Polio victims need help now

Many questions concerning the blood program are discussed over the back yard fence. Therefore, there are many answers, either correct or in error, remaining to be settled. In an effort to inform the people of Bulloch county I will attempt to answer some of these questions.

WHAT IS THE BLOOD PROGRAM?

Answer: It is an effort of the Red Cross to collect blood with which to build up a blood bank sufficient to meet the demands of all hospitals participating in the program. Also to aid out people who enter a hospital which is not in the program; so a transfer can be made thus saving an unnecessary hospital stay where a commercial blood bank is operated. The blood is collected and deposited in the Savannah Blood Bank and as blood is drawn from the bank, the person, eliminating the burden of searching for donors with the same type of blood as that of the person involved in the emergency.

A person from Bulloch county may enter a hospital that is not participating in this program and may be charged as much as $50 per pint for blood but if said hospital is so informed the blood can be replaced from the blood bank, thus eliminating a large bill for blood.

Keeping the good earth good

If a thief in the middle of the night were to enter the gate of a Bulloch county farmer and steal his tractor, and burn down his barn, the whole community would be enraged and would join our farmer in search for the criminal.

Yet this farmer may be doing even worse than that to himself. He may be neglecting his farm by failure to use good conservation methods so as to do damage far worse than any human thief could do. If he is a stranger to kudzu, the contoured land, the terraces, to meadow strips, to cover crops, to pasture sod, and woodlands, then while his eyes are open a more sinister thief is doing his work of carrying farmer X's farm away and dumping it into the Atlantic ocean or Gulf of Mexico.

Next week has been set aside by the governor of Georgia as "Soil Conservation Week." It is well that all of us give consideration to this vital problem, for it effects all of us. As the soil goes, so goes the nation.

There is a familiar story in the Bible about a "Promised Land." It was a wonderfully rich country which God has promised His chosen people. When the Israelites came to the edge of this territory they sent out spies to investigate the land. Two spies, Joshua and Caleb, brought back a minority report which happily was adopted. They reported that they had seen "a land flowing with milk and honey... and exceedin' gland." In the 3,000 years that have passed since that time the land "flowing with milk and honey" has been so devastated by soil erosion "that the soils have been swept off fully half the acres of the hill lands.

The results is that the people are gone, and much of the territory is waste land worth literally nothing. It is regrettable that the ancient Hebrews and their posterity did not grasp the meaning of one of the sayings of one of their later spokesmen, a psalmist who wrote: "The earth is the Lord's."

It is a plain fact that we cannot live the good life without good land. Apart from water and air, all the real necessities of human life come from the soil. Name anything you wear, eat, feel, smell, see, and you can trace its origin back to the soil. Say, we are in debt to dirt! And we had better show our appreciation for "the good earth" by keeping it good. Our government has provided able guidance for taking care of the land. Let all of us, rural and city dwellers alike, cooperate in all worthy programs of conservation and help keep the good earth good!

It's no easy job to raise a champion

It was youth week in Bulloch again last week as Wade Chester and Joe Bowen took high honors at Bulloch county's first Fat Barrow Show held here last Thursday.

Wade Chester, a Future Farmer of America belonging to the Laboratory High School chapter, exhibited the champion barrow to win the show with his Duroc-Spotted Poland China cross. Joe Bowen, a 4-H Club lad of the Portal 4-H Club, won the reserve championship with his Spotted Poland China barrow.

This is the first time that a fat barrow show has been held in the county and was sponsored by the Bulloch County Livestock Committee, whose members are representatives of the Chamber of Commerce, the Farm Bureau, the vocational agriculture educational department of the State Department of Education, the Extension Service, and the banks of the county. The committee was set up to promote the progress and development of the livestock industry in Bulloch county for both adults and youth.

For these two young people we throw our hat high into the air. To raise hogs to a championship status is no easy job and so to Wade and Joe we say, "Well Done!"

Statesboro does it again

Statesboro does it again.

With the final returns in the Statesboro tobacco market has sold $17,062,422 pounds of the golden weed to lead the state of Georgia in sales for the 1954 season.

The Statesboro market did more than lead the state—it led Georgia-Florida flue cured tobacco belt for the season.

Despite the fact that we led the state and belt this year the market is short of the all-time high of 1953—when 20,277,938 pounds of tobacco were sold here.

Statesboro's sales of 17,062,422 pounds brought a total of $6,733,204, as compared with 20,277,938 pounds for $9,415,782 in 1953.

Total sales in the belt hit 188,432,627 pounds for $87,377,330.

We commend the warehousemen and the buyers who operate on our market here.

We commend the people who, through the years, have worked hard at making the market here the best in the state.

Let's do all we can to help them keep it the best in the state.

Dial phones another step forward

By now you have gotten used to the new dial telephones installed by the Statesboro Telephone Company.

By now you have discovered that you are getting improved service.

By now you have realized that the installation of the dial phones is another step forward in the progress of Statesboro and Bulloch county.

We commend the officials of the company on the step they have taken.

We believe that the new phones have made us all happier in our use of that important instrument in our daily lives.

Two people killed per hour is just too many

By VIRGINIA RUSSELL

Before the Labor Day holidays were over the radios were announcing the good news that fewer people were being killed than had been expected. Five people an hour had been the expected number and at this writing the number had been cut to two people an hour.

Two people an hour is too many. We all wonder what causes the wrecks.

Invariably, as we ride along someone will pass us and we all exclaim, "Look at that Motor!"

There are so many factors to consider. One is the psychological side of the man who seems obsessed with the power of his car. Get on the highway and there's always the man with the Cadillac or some new model high-powered car. He can't seem to be content if he doesn't pass everything ahead of him. He gets impatient to pass and does so regardless of where he is. Curves don't hold him back nor do double yellow lines.

It seems to be a well-known fact that engineers have carefully worked out the yellow lines on highways. When the double lines are seen, it is a sign that it is very unsafe to pass. Yet, any of us can count many people who never pay any attention to yellow lines, curves or hills.

A Thelass. It only they would be injured in an accident it would be easier to accept but everytime this type of driver innocently and carelessly kills a woman and often times children.

Then to the other extreme there is the forty-mile-an-hour man. Although he drives a good car he plays safe by keeping his speed to forty. He tries to get the water. One day on the highway but will not go above forty miles an hour. He often causes a three-way wreck.

There is the man who is trying to mix a drink with a drive with his cocktail. He causes many wrecks.

North Carolina is trying a new scheme to help cut down accidents on the highway. We have debated about the good that will be accomplished from such an idea. Whether the timid souls will be scared out of their wits and the speed demons will continue their fast ways and never go slow enough to see the signs, is the unsolved riddle.

Here is North Carolina's plan. All along the highway are signs that read such as: "Will an accident mar your trip?" "If you're over 55 you're lucky to be alive." "A driver who drinks needs a cop chaser." "Whiskey and wheels don't mix." "If you drink—Stop." "Will you make it?" "At 55 it's a safe bet."

At the bottom of a hill there was this sign, "Don't be impatient—it's a short hill." "The hill isn't long—neither is your life."

Other signs said, "Don't be half asleep—slow down." "A mile a minute—there's no future in it." "If you must kill yourself—get off the highway."

The signs continue, "Are you following too closely?" "Spend your miles in safety." "Get too fast—not too slow." "Are you driving yourself to death?" "Drivers' speed 55—social security 65." "Take heed—reduce your speed." "Have a safe enjoyable trip." "Don't watch out for the patrol. They can take care of themselves." "If your trip is too fast it may be your last." "Worst bargain you can find is a traffic fine." "Make courtesy your code of the road." "One friend to another—slow down, Brother."

As one drives on he gets more added by such as these: "Heavy foot, lead, curve ahead, stone dead." "A lot of late drivers tried to pass here." "Slow down, don't be like the one, dead ahead." "Center line is your life line." "Our kids we need, check your speed." "A minute you spare may get you there."

If these signs and warnings of other kinds help save lives, let's keep having these and still more.

Let's do all we can to help them keep it the best in the state.

Let's do all we can to help them keep it the best in the state.

HIGH AND DRY

During these recent weeks I have heard much about the lack of rain and the dry conditions in this section. The other day I saw an interesting thing between Sylvania and Statesboro. There is a little lake that has dried down to about one-half of its original size. Some months ago the owner put a boat in it. This was anchored in the water. Now it is truly high and dry.

This presents a picture that looks odd. A boat is supposed to be in the water. That is what it was made for. It usually goes on down with the water as it takes new levels. This abnormal condition makes us wonder what plans, purposes, and the values.

There is a principal of fitness and proper relationships in the life of our people and before this principal also may be observed in our surroundings. The other day I saw a wrecked car. This was not the intention of the men who put in the bolts that made it useful. But what a pile of junk it became!

At the bottom of a hill there was this sign, "Don't be impatient—it's a short hill." "The hill isn't long—neither is your life."

Other signs said, "Don't be half asleep—slow down." "A mile a minute—there's no future in it." "If you must kill yourself—get off the highway."

The signs continue, "Are you following too closely?" "Spend your miles in safety." "Get too fast—not too slow." "Are you driving yourself to death?" "Drivers' speed 55—social security 65." "Take heed—reduce your speed." "Have a safe enjoyable trip." "Don't watch out for the patrol. They can take care of themselves." "If your trip is too fast it may be your last." "Worst bargain you can find is a traffic fine." "Make courtesy your code of the road." "One friend to another—slow down, Brother."

As one drives on he gets more added by such as these: "Heavy foot, lead, curve ahead, stone dead." "A lot of late drivers tried to pass here." "Slow down, don't be like the one, dead ahead." "Center line is your life line." "Our kids we need, check your speed." "A minute you spare may get you there."

If these signs and warnings of other kinds help save lives, let's keep having these and still more.

Let's do all we can to help them keep it the best in the state.

Let's do all we can to help them keep it the best in the state.

Let's do all we can to help them keep it the best in the state.

Let's do all we can to help them keep it the best in the state.

BUT DON'T BLAME US FOR THE ALMANAC IS WRONG.

They've been having a little trouble down in Dodge county (Eastman) round 'bout election time in the past.

It seems that dead people have been taking part in the voting a lot of people vote more'n one time; a lot of people vote for other people who couldn't or didn't go to the polls; and such voting shenanigans.

But Edwin Methvin, publisher of the Eastman Times-Journal, got hot under the collar about the bogus vote and he allows how this time there won't be such goings on. According to their paper last week they plan to burn any voters who are caught voting irregularly yesterday and pointed them out will get a cash award.

A group who call themselves the Dodge County Better Voters League is sponsoring the cleaner elections. They offer one dollar in cash to the first person submitting to the newspaper a written list of:

1. The names of voters registered in more than one district.

2. Names of voters registered more than once in their own district.

3. Names of voters registered to vote in Dodge county, but who actually live out of the county. (This does not apply to voters entitled to use absentee ballots.)

4. Names of people who have been dead more than 60 days.

5. Names of voters registered under false names.

Dave Cadwell, Dodge county commissioner, says that he has heard of such things and that he will follow the letter of the law relative to publication of the names of people who voted in the hurry, impatient with the friend in front of us, ignoring our friends in the rear of us, and always angry that the light takes so long to change to let us on our way.

Too few of us realize that the person who is always a late in a hurry is the person who is always a late in a hurry. The person who is always a late in a hurry is the person who is always a late in a hurry.

IT SEEMS TO ME ... Max Lockwood

Have you ever stopped to think about the things in your life that mean the most to you? Have you ever stopped and examined yourself to see how you stack up in comparison to your neighbor in so far as happiness is concerned?

I really feel that if you will pause and think you will agree with me that it is really the little things in everyday living which decide whether or not a person is contented and happy.

If you are unhappy and have to force that smile when you greet a friend, then let all probability you are one of those people who have left a few things out of their lives. These few things are very small traits of character, yet when all the happenings concerning them are added together they give us a sense of happiness and joy which cannot be purchased for any amount of silver or gold.

When you see a happy person, stop and examine his attitude. You will find without exception that he is courteous to every living human, friendly to all who come his way, kind to the smallest animal, and is appreciative of every kindness extended to him.

There are so many of us who are impatient at the street with a grunt and an impatient smile lacking any sincerity or appreciation of friendship.

There are so many of us who hold on to our grudges and if we are saving them for some great occasion and deal them out like they are as valuable as gold. They are of great value to our happiness and their value cannot be measured in tangible assets. Many of us are even stingy with them when we talk and express our appreciation to our living God.

ALL'S FAIR

With the temperature soaring and politics hot... I feel like I'm broiling in a cannibal pot... But by the time this message gets to you... it will be all over. I may be eating stew. But on one thing you may rely... I voted with a feeling that it's not to die... I don't bother my neighbor or my friends... And when the battle's over and the fracas ends... Let's take victory or defeat with grace... And build our fences for another race.

Now these lines may seem like tommy-rot... There's truth in it, believe it or not.

JUST AS I try to get Genevieve Guardia to do a radio program with me this week, she's just before driving out of the garage, Atlanta bound with her mother, Marjorie Guardia. As to Genevieve's plans for the year, they're just in line with the smart things she's come up with in the past. Genevieve is leaving Statesboro around the 23rd of September for George Peabody College, in Nashville, where she will work for her master's degree in education. Genevieve will be one of twenty students from all over the United States who has been awarded a Carnegie Scholarship. So once more Statesboro has with pride a major honor that has come to one of our girls.

"NEW TEACHERS" are expected in Atlanta, and there we saw Jackie Zetterover pointing somewhere around the Artie Circle on a huge globe. And in the article underneath we find this—"Two young teachers, Jackie Zetterover and Mary Lou 'Sister Dupre' looked over some school books at Clark Howell, noting the modern textbooks."

Jackie will make a mighty pretty teacher for third grade at the new Marion E. Smith School. She was Pi Kappa Alpha Dream Girl of the South when she was a student at the University of Georgia in Athens, and on the Sequi-Centennial Council at Georgia. "Sister," also a University of Georgia graduate, will teach home economics at O'Keefe High School. She and Jackie are room mates. All the new teachers were feted at a luncheon on Get Acquainted Day at Clark Howell School.

WHAT'S IN A NAME? Mrs. J. M. Tinker comes up with the answer. On her birthday, which was Thursday, September 3, she was expecting her sister-in-law. They had written her that they were coming and had smoothed down any apprehension she might have. Others who felt because the six sisters-in-law are an exclusive club and they call themselves THE HUNGRY SIX. They told her that they were bringing their dinner along with them and she might prepare tea or coffee or whatever she felt inclined to fix. Mrs. Tinker, knowing to what lengths they went to have out-of-this-world reunion, decided she must do a little getting ready. Little getting really turned out to be a house-sized cake, iced in white and topped by two huge pigs made from the well-behaved icing. She gave the little pigs little pink noses and tails that curled to form the number 6—and spelled out the names of the Hungry Six. The girls drove in from Macon. They were in turn surprised by the festive air in the dining room where the table, overlaid with a lace cloth, was centered with the huge cake. There were roses from her garden and her table was set with Desert Rose by Franciscan. They witnessed the hungry pigs, the corn and corn silks that decorated the cake and practically became hysterical. Then they surprised Mrs. Tinker with a huge box simply filled with birthday gifts for her. The Hungry Six are Mrs. H. G. Tinker, Mrs. J. G. Harrison, Mrs. J. W. Williams, Mrs. E. T. Lavender, Mrs. F. E. Tinker and Mrs. Ruth Tinker. Cowan, all of Macon. I think that from now on they should admit that "We are Seven."

As ever,
JANE.
