Blue Devils Defeat Millen; TCH Next

BY BOBBY DONALDSON

Following a 25 to 13 win over Millen High in Millen last Friday night, the Statesboro High Blue Devils began preparation for the curtain raiser at home tomorrow (Friday, Sept. 26) with Thomasboro Central, a newcomer to the Devils schedule.

Statesboro took advantage of a Millen fumble in the first period for its first victory. The Blue Devils had little trouble in getting over the first score after Stewart moved from the Millen two to the seven and Fletcher carried over. The Devils scored twice in the second quarter, one by McGlammy and another by a 22 yard pass from Fletcher to Newton. Millen had not registered a first down at the half.

Millen opened with a passing attack in the third quarter and scored from the four yard line on a running play.

In the final period the Devils drove from their own 45 to the Millen 30 and Bobby Newton from that point around and tallied on a 30 yard run. Fletcher kicked the extra point. Millen also scored in the last quarter on a series of pass plays. Statesboro coach, James Hall cleared the bench in the final minutes to give each his men a chance to see service.

In explaining their "Professor's Special" dinner, offered for one dollar, they want it definitely understood that everyone is entitled to the dinner, the regular dinner of the special. The "passports" will still be "Professor's Special," but it will be printed on the menu, so that local citizens as well as tourists will have the choice.

A second release from the Palace of the Fairy Queen has been issued which reveals the reason for the unprecedented appearance of the Forest Fairy to be taken place on Tuesday, October 7, at the High School Auditorium.

Our Investment In The Future

FOR ONE DAY Statesboro will be "governed" by the youth of the city.

On Civic Youth Day, sponsored by the Statesboro High School Tri-Hi-Y Clubs and the Statesboro Lions Club, a Youth Mayor will serve as our community's chief executive. With him a Youth City Clerk will serve. They will be elected by the youth of the city in an election set up and patterned exactly on the election laws governing our community.

On Thursday of last week registration books were opened. The "Acting City Clerk" together with two assistants conducted the registration. There was one registration book for each of the tenth, eleventh, and twelfth grades. To register the youth must be a member of one of these three grades. He signed his name, his age and address, and was prepared to interpret a paragraph from the Constitution.

CITY REQUIREMENT — A prospective voter must first be a registered city voter. This requires that he be able to interpret a paragraph from the Constitution of the State of Georgia, and be able to write his name. He must have been a resident of Statesboro for the previous six months to registration. He signs the registration book, giving his age and address. He has until 30 days prior to a city election to register when the books are closed.

Before 2:30 on September 25, candidates for the Youth Mayor and members of the Youth Council may qualify.

Candidates for the Youth Mayor must be in the twelfth grade and must have been a student in the Statesboro High School for his or her entire junior year. The candidate must be a registered voter. The candidate must have demonstrated good citizenship in the school and the community. A statement that he wishes to run for Youth Mayor of Statesboro must be filed with the acting City Clerk. No fee will be required.

CITY REQUIREMENT — To qualify for mayor of the City of Statesboro the candidate must be a registered city voter, must be at least 21 years of age. He must have been a resident of Statesboro for one or more years prior to his qualifying. He must own real estate in the city. He files with the city clerk a statement of his intention to run for mayor and pays a $25 entrance fee.

Candidate for members of the Youth City Council must be in either the Junior or Senior class and must have been students of Statesboro High School for one year, not necessarily the last year. He must be a registered voter and must have demonstrated good citizenship in his school and community. He too must file a statement with the Acting City Clerk stating he wishes to run for the Youth Council. No fee is required.

CITY REQUIREMENT — Candidates for member of the City of Statesboro Council must be 21 years of age or older and a resident of Statesboro for one year. He must file with the clerk a statement of his qualifications, in which he must name the man he is to oppose. He pays a $15 fee.

On election day the youth of Statesboro goes to the polls and elect their Youth Mayor and members of the Youth Council.

Naming of the appointive offices follow the election.

Civic Youth Day has the enthusiastic approval of the city officials. Mayor Cone is going to let the Youth Mayor sit with him at his Monday morning court.

Members of the Youth Council will sit in a joint session with the Statesboro City Council. The appointive officials—fire chief, city engineer, city attorney, will be given practical demonstrations in city administration.

We can think of no finer activity than this stimulating experience for the youth as they become interested in the operation of our city government. There is no surer way of becoming aware of citizenship responsibilities than the actual participation in these responsibilities.

We commend the Mayor, members of the Council, the Lions Club, and the other Civic clubs who have endorsed the project, and the Statesboro High School Tri-Hi-Y and Hi-Y Clubs for promoting Civic Youth Day.

It's a wonderful demonstration in development of our Youth, our Investment in the Future.

Still At The Top

WITH THE FIRST RETURNS IN, Bulloch County again leads the state of Georgia in Farm Bureau membership.

The incomplete figures show that 1,760 citizens of the county joined or renewed their membership in the one-day membership drive on September 9.

Ware County (Dublin) is a slow second with 1,100; Colquitt County (Moultrie) signed up 969; Screven (Sylvan) drew 914; and Emanuel 910.

The incomplete figures show that the membership in the state signed up 35,365 during that one-day.

County Agent Byron Dyer states that additional memberships are coming in and when all the figures are together Bulloch County will have well over 2,000 in her Farm Bureau.

We congratulate the farm leaders of our county. They did a wonderful job. The membership drive represented a lot of planning, a lot of cooperation and hard work.

It's that combination which keeps Bulloch County at the top of the list in most things, a lot of planning, a lot of cooperation, and a lot of hard work.

He Stood In Shy Dignity

HE STOOD up with a shy dignity and just said, "I thank you. I hope I deserve the honor you have paid me."

Young Averitt, winner of the J. B. Seacore Community Service and Sportsmanship Award, was trying to say that he appreciates the honor paid him by the more than 200 youth of Statesboro with whom he associates.

In announcing the award Max Lockwood, superintendent of the Statesboro Department of Recreation, made it plain that there are scores of other youth in Statesboro who might just as easily have been selected for the award.

Which it true.

In the first balloting ten young boys were named. Then began the process of elimination which proved to be a difficult task. Those eliminated proved their qualifications for the award when they joined the community's congratulations to the winner.

At the award luncheon held at the Community Center last week community leaders paid high tribute to the youth of Statesboro as represented by young Averitt.

The city's recreation program shared with Hal the praise accorded youth of our community.

Mayor Gilbert Cone reviewed the struggle the Recreation Center has had since its inception. He praised the citizens of the community for the part they have contributed and expressed pride in having been the mayor at the time the program was inaugurated.

Joe Neville, representing the Junior Chamber of Commerce, reviewed the part the Joycees have played and are taking in the center.

Allen Lanier, chairman of the Recreation Board, and chairman-elect of the County Commissioners emphasized the growing number of county youth who are taking part in the program.

S. H. Sherman, principal of the Statesboro schools, commended the youth of our city, pointing out that "you can't fool the youth of today."

Mrs. W. A. Bowen, member of the Recreation Board, remembered the first days of the recreation and the difficulties it experienced.

Awarding the Community Service and Sportsmanship Award to Hal Averitt threw the spotlight full upon Statesboro's recreation program. It emphasized the high position that the Department of Recreation holds in the state of Georgia.

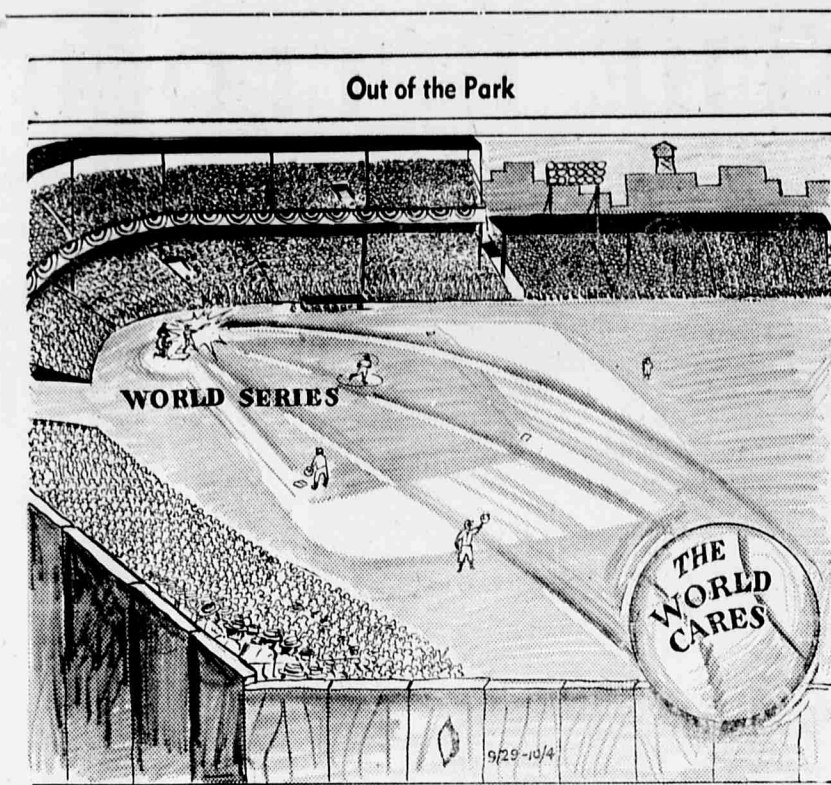

We congratulate Hal Averitt.

We are proud of him and the young people he represents.

We commend his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. Barney Averitt.

We commend Max Lockwood and the Department of Recreation for helping develop youth like Hal Averitt.

And J. B. Seacore, for inaugurating the award, we want to express the community's appreciation for the things it represents to the youth of our community.

NATIONAL PRIZE comes to Statesboro. In a Jingle contest sponsored by the National Seal Test Co., Miss Jolla Carmichael submitted a jingle and forgot about it until it was delivered to her here by her representative in this district, who told her he was very happy to deliver the first prize, a check for $25, in his district. We congratulate Miss Carmichael.

WE ARE STATING the bear facts. Remember when Ward Morehouse, world traveler, author, and playwright brought from India a young bear and left him in care of two very competent people, his wife's mother and brother, Mrs. H. V. Franklin and her son, H. V.

That bear is a prodigy. Left tied to a tree, he does a "Houdini" and when Pearl got home from the chores she had done, the bear was gone, no bear, not even any sign. She hunted every place that she thought he could possibly be.

She got out the car and went over to the old Franklin place to get H. V. to help her in her search. After hunting in the woods for a long time it suddenly occurred to Pearl that he might possibly be in the house. She was exactly right. The bear was sitting in the middle of the kitchen table. He had eaten all the sugar and was holding the bowl licking for the very last grain of sugar.

Preparing for the winter quarters for the bear, H. V. built a small little room in a tree top directly over the summer quarters of the sly pet. When the wind began to howl from the north during a brief cool spell, the bear climbed the ladder to his tree home. On the way he spied a sheet waving on a line nearby. He reached out, snatched the sheet and continued on his way, wrapped himself up with it and slept peacefully all the night through.

While the Georgia Legislature favors the unit system law, a constitutional amendment in the General Assembly given a free choice would not have approved Constitutional Amendment No. 1 last year when it was offered in the Senate and House. Extreme gubernatorial pressure was exercised to obtain the necessary vote so soon after the people defeated the same amendment.

Without the vote of the Legislature. Legislators elected under the unit system themselves are not prone to change the system. Attempts simply to revise the system and bring its population ratio up to date to coincide with the moving many farmers into urban areas has been defeated by the Legislature.

While the Georgia Legislature favors the unit system law, a constitutional amendment in the General Assembly given a free choice would not have approved Constitutional Amendment No. 1 last year when it was offered in the Senate and House. Extreme gubernatorial pressure was exercised to obtain the necessary vote so soon after the people defeated the same amendment.

County Unit Safe in Primary

Every county person could vote against this amendment and carry it to defeat, as the rural counties helped do in 1950 to a similar proposal, and the County Unit System still would govern the Democratic primary.

City people are being told they should vote against the unit system which disfranchises them. Every city person could vote against this amendment and help carry it to defeat, as was done to a similar amendment in 1950, and the city people would be governed by the unit system in the Democratic primary in this one party state.

Frankly, we see practically no way to eliminate the County Unit System from the necessary vote protected by state law, but the state law is about as solid as the Constitution. It cannot be changed.

Things Teachers

Expect From Children's Parents

BY VIRGINIA RUSSELL

Last week the mothers had their say about the teachers of their children. This week some of the teachers have been invited to say what they expect of the parents of their children. It is with regret that the space in a column is so limited, but we have liked having mothers' teachers' feeling on this subject. However, the three teachers represented are, take it from us, top-notchers in their field.

The first teacher heard from wrote:

"Things that I expect from the parents of the children I teach: 1. That their children have the right attitudes. These are developed by parents long before we get them in school. Children are mimics and more often than not reflect the attitudes of their parents.

"2. A sympathetic understanding of the problems involved when thirty or more different personalities are grouped together.

"3. The parents understand that teachers are just as anxious to meet the individual needs of their children as they—but due to routine, outside demands and the needs of the group as a whole, they sometimes fail. This is where the parent can aid the teacher by personal contacts and conferences and work out plans together for their good.

"4. A cooperative spirit. When a teacher feels that a parent is receptive to suggestions, they can be made freely and without any feeling of criticism."

The second teacher said: "These things I desire of parents whose children I teach: "First—I'd like each morning to greet a happy child—happy in the sense of being well loved, understood, and wanted at home.

"Second—I'd like each morning to greet a physically well child—one whose parents, as far as they are able, have seen to it that his every bodily need has been taken care of.

"Third—I'd like, each morning, to greet a child who is well nourished—one who has had the kinds of food he needs each day.

"Fourth—I'd like, to greet one whose parents are concerned with bodily cleanliness and clean, neat clothes.

"Fifth—Lastly, but not least, I'd like to greet a child whose parents have instilled in him attitudes of an appreciation for honesty, fair play, consideration for the rights of others, and good sportsmanship."

The third teacher listed her thoughts as follows: "I feel that the work of the teacher will be made easier, and the school program more beneficial, if the parents of school children and interested members of the community who do not have children will adhere to the following suggestions.

"1. Make all criticisms of the school program and especially of the teacher to the school personnel. The most harmful practice of parents is criticism of teachers and of the school program in the presence of children who are in the school.

"2. When children become involved in school disputes, do not side with children until both sides of the story are known. I do not advise parents' taking the teacher's side regardless, but I do feel that before taking the side of children parents should know all available facts.

"3. Visit the school frequently, at times when you are not an invited guest. See the physical conditions under which children attend school, meet the teachers, and make them feel that you are interested in the school and really want to know what the school is trying to do.

"4. Join the parent-teacher association and participate in all of the activities that improve the school and the school-community relations.

"5. Support all of the activities offered by the school for the entertainment of the community.

Dodge Long Life Records give you proof of Extra Value!

DOUBLE-channel side rails of massive strength add ruggedness and rigidity to the sturdy Dodge chassis. Rubber mountings cushion body from shock. Your Dodge stays new longer.

Oriflow side control is SEALED IN for the life of the shock absorbers. You get a smoother, safer ride right from the start and on through the miles. Reduces wear, stretches car life.

TWO hydraulic cylinders in each front wheel brake give surer, safer stops over more miles. Cyclebond linings give up to double the lining life! Extra value is built in.

When you invest your money in a new car, you have a right to expect some proof that the value you buy is built in to stay!

You get that proof in a Dodge. Registration records prove that by a substantial margin, Dodge automobiles have longer life than the average car. The great road life record established by millions of Dodge cars over billions of driving miles is your sure guide to extra value, lasting pleasure.

You'll find proof, too, in such engineering features as the extra-rugged double-channel frame and staunch Safety-Steel body, cushioned against road shock. You'll find it in the solid sound of the doors when you swing them closed, and the sure response of big Safeguard hydraulic brakes to a touch of the pedal.

We'd like you to come in and discover for yourself how much more a Dodge offers in the solid, substantial qualities you're after. It's the best investment you could make.

"Watch for those school buses," says our Georgia State Patrol. Father Nagele Makes Statement.

Father Nagele, pastor of the St. Matthew's Catholic Church makes the following statement:

"The article about Father Smith has come to our attention. We feel that to the good people of Statesboro and Bulloch County Father Smith needs no defense. He worked among these past seven or eight years and made Statesboro his home. Perhaps the good people of Statesboro noticed his free and easy manner of speech. And therefore if he engages in a little facetiousness you know that he is not the kind of person to hurt or insult the people back home in Statesboro. However there are a few things I would like to point out.

"In the first place, it is not true that Father Smith was in New York to raise money to carry on this work in the South, because he is no longer working in the South. He is no longer, as Mrs. Hickey writes, a missionary priest from Statesboro, Ga. This is either out of date information or the part of Father Smith's mis-information that came from Mrs. Hickey. Father Smith was transferred from St. Matthew's here in Statesboro on Aug. 14, 1951. While on a visit down here last spring Father Smith gave me a small contribution which in reality was not a contribution but was only a sufficient amount for the gas and food expenses which we incurred while he was here. With this exception, since I have been pastor here at St. Matthew's beginning on August 1, 1951, St. Matthew's Church has not received one cent from Father Smith nor from our Society of Priests through the occasional small contributions which we three members of that Society, Father Gartner, Father Farry and myself have given it. And those small gifts were given to each of us from friends and relatives of ours entirely independent of Father Smith.

"Furthermore, Mrs. Hickey would get up in church and talk about the Catholics. She is simply uninformed about Statesboro as to what has happened in the not too distant past. The statement about 'doing the worst thing the owner could have done by selling the liquor store to the Catholics' is not a figment of Father Smith's imagination. It is the truth—and quite contrary to the kind of charitable supposition of the lady writer to demand any and every Protestant minister—it was said from a church by a minister over the radio in this town.

"Also, if Father Smith was in fact upon hunting or insulting the people of Statesboro he would have been out of the town.

"In conclusion we know that the great virtue of charity is Christ's greatest command. The priests and Catholics of this community do not wish to enter into controversy—we do not wish to antagonize our good Christian neighbors. We have come among you to exemplify the Christian ideal of charity. Let us all in this community work towards the fulfillment of Christ's commandment of love—Love one another as I have loved you."

brought up the fact that a few were instrumental in bringing in the ex-priest at two different times here. But Father Smith knew you good Christian people in Statesboro did not approve of this.

Farm Bureau Ladies Night Celebrated At Register

Farm Bureau Meeting Last Tuesday

It was ladies night at the Register from Thursday night. This is one of the communities where the ladies members of the Farm Bureau do not meet with the men often, but once each year they are brought in to eat and sing check up on what the men are doing in the Farm Bureau.

L. C. Bodford Jr., who was elected president of the Register chapter for this year but later moved to Savannah, was a guest of the chapter.

Ela met on Tuesday night. If all authorities will agree, the community voted to move its regular meeting place from the small community court house to the school where the Farm Bureau meets.

Neville voted to extend an invitation to all members that had renewed their memberships to meet with that chapter at its October meeting for a free supper. This is an annual affair and is usually their big night.

Ela and Register served barbecue suppers and Neville went for work chops. Charles Cates, principal of the Register school, announced that the school opening was one of the best from attendance and enrollment points of view ever and that everything pointed to a good year at Register. He also announced that the 4-H Club had been notified that it would receive one of the Atlanta Journal community improvement prizes next week at a banquet given by that paper at the Biltmore Hotel in Atlanta. Mr. Cates did not know which place Register won, but predicted that the 4-H Club would spend the prize money on trying to win again.

Robert F. Young, principal at Neville, gave a good report on school progress in that community and promoted a round-table discussion of school problems that turned into one of the best Farm Bureau programs of the year. It brought practically every one present into the discussion.

Hines Smith, Neville president, used the membership committee to meet him at Neville Friday, September 26, at 7:30 p. m. to work out plans for completing her enrollment for this year.

Jim Futch, Ela president, asked that their enrollment be completed as rapidly as possible and pointed out that they should have at least as many members this fall as they signed up in 1951.

L. R. Anderson, Register president, reported 110 renewals and predicted they would also have about the same number as they did last fall.

Each of the three chapters used a set of slides on winter grazing found here in the county last spring as a part of their program. Register added a short comedy motion picture to the slides for entertainment.

Dewey Medders, county agent from Bryan, was guest at the Ela meeting.

Forestry News

With more and more of Bulloch county's total area being utilized for tree crops, a knowledge of Georgia's forest fire laws are essential for citizens of this community interested in green, growing forests.

Some of the major forest fire laws which protect Bulloch county's 284,083 acres of forestland are listed below by the Bulloch County Forestry Unit.

The person who allows fire to cross from his land onto the land of another is guilty of a misdemeanor.

The landowner has the right to burn his own land as he desires, but he is responsible to see that fire does not burn adjoining land of another without permission.

The landowner who contemplates burning his own land is required to notify all other landowners whose land the fire might conceivably reach if it got out of control. This notification should be given at least 24 hours in advance.

Once he has set fire to his land, the landowner is responsible to see that the fire does not become wild.

The landowner who contemplates burning also is required to plow around the field or other area to be burned or construct some other suitable firebreak.

For more information on these laws, contact the Bulloch County Forestry Unit.

"By following the above suggestions I feel each parent will contribute constructively to the improvement of the school program and will feel that it is a community school and not a teacher's school."

From the mothers last week there seemed to be a plea for understanding of the child. From the teachers we find a desire for an understanding of the school problem. Perhaps what is most needed in the school and home relations is better understanding. Let's everybody work for better understanding.

IRA T. GRIMES WINS COMBAT INFANTRY BADGE

The Combat Infantryman Badge for excellent performance of duty under fire in Korea recently was awarded to Sgt. Ira T. Grimes, whose wife, Vendell, lives in Statesboro, Georgia.

He is a member of the 2d Infantry Division which gained fame in two of the hardest fought battles of the Korean war. It captured "Heartbreak Ridge" in October 1951 and took "Old Baldy Hill" this summer.

Sergeant Grimes is a veteran of World War II and holds the European-Middle Eastern Theater Ribbon with two campaign stars.

He has been with the 2d Division since last May.

WHAT CAUSES A TRAFFIC ACCIDENT

Ninety-three per cent of Georgia's accidents last year were caused by traffic violations on the part of one or more of the involved drivers. Think it over—94 per cent caused by driver violations. When you drive, follow the rules of the road, and help prevent accidents.

It matters not whether the person intended or did not intend for the fire to get away, he is still guilty of a misdemeanor.

Another vital phase of Georgia's forest laws, felonies, will be discussed in a later issue.

Unit Amendment

BIG DIFFERENCE

There's a difference between favoring the unit system of nominating candidates and trying to write a constitutional prohibition against people freely running for office or having a free choice of voting in the general election.

Constitutional Amendment No. 1 declares that the name of no candidate shall be placed on the general election ballot who has not first been nominated in a county unit primary.

Passage of this amendment will lay the groundwork for court tests on the unit system itself, since this vote weighing state law then will be projected—directly or indirectly—in the general election and no longer will be just a political party matter.

Defeat of this amendment will not remove the unit system from the primary. —M. L. ST. JOHN, ATLANTA JOURNAL-CONSTITUTION.

EXPLANATION

Two weeks ago in reporting the Farm Bureau membership drive for September 9, we made an offer to members to subscribe to the Bulloch Herald for $1.00 per year. We were notified by the Post Office department that the postal regulations specified that $1.25 is the lowest rate we could make under such a plan. We explained this to the Farm Bureau officials in order that there be no misunderstanding. We have now complied with the regulations.
