We welcome General Instrument Corporation

And so now we know the name of the company which will operate the electronics plant in our community.

We are glad the news was released. It was like a shot in the arm. The plant has taken on new meaning to the people of our section.

We now can say "The General Instrument Corporation is establishing an electronics plant at Statesboro" and say it with a degree of pride and confidence. We can now explain to visitors that the General Instrument Corporation makes components for almost every major radio and TV set manufacturer, as well as for the military. We can say that the corporation has five other plants in the U. S. and Canada. We can say that General Instrument Corporation chose to come to Statesboro "because of the caliber of its people, who made it Georgia's Best Home Town."

There now is, a feeling of permanence attached to the General Instrument Corporation. Even those with only the most casual knowledge of electronics know that the future of electronics is without limit and that the new industry will be with us and a part of us here for a long, long time.

There now is the feeling that the General Instrument Corporation is a part of us. Many citizens of the community have an interest in the building, having purchased stock in the Bulloch County Development Corporation.

The corporation will become a part of our community sharing its responsibilities, its progress.

With its coming new responsibilities will be ours—there'll be new people to make Bulloch county their home in which to rear and educate their children. There'll be new responsibilities on our city government, on our schools. There'll be more and more responsibilities on our churches.

The coming of the General Instrument Corporation is a challenge of Statesboro and Bulloch county.

We must meet it with courage and confidence.

We welcome our new corporation to our community.

This And That Thru The P's Of Virginia

By VIRGINIA RUSSELL

During December it was my great privilege to taste the sweetness of fame. All my life I had wondered how it would feel to be among the noted, the famous and the illustrious. Then it happened before I knew it. The telephone rang and a friend said, "Have you read Piney Woods Pete?" I said "no." So the friend said, "Go read it."

I found the paper and lo, Piney Woods Pete quoted me, word for word but his article was not written about the same sort of thing I had written about. I had written about age and youth concerning the spirit but he was writing about age and youth as the physical limitations would interpret it.

At first I was put out by Piney Woods Pete. Then I remembered something. Poor old Pete just got stuck and he had to dig up something from somewhere. I forgave the old boy immediately and wished that I could talk to him about this very thing. It is true, I quote old Piney Woods this very afternoon.

Of course, there were many disillusionments connected with my short brush with fame. I discovered that, much to my sorrow, old Pete has many more local readers than I. Some readers of his wanted to know what I had written.

An aunt from Atlanta wrote that she wanted me to send her the piece. She said Piney Woods Pete sounded like an ignorant but that she was sure he must have more sense than he sounded like he had.

All of this recalled the time when Harold Martin started writing about his cat. We were having a discussion at a friendly gathering about Harold Martin's writing. Someone exclaimed, "I liked him fine 'till he started dragging in that cat of his."

One of our friends said, "If you had to fill up space in a newspaper every day you'd drag a cat in, too." Many a time since I started this "weekly" business I've longed to write Harold Martin an air mail, special delivery saying, "Dear Mr. Martin, please be so kind as to send me one of your cat's kittens."

The only thing is, I don't like cats, even to fill a space in the paper. They eat our birds. So, I've resisted the temptation this far. But if things get worse, Mr. Martin may be getting a request from Bulloch county.

My family never reads what I write so it is quite safe to write about them, provided some dear soul doesn't ask one of the members if he read the paper. Then I get in the dog house. But after a while they forget and then it is safe to write about them again. Nevertheless, I understand why Piney Woods got desperate. Anyway, it was nice of him to give me the great pleasure of making the front page of the Atlanta Journal.

But more than that, yes, you guessed, I've written another column—even though it may soon be replaced with ads.

DR. BROYLES TO SPEAK LADIES OF CHRISTIAN CHURCHES MEET

The ladies of the Christian Church (Disciples of Christ) of Statesboro and Brooklet will meet on Tuesday night, Feb. 22, at 7:30, with Mrs. W. H. Armstrong, Azalia Drive.

Dr. Vernon S. Broyles Jr., will be heard on the local radio Sunday, January 23, at 2:15 p. m. His talk is one of a series of talks "Find Life With God" being broadcast weekly. Dr. Broyles is pastor of the North Avenue Presbyterian Church in Atlanta.

The Little Theatre, founded in 1952 includes citizens of Statesboro interested in providing top-flight theatre entertainment. Five of Broadway's outstanding plays have already been presented.

Don't miss it. It's worth many times more than the fifty cents it will cost to see.

And it's strictly a community project.

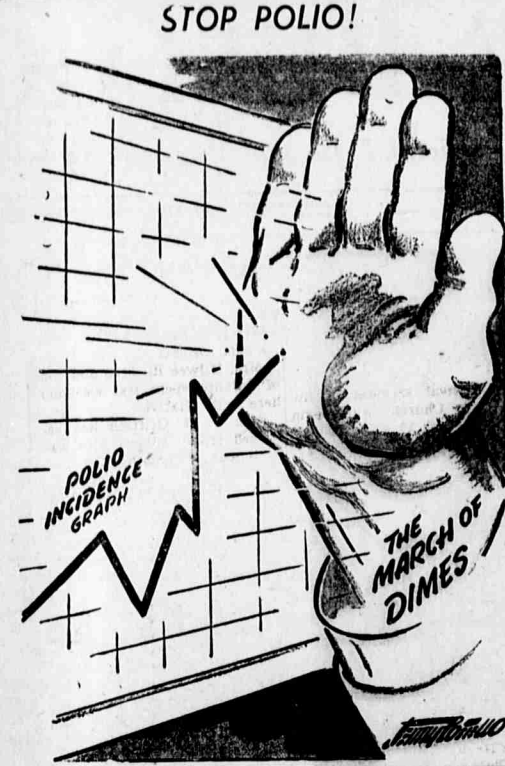

It's gonna be hard to stop them

We join the cheering section of the Port High School.

For up to Saturday of last week the Portals boys' basketball team had racked up 18 straight wins without a miss and show no signs of weakening. The girls are running the boys a close second with a record of 18 wins and 3 losses.

And the other Class C teams in the first district haven't yet figured out a way to whip these boys and girls from our neighboring Bulloch county community.

The district basketball tournament gets under way and our team from Port will play Sardis on Monday, February 21, at 7:30 p. m. at Metter.

The Editor's Uneasy Chair

THE GENERAL Instrument Corporation earned our respect and admiration last week when they made sure that the weekly press of Statesboro and Bulloch county carried the news of their coming to Statesboro before they gave it to the daily newspapers.

That was downright considerate and a weekly newspaper editor appreciates it very much.

Mr. Ernest Crown of Sidney J. Wain, Inc., who handles the public relations for General Instrument Corporation, called us on the news release would be on the wires in an hour. We had already finished making up our paper and had it ready to put on the press to print the last run when he called. We took up our front page, and stood by until the story came in. We made arrangements with Mildred Parrish at the Western Union to call us when the story began coming in. She did and as fast as she received it we rushed it to our Billy Gerald editor. But if things get worse, Mr. Martin may be getting a request from Bulloch county.

My family never reads what I write so it is quite safe to write about them, provided some dear soul doesn't ask one of the members if he read the paper. Then I get in the dog house. IT SEEMS TO ME... Max Lockwood

Last week you read the first in a series of articles which this writer is presenting to you. The reader, in the hope that those of us who live in Statesboro and Bulloch county will look closely at our communities and the problems we should be concerned with the steady growth of delinquency reported in every section of the United States today.

Last week in this column I quoted to you a statement from John Edgar Hoover, director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation. Mr. Hoover said in part, "In the next generation—teenagers—will commit 200,000 murders."

We have been fortunate in the communities in our area over the past several years. Most of our problems have been minor ones in dealing with juveniles and we have been able to handle them on the community level. I do not have the exact nature of the problem before me, but I do know that delinquency among juveniles no longer means that the affected child is one who just plays hooky from school.

One that drove his car over the speed limit, or one that participated in a little skirmish on the street corner. Delinquency today refers to actual crime.

Before we look fully into conditions on the local level in our own communities, let's look again at the delinquency problems that affect us as a nation.

In the January 14 issue of the U. S. News and World Report this national publication that is widely read and generally considered as one of the best for the presentation of the facts, carried the story, "Juvenile Crime—Why Law Fails to Stop Teenage Crime."

In this article some of the leading judges and other well-known personalities dealing with juvenile problems have passed in their work to the American people the actual conditions that exist today which have to deal with the problems concerning juvenile delinquency. Out of these facts the U. S. News and World Report has tried to list the causes of delinquency and some of the reasons why the law fails to stop it.

I shall present some of these listed causes, we go about the business of getting ready to prepare for our new crops. Help us lift ourselves up that we may be as good as though we were the children of the world. They were the kingdoms of our Lord. In his name we pray. AMEN.

THESE WE PRAY... DEAR HEAVENLY FATHER, we thank Thee for the future we tend to think only of the material benefit that results from it, so be patient with us if, after our brief business, we go about the business of getting ready to prepare for our new crops. Help us lift ourselves up that we may be as good as though we were the children of the world. They were the kingdoms of our Lord. In his name we pray. AMEN.

OUR YOUTH... Kemp Mabry

(Editor's note—We are happy to present the following article which was prepared by Dickie Gray of St. Simons Island, Georgia, who is president of the Brunswick Hi-Y Club and is the South Georgia Hi-Y council president. He is a member of the Glenn Academy football squad and an outstanding young man. He has made a commendable record already in high school student leadership. We anticipate a remarkable high school career and we believe his good influence will be enriched and extended even more during his remaining high school years.)

This is YMCA Week. To me, the YMCA means the Hi-Y Club at Glenn Academy in Brunswick, of which I am a member. I have often been asked, "What does Hi-Y mean to you?" The first time I was asked that question, I was caught in a web of confusion. That was when I first started my Hi-Y work.

Now I know what it means to me for I have learned, after participating in Hi-Y work, that it is a privilege, not only the tongue must speak but also the heart.

Now I can answer that Hi-Y means fellowship of Christian boys who have worthwhile objectives and a desire to help other boys find the Christian way of life. I say to high school boys to join the Hi-Y and participate actively and you will find what it can mean to you. You can get out of it only what you put into it. This way, it is a challenge and any good man can accept a good challenge.

In Hi-Y we strive to do four things: 1. To provide an opportunity for fellowship with other boys having Christian ideals.

2. To create a world brotherhood attitude among all boys regardless of social status, individual or inter-school competition.

To provide a challenge to do Christian deeds in the home, school and community.

4. To help other boys find the Christian way of life.

The history of the Hi-Y movement in the United States is rooted in the history of the Young Men's Christian Association. The latter was founded in 1844 by George Williams and 11 other young men in London who met to help each other put Christian principles into practice.

These young men, like so many today, were away from home, working in a large city. They felt the need, as all men should, for fellowship and moral and spiritual guidance.

In 1885, Dr. D. F. Shirk organized the Chapman, Kansas, High School YMCA, which later became the Chapman Hi-Y Club. This is the oldest Hi-Y Club in the United States with a continuous existence.

The term "Hi-Y" is an abbreviation of "High School YMCA." It was first used in Pittsfield, Massachusetts, in 1911. Now it is a nationwide term and stands not only for High School YMCA but it takes on a significance beyond what kind of person he is.

From such humble beginnings the Hi-Y movement has spread rapidly all over the world. Here in our own state of Georgia, we have one of the finest Hi-Y organizations in existence today. Our earliest records show that the first Hi-Y Club in Georgia was organized in Fort Valley in 1919. According to the latest count, there

January meeting of PTA held at Community House last Thursday

By Mrs. John A. Robertson

The January meeting of the PTA Teachers Association was held last Thursday afternoon in the community house. The meeting was held at the home of Mrs. J. M. McElveen with Mrs. C. B. Fountain, Mrs. W. F. Wyatt and Miss Louise McElveen co-hostesses.

The business meeting was conducted by Mrs. Hamp Smith. The program was arranged by Mrs. J. H. Wyatt. Malcolm Goss showed a picture of "The Ida Cas Gardens" at Chippy.

The Rev. W. H. Anselmy announced that the third quarterly conference of the Brooklet-New Hope-Nevis churches will be held at New Hope Church on Sunday morning at 11:30, February 20.

The revival services of the Methodist Church will begin Sunday, March 13, and will continue through Friday, March 18. Services will be held morning and evening. The Rev. Vernard Robertson, pastor of the Methodist Church at Swainsboro, will be the guest preacher.

Spending last Wednesday in the homecoming department of the school was Mrs. Van Horn of the State Department of Education. She spoke to the homecoming girls of the 11th and 12th grades on "Selections, Cars, and Making of Hats."

Miss Neva Jones, teacher trainer at GSCW, Milledgeville, also visited the home-making department of the school which is directed by Mrs. J. H. Hinton.

Last Wednesday was "Initiation Day" for a group of agriculture boys who had not been initiated previously.

The thirty boys were dressed in "twisted" farmer costumes, and Wednesday night the 70 agriculture boys met in the community house for the "final acts of initiation." This is an annual custom of the FFA organization. John F. Spence is faculty advisor.

Mr. and Mrs. John M. Belcher has issued invitations to the marriage of their daughter, Elsie Ruth, of Brooklet and Herman Eugene Schubert, lieutenant, United States Army. The wedding will take place Sunday afternoon at 4:30, February 6, at the Chapel of Wesley Memorial Methodist Church in Savannah.

LITTLE BOYS LOST—That's what we thought, but the boys themselves have a different story. Saturday night the local radio station alerted the people to be on the lookout for a little boy who had failed to show up at the respective homes by midnight. The boys were Joseph Neil, son of Dr. and Mrs. Ronald Neil, and Jim and Lenefesty, son of Professor and Mrs. Fred T. Lenefesty, who are neighbors on Park avenue.

Joseph and Jim saw no necessity for so much worry and anxiety. They were blazing new trails; pioneering beyond the horizons of their usual haunts. Modern travelers seeking out the greatest and most promising faculty that mankind has—just plain curiosity. As the search progressed, they came upon many clues that meant the "Kilroy" had been there. The boys, according to the broadcast, had been seen last at Claude Howard's lumber mill. They had been there and from there they found something to climb on—much more interesting than more horizontal bars—a high tree. To enjoy it more, they chose to walk the slender rails. They passed up the Recreation Center. It was the familiar instead of the new adventure they were seeking. They went on to see the new gym in the process of construction. At this point little Jim, a mere four-year-old to Joseph six years, suggested that they go see his Daddy's new office in the Laboratory School. So they negotiated quite a long distance.

By that time twilight had been replaced by the lights on Highway 301. Like moths they made their way to the spotlight at the Speed Oil Station. And you couldn't blame them for stopping there for there was a clown performing on a truck, and he was such a funny fellow. He gave them lollipops. The pangs of hunger were further satisfied by sugar lumps they got at Mrs. Bryant's Kitchen. Thus fortified they continued up main street, looking in all the windows. In front of one of the dime stores, Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Granger, on the way to a movie, spotted the boys. She Himmick announced that one of the boys was wearing a white snow jacket. Soon the boys were carried to the homes where mothers were... well they were mothers and that takes care of the way they fell.

Both Dr. Neil and Prof. Lenefesty praised the way our young people took part in the search. Dennis DeLoach, leading the explorer Scouts, Phillip Howard and George Carroll Hugin were organized groups as the hunt was on. The boys were apparently hosts to a lightning bug convention.

The boys, the little lost boys, protested. They were not lost. They knew exactly where they were all the time.

Personally I think we have many young people who are not lost. They know exactly where they are going and the finest thing about them is the fact that they like to have and seek the ones who are lost.

As ever,
JANE

FIRST FEDERAL HOLDS BANQUET AT MRS. BRYANT'S KITCHEN
On Thursday night, following the annual board meeting of the First Federal Savings and Loan Association held in the Director's room, the director and office personnel went to Mrs. Bryant's Kitchen for dinner.

Seated at the table were Mr. and Mrs. Horace Smith, Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Cone. Facing them at the end of the table were Mr. and Mrs. Barney Averitt and Mr. and Mrs. George Johnson. On each side covers were laid for Mrs. Earl Allen and D. B. Turner, Mr. and Mrs. Loran Durden, Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Taylor, Mr. and Mrs. Clara Cannon.

The table was centered with red roses and white tulips. After dinner the ladies drew for the flowers and Mrs. Taylor was the winner. The ladies in the group were presented glove clips. The men received leather identification tags for their luggage.

TALLY CLUB
On Wednesday afternoon of last week Mrs. W. D. Landquist was hostess to the Tally Bridge Club at the home of Mrs. Rex Hodges, a new party center. Dried arrangements were used in the decorations. Refreshments were served by the hostesses, Misses Sallie Riggs, Georgia Watson, Ella Johnson, and Mrs. F. W. Hughes. After the social hour, Mrs. Margie Guardia, president, called the meeting to order and introduced the speaker.

Using slides he had made in England, Mr. Averitt entertained the group with an illustrated lecture. In his own inimitable manner he gave interesting information connected with each picture and made every member feel that she had been on a special tour of England.

After the program, the regular business session was held.

POLIO AFTERMATH

VICTIMS NEEDING AID AT START OF EACH YEAR

The new $325,000 health and physical education building for Georgia Teachers College is expected to be completed and ready for use by June of this year.

This ultra-modern building, which will seat 3,000 people, will be the finest in the state of Georgia. There will be two basketball courts, three volleyball courts, two handball courts, and ten badminton courts. Dressing rooms will be available for all athletic teams and will include a training room with all the modern conveniences. Separate dressing rooms and showers will be provided for the visiting teams.

The entire physical education program, under the direction of Athletic Director J. B. Seavers, will be conducted here. The girls' dressing rooms will be on the east side and will have incidental dressing stalls and showers. The boys' dressing room on the west side will accommodate 102 boys at one time.

The gym floor will be of maple hardwood and lighting will be by 25, 100-watt bulbs. Plaster is being put on the walls at this time and tile will be laid in a few weeks.

JOIN THE MARCH OF DIMES JAN. 3 TO 31
Each year sees an increased number of polio patients from previous epidemics who can be helped by long-term care paid for by the March of Dimes. As the proportion of deaths decreases, the cost of mending lives for the thousands who survive steadily increases.

GTC Enrollment Rises Up Above Last Quarter
Georgia Teachers College's winter quarter enrollment of 598 students exceeds by 15 the figure for the previous quarter and marks the third time in the history of the school that such a situation has occurred.

Returning veterans in the two years following World War II entering GTC, 53 were men, hiked the winter quarter enrollment above that of the previous quarters, but the increase has not happened before in a normal year.

Miss Viola Perry, registrar, and other college officials believe this increase heralds the general expected trend of increased enrollment in schools and colleges for the next few years.

The registrar pointed out, however, that the increase this quarter does not represent a record in college enrollment, merely an increase over one quarter to the next. GTC's biggest enrollment was in the summer of 1950 when 1,104 were registered, she said.

Of the 598 new students enrolled during fall quarter completed their work for graduation. Forty-nine others dropped out of school. Eighty new students registered January 3, however, to push the new total over the fall mark.

John Akins gets big cotton yield

John Akins, a cooperator of the Ogeechee River Soil Conservation District, is learning by experience that row crops following permanent pastures pay big dividends. A four-year-old stand of fescue, white clover, and lespedeza was turned in the spring of 1954 with cotton and corn planted behind it. On 2.8 acres of cotton Mr. Akins harvested 3.5 bales and left a lot of late cotton in the field. The balance of the field was planted in early corn and as Mr. Akins said, "That was the best corn on the place." It was hogged off. He is also preparing to turn an old stand of Sericea and plant cotton in the spring.

Red Cross makes new plans for blood program

At a regular quarterly meeting of Red Cross chapters participating in the Savannah regional blood center held in Savannah Monday, January 17, representatives voted to adopt a new plan of blood procurement which will supplement the present recruitment plan.

Paul Franklin Jr., chairman of the Bulloch County Blood Program, stated that the plan which will become effective on May 1, is patterned after those plans which have been successfully operated by a number of centers throughout the county.

In announcing the plan, Mr. Franklin emphasized that there will be no charge for blood or blood derivatives given through the Red Cross, and that all emergency cases will be adequately provided for within the limits of availability. A person physically disqualified to give blood, upon reporting to a physician representing the Red Cross Blood Center will also receive a blood certificate.

During the past year receipts of blood under the current recruitment plan have fallen considerably below the thought of the officials of the Savannah Regional Blood Center, and it is hoped that the new plan of blood procurement will provide greater participation of donors but will strengthen the program in all other respects.

Under the plan, military personnel and their dependents will be asked to donate blood. However, I do want to use all cotton farmers to turn back to the committee the acreage they don't intend to plant so that it may be re-allotted to farmers who want to plant more cotton.

Under the provisions of the plan, those chapters in the region which have maintained their quotas for the past six months periods will not necessarily have to incorporate the new plan in their blood procurement program.

Persons who have donated a gallon of blood or more through the Red Cross will be issued cards good for the duration of the program, and a retroactive date of 180 days will be used in determining the first eligibility date in the opener of a double harvest.

The plan, which has been under discussion for a number of months, has the approval of the regional blood center advisory committees to the chapters.

THE REV. MARCUS JOWERS TO SPEAK AT CALVARY

The Rev. Marcus Jowers, pastor of the Crawford Street Baptist Church in Waycross, Georgia, will be guest speaker at both the morning and evening services at Calvary Baptist Church on Tuesday, February 8.

THE REV. MARCUS JOWERS has been pastoring in Waycross for several years and has done an excellent job of leading his flock. The public is invited to attend these services.

Farmers are urged to release unused '55 cotton allotments

NEW GEORGIA MASTER FARMER. The W. H. Smith Jr., family, Bulloch county, is a newly selected Master Farm Family of Georgia. The Smiths, shown with them, left are Bill and Lugenia. At right, County Agent Byron Dyer and Mr. Smith weigh pecans from the 50-acre orchard. Other crops are beef cows, hogs, laying hens, cotton, and peanuts. Mr. and Mrs. Smith are graduates of the University of Georgia College of Agriculture and Mr. Smith's father and mother are Master Farmers, having been selected in 1927.

Thousands of acres in cotton allotments for the state of Georgia may be saved for the state, if farmers who do not intend planting their full allotment in 1955 will release the unused acreage to their county committee for re-allotment.

Conceding that the First District alone which were not planted in 1954, may revert for re-allotment to other states unless farmers turn back to the local committees their acreage which they do not intend planting the First District Congressmen stated.

Cotton farmers who release their unused acreage to their county committees for re-allotment may reclaim this acreage the following year, Preston emphasized, but replanted cotton which is not released by the individual farmers may be lost permanently by the farmers individually, the counties and by the state as a whole.

Release of cotton acreage by farmers who do not intend to plant their entire allotment in 1955 should be made to the local committees before March 1 for re-allotment, Preston cautioned, to prevent the permanent loss of the allotment.

"Cotton farmers in the First District are suffering hardships this year because of acreage reductions," Preston said, but this situation would not be so serious if the unplanted acreage in previous years had been promptly released to the county committees for re-allotment.

"This is no time to cry over spilled milk," Mr. Smith asserted, "and I am doing everything possible to get an increase in cotton acreage for the year 1955. I want to use all cotton farmers to turn back to the committee the acreage they don't intend to plant so that it may be re-allotted to farmers who want to plant more cotton."

"This simple act of releasing to the committees the acreage the farmers don't intend to plant will protect his own allotment for future use, help his neighbors who want to plant more cotton this year, and prevent the permanent loss of this allotment acreage by his county and his state," Preston emphasized.

"We here in Statesboro are fortunate, but we must recognize that juvenile delinquency is creeping into our community," Mr. Lockwood said. He pointed out that just recently Statesboro authorities sent 10 teenagers to reform school. "You as tax payers will pay $8,000 a year to maintain these young offenders," he said.

Last year 17 teenagers were electrocuted in the electric chair in Georgia he added.

He pointed out that recreation people feel that creation of a committee to send out people to communities to help recreation programs will help fight the problem.

The Georgia Federation also steered to successful enactment laws governing child labor, child welfare, pure food and drugs, conservation and establishment of the Department of Forestry and Geology, fire control, auto

Max Lockwood warns Rotarians against juvenile delinquency here

Max Lockwood, Bulloch County's Young Man of the Year for 1954, and superintendent of the Statesboro Recreation Department, told members of the Statesboro Rotary Club Monday that unless the people of this community are extremely vigilant the problem of juvenile delinquency here can become a major problem.

Woman's Club to observe special week this week

This week the Statesboro Woman's Club joins the 307 other Woman's Clubs in Georgia in observing the week of January 31-February 6 as "Georgia Federation Week."

Since its organization the Statesboro Woman's Club has brought to an enormous influence upon the pattern of life in Statesboro. The Statesboro club working with the other clubs in the Georgia Federation has helped make possible many of the benefits vital to the welfare of the peoples of Statesboro, Georgia.

The club has worked continuously for better education and health facilities; for national and state legislation to children and infirm people; for all measures for the betterment of the families, mentally, morally, physically and spiritually.

The Georgia Federation of Women's Clubs ranks "first" in charting the course of state legislation for agriculture, extension service, county demonstration agents, compulsory education, free text books, consolidated schools, daily Bible reading in schools, free tuition, observance of Temperance Day in public schools, instruction in the nature of narcotics, establishment of the Academy for the Blind, establishment of the School for the Deaf.

The Georgia Federation also steered to successful enactment laws governing child labor, child welfare, pure food and drugs, conservation and establishment of the Department of Forestry and Geology, fire control, auto

Red Cross makes new plans for blood program

At a regular quarterly meeting of Red Cross chapters participating in the Savannah regional blood center held in Savannah Monday, January 17, representatives voted to adopt a new plan of blood procurement which will supplement the present recruitment plan.

Briefly, the plan provides that person giving blood through the Red Cross will receive a credit blood certificate entitling the donor and his family to blood for a period of six months, consistent with availability. A person physically disqualified to give blood, upon reporting to a physician representing the Red Cross Blood Center will also receive a blood certificate.

Paul Franklin Jr., chairman of the Bulloch County Blood Program, stated that the plan which will become effective on May 1, is patterned after those plans which have been successfully operated by a number of centers throughout the county.
