Maybe A Way Out Mullis Succeeds Kelly As Soil Man

On our editorial page we lead off with a piece we call "A Vision to Cause Jitters." It's on the traffic problem existing on North and South Main streets, along which U. S. 301 and U. S. 25 traffic moves, together with our local traffic, during the early morning and early evening hours.

We try to set forth a possible solution.

Monday at noon we talked to a local citizen. One who is also deeply concerned over the problem. He offers this suggestion... and we believe it will work.

During the seven to nine morning hours and the four-thirty to five to seven evening hours make that section of North Main street and South Main street between the new Baptist church and Grady street a "NO PARKING" area. Prohibit parking altogether along that section of those two main streets during those hours.

Sure, and there'll be protests. But the suggestion bears studying. For, remember—something must be done. Visualize U. S. 301 skirting Statesboro entirely! Then what?

Hal Coleman Waters, son of Mr. and Mrs. Loy Anthony Waters of Statesboro.

The Rev. Jake Hillis officiated in the impressive ceremony before an assemblage of friends and relatives of the popular couple.

Miss Janice Belores Todd of Macon, maid of honor, wore a coral flower blue tulle dress with off-shoulder neckline bordered with taffeta cord in loop design which extended down the front of the bodice to the waistline and in redingote effect down the skirt, revealing a front panel of pleated nylon net. The bridesmaids were her twin sisters, Misses Joan and Janet Walters, of Macon and Ann Waters, sister of the groom. They wore dress of tulle and tulle, identical to the maid of honor's. An oil painting of Sidney Lanier hangs over the carved mantel where an exquisite arrangement of white flowers were used.

Two Sides to a Story?

Sometimes there are two sides to a story; sometimes there are THREE. The third side is the protection of the interests of the public.

Whatever your newspaper may think editorially, it upholds the newspaper tradition by presenting ALL sides of a question, regardless of the controversy involved.

This is just one of the many ways your newspaper helps form not only PUBLIC OPINION, but INTELLIGENT, ENLIGHTENED PUBLIC OPINION.

J. H. Wyatt Tells Brooklet Farm Group Of Needed Changes in Peanut Program

Every effort possible is being made to bring about some needed changes in the peanut program for 1952, J. H. Wyatt, member of the state Farm Bureau peanut committee, stated at the Brooklet Farm Bureau meeting Wednesday night of last week.

In reviewing what had happened to date, Mr. Wyatt pointed out that the entire committee listened to farmers and others in Macon for two full days the first of November on what is wrong with the peanut program as it was administered in 1951. Then the group met with others interested in peanuts—shellers and end-users—at Albany the last of November.

A committee of Farm Bureau members, shellers and end-users—peanut bolt met later in Washington. Complaints from all concerned were heard and a memorandum made of all.

The entire group, including Mr. Wyatt's committee from Georgia, met with representatives of PMA and the Fats and Oils Division of USDA while in Washington and were told that the 1952 program had been made up. The proposed program was read and outlined in detail to the committee.

The committee of farmers and peanut users found but very few changes in the program from 1951 and asked for a hearing on the proposed changes they wanted in the 1952 program. PMA and the Fats and Oils Division agreed to grant such a hearing before the 1952 program is announced.

Mr. Wyatt expressed the hope that the 1952 program would be more to the liking of all concerned than the 1951 program. The reports given this State Farm Bureau committee from farmers, shellers and end-users of peanuts indicated that the 1951 program was a "100 percent program"; they were all 100 percent against it in every detail.

MIDDLEGROUD DISCUSSES TIMBER PRESERVATION

The Middleground Farm Bureau discussed methods of preserving timber for buildings and fence posts at their meeting last Thursday night.

Miles Frank Deal, district PMA performance supervisor met with the group at Middleground and urged them to make their soil-building practice report to the PMA office by January 15 so they could be paid for 1951 practices. Mr. Deal also asked that they not overlook returning the sheets now being received on the 1952 PMA program. He explained that no farm had a soil-building allowance for 1952, but that allowances would be set up by the county committee in February, based on what was turned in on this sheet. These forms are to be returned to the county PMA office by February 2.

Those present at both the above meetings were urged to use fumigant to control blue mold on tobacco beds. Those who have controlled blue mold found that if they kept fumigate on the plants until they were about the size of a dime they could prevent the mold from doing damage to the plants. It was reported at these meetings that REA had assured the local rural telephone directors that funds would be available to start the county project around January 10 or 15.

Tree transplanters bought by the banks of the county are available for use again this year, it was announced. They can be procured through the county agent's office. The Brooklet group served a fried chicken supper and Middleground enjoyed a barbecue supper.

Personnel of the Bulloch County Forestry Unit have made a New Years resolution.

They have determined to bring about a heavy reduction in the number of fires which annually ravage our county's forestland.

Accomplishing this resolve, however, will require the cooperation of all Bulloch County citizens. Hunters must do their part by being careful with cigarettes and matches while searching for game.

Farmers and landowners must use caution in burning brush. All citizens must report wildfire and woods smoke by telephoning their Forestry Unit headquarters, 501L.

The next four months will to a large extent determine the success or failure of our campaign to cut down the number of forest fires in Bulloch County. Trees during that period are more dormant than during other seasons, and although this dormancy period begins to end in late March and early April, high winds during those two months

MARCH OF DIMES JANUARY 2-31

A new form of forest fire danger.

Realizing that resolutions are of little avail without action to back them up, members of the Bulloch County Forestry Unit plan to bring vehicles and equipment to scenes of forest fires with the shortest delay possible and to bring these blazes under control with a minimum loss of acreage.

Stopping wildfires before they start, however, still remains the most effective means of keeping a coating of forest green over Bulloch County's 284,083 acres of woodlands.

Plaques to 4-H BOOSTERS

A plaque for meritorious service to 4-H during 1951 was presented to the Barrow County Home Demonstration Council at a 4-H Club achievement banquet held recently in the county. The Barrow County Farm Bureau Chapter received a like award.

One acre of good pasture will feed as much livestock as 10 to 50 acres of woodland.

Large roomy cows that are sure breeders and good milkers are best adapted to fat calf production.

An abundance of good pastures and plenty of home-grown feed are essential for a profitable beef enterprise.

"I Bin Thinkin"

By LEHMAN FRANKLIN

A candidate for the Georgia Folks are happy if they just do what comes naturally. Your life work should be easy... because you ought to enjoy doing it. Many men and women take jobs and stick with them because they studied some special course in school, or because they never thought much about what they really liked and wanted to do. Any job can be creative, and many a fellow who might be a happy gardener is an unhappy bank teller... or vice-versa. If you want to whistle while you work... pick a job that makes you feel like whistling.

Congratulations to Dr. W. D. Lundquist, the new golf champion at Forest Heights Country Club.

A Columbus, Ind., man scared away a flock of birds that were annoying him by keeping a radio running in a tree. Who do those birds think they are... critics?

Those critics of car design and car performance have nothing but fine praises for Chevrolet. Stand by for the new Chevrolet for 1952. On display at our place on Saturday, January 19. It's a honey. It'll thrill the whole family. FRANKLIN CHEVROLET CO., INC., Statesboro, Phone: 101. (Adv.)
