine falters—and costs you money.

How TCP prevents trouble

New, improved TCP in today's Super Shell gasoline literally alters these combustion chamber deposits. It "fireproofs" them so they no longer glow red hot.

Result: top performance. And a new, new improved TCP can help spark plugs last up to twice as long.

NOTE: TCP can improve the performance of many older cars. Tests have shown that it helps restore power lost to harmful combustion deposits—and can add up to 17 miles per tankful.

9-ingredient formula

TCP is just one of Super Shell's nine ingredients. To get an idea of how all nine contribute to top performance, run your eye over the list at the right.

And try a couple of tankfuls yourself. If you do it soon, you'll get Super Shell's Hot Weather Blend. It's specially formulated to give your car top performance in summer. And that's a reassuring thing to know when you're out driving on a sizzling day.

Super Shell's 9 ingredients for top performance

- #1 is TCP—for power, mileage, and longer plug life.
- #2 is Pentane mix—for fast warm-ups.
- #3 is anti-knock mix—for knock resistance.
- #4 is Alkylate to control "high-speed knock."
- #5 is Butane—for quick starts.
- #6 is "cat-cracked" gasoline—for power.
- #7 is an "anti-icer." Added when cold weather sets in.
- #8 is gum preventive—for clean carburetors.
- #9 is Platformate for extra mileage.

*TCP is a trademark of Shell International Chemical Company. Shell's TCP is covered by U.S. Patent 2899212.

The world at our door through the Bookmobile

One hundred and fifty-six thousand, six hundred and sixty-two books passed through the hands of citizens of Bulloch and Bryan Counties from July 1, 1960, through June 30, 1961.

That's many a book, and the amazing thing about the figure is that 100,455 of them were put into the hands of our citizens through the Bookmobile which travels up and down, and all 'round, stopping at homes, corner stores, schools, and wherever there's a person whose desire for reading can be fulfilled only by a book.

Many citizens in our county depend entirely upon the Bookmobile. It brings the world to their door. It is a service of which the city and county and school board can be proud of sharing with their people.

And credit for the quality of this service goes to the Statesboro Regional Library and those who are responsible for its services to the community.

The Bloodmobile is here this afternoon

Today is Thursday, August 17. So what?

So, it's the day the Regional Red Cross Bloodmobile is here to collect whole blood that those who need it might have a better opportunity to hang on to life.

So it's the day the Bloodmobile is here that you might be given an opportunity to contribute a pint of your blood, so that you might build up a "credit" in the Blood Bank against the time when you or a member of your family might find that blood is the difference between life and death.

So it's the day the Bloodmobile is here that you might do a service to mankind, not for profit, not for any other reason except that you just want to do something good.

It's at the Recreation Center on Fair Road. It'll be there from 1 p.m. until 6 p.m.

The Bloodmobile is in Statesboro today, August 17. Visit it!

For safety's sake, be careful

Ten people were killed in Bulloch County during the year 1960. This is seven less than were killed in the county during 1959.

The figures were released this week by the Georgia State Patrol, State Department of Safety. There is no accounting for the difference. But figures can be made to say what one would like for them to say. So we could argue that the local police and the State Patrol are doing a better job of patrolling the highways in the county. We could say that drivers were more careful during 1960 than they were in 1959. We could check weather conditions and decide that driving conditions were more favorable during 1960 than 1959.

There were less traffic accidents in 1960 than there were in 1959 too. The records show 147 accidents in 1960 and 164 in 1959 resulting in 96 injuries in 1960 and 104 injuries in 1959.

Whatever the reasons be for these reductions, we must not let the trend change.

For safety's sake, be careful.

How to stop a strike in 10 seconds

The other day, in the town of Dagenham, England, a normally meek housewife with the grand old name of Smith broke up a strike against the American-owned Ford Motor Company plant.

For one long week, Mrs. Evelyn Smith listened to the yak-yak of the strike leaders, meanwhile watching the stoppage cut into the family savings.

"I'm an ordinary wife of a Ford worker," she said, "and I think I'm entitled to speak - WHY DON'T YOU ALL GO BACK TO WORK?"

There were scattered boos and catcalls. But Mrs. Smith had scored. In a subsequent vote, the strikers elected to defy their leaders and return to work.

Said Mrs. Smith: "I was fed up seeing my husband sitting around miserable at home. The union leaders don't represent the men any more."

Said husband Smith: "I'm proud of her."

Wish Mrs. Smith would take the next U.S.-bound jet. We sure could use her.

Highway 'Litterbugs'

Cost you money

"Litterbugs" are costing the Georgia Highway Department at least a half-million dollars a year, according to Chairman Jim Gillis. And that is tax money that is taken from YOU and YOU and YOU.

He said that the mountains of trash that thoughtless people throw out along the highway are an eyesore and a tax-drain as well. "The half-million dollar figure is only a conservative estimate, he added.

Maintenance Engineer J. O. Bacon said the two main offenders are beer cans and soft drink bottles, a hazard to motorists as well as maintenance personnel.

Before we get off on a tirade against the tourists, drive along some of our own country roads, and see for yourself. And then remember that what you throw out becomes somebody else's opinion of our town and county.

Most famous person, Dr. E. M. Jellinek, founder of the Yale Institute for Alcohol Studies and world authority on the disease.

And, it is costing you money. That's where the real bite comes - and it should make everyone conscious of it.

Don't be a "Litterbug." Help keep Georgia clean!

THE VALUE OF HONEST DOUBT

As a minister of human beings, and being somewhat human myself, I take advantage of this opportunity as guest columnist to talk about a subject that to some extent affects all of us. This is doubt.

From time to time, people confine in me some of their doubts. Since I am a minister of the Church, more often than not, they talk about their doubts concerning religion. They express doubt as to whether or not God exists, if the miracles of Jesus and concerning Jesus could be true. Some doubt if man has any real relationship to God, and others doubt if it makes any difference. In this limited space, I don't intend to comment on these specific things. I do want to comment on the value of honest doubt.

FIRST, LET US NEVER confuse honest doubt with agnosticism. The word 'agnosticism,' first coined by Thomas Huxley in 1869, means, "I do not know, and there is simply no way in which I can ever find out." For Huxley, doubting had come to an end.

Actually some degree of doubt is necessary before we can affirm that something is true. Have you ever doubted that two and two are four? Well, try it. Doubt that it is true, and you are not denying that it is true, you are merely asking the question, "Is it true?" Take apples, or anything else, and place two of them aside. Near these place two more. Now count the apples in the two piles - four. Repeat it with oranges, etc. and prove it. Of course, this is so simple that no one need actually go through the motions. Yet the value of honest doubt is, in this instance, that you can say to anyone, "I don't JUST believe that two plus two are four. I have proven it for myself and I KNOW it to be true."

UNFORTUNATELY, not everything in life is as simple as 2 plus 2 equals 4. Much of life deals with things that cannot be weighed, or handled, or counted as apples can be. Matters of love, true friendship, faith in God, questions of what is right, etc. are not things that can be weighed with a scale, or measured with a yardstick. This is where many of us run into trouble.

Most of us never raise doubts about most of the things of life. We just don't have the time or the interest. While I'm interested in the engineering and mechanics of an automobile, I don't care how TV works, I just watch it.

AT TIMES, HOWEVER, all of us do have doubts about some things. What should we do about these doubts? You can do one of three things: 1. Try to forget these doubts and attempt to accomplish things on blind faith. 2. Say there is no answer possible and deny the things that you doubt. 3. Seek for answers to these doubts. I suggest that when honest doubts do arise, that you seek for answers. Maybe they can be found.

The value of honest doubting is that once you have found an answer, you can humbly, but boldly, affirm that it is true because you not only feel it to be true, but you know it. As one who has honestly doubted the existence of God and the reality of any spiritual life, let me say that I not only believe in God, but I know that God exists, and that He, through Christ, saves me and all who will acknowledge Him. This is not only belief, but it is knowledge based upon reason and experience. If you have ever travelled down that road of doubting the existence of God and the possibility of the miraculous, my prayer for you is that you too will come to true knowledge of God and His redeeming love.

On second thought, you'd better go ahead and mow the lawn and be careful with your toes.

Which reminds us that a garden is a thing of beauty and a job forever.

It came up one day recently while we were in the barber shop. One of our friends who has the right answer to those who would chide him about the billiard ball state of his head said, "Well, it's neat."

Miss Anne Fulmer is married to Raymond Hammond

Miss Anne Elizabeth Fulmer became the bride of Raymond Gibson Hammond Jr., Sunday, August 13 at 4:00 p.m. in the First Baptist Church.

Barbara Page Brunson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hoke S. Brunson and John Marshall Jackson, son of Dr. and Mrs. John Marshall Jackson, were married Saturday evening, August 12 at the First Baptist Church in Statesboro. The double ring ceremony was performed by the bride's grandfather, Rev. L. P. Glass assisted by Dr. Robert Smith, pastor of the church.

Mrs. William S. Smith, organist, presented a program of wedding music and accompanied Bernard Morris as he sang, "Entrust Me Not to Leave Thee," by Gounod and "The Lord's Prayer."

A majestic arrangement of white gladioli and chrysanthemums with white satin ribbons and cascades of frosted bells was against a background of palms and Emerald fern trees illuminated with myriads of lighted candles in tree candelabra was the setting for the nuptials.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was lovely in a formal gown by white duclat fitted bodice with delicate fitting midriff was fashioned with a modified sabrina neckline and bracelet sleeves, all heavily embroidered with miniature pearls and crystal beads. The bell skirt was softly pleated and accented at the back by an obi bow and a Dior rose and cascaded into a chapel train.

Leroy Bird and son put on cotton gin demonstration

By ANN HENDRIX

A demonstration was given at Leroy T. Bird and Son Gin-nery in Portal on Wednesday afternoon, August 2, showing the effectiveness of the new ginning system which they have just completed installing.

Four bales of extremely rough, trashy and machine picked cotton were ginned to demonstrate the cleaning ability of the equipment. A large group of farmers attended the demonstration. Comments from those attending were highly complimentary of the sample of the cotton.

This modern Lummus ginning system for hand and especially mechanically picked cotton consists of New Super 88 double moting gins, New S. R. Ther-mex extractor, double lint cleaning, stick and green leaf machine, drier, and several other machines for cleaning and drying machine and hand picked cotton.

Conducting the very impressive demonstration were factory personnel from the Lummus Cotton Gin Company home office in Columbus. They were Mr. R. A. Briscoe, Sales Representative and engineer, and Mr. Charles Campbell, Field Demonstration and Serviceman. Leroy T. Bird and Son Gin-nery is owned and operated by Leroy T. Bird and Richard E. THE FACT THAT today's food dollar will purchase only 38.9 cents of the groceries it would buy in 1939 is evidence of what inflation already has done to the American economy. According to calculations made by economists of U. S. News and World Report, the man who has an income of $1,860 to be

in Georgia has increased

Acrogea planted in Coastal Bermuda in Georgia has increased greatly in recent years. Perhaps you have some pasture land growing this grass. Here are some new facts you may want to know about Coastal Bermuda.

1. Research during the past three years at the Southern Piedmont Experiment Station, Athens, shows that winter kill of Coastal Bermuda was most severe on plots that had received combinations of high nitrogen and low potassium fertilization.

2. As the amount of nitrogen increased, winter kill caused progressively more damage — particularly on plots that received no potash fertilization.

3. Excessive nitrogen without adequate potash, over stimulates the grass, making it

Lime essential in producing top crop

By ROY POWELL
County Agent

Just as oil is necessary for top performance of a tractor engine, lime is essential for top crop production. Here are some reasons why you should use lime for your crops:

Lime corrects soil acidity. Lining an acid soil is a must for the growth of legumes such as alfalfa. Lining is necessary for highest yields of most non-legumes such as cotton and corn.

Lime supplies plant nutrients. All plants need calcium and magnesium for growth. On soils low in one or both of these plant nutrients, the use of lime materials containing these elements will increase per acre yields.

More susceptible to winter injury. Potash is effective in hardening the plant material. This makes the grass more hardy.

4. Farmers should take soil samples to determine the potash level in Coastal fields. Low potash conditions can then be remedied with high potash fertilizers such as 5-10-15 or 0-10-20.

Lime makes other plant nutrients more available. Acid soils lock up some plant nutrients, especially phosphorus. Lining a strongly acid soil will unlock these plant nutrients and make them more available to growing plants.

Lime promotes bacterial activity. Bacteria are the life of a soil. They are responsible for breaking down organic matter (such as corn and cotton stalks) in the soil and also for making soil nitrogen more available. Since most bacteria cannot live in a very acid soil, lining acid soils increases bacterial activity.

So you see lime is very important for successful crop production. The amount of lime used will depend upon several things: (1) the kind of crop grown, (2) the type of soil and (4) the amount of organic matter.

The only way to find out the lime needs for a particular soil and crop is to have a soil test made. You may overline if you guess at how much you need. So don't guess, soil test your lime requirements.

For further information ask your county for Extension Circular 455, "Lime, Your Key to Hidden Profits."

By PROVOKING A crisis over Berlin, Nikita Khrushchev unwittingly has done the American people a great favor.

The threats of the Soviet Dictator and President Kennedy's firm and forthright response that the United States will not be bluffed by them have shattered complacency in this country as nothing else could have done. The situation as it has developed has imparted a needed sense of urgency to efforts to build a defense establishment of sufficient size and capacity to meet and turn back any assault of any magnitude which the Russians may decide to unleash. It has forced a recognition on the part of those in high places that freedom cannot be defended successfully by substituting dollar diplomacy for ready divisions.

THERE IS NO place in a struggle for survival such as that in which we are engaged for weakness, vacillation or appeasement and the Russians had read all three into our previous policies characterized by reaction and retreat in the face of their repeated successes in whipsawing us from crisis to crisis. Soviet Ambassador McShirkov had smugly observed that the Americans would not fight for Berlin.

Khrushchev now is on notice that not only did his Ambassador sadly miscalculate the temper of the American people but also that he, by his own belligerence, has aroused them to the point of proving it. At long and refreshing last the tables have been turned on the Kremlin and it now is up to the Soviets to react to our action for a change. Whether they put up or back down, they will brand themselves as either the aggressors or buffers they are.

The new American posture will also mean that this nation will be prepared to negotiate the Berlin and other world issues from a position of strength. Mr. Kennedy correctly and effectively left the door to the conference room open, provided Khrushchev is willing to enter it in the spirit of the protestations of good intentions which he often avows but has yet to demonstrate.

SO LONG AS Berlin remains a divided city 110 miles within the territory of Communist East Germany it will continue to pose a threat to world peace. That fact alone makes it absolutely essential that, while we must and will fight to uphold our treaty rights there, we must continue to explore every possible avenue for resolving with honor an intolerable legacy of the fuzzy diplomacy which accompanied and followed World War II.

The American people have always been long-suffering and for bearing in their foreign relations, but once aroused they have never failed to prove the equal of any challenge. If Khrushchev does not believe that, he is in for a rude awakening at Berlin. His Caribbean puppet, Castro, would do well to take notes.

Miss Beverly Joiner is feted at lovely tea

A lovely event of last Wednesday was a miscellaneous tea honoring Miss Beverly Joiner, lovely bride-elect of August 20 at the lovely country home of Mrs. Paul Nessimith in the Westside community. Co-hostesses were Mrs. Nessimith, Mrs. W. H. Smith Jr., Mrs. Lamar Smith and Mrs. Hubert Smith.

Mrs. Hubert Smith met the guests at the door and directed them to the living room where Mrs. Paul Nessimith was receiving with the bride-elect, Miss Joyner, Mrs. L. P. Joyner, mother of the bride and Mrs. John C. Proctor, mother of the groom-elect.

The lovely formal arrangement of dahlias and gladioli used in the living room as well as other arrangements throughout the home revealed the fair which Mrs. Nessimith shows in flower arranging.

Mrs. Ben Nessimith directed the guests to the dining room for refreshments.

The tea table, beautifully appointed, depicting the green and white motif, was covered with a white cutwork cloth. Punch was served from a crystal bowl encircled with ivy and interspersed with white altheas. At the opposite end of the table was a silver branched candelabra holding white tapers and a pyramid form of double white altheas with ivy. Silver trays and compotes held dainty iced and embossed cakes, mints and nuts. Those serving with Mrs. Lamar Smith in the dining room were Misses Beth and Jean Nessimith, Lugenia Smith and Gail Nessimith.

Mrs. W. H. Smith Jr. registered the guest and Mrs. Bill Anderson was in the gift room. Mrs. Cluise Smith was on the spacious screened porch where guests lingered to chat with friends before departing.

About 1,150 persons died from poisonous gas last year in the United States; 800 of these deaths occurred in and around the home, according to Miss Lucile Higginbotham, head of the extension health department.

BEEF OUTLOOK

Although beef will be in heavy supply and continue to have strong competition, it doesn't appear likely that there will be a sharp enough increase in marketings to cause a serious break in cattle prices during the next year, according to Extension Livestock Marketing Specialist Harold Clum.

HOUSE WALKS

Many homeowners make walks around the house so narrow that they appear to be thin ribbons in a green bed of grass, according to Extension Landscape Specialist T. G. Williams. He suggests making the walk for a small house at least 40 to 42 inches wide. Walks around the large house and spacious yard should be scaled up accordingly.

Bulloch Soil-Water Conservation news

By E. T. "Red" MULLIS
Soil Conservation Service

I have just returned to duty after a most pleasant two-week vacation. Because of this and the absence of specific soil and water conservation news concerning our own cooperators of the Ogeechee River Soil Conservation District here in Bulloch, this may not sound too much like the usual by-line.

My first week was spent at Ridgecrest, North Carolina attending a very profitable Sunday School Conference. This is a week designed and set aside for charging spiritual batteries. This it does in a powerful way, but there are other side lights. As I met people from all across this great country of ours, I was struck by the towering need in our world today of Christian friendship, love, and understanding. I am convinced that if this need were met in the lives of all our people.

Coming home from the mountains we noticed that the extreme heat and drought had just about covered the state. Late corn was suffering badly. Some looked as if a fire had been through it. The Ogeechee River was running clearer than I had seen it in a long time. But no sooner had we reached Bulloch County than it began to rain. I concluded that mother nature was living up to her feminine reputation - wonderful but unpredictable.

"The opening of the Joseph E. Caldwell Building, housing the Division of Arts, and the completion of Vessey Hall, a dormitory for women, were some of the highlights of the year. The students were delighted with the Herty Building, which was used for the first time during the year.

"Another step in the development of course offerings in the college was the permission granted by the Board of Regents to offer the Sixth Year Program in Elementary Education and Industrial Arts.

"All of these things, with the enrollment of new staff and faculty members, contributed to a fine spirit among students and college staff."
