CAP to meet at Legion Club tomorrow night

Henry E. Clifton, commander of the newly-organized Statesboro squadron of the Civil Air Patrol, announces an important enlistment meeting Friday night, 8 p. m. at the American Legion Home.

Membership in the CAP is open to men over the age of 18, he pointed out, and he urges all persons interested in ground aviation to present to sign up for membership.

The main aim of the Civil Air Patrol is promoting civil aviation and cooperating with the government in case of national emergencies. The squadron will also be available for help in the case of local emergencies, Mr. Clifton pointed out.

One of the main projects of the local squadron will be the "FURY" training program, which has already begun organization. Under Clifton Anderson, commander of cadets and Harry Clifton, Jr., his assistant, the cadet program offers training in ground aviation to boys between the ages of 14 and 18.

Already represented in the membership are men from practically every business and professional interest in the Statesboro area. The commander emphasized the fact that a man doesn't have to be a pilot or a person experienced in some phase of aviation to be eligible for membership.

The CAP is open to both men and women, boys and girls (in the cadet training program). At the present time, however, the rolls are open only to men and boys. As soon as the organization is completed and the program expanded, membership will be open to women and girls, the commander said.

Officers serving with Commander Clifton include James L. DeLoach, adjutant and personnel officer; W. P. (Spec) Clifton, operations officer; Jack Lovelace, communications officer; Roy F. Powell, public information officer; George R. Kelly, maintenance officer; Dr. Albert Deal, medical officer; William J. Neville, legal officer; the Rev. Robert E. H. Peebles, chaplain; Clifton Anderson, commander of the Statesboro Squadron; and Harry Vause, finance officer. A number of additional appointments will be made later.

Working with Mr. Bazemore in the store are Mrs. Verna Mae Blitch and Mrs. M. C. Burton.

Burton's Shoe Store opened here February 10 and handles complete lines of men, ladies and children shoes and a complete line of hosiery.

CLEAN-UP DAY AT EUREKA METHODIST CHURCH APRIL 18

There will be a working at the Eureka Methodist Church on Wednesday afternoon, April 18, to clean up the church grounds and cemetery. All members and friends of the church are urged to be present. Thomas R. Newsome is chairman of the work committee.

Revival services will begin at the First Baptist Church Sunday morning with the Rev. Dr. Perry Chilton as visiting evangelist. He will be with the local congregation through Sunday, April 15.

Services will be held during the week at 7:30 in the morning and 8 o'clock at night.

Arthur Whitmore and Jack Lowe, well known duo-pianists, will appear on the third and last of this season's Community Concert Series on April 9. The program will be presented in the GTC McCracken Auditorium at 8:15 p. m.

According to Mrs. J. Curtis Lane, president of the Statesboro Community Concerts, music lovers in this area are fortunate in securing a concert by the two artists.

According to Mrs. J. Curtis Lane, president of the association, a large turnout is expected for this final concert. She reminds area residents that admission will be by concert ticket only. GTC students are to be admitted by identification cards.

OFFICERS FOR CIVIL AIR PATROL SQUADRON—These are the officers of the newly-organized Civil Air Patrol Squadron for Statesboro, an organization which is aimed at promoting civil aviation and which will sponsor a training program for 14 to 18-year-old boys of this area. The youngsters will receive full training in ground aviation at the local airport just as soon as the cadet program is underway. Above, left to right, (seated) are Roy F. Powell, public information officer; W. P. Clifton, training and operations officer; James L. Deal, adjutant and personnel officer; William J. Neville, legal officer, the Rev. Robert E. H. Peebles, chaplain, and Jack Lovelace, communications officer. Standing are Clifton Anderson, commandant of the squadron.

Jaycees to sponsor two GTC ballgames in May

Baseball fans of Statesboro, Bulloch county and the surrounding areas will get an opportunity to see the Georgia Teachers College baseball team in action at night on May 4-5.

It was announced by Jaycees president, G. C. Coleman, that the Statesboro Jaycees are going to sponsor two night games in cooperation with the Georgia Teachers College Athletic Department. The two games will be played on Friday night, May 4, and Saturday night, May 5.

The games will be played on the Statesboro baseball field. Georgia Teachers College will play its "southern" rival from across the Florida line, Florida State University. Both the Teachers College and FSU already have compiled winning records in this early season against good strong teams, and the two night games here, although a month away, are already shaping up to be the kind of baseball that the fans want to see.

The Georgia Teachers College athletic department, realizing that baseball fans in the area do not have the opportunity to see the Teachers College team because of afternoon games, asked the Statesboro Jaycees if they would sponsor a game. The Jaycees, always anxious to take on any project that will benefit the local community, accepted the offer. Speaking for the Jaycees, President Coleman stated: "We are more than happy to have the opportunity to work with the GTC athletic department in sponsoring the games. It will give baseball fans of this section a chance to see the GTC team in action that would otherwise not have the chance to see college baseball games that are played in the afternoon."

Tickets for the games can be secured from any Statesboro Jaycees. Admission is 75 cents for adults and 25 cents for students. There will be no charge for GTC students and faculty.

The proceeds that are derived from the games will be used to furnish uniforms for a Jaycees-sponsored Little League team in the Statesboro Recreation baseball program.

Revival services will begin at the First Baptist Church Sunday morning with the Rev. Dr. Perry Chilton as visiting evangelist. He will be with the local congregation through Sunday, April 15.

Services will be held during the week at 7:30 in the morning and 8 o'clock at night.

Miss Marjorie Crouch named Georgia's Teacher of the Year

Miss Marjorie Crouch of Statesboro, teacher at the Marvin Pittman High School, was named Georgia's first Teacher of the Year in Atlanta Friday night.

Miss Crouch received a handsome bronze statuette from A. L. Feldman, chairman of the State Chamber of Commerce education committee at the annual banquet of the state organization.

Miss Crouch was publicly lauded for her "warm-hearted interest in people... strength and stamina as a citizen of character and a credit to our democracy."

"Through you we honor all teachers and hope thereby to give to them in some measure an awareness of our appreciation," Mr. Feldman declared as he presented Miss Crouch the award.

At a noon luncheon Friday Miss Crouch and nine other candidates for the top teacher's title received aluminum figures representing a teacher and child. Teachers of the year from all Georgia systems were honored by the chamber at the luncheon attended by more than 600 persons from throughout the state.

Doyd Campbell, president of the United States Chamber of Commerce, told the luncheon audience, "Education was never more important than today. Teachers need more vital to the protection of human dignity and the preservation of a free society." He lauded the Georgia chamber's long-standing program of teacher recruitment and recognition as "setting a pattern for the entire nation."

The judges informed the director, Mrs. Isaac Bunch, that the Statesboro Choral group was "better than any other group who sang" on the day of the festival. The Statesboro choir was the only mixed choir of the entire region to rate a Superior. Much credit is due to the students of both choral groups who stayed after school one week in order to rehearse and perfect their selections.

The Statesboro and Bulloch County Chamber of Commerce honored Miss Crouch in special ceremonies at the Sallie Zetrow Elementary School here Friday night, April 7, when she was named Bulloch county's Teacher of the Year.

The first award for the national winner is $1,000 for the boy and $1,000 for the girl. A total of $30,000 will be awarded.

Miss Blitch is an undergraduate student at Georgia Teachers College and Mr. Deal is a senior at the Port Hail School.

The theme of the meeting is "To Royal Service." An inspiring program has been planned with subjects on Christian Service. The devotion will be presided by Mrs. J. L. Zetrow and the main speaker will be Mrs. J. Ray Lee.

The City of Statesboro endorses the Governor's Proclamation and urges all residents to take part in Spring Clean-Up Time. In cooperation with the Statesboro Woman's Club, many of our local paint and hardware stores will be offering you special purchases in paint and hardware items necessary for beautifying your homes, businesses, and grounds. Selection at the local level was made by fellow teachers.

Those who know her were not surprised

Those who know her were not surprised, just happy that recognition is given her for the wonderful gift she has in communicating with young people in her capacity as a teacher.

Miss Marjorie Crouch was named Georgia's Teacher of the Year in special ceremonies in Atlanta on Friday night of last week.

Her warm-hearted interest in people... her strength and standing as a citizen of character and her love for teaching has made this lady more than a fine teacher.

The complexities of modern day living, the constant pressures on our young people make teaching more than just holding classes and imparting information as set out in textbooks. It takes understanding, love, affection to teach our young, and these qualities have found their superlatives in our Georgia Teacher of the Year.

A statement by one of Miss Crouch's own students spotlights the basis of her greatness as a teacher: "Thank you Miss Marjorie, for making a human being out of me!"

We go along with Aristotle who put it this way: "Those who educate children well are more to be honored than those who produce them; for those only gave them life, those the art of living well."

We congratulate Miss Crouch upon being named Bulloch County's Teacher of the Year, then again upon her being named the district's Teacher of the Year and now upon her being named Georgia's Teacher of the Year.

It could not have happened to a more wonderful person.

Report on Rockwell

Manufacturing Co.

For those who entertained certain qualms about the Rockwell Manufacturing Company who bought the building constructed by the Bulloch County Development Corporation and now to be occupied by the Rockwell Statesboro Corporation, there comes information which should clear up their cloudy feelings.

We have just received the statement of Willard F. Rockwell Jr., president of the Rockwell Manufacturing Company, including the company's annual report.

Mr. Rockwell reports 1955 shipments up $6,500,000 to $82,947,000—an increase of eight and one-half per cent over 1954—and orders up $13,500,000 to $88,200,000, an 18 per cent gain.

Net earnings were $6,794,000, equal to $3.61 per share, as compared with $5,724,000 or $3.04 in 1954—a gain of 19 per cent.

Profits before income taxes increased $1,617,000 to a total of $13,618,000.

Orders during the company's fourth quarter were booked at an annual rate in excess of $100,000,000—and the improvement has continued during early 1956. The backlog of unfilled orders at the end of the year was approximately $13,000,000 — up 70 per cent from the first of the year.

The company is in a strong financial condition with net working capital up $2,750,000 to a total of $33,900,000. Cash increased almost $700,000 to a total balance of $7,600,000 at the end of the year—exceeding the total of all liabilities.

Sounds good to us.

The Editor's Uneasy Chair

SOMEONE ASKED us to explain "parity" as it is used to help our farmers.

That's a tough one. It's as complicated as the job of living is mixed up. But here's a try.

Parity is a complex formula for figuring farm prices, which takes into account the costs farmers must pay for their equipment and other expenses.

It is designed to help farmers by keeping their incomes in line with those of industry and labor, and to assure farmers of fair return on their investment and effort.

It hasn't quite worked out this way, as farm income, declining for the past five years, is now lagging behind that of other sections of American economy.

Right now it's being used as a political football and unless our leaders are careful the farmer is going to end up further and further behind a bigger and bigger right-hand.

THIS ONE HAS been going the rounds for some time. A friend of ours tried to remember it and we promised we'd look it up and use it here. It concerns the great baseball player, Babe Ruth.

Palpe, the gangly Negro pitcher, who offered to come out of retirement and help the Kansas City Athletics last year. He recited five wonderful rules for us. We can't think of nothing more soul satisfying than the thanks of these crippled children—one of whom could be yours.

Up goes our hat for two young people

This week we toss up our hat for another two of Statesboro and Bulloch County's young people—Charlotte Blitch of Statesboro and Julian Iverson Deal of Port.

These two young people were declared the winners of the Elks National Foundation Scholarship Awards for this section. They will receive cash awards of $100 each.

And we toss our hat just a little higher for Miss Blitch, for she went on to win third place in the Georgia competition and received a $50 bond.

These awards are made by the Elks and were based on scholarship, citizenship, personality, leadership, perseverance, resourcefulness, patriotism and financial need.

We commend the Elks upon their recognizing these young people, and we congratulate these two young people upon their accomplishments which won them the awards.

Miss Marjorie Crouch hailed Teacher of Year

ALL TEACHERS SHARE IN DESERVED HONOR

The Atlanta Constitution

Yesterday Georgia Business, professional and government leaders paid deserved and fitting tribute to perhaps the most important professional group in the state, our teachers.

The event, proclaimed as Teachers Day by Gov. Marvin Griffin, was sponsored by the Georgia State Chamber of Commerce and they could not have chosen a more worthy undertaking.

The day was climaxed with a banquet honoring the "Teachers of the Year" selected in each congressional district. Named as the state's first "Teacher of the Year" was Miss Marjorie Crouch, who is an instructor in the elementary school at Statesboro.

It is unnecessary to repeat all the reasons why Miss Crouch was selected. It is sufficient to say that she has shown all those qualities associated with the best in her profession—a professional, an excellent teacher, a person of high character.

The honor that has come to Miss Crouch is shared by all teachers in the state and there are 29,000 of them—all contributing to the education of Georgia through selfless work with the state's children. Every citizen of the state is grateful and recognizes the debt owed to these splendid men and women.

There has been a loss of public faith lately about the progress being made in this state. Much of it is correct. As the contest for the world moves into the field of education, we congratulate Miss Crouch, all the teachers, and the State Chamber of Commerce, for their part in this contest.

Actually, though, as Miss Crouch intended in accepting her bronze statuette, she is essentially a symbol of hundreds of other teachers who, in their dedicated and quiet way, daily are going about their tasks of educating Georgia's youth.

A. L. Feldman, education committee chairman of the State Chamber of Commerce, struck a similitude in making the presentation. He said:

"Through you we honor all teachers and hope thereby to give them the measure of an awareness of our appreciation."

Incidentally, the first Teacher of the Year was chosen in the First Congressional District. The Georgia Chamber of Commerce, and Mr. Feldman in particular, are to be congratulated for the enthusiastic, dignified way in which they conducted the Teacher of the Year competition.

Mr. J. Clyde Mitchell, a co-operator of the Georgia River Soil Conservation District has been named Georgia's first Teacher of the Year. He is also building terraces for protection of his buildings and lots. Mr. Mitchell is establishing a permanent grass on 30 acres of new ground and if needed, will use it as a base for crop rotations. All in all he is doing an excellent job of soil and water conservation on his whole farm.

More farmers all over the county are fertilizing their crops this year than ever before. This is a very healthy trend and we hope it will continue. There are a few points to be noted.

Need for people to recognize cancer danger signals shown

The need for people to overlook the danger signals for cancer was shown to the West Side Farm Bureau group Tuesday night of last week in motion pictures by Mrs. Chuse Smith and Mrs. Roy Smith.

When asked to head the cancer program in their community, these ladies felt that perhaps the best bet would be to give their neighbors the latest known information on how to detect possible cancer infection. They presented the motion pictures by Mrs. Chuse Smith and Mrs. Roy Smith.

Denmark H Club

The regular meeting of the Denmark Home Demonstration Club was held at the school March 21, with 13 members present.

Mrs. Clyde Dixon, the president, presided. Mrs. A. G. Rucker gave the devotion.

Mrs. J. T. Whitaker gave an interesting report on dairying and the importance of good wholesome milk in the diet.

Hostesses were Mrs. J. M. Lewis, Mrs. A. G. Rucker and Mrs. H. D. Lanier. Plans were made for the style or dress review next month.

Mrs. Thigpen showed the group a folding serving cabinet that could be made very easily and at little cost. She took orders for material to make these cabinets at the next meeting. The next meeting will be held at the Nevils Lunch room at 2:30 instead of the usual hour.

During the social hour the hostesses served sandwiches, fruit squares with cream, toasted pecans and Coca-Colas. Eighteen members were present. Mrs. Beverly Thigpen was a visitor for the afternoon.

DAIRY PRODUCTS FIGURES

While Georgia's dairy cow population gets smaller, the quality and quantity of milk is increasing, according to John Conner, Extension Service dairy marketing specialist. The 353 thousand milk cows on Georgia farms in 1955 were 3,900 less than the number in 1954. However, the Georgia Dairy Herd Improvement Association's testing year, 1954-55, ended with an average production per cow of 6,863 pounds of milk, 112 pounds better than the previous year's average.

Dr. John H. Venable, chairman of the committee and assistant to the director of the State Health Department, said the amount of vaccine being used in Georgia under the federal vaccine program is not sufficient to meet present requests for second shots.

"Even though in November and December there was a temporary lag in requests for milk vaccine, the rate has increased rapidly," Dr. Venable said. "At that time we were afraid some of the vaccine on hand at the local health departments would expire without being used. The picture is completely reversed now."

Those present agreed with Mr. Martin. The group voted to meet at 8 p. m. during the next few months.

STILSON FARM BUREAU

The probable method the soil bank program will apply to local conditions were discussed at Stilston Wednesday night, March 22.

Mrs. Gear gave a very informative talk on "Good Breakfasts" from a nutritional standpoint, after which several of the ladies took part in a skit called "Puppet Breakfasts."

Mrs. Thigpen showed the group a folding serving cabinet that could be made very easily and at little cost. She took orders for material to make these cabinets at the next meeting. The next meeting will be held at the Nevils Lunch room at 2:30 instead of the usual hour.

Tax deadline gets nearer

Less than three weeks remain to prepare your federal income tax return and pay any taxes due to your district director of Internal Revenue. That was the word today from Paul Cobb, director of the Georgia revenue district.

He urged taxpayers of Georgia to get to work at once on their returns if they have not already begun such action.

A necessary preliminary to preparing a correct and proper return, Mr. Cobb said, is complete records of an individual's business financial operation during 1955. With these in hand, he pointed out, preparation of the tax form should not be too difficult a task.

The Internal Revenue offices will be able to furnish information over the telephone where of taxpayers do not involve complex problems. Personal taxpayer assistance where matters of extensive security or property holdings are not involved may be obtained at the local offices, but Mr. Cobb urged all taxpayers with complicated financial statements to consult the services of qualified tax consultants.

Two benefits follow early filing and payment of income taxes, Mr. Cobb stressed. One is avoidance of last-minute

A circular letter received by the editor and we presume by many others, advertises a big "savings" on fire and automobile insurance to which we have the following reply:

"No, thanks! We shall be obliged to reject the offer. We get reasonable insurance rates by purchasing our insurance protection from established, reputable local agents who are here on the ground and whose services will be available should we have a loss against which we are protected in the standard insurance policies in our state. We would not be obliged to indulge in lengthy correspondence with some stranger in Kalamazoo, or Timbuctoo. The local boys would be on the job, would check and report the loss, and settlement would be made without difficulty or quibbling.

"Moreover, the established insurance agents are our friends and neighbors. They help support our schools which two of my kids attended for about 10 years, and from which they were graduated; they help support the churches that provide me and mine spiritual stimulation; they help support the police agencies that protect my property against plunder; they help support the fire department that protects my property against fire; they help support the city, school district, district, county and state governments that bestow many blessings upon me.
