BRIDGE PARTY FOR MISS VIRGINIA LEE FLOYD
Mrs. C. B. Matthews and her daughter, Mrs. Bob Pound, entertained with a bridge party Tuesday morning at the Pound residence honoring Miss Virginia Lee Floyd.

The lovely home, ensuite for this occasion where five tables were set up, was decorated in exquisite arrangements of Gloriosa lilies, pompon chrysanthemums, and roses. Enhancing the beauty of the cut flowers were the luxuriant house plants that are adapted to the spacious home.

Their gift to Ginny Lee was a dinner fork in silver pattern. Ginny Lee also won high score at bridge and received a hand-painted china bell. Miss Floyd is a member of the First Baptist Church, Savannah.

Survivors include her husband, Jack Gilbert, of Savannah; two children, Sara Ann and John, U. S. Army, Germany; two sisters, Mrs. Lettie Allen, Register, and Mrs. V. D. O. Jenkins, U. S. Farm Bureau

Farm prices would stabilize on permanent farm program

If Congress would enact a permanent farm program, prices for farm products would soon be stabilized and not fluctuate so much, H. L. Wingate, president of the Georgia Farm Bureau, stated to the West Side chapter Tuesday night. Mr. Wingate was a surprise speaker for the West Side Farm Bureau. H. W. Smith Jr., the West Side president, had a program arranged but when he found that Mr. Wingate would probably spend the night in Statesboro he arranged to have him picked up on arrival and carried to West Side for supper and to appear on the program.

Congress will probably adjourn without enacting a farm program that will prevent the 75 to 90 per cent sliding scale matter with an outdoor supper at their home last Friday night, July 30, this being his birthday.
