Take Stock Of Your Red Cross

WE LISTENED intently to the radio—seeking assurance that the tornadoes, the winds, the rains, the destruction would not hit our community.

We read in the newspapers of the dead, the injured, the hospitalized, the homes destroyed in the Alabama and Georgia sections over which the tornadoes swept—while safe and sound in our home here. It was just something that his other sections of our nation—not ours.

And so we go about our routine affairs. A streamliner train, pulling 17 cars filled with people—people like us, returning home from vacation, leaving home for vacation—jumps the track and piles up. There are some dead. There are many injured.

Two calamities within a few days time—and in our section of the nation. And we go about our routine business. Out of these two tragedies stands one great agency—The American Red Cross. Immediately after each calamity the Red Cross was there. Their disaster machinery operating smoothly and quickly, administering care, giving aid, providing shelter, administering emergency food.

And here in Bulloch County our drive for funds for the Red Cross is dragging its feet.

You rationalize your apathy to the Red Cross with the cliché, "Ah, let them take care of themselves."

But put it the other way round—let disaster strike Statesboro—Bulloch County. And the people of Columbus, Ga., and the people of Dillon South Carolina, say, "Ah, let them take care of themselves."

"These disasters should impress us very much."

We should come to know the necessity for a strong Red Cross.

When disaster strikes here—we'll need, we'll ask for, we'll scream for—THE RED CROSS.

Take stock of your response to the request for contributions to the Bulloch County Chapter of the Red Cross.

Have you given any at all? If you've given, have you given enough? Think on these things.

Dave Turner ... Citizen-Editor

ON TUESDAY of last week, April 21, one of Statesboro's leading citizens checked off his sixtieth year of service to this community.

D. B. Turner, editor and publisher of the Bulloch Times, affectionally known to his newspaper friends over Georgia and to his friends in Statesboro as "Uncle Dave," has been and still is closer to things in Statesboro and Bulloch County than any other citizen who has ever lived among us.

Though born in Florida, we here in Bulloch county forget that. We can think only of his being of the same cloth as born and bred Bulloch Countians.

At more than eighty years of age he is still a force in this community.

He is still held with the highest esteem and respect among his fellow newspapermen in the Georgia Press Association. He is part of the firm foundation upon which the Georgia Press stands.

Since April 21, 1893, Dave Turner has seen Statesboro grow from just a tiny crossroad community to its present position of one of the best communities in the Southeast.

Ten years ago the Statesboro Rotary Club paid tribute to Mr. Turner upon his Fiftieth Anniversary in Statesboro and presented him with a document which reads:

"Dear Dave Turner,
For fifty years through the Bulloch Times you have been the recorder of events of Statesboro and Bulloch County. During those many years many events have passed before your keen eyes and have been recorded by your pen. Your well-poised mind has evaluated them, your wit has made them spicy, and your tolerance has made them kind. You have praised the beauty and charm of our brides, welcomed the coming of our babies, commended our more worthy exploits, concealed from the public our misdeeds and lamented the going of our loved ones. You have been a good friend to us all. Now that you have really learned how to run a good country newspaper we wish you fifty years more of successful service and we assure you of our friendship and sincere appreciation."

The document was signed by a great number of his friends and well-wishers. And now ten years later—sixty years after his coming here and making Statesboro his home in which he became a fast part—the same sentiment and good wishes remain, but with greater strength and meaning.

We as a newspaperman have learned much from our association with this great country newspaper editor. Because of him Statesboro and Bulloch County has two of the best newspapers of Georgia.

And so in his Sixtieth Anniversary we join the community in wishing him well and commend him for the wonderful work he has done among the people he has made his own.

We toss our editorial hat as high as our strength will allow it for Dave Turner, citizen-editor.

Up She Goes Again

A MAN is known for the work he does and the place in the community he fills. This week we toss up our hat for John Thayer for the recognition given him by his associates in the monument business.

In the January-February issue of "The Memorial Salesman," published for the Georgia Marble Company, two pages are devoted to Mr. Thayer and illustrations of some of his work.

The layout features the Sylvania World War II Memorial designed and made by Mr. Thayer. It symbolizes the Four Freedoms and stands in the center circle of the Sylvania Cemetery. Seven other photographs are shown of his work.

About John Thayer the magazine says: "In the belief that every monument should be a 'Fitting Tribute,' John Thayer has devoted many years to the gradual improvement of the monument business and cemetery appearance in Southeast Georgia."

Georgia "Firsts"

Georgia ranks second in the nation in pulp wood production, turning out 11 per cent of the national total of 2,370,143 cords.

Georgia leads all states east of the Rockies in the production of lumber—2,193,000,000 bd. ft.

Georgia ranks second in the nation in acres of timber-producing land—22 million acres in 1951.

Georgia is the second in the nation in acres of timberland under forest fire protection with a total of 20,561,000 acres.

Aluminum ore was first discovered in America in Floyd County, Georgia in 1886, stimulating the search for and discovery of additional deposits.

The Rambling Pittmans

Well, here the Rambling Pittmans are, "way up" in Guatemala, depending upon your point of reference.

From the U. S. it is "way down," but from Costa Rica, it is "way up."

We decided while we are in Central America, we should take a peek at all of these countries. Since I need to make a professional visit to the UNESCO Missions in El Salvador and Guatemala, this seemed to be a very good time for both the Pittmans to go places and see things. So, off we went—to take a look at Nicaragua, Honduras, El Salvador, and Guatemala. We had visited Panama during last Christmas vacation, Mexico in 1929, Cuba in 1932. We wanted to see the remainder of the "Little Latin" area.

We have now had an "eagle-eye-view" of the land, water, and sky from Hudson Bay to the Panama Canal.

The "Queen who reigns over the Pittman Realm" declares that she has seen all of the land, water, and sky that she ever wants to see and that hereafter she will be content with that portion which can be measured in a radius of 2 1/2 miles from the Bulloch County Courthouse.

She wants to take just one more trip—yes, you're correct—back to Statesboro, Georgia. She says she is going back there and "anchor her kite" (that's me) and stay put "til Gabriel blows his horn."

Well, that is natural for her, but what about me? "Kite" suppose another strong March wind comes along? It's hard to break the habits of an old fire-engine and horse. When the whistle blows and the bells ring he just naturally wants to run. Furthermore, suppose old Gabriel forgets all about blowing his horn?

AN INTERESTING TRIP

The trip by air from San Jose, Costa Rica, to Guatemala City in Guatemala is very interesting and picturesque. Many mountain peaks, interspersed with many lakes—some very blue and others very green, for reasons not clear to me. The trip by plane is just about as rugged as it would be over land, because of the air pockets caused by cool mountains, hot valleys, evaporating water rising from the lakes. Mrs. "P" lived all over again her crossing the Atlantic on a storm tossed sea.

Each of these Latin American countries has a personality all its own. You already know much about Costa Rica. Each and all of the others are unique and interesting.

Between the Rio Grande, the Texas border, and the Panama Canal, there are a thousand places and things of Latin American history, geography, and customs in which I am interested and you would be also, if you were to see them. But in this particular moment, there is one phase more important and more interesting to Americans than all the others—the "Politics in Guatemala."

POLITICS IN GUATEMALA

A few days ago the Hon. Spang Bradley, former ambassador to the Argentine made a speech to some American college group. In his speech, he lashed out against the Communists. He particularly "pin-pointed" recent elections in the Republic of Guatemala. His remarks were given worldwide publicity. Today, here in Guatemala, the government "struck back." Six years ago, Mr. Braden was very popular here. He was so popular that he was "decorated." He was elected to the "Order del Quetzal," which would be equal to electing him to the "First Families of Virginia."

Well, today, the congress here asked the president to "cancel the decoration" and the president did so.

What is the meaning of all this "to-do?"

It is the same old story of human greed. The "Haves" are in a contest with the "Have-nots." The "Haves" have the property and the "Have-nots" have the votes. The "Haves" have long heads and the "Have-nots" have hard heads and long tails.

Historically, it is a continuation of the contest between the English and the Spanish for the domination of the Western hemisphere. The Spanish have always looked for gold, "easy money," while the English have looked for land, "property."

About a century ago, the English and their American descendants, in true pioneering, English-American spirit, became interested in Latin American investments. They traversed the mountains and valleys of all of these countries, looking for good investments. While the Spanish slept on their "backs of diamonds" and never suspected their value as anything more than a "place to sleep," the English-American boys, with long heads, good eyes for real estate, and Yankee keenness in trading, "swapped" a soft cotton "factory-made" mattress, for the old ugly sack of "Spanish diamonds."

When the Spanish boys finally "woke up" the English-American boys held most of the good farming land, the mineral and ore deposits, and the public utilities, which they had bought for a song for which they themselves had worked both the words and tunes.

Well, when the Spanish boys realized what had happened, they began to speculate on how they could recover the control and the land, oil, mines, and public utilities. Since then, it has been a contest of wits in which the courts, the army, political chicanery, fire, revolution, and religion have all played their part.

The English-American boys have not been asleep, politically. They have known how to bring within the circle of their influence many of the "right" people, political powerful natives, and the leaders of the church, who have had great power in Latin America. For a long while they kept voting privilege restricted to persons with "certain property" or educational qualifications.

Then, in Latin America, they

It's just called, "Poem."

If everyone who drives a car Could lie a month in bed, With broken bones and wounds, Or fractures on the head, And then endure the agonies That many people do, They'd never need to preach safety Any more to me or you.

If everyone could stand beside The bed of some close friend And hear the doctor say "No hope" Before the fatal end, And see him there unconscious, Never knowing what took place, The laws and rules of traffic I am sure we'd soon embrace.

If everyone could meet the wife And Children with Dad gone, And step into the darkened home Where once happy faces shone, And look upon the "vacant chair" Where Dad was wont to sit, I am sure each reckless driver Would be forced to think a bit.

If everyone who takes the wheel would say a little prayer, And keep in mind those in the car Depending on his care, And make a vow and pledge himself Never to take a chance, The great crusade for safety Would suddenly advance.

Habit Can Be A Great Asset Or A Destructive One

BY VIRGINIA RUSSELL

Habit can be a great asset. It can, of course, be a destructive one, too. However, the habit we have in mind is that good habit going to church when the Sabbath comes.

There are many ways of forming habits. Apparently the Sunday School teachers at our church are working on forming the Sunday School-going habit. They are doing so by encouraging the children to form perfect attendance records. Recently we attended the annual Midway Society meeting, with preaching in the morning, dinner on the ground, and memorial services in the cemetery afterwards.

The younger children looked forward with eagerness to the day, but they were awfully upset over missing their Sunday School record. Church attendance would not do, we were informed; we would have to go to church when we leave home in time to get through Camp Stewart to a Sunday School.

Before the time of our departure we heard that the road was closed. Breaking all records for completing the packing of the lunch and for dressing, we took off on the long way round. And realizing at the start that we would never be able to reach the destination, we started looking out for a church on our route at which we could stop. Finally, we spied a church and, without stopping the car, and rushed toward the door. But alas, its services were just concluding.

Hurrying to the car, we continued our search, but beginning to despair of finding one. In fact the next church we came to was Midway, where no Sunday School is held. Then it was that the Head of the House remembered that a former visit he had seen a Methodist Church just beyond Midway on the Yellow Bluff road.

Here we came to Sunday School. The children and teachers were so cordial that we felt at home immediately. (One always feels at home in God's house, but some of God's children are friendlier hosts than others.)

Not only did we enjoy meeting teacher and children but we were struck by the attractively prepared literature which was being given. A query brought forth the information that it was the Methodist Church's literature. The children were taken by it because it was got up in workbook form with both the words and tunes to do other than listen.

We have the church-going habit, but we might have missed Sunday School except for the children's insistence that we attend. We were glad we went to Sunday School before we attended services at Midway. It was good for us.

have always had hot tempers and a certain fondness for revolution. During recent decades, they have had "epidemics" of democracy and agrarian reform. That is the "theme-song" in Guatemala today. WE CALL THEM BY OTHER NAMES.

If you were here today and owned no property, I suspect that you would be one of the most vociferous of the members of the chorus. In America—U. S.—we have had kindred "epidemics." We have called them various names—"Greenbacks," "Populists," "Radicals," "Rabble Rousers," and the like. Only a short while ago, Huey Long succeeded in securing his re-election on a slogan, "Share the Wealth, and Every Man a King." Latin America has never surpassed that!

Mexico, thirty years ago, was the first of the Latin American countries to start and make real economic, political, social, and religious reforms. We called it "socialism" there. We call it "communism" today. Each genera-

Stilson also used the notion picture Wednesday night in his program. Isaac Bunce, the county's delegate to Washington recently, emceed the Farm Bureau's activities around the nation's capital at the Stilson and Portal meetings. Mr. Bunce pointed out that the Farm Bureau is doing an excellent job with legislation and in keeping members posted on agricultural matters, but is limited because of the lack of members. He pleaded for a larger membership to give the workers a Washington stronger voice.

W. O. Griner reported to the Stilson group, and H. G. Aaron to the Portal group, that the REA had approved plans for the central office equipment for the telephone cooperative. Both of these men are on the board of directors for the cooperative that is planning the telephone program for the county.

ALL'S FAIR By JANE

When honors are bestowed on our girls and boys... It adds luster to our town and to their parents' joys... That feeling all other gifts of gold and treasure... For there is no feeling akin to the pleasure... One experiences when work and talent is combined... To win laurels of honor along their path assigned... We glory in their success is the peak of all that one asks... So from Jane to you goes love and high praise... And may you continue to reap honors throughout other days...

STARRING at the State Literary Contest held in Macon Friday was Margaret Ann Dekle, pupil of Mrs. Bernard Morris, speech teacher, as she read cuttings from Edward Arlington Robinson. On hand to acclaim and enjoy Margaret Ann's triumph over all contestants were both grandmothers, Mrs. Julian Brannen and Mrs. Harvey Dekle, and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Inman Dekle. Margaret Ann plans to attend Women's College at Greensboro, N. C., and the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill, spending two years at each place.

The Statesboro High School boys quartet easily placed first with the following boys bringing home the honors: Charlie Joe Hollingsworth, Gilbert Cone Jr., Edward Bunce and John Lightfoot. They sang "Moguta" and "Sound Off" under the direction of Miss Nona Quinn.

In a class of 80 only two are selected for this distinct honor. Recently Waldo was elected by his fellow classmates as their interne representative in consultation with the Dean.

And adding to the pride and joy of their parents, Dr. and Mrs. Floyd, is news from Agnes Scott College concerning their daughter, Virginia Lee, a student in her junior year. Ginny was recently elected freshman advisor for the Christian Association at Agnes Scott, Ginny, with her room mate, Harriet Potts of Newman, and other class mate, Caroline Lester of Montezuma, will sail from New York, June 24, for a European tour.

IT PAYS to have the right contacts... When Mary Akins (Mrs. E. L.) her sister, Mrs. Algernon Trappnell, and brother Hudson and Mary Lee Allen, found there were no more tickets being sold for the tour of Plantations, one of the most enjoyable features of the rose show at Thomasville, they were downcast but not for long. When James Bland, who with Vernon and Claude Cecil Howard were also taking in the rose show, heard of their plight, he called up his friend Solie Allen, former worker in the city office here, but now with C. E. Layton, City Engineer of Thomasville, and PRESTO—there appeared the Fire Chief's station wagon to take them on the tour.

has its own "ugly word." We choose the one which, at the moment, will stir the strongest emotion. "Methodist" has such an origin.

Furthermore, we mortals always know whose property we can "take" or "burn" and "get away with it." We do that to people who do not have enough local friends, support, to come and do the same things to us. The Germans did it to their Jews. The Allies, later, did it to the Germans. Here in Guatemala they are still doing it to the Germans and are now beginning to do it to other people who have much property and a few friends. The residential property and other buildings were now in the hands of the Germans. There are two ways to carry forward government—evolution and revolution. We in our country had to have only one revolution.
