TOBACCO HARVESTER

Silent Flame

You Will Make More Money From Your Tobacco Crop

Yes, the Silent Flame tobacco harvester will mean more money from your tobacco crop this year and in the years to come. The money that this machine will save you on labor alone, will pay for the harvester and put extra money in your pockets, too.

With a crew of only seven people and this harvester you can get an 150 stalks per hour... tied on the stick and ready to go into the curing barn! You will actually save 50% or more on labor costs.

You Will Get Higher Quality Tobacco

Because the primers sit at the proper level for selecting the ripe leaves, you are assured of getting more uniformly ripe tobacco with each harvest. Because leaves are not pulled in tobacco trucks or slides, you do not have broken and bruised leaves. In fact, after harvest, you will find that higher quality cures because the tobacco you put into the barn will be of higher quality.

You Will Save These Extra Expenses

When you own a Silent Flame tobacco harvester, you do not have the extra expense of building, buying or unloading tobacco slides or trucks, looping horses, etc. It will no longer be necessary to keep mules just to harvest tobacco either. For most farmers, the saving of these expenses will also amount to a considerable amount of money.

Our tobacco markets depend on our vigilance

Some people are already setting out tobacco plants. Others will get it in the next week or so. They are sowing the tiny seed with hopeful hearts and worried minds.

What of the prospects that the plants will survive? What of the prospects of a favorable growing season? What of the prospects of a good market?

These are only a few of the question marks which fill the being to whom tobacco plays such a prominent part.

Back in 1928 the people of Statesboro and Bulloch county first knew what it was for tobacco to be sold here.

Since then the Statesboro market has grown steadily and strongly.

Part of the credit for the growth and reputation of our tobacco market is based on the integrity of the warehousemen who as business men, are entrusted with handling the crop under the State and Federal laws.

A warehouseman is not merely a business man as in other businesses where anyone can operate. Inevitably he is a part of a system upon which farmers depend.

An editorial appearing in the March 27th Raleigh, N. C. News and Observer takes a stand which should be of interest to every tobacco grower in this section.

"Speaking to the court after D. Woodworth Worthington, who owns two warehouses in Eastern North Carolina, had pleaded guilty, the District Attorney said, the Associated Press reported, that the charges presented 'a serious threat to the industry, especially in Kentucky, a heavy tobacco producer.' They represent in even greater measure a threat to the greater tobacco industry in Eastern North Carolina. The fact that Worthington was tried in Kentucky does not mean that he is fit to run warehouses in North

And they spread music all 'round, all 'round

They had a wonderful time. And they spread the glad news. That Statesboro is the city where "Nature Smiles and Progress has the Right-of-Way."

Sponsored by the Statesboro and Bulloch County 301 Association, the Statesboro High School Blue Devil Band made a four-day tour of Florida, playing in four concerts in three of the state's leading cities.

They left here last Friday morning flying four big banners proclaiming the fact that they came from Statesboro. Friday night the band was the feature of "Statesboro Day" so proclaimed by Mayor McCormick of Jacksonville Beach. Saturday and Sunday nights they appeared in concert at Daytona Beach, and Monday morning they

Buy Easter Seals for crippled children

More than 100,000 handicapped children live in our wonderful state. We don't have to be sold on the idea of giving help to these handicapped children.

Coming up is Easter.

And the one agency in Georgia which does so much to help these children depends upon this season as an incentive for Georgians to help them these unable to help themselves.

The Georgia Society for Crippled Children for years has been

You can't blame schools for Jr's delinquency

By VIRGINIA RUSSELL

Our Savannah neighbors have had at panel discussion on Juvenile Delinquency and according to the newspapers one gentleman suggested that the school setup is to blame for much of the delinquency. He suggested if the newspapers are right that the schools go back to the 3 R's and do away with music appreciation and art.

This suggestion, to my way of thinking, is about as idiotic a suggestion as could have been made. In the first place the schools are teaching the 3 R's plus citizenship plus art appreciation and music appreciation.

The gentleman did not suggest that we close up all liquor stores, shut up radio stations, television stations, movie houses, and any or all concerns that are in any way harmful to children's moral growth.

Such a suggestion, ridiculous as it would have been, would in my way of thinking, have been more sensible.

The schools are hardly responsible for the juvenile delinquency problem. It is true that a few young people might be rescued from a certain life of crime if there was more money to spend to enlarge the curriculum. These young people who need help, ironic as it is, are the ones who need to be removed from the school of the 3 R's. They can't read and will never read. They can't learn higher arithmetic and will never learn it. By law they are forced to remain in school until they are sixteen years old. They usually spend their last two years or so in the 6th grade where they are misfits socially. Their classmates are usually under 12 years of age.

In this school room they are bored with reading and feel very insecure because they can't read but they must bear the humiliation of having children younger than they read far better than they.

These same young people, therefore do everything possible to attract attention away from the books to them. They make a teacher's life hectic. They use terrible language in front of younger children. They often tell some degrading stories to the younger children. Much spiritual suffering is inflicted on these younger boys and girls by these older, worldlier boys and girls.

If the state enforces its law of compulsory school attendance until 16 years of age, it ought also provide funds to care for all kinds. Of such young people could be sent to a class room where they might learn shop, and other skills they would have on life. They would build up their self respect when they could produce something made with their hands or could show a fine garden planted and cultivated by themselves.

Instead the schools forced as they are, to educate everybody's child from the lowest, shiftiest, to the highest have an impossible job. When the schools started educating the masses there was a tendency toward striking in the middle. On this level the small group of very lazy habits. The small group of very dull children become most insecure and frustrated trying to keep up with the average. What else can schools do with so many children and so little with which to operate?

Teachers discover every year another group of children. These children need help. Even if the schools could afford a psychiatrist what good could be accomplished when the child's trouble is coming from his home. How can schools change most homes? A few can be changed, certainly. For the greater part they can't be changed.

There are some things that could be changed and would produce good. The report cards cause as much trouble as any one thing. But who is it that wants the report card? The parents want them just as they are.

No, I believe our Savannah friend missed. He might just as well have ordered that parents start having children with IQ's of 100 or more but no more than 110.

The schools today are the products of parents. What else could a school be? Especially a public school?

No, my good friend, I believe you will find the trouble in the home. Whether the home can help it without society's help is a topic for another day.

Light their life with Faith

Bring them to worship this week

The Editor's Uneasy Chair

HERE'S WHAT THE ALMANAC SAYS THE WEATHER WILL BE:

Today, April 8 ..... Unsettled
Friday, April 9 ..... Unsettled
Saturday, April 10 ..... Unsettled
Sunday, April 11 ..... Fair
Monday, April 12 ..... Sunny
Tuesday, April 13 ..... Pleasant
Wednesday, April 14 ..... Pleasant

BUT DON'T BLAME US IF THE ALMANAC IS WRONG.

"THE TROUBLE IS THAT dog lovers ain't always as nice as their dogs. Jim lets his dog bother the neighbors at night, but the poor dog gets the blame." — Aunt Het in the Savannah Morning News.

And you know just what Aunt Het is talking about. You too are bothered with a neighbor who lets his dog howl and bark at all hours of the night and early morning and the poor dog has to take the blame.

Just about the time you turn your light out and get in bed, and just before you drift off to sleep, there it is—the short, nerve-jarring barking of your neighbor's dog, shut up in a small enclosure in his back yard. Or it's that long, drawn out howl that drifts into your room making rest and sleep impossible.

Hour after hour it goes on. You turn over. Sleep is not for you tonight—or any other night.

You vow you'll do mayor, you'll talk to the mayor, you'll shoot the cull, you'll talk to your neighbor.

Finally in sheer exhaustion you drop into a restless sleep—then there it is again. It's the early morning hours. And you know there's no rest for the weary.

And you wonder, all this neighborly spirit as restless as a night as you did. It's hard to see how he and his family could sleep with that poor dog's misery. You wonder that your neighbor didn't get up and go out in the yard and try to console him. You wonder all sorts of things. What manner of man is it that continues keeping dogs which are a nuisance to his neighbors and certainly to him and his own family? He's a good neighbor generally otherwise.

By the Light of the Word

THE LORD is my light and my salvation; whom shall I fear? The LORD is the strength of my life; of whom shall I be afraid?

When the wicked, even mine enemies and my foes, came upon me to eat up my flesh, they stumbled and fell.

Though an host should besiege against me, my heart shall not fear; though war should rise against me, in this will I be confident.

ALL'S FAIR

THE FRANKLIN HERITAGE Every person has a heritage from the past which reaches back through the dim and distant ages. We are each of us—the end product of many races and cultures. The blood of ancient heroes—yes, and ancient villains—runs in our veins. No person escapes this heritage from the past. It is ours at birth and nothing can ever change that fact. A son may long ever so feverently to change the facts of his father's life, but he will find it impossible to do so. "The moving finger writes," says Omar Khayyam, "and hither whither moves on; nor all your piety nor wit shall hurt it back and cancel half a line; nor all your tears wash out a word of it."

This being true, I think we can safely say that the richest inheritance we Franklins will ever have was ours at birth. I speak of course, of the Franklin name, which came to us from a Puritan, and which with that splendor which shines out from lives nobly lived, on its highest level.

As you are well aware, our branch of the Franklin family can trace its past only as far back as my great-grandfather, Purnell Franklin, and his wife, Susan Alderman. Beyond him, there is a great abyss. Uncle George and Aunt Lucy have struggled valiantly to bridge this gap. Like Stanley and Livingston they have explored the heart of Georgia, South Carolina and North Carolina; they have peered at graveyards until their eyes grew weary; they have waded waist-deep in mud, through swamps, and we think them for it. Yet, although they have made some progress, the gap is still there. The name of Purnell Franklin's father and where he lived we still do not know.

What we do know about the Franklins is all to the good, and I say that not boastfully at all, but with pride and with deepest gratitude. I do not have a great store of facts about Purnell Franklin, but I do know this. He was a large landowner, hence probably, a hard worker and a good businessman. He was devoted to his church, and he and his wife raised some quite remarkable children. There are rare exceptions, but I believe one can say fairly accurately that children reflect their parents. Considered in that light, Purnell Franklin and Susan Alderman become figures of exceptional stature who were successful in the most important endeavor in life.

There was a baby when my grandfather, Jason Franklin, died. And I remember only one of his brothers, my Great-uncle Jasper, who was very frail and old when I saw him once at Upper Lots Creek church. What kind of people your Purnell's children? This story I think will give some indication. One day in Statesboro I was talking with Fred Kennedy, the son of Mike Kennedy who lived just across the branch here. Fred Kennedy told me:

People coming to the prison are from all walks of life. The rehabilitation program carried on there is designed to take care of the various groups. He pointed out that cabinet shop was for skilled carpenters whereas the average carpenter is used in maintenance work around the farm.

Industrial arts and home economics are given lots of attention under the best of supervision. Mr. Higgins stated. He displayed numerous leather articles made by the prisoners that were comparable to any found any place.

Many of the women become experts in the sewing room where electric machines for sewing and cutting garments are used.

J. H. Motta, president of the Bulloch County Rural Telephone Coop advised the group that the actual staking of lines had started and that three crews would be in action during the next week. He predicted that activity in the rural telephone program would pick up considerably during the next few days.

I had faint, unless I had believed to see the goodness of the LORD in the land of the living. I was on the LORD, he of good courage, and he shall strengthen thine heart; wait, I say, on the LORD.

IVANHOE W. O. Griner, a member of the board of directors for the coop, told the Ivanhoe group Friday night that the additional $87,000 needed to complete the

Hendrix of 8th grade wins Bulloch's 4-H Club talent show

By Mrs. John A. Robertson

Saturday night in the Bulloch County 4-H Club talent show which was held at the Laboratory High School in Statesboro, Lewis Hendrix, a member of the 8th grade of the school won first place in singing. He sang a solo, "Chattanooga Choo Choo."

How can we characterize these Franklins, all now dead? The men were devoted to their hands and loving fathers. They were in a strong sense civic responsibility that they served the public, two legislators and my grandfather, a clerk of the court of Bulloch county. They were men of substance—they were large landowners. They had a high regard for education. Children of my grandfather shared among them 11 college degrees, a most unusual record in that day, and one of the degrees was not only those who were educated, of their children and their children's children. Still they have something else about Purnell children, and no doubt this more important than anything else mentioned. They were all, without exception, devoted to their churches. They were consistently devoted to their churches. Indeed, they were very religious. We can say that their lives were dedicated to the glory of God. "What the chief end of man?" was the catchword. And the answer was, "to glorify God, and to enjoy him forever." It is the glory of God. Trust in them, in the beauty of the lives, fulfill the highest duty of a Christian. It is a priceless heritage.

It seems to me that we must have resolve to make our own way of them and of the sacrifice. All the best of us can, and should be, served in this. The Franklin name was bright with honor when we received it. And it is a sacred trust and duty to pass it on unblemished, a shining light to guide the steps of those who come after us. There is no higher loyalty than loyalty to the dead. They are not here to chide us or praise us. We are on our own now so to speak, but all these friends spirits watch our faltering course with highest expectations. This is a challenge to me. I place before you that we live faithful to all that is good and true, for the glory of God, for the service of our country, for our beloved family. May we be able to say someday with the great Saint Paul: "I have fought a good fight, I have finished my course. I have kept the faith."

—FRANKLIN FRANKLIN, MOREHOUSE.

Bulloch County Bank Has Birthday Began Business April 14, 1934

ON THIS, the eve of our Twentieth Anniversary, we pause to render an accounting of the trust that has been placed in us.

BACK IN the dark days of 1933 and 1934, it took real courage and vision to carry through to actual opening a new financial institution, but we based our confidence on the strength and stability of Bulloch county people, and in the strong belief that Bulloch county is the BEST agricultural county in Georgia, and with a determined faith in the American way of life, such plans were carried through. Following the leadership of the original Board of Directors, three of whom are still active in the management of the bank, necessary capital was subscribed.

WE PAUSE here in loving memory and lasting respect to Mr. S. W. Lewis and Mr. W. J. Rackley, their vision and determination, and to their wisdom in charting a wise course from the start. Their passing was a great loss. The present management feels very much its responsibility in carrying on in serving this territory as they had planned.

THEREFORE, at this time, the entire staff of the bank, directors, officers and employees, take this opportunity, on its twentieth birthday, to thank our customers and our friends who have made our growth and success possible. We have been greatly blessed and have tried to render every service possible, consistent with sound business principles.

BASED on our past record, and with a stronger determination than ever before to live up to our full responsibility, we invite the public to use our services in every way possible. We have unbounded faith in the future, and relying on Divine guidance, we pledge our best efforts toward building a greater nation.

BELOW is a comparison of our resources, showing the growth of our bank year by year, from a small beginning to the present:

Nevils M. Y. F. program committee plans to increase attendance

BY MRS. JIM ROWE

The Nevils M.Y.F. met Sunday, March 28, at 6:00. There was a good attendance.

The program committee for last Sunday night was Betty Lou Wilson, Alvin Burned and Winfred Riggs. We elected Winfred Riggs as publicity chairman. We thought if we let people know about our M.Y.F. we might have better attendance. The M.Y.F. sponsored a party Friday night, March 26, at the Nevils school gym. The party was greatly enjoyed by all.

CELEBRATES BIRTHDAY

Relatives of Billy Anderson honored him with a birthday dinner Sunday, March 28, at the home of his son, Harvey Anderson and Mrs. Anderson. The M.Y.F. sponsored a party Friday night, March 26, a large crowd attended and ## now is the time to HURRY HOGS TO MARKET ... on the Purina Program

The chart shows average hog prices at Chicago by months for the last 10 years. The peak of the hog market is coming earlier—it used to be September, then August. Last year's peak came in July. So hog men must make every day count to be ready when markets are best.

THE NEW PIG STARTENA, fed on the Purina Program, helps get hogs off fast—to market weight up to 2 weeks earlier. Thousands of Purina Program feeders are now marketing hogs at 5 to 12 months. That's because the Purina Hog Program is backed by years of research... built to get the most pork from home-grown grains... built to speed hogs along the market road.

CASH IN ON HIGH HOG PRICES by hurrying your hogs to market. Let us tell you more about the economical, easy-to-follow Purina Hog Program. It's built to send your hogs to market fast. Come see us... TODAY!

IMPORTANCE OF AGRICULTURE

By W. TAPP BENNETT

Director Development Department, Central of Ga. Railway

My friend, J. M. Eleazer, Extension Information Specialist at Clemson College, S. C., likes to play with figures and comes up with the following:

"In the United States a baby is born every 8 seconds on an average. And a person dies every 21 seconds. Every two minutes an immigrant moves in, and every 17 minutes one person moves out of the country. All of this happens down to the fact that a new person is added to our population every 12 seconds. That means 300 an hour, or 7,200 a day. And that grinds on constantly, 365 days a year. In a year it adds up to considerably over 2½ million."

This yearly population increase equals the total population of some of our Southern states. These new people must be fed, clothed and sheltered by products from our present farm acreage as we do not have available land to increase farm acreage in proportion to this population increase.

Former Secretary of Agriculture, Charles F. Brannan, in discussing the importance of agriculture, said that we all immediately appreciate the importance of agricultural production of food, but there are other facts about agriculture that need to be repeated from time to time.

He asked, "How many persons, for example, know that industries which produce 1/3 of all our manufactured products?"

Steele's Book Is Now On Sale At Bookstores

"I Was A Stranger" is a result of tireless and exhaustive investigation of the life of William Booth, the Salvation Army, and the social, economic, and religious forces that produced both. Mr. Steele has dipped deeply and thoroughly into Booth's past to find the source and purpose behind the enthusiasm, courage, and unflinching faith and conviction of the man who wanted to and did "go for souls and go for the worst."

From this the author comes forth a first-rate socio-biographer.

The story moves with the beat of The Salvation Army drums, awash with the voice of the evangelist, and spotlights with powerful imagery the host of drunks, prostitutes, criminals, blasphemers, historians, philosophers, and ministers who parade through biology at Georgia Teachers College, is a native of Atlanta. A biologist by training, experience, and profession with a secondary interest in sociology, he combines his interests and experience in both fields with a life-long curiosity and an eagerness to research and a forceful writing in producing his first major literary work.

Mr. Steele taught in the public schools of Georgia before his appointment to the faculty of Emory University. He joined the exact science division at Georgia Teachers College last year. The new author has done graduate work at Emory, the re-released volume, released March 24, is described by advance reviewers as "a great, outstanding, and unique work." It is on sale now at bookstores in Georgia and throughout the nation.

A combination biography and social analysis, the volume provides an excellently-written and powerful narrative account of the despotic but dogmatically faithful William Booth and his struggle and success at molding a new concept for modern religious practice.

Harold C. Steele, teacher of the Georgia Teachers College faculty, takes his place on the list of significant Georgia authors who have made their mark by Exposition Press of "I Was A Stranger," a comprehensive study of the life of William Booth and the founding of The Salvation Army.

The non-fiction volume, released March 24, is described by advance reviewers as "a great, outstanding, and unique work." It is on sale now at bookstores in Georgia and throughout the nation.
