THE BULLOCK HERALD

Dedicated To The Progress Of Statesboro And Bulloch County

STATESBORO, GEORGIA, THURSDAY, AUGUST 9, 1956

NUMBER 39

Mayor pledges city's support in mosquito control

This week Mayor W. A. Bowen pledged the full support of the Mayor's office and city government in striving to eliminate the mosquito problem which has reached such tremendous proportions in Statesboro during the past weeks.

The Mayor's pledge came after a conference with James Bland, City Engineer, Dr. Hubert King, medical director, Bulloch County Health Department, and Jack Wheelch, district public health engineer.

The Bulloch County Health Department is currently making a survey of the city and surrounding areas in an effort to locate mosquito breeding places. This survey will continue in order to pin-point areas of heavy mosquito breeding.

The City of Statesboro conducts a mosquito and insect control program each year under the direction of James Bland.

This program includes larvicide spraying of the entire city and surrounding area to points a mile beyond the city limits at regular intervals during the mosquito breeding months.

However, this year the mosquito population has been so great that the Mayor and Health Department feel that extraordinary measures are needed to combat this problem.

In order to bring the problem under control, Mr. Bland will increase his program and ditches will be larviced twice weekly instead of once a week.

The larger ditches will be cleaned out. The Bulloch County Health Department will assist the City Engineer in surveying mosquito breeding areas.

Realizing that the city cannot do this job alone and that mosquitoes breed everywhere, Mr. Bowen and Dr. King are making an urgent request that everyone in the city assist in this program by removing any breeding places from their property.

The following suggestions were made to home and property owners concerning their role in this undertaking:

1. That low areas on the property be either filled or drained to prevent water from standing. Should it not be possible to immediately fill or drain these low areas, the Health Department will be glad to check for mosquito breeding and give advice concerning larvicide.

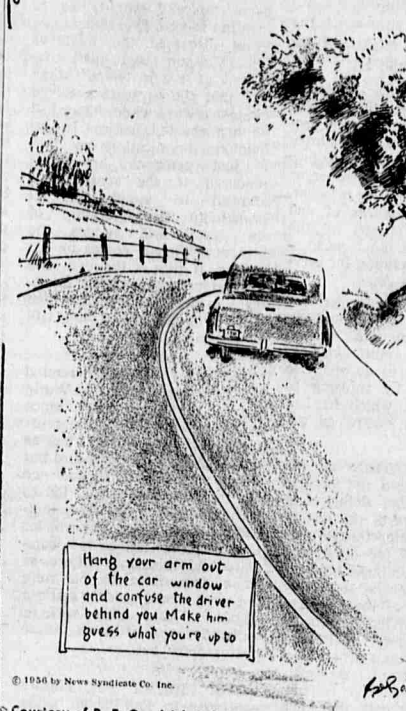

2. That all lots (especially vacant ones) be cleared of weeds, grass and brush cut regularly.

3. That tin cans, bottles, old tires and the like be removed from the property. It is true that these are small items, but a sufficient number of such taken collectively present a big problem.

4. That any area suspected of breeding mosquitoes in or near the city be reported to the health department. Such areas will be investigated.

"Your assistance in this program is urgently needed to help eliminate this problem," the Mayor said.

Bloodmobile visit set for August 13

Miss June Hargrove, chairman of the Bulloch County Bloodmobile program, announced today that the next regular visit of the Regional Bloodmobile will be Monday, August 13, at the Recreation Center.

Miss Hargrove calls attention to the change of the hours when the bloodmobile will be in the city. She states that Monday the hours will be from 3 p. m. to 8 p. m.

The Bulloch County chairman recalls the "wonderful showing" county made on the emergency visit of the Bloodmobile recently when over 100 citizens of blood were donated.

She emphasizes the constant need for blood and the part the individual plays in the program. She points out the advantage of becoming a donor, "for it entitles you and the members of your family to blood from the blood bank should the time come when you need it in a hurry," she said.

She commends the members of the Grey Ladies who contribute their time and efforts by helping at the Recreation Center on the days the Bloodmobile comes here.

The revival services will be held at the Elmer Baptist Church. The Rev. Paul Strickler, a former pastor of the Elmer Baptist Church, will preach the dedicatory sermon and Dr. Leslie Williams will give the prayer of dedication.

The revival services will be held Monday, August 13, and continue through August 18, with services daily at 11 a. m. and 8 p. m.

The Rev. Marvin Taylor, pastor of Macedonia Baptist Church, will do the preaching and Mr. Robert Zetterer will lead the singing.

All members of the church and former members and visitors are urged to attend.

Polio immunizations will be given at the health center as follows: Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays, 9 a. m. to 12 noon and 1 p. m. to 5 p. m.

Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays, 9 a. m. to 12 noon. Parents are reminded that other immunizations such as tetanus are also given at this time. It is important that children entering school be protected against these diseases.

Polio vaccine program in B. C. is still lagging

In June of this year the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis estimated that there were some 5,640 children in Bulloch County who needed to complete the second injection of Salk polio vaccine to protect them against polio.

In an effort to provide this protection, the Bulloch County Health Department began an intensive campaign during the month of July with the assistance of the Statesboro Business and Professional Women's Club, Radio Station W.W.S., and the Bulloch Herald and Bulloch Times.

As part of this program, the Health Department held county-wide clinics last week. Unfortunately only a small number of those eligible attended these clinics. During the week some 368 children received the polio shots in the nine county clinics held. Of the 368 children receiving these shots, 390 have completed the second shot (initial series) and ninety-seven completed the third shot (complete series). Two hundred thirty-six children received the first shot.

Results of the county clinics with number of polio immunizations given are as follows: Register, 44; Portal, 53; Nevils, 114; Middleground, 60; Leefield, 11; Brooklet and Stillson, 36.

In addition to the county clinics, the Bulloch County Health Department gave 538 polio immunizations during July at the health center. Of this number 300 completed either the "initial" or "complete" series.

The Health Department estimates that there are still approximately 5,400 children in Bulloch County who need to complete the second and third polio shots. In addition, an estimated 3,600 children who have completed the second shot are now eligible and need to receive the third to complete the total series.

Due to the necessity for concentrating on other public health programs, the Health Department will be unable to devote more special effort to this program. However, it is hoped that the parents of children needing polio shots will take advantage of the regular immunization clinics at the health center during the month of August.

Polio immunizations will be given at the health center as follows: Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays, 9 a. m. to 12 noon and 1 p. m. to 5 p. m.

Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays, 9 a. m. to 12 noon. Parents are reminded that other immunizations such as tetanus are also given at this time. It is important that children entering school be protected against these diseases.

The Georgia delegation will include the 64 official delegates, along with members of Congress and state celebrities as Mr. Myrt Power, baseball expert of TV fame.

John Sammons Bell, state party chairman and U. S. Rep. Mrs. Iris Blitch of H. S. Rep. Mrs. Blitch of Chicago this week and other counties in the First District that Bulloch County is supporting and backing Mr. Preston.

Supporters of Mr. Preston are also using a mailing system which includes a letter enclosing six post cards urging the support of Mr. Preston with the request that the receiver of the 64 delegates will have a half vote.

Here is how Georgia gets its thirty-two votes: There are two votes for each of the state's ten Congressional districts. That takes care of twenty votes. Then there are two votes for each U. S. senator, for another four. Georgia gets the remainder of its votes as a kind of "bonus" for party loyalty.

There are four votes because the state went Democratic in 1948. Then there are four more, because the state went Democratic again in 1952 and also elected a governor and a U. S. senator who were Democrats.

Mr. Williams is Bulloch county's unopposed candidate for the Georgia Senate in the forthcoming primary.

Tobacco market here totals 6,924,576 lbs. for $3,050,810

At the finish of the first ten days' sales on Tuesday night, August 7, the Statesboro tobacco market had sold 6,924,576 pounds of tobacco for a total of $3,050,810.63. For the first ten days of the 1955 season the local market sold 6,924,042 pounds for a total of $3,460,628.74. Total 1955 sales were 15,545,430 pounds for $7,164,812.82.

At the end of the first five days, as reported last week, the local market sold 3,460,312 pounds for a total of $1,467,520.69. The day by day sales for the second five days were as follows:

Wednesday, Aug. 1, 706,028 pounds for $300,712.51.
Thursday, Aug. 2, 700,088 pounds for $312,531.47.
Friday, Aug. 3, 680,478 pounds for $313,723.93.
Saturday, Aug. 4, 673,648 pounds for $316,950.89.
Sunday, Aug. 5, 704,024 pounds for $339,370.14.

Some of the better grades of tobacco have been hitting peak prices this week as there was a stronger demand for better grades and some medium and lower grades.

There has been a steady increase in the average daily price on the Statesboro market for the past three weeks. Buying companies seem more eager and some grades gained as much as $2 a hundred pounds.

The market here had full sales Monday and Tuesday, and another full sale was expected Wednesday. The daily sales have been running around 675,000 pounds to 700,000 pounds as compared to 725,000 to 750,000 last year. Tobacco is being marketed in smaller piles or the leaf is lighter.

With the improving prices the volume going into the government continues to fall off. Bulloch County growers were hitting the high price field this week and several crops averaged farmers 58 to 61 cents.

Statesboro Shrine Club prepare for big meet

The Statesboro Shrine Club held a called meeting Monday evening, August 6, at Mrs. Bryant's Kitchen with President R. H. Thompson presiding. Ladies were invited guests as the for the forthcoming Fall Ceremonial to be staged in Statesboro on Tuesday, October 9. The Potentate Robert E. Falligant and Mrs. Falligant of Savannah were guests of the club with Potentate Falligant making a short address to the assemblage on the meaning of the ceremonial, the good time it will bring and the hard work that must go into its making.

The headquarters for the Cere-

SHS building on Grady St. in poor condition

The local white school is located on West Grady Street on a site of about six acres on the edge of a white residential section. The site is divided by a city street. Organized games requiring site area are played at another location. The site area is considered inadequate for the grades and some medium and lower grades.

The plant contains (a) a three-story brick high school building constructed in 1921 with an addition constructed in 1950 containing twenty-five instructional rooms including two shops, a science laboratory, a home-making unit, a commercial unit, a library, a cafeteria, an auditorium and a canteen.

(b) An old elementary brick building constructed in 1903 which has been abandoned. (c) A brick gymnasium in satisfactory condition and (d) a wooden frame band building with practice room and storage facilities.

The plant contains the following instructional facilities: (a) After needed changes in the main building plan, there should be eighteen satisfactory units having sufficient space for library, two shops, a science laboratory, a choral room, a home-making unit and regular classrooms.

The three-story building is heated by an oil-fired central heating system which is relatively new. The artificial light the old portion of the building is very inadequate. The new portion has fluorescent lights.

Revival services at New Hope

Revival services begin at New Hope Methodist Church Sunday, August 12, at 8 p. m. and will continue through Sunday, August 19.

The New Hope Church is one of the oldest in the county and is now in its 125th year.

Special plans have been made for the meeting for children and adults. Arrangements have been made for special music. The pastor will lead the congregational singing.

The sermons for the services will be given by the Rev. Raymond Wilder, pastor of the Cokesbury Methodist Church in Savannah. Rev. Wilder was born in Macon, Georgia, and educated at Ashbury College and the University of Kentucky. He has spent most of his ministry away from his native state. Mrs. Percy Bland, Ceremonial to be staged in Statesboro on Tuesday, October 9. The Potentate Robert E. Falligant and Mrs. Falligant of Savannah were guests of the club with Potentate Falligant making a short address to the assemblage on the meaning of the ceremonial, the good time it will bring and the hard work that must go into its making.

LUNCHEON GIVEN FOR MISS SMITH
Miss Seaborn Smith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. B. L. Smith of Savannah, was guest of honor at a luncheon August 2 given by Mrs. J. C. Hines at her home on College Boulevard in Statesboro.
Arrangements of pink gladioli, lilies, and carnations formed the decorations. Place cards were miniature brides and lace wedding bells.
Attending were Miss Marion Smith, Miss Rosemary Smith, Miss Mary DeLoach, Miss Julia Morgan, Miss Mary Lee Smith and Mrs. B. L. Smith, all of Savannah. Miss Willette Woodcock, Miss Ann Lamb, Miss Jane Richardson, Miss Lavenia Bryant and Miss Sandra Martin, all of Statesboro.
Mrs. Hines was assisted in serving by her mother, Mrs. J. G. Moore.
Miss Seaborn Smith, bride-elect, was honor guest Wednesday at a Coke party given by Miss Mary DeLoach.
The hostess entertained at her home on Fifty-second Street, east, where mixed summer flowers were used in decorations. The honoree was presented a gift of linen.
A number of guests were invited.

MRS. C. H. ZISSETT, REV. HARRISON OLLIFF HONORED ON BIRTHDAYS
Mrs. C. H. Zissett entertained Sunday, July 29, with an out-door birthday dinner at the Zissett home near Statesboro honoring her husband and their minister the Rev. Harrison Olliff, both of whom have birthdays on July 26.
Friends and relatives came from many places in response to the invitations. Those near by brought well-filled baskets. Mr. and Mrs. Zissett, Rev. Olliff, and their families, and many guests, enjoyed a delicious meal. The honoree was presented a gift of linen.
A number of guests were invited.

MRS. BOWEN HOSTESS TO THREE O'CLOCKS
On Thursday afternoon Mrs. W. A. Bowen entertained the Three O'Clocks at her home on Savannah Avenue. Her room was decorated with yellow marigolds and magnolia leaves. A salad course and Coca-Cola was served.

Politics and Weather

August in Georgia usually means politics and hot weather and this year is no exception. Both generally get "hot" about this time.

As citizens of the state, the 240,000 rural electric consumers of Georgia who belong to the 41 co-operatives will be listening to the voices of all candidates with the idea of voting for the ones who will do the best job for our state.

This is the democratic voice of America in action, just as the members of the Georgia co-operatives use their democratic voice in determining the affairs and operations of their rural electric.

Each member has a vote in the operation of his cooperative. It is his privilege to give direction to the enterprise which has brought electricity to the rural areas. In the operation of the rural electric co-operatives, Georgia's 240,000 member-consumers have learned that each person is important. So is the voting expression of each Georgian in the state governmental affairs.

Each of the 240,000 rural electric consumers-members urges you to express your feelings at the ballot box. Now is the time to learn who the candidates are and what they stand for.

Mrs. Jerry Minick entertains for Miss Leona Newman, bride-elect

By MRS. JOHN A. ROBERTSON

Last Friday afternoon Mrs. Jerry Minick entertained at her home with a lovely party honoring Miss Leona Newman whose marriage to Horace Eugene Knight will take place August 19.

Her theme in floral arrangements and refreshments was pink and white. On the mantel was an arrangement of pink coral vine, flanked by twin miniature dolls, dressed as brides, with their bridesmaids. Each table also had as a centerpiece the tiny brides and bridesmaids.

In the bridal contests prizes were awarded to Miss Newman and Miss Barbara Griffith. Pink and white frozen cake and ginger ale were served.

Invited to meet Miss Newman were Mrs. C. R. Ryals of Savannah, Mrs. Jack Gardner of Blitchton, Mrs. Franklin Lee, Mrs. Jerry Kitchener, Mrs. Warrick Denmark, Misses Jane Robertson, Jimmie Lou Williams, Barbara Jones, Betty Snyder, Barbara Griffith, Faye Sanders, Elizabeth Hagan, Betty and Faye Hagan.

Mrs. Minick presented to Miss Newman a dinner plate in her honor.

Teen-age group slow to request polio vaccine

Although there is plenty of vaccine on hand now for all residents of Georgia between six months and 19 years of age to receive complete immunization against polio, the response has been slow, according to Mrs. Sara V. Thigpen, Bulloch county health demonstration agent.

Miss Lucille Higginbotham, health specialist for the Agricultural Extension Service, in a letter to Mrs. Thigpen, said Dr. John Venable, assistant director of the Georgia State Department of Health and chair-man of the polio committee, reports the response of the age group, 15-19, very slow since they were made eligible in May. The response for third injections also has been lagging since vaccine was made available for third injections in June.

Dr. Venable advised that second injections be given not less than three weeks after the first shot, although this interval may be less than several months. The third shot, should be given not less than seven months after the second one.

"The vaccine is available to all health departments and all private physicians in the state," the polio chairman explained.

We hope she will soon be better.

Mr. and Mrs. Larry Boen of Guyton visited the H. N. Shurlings and went to the tobacco market at Statesboro one day last week.

Do you know what happens at the Stilson Presbyterian Church every Sunday. Why not come and see?

Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Lewis of Savannah are planning to build a new home here and move to the country next year. We wish them the best of luck in their undertaking.

Fishing worm growers have their troubles, too. Extension Service Entomologist C. R. Jordan says they have been bothered in recent years with heavy infestations of mites in their worm beds.

"There is, of course, no charge for the vaccine when given by a health department. Private physicians do not charge for the vaccine, but they do make a charge for their professional services in giving it."

You can cut and cure the best hay in the world, but according to Extension Service agronomist J. Frank McGill, it has to be stored in a dry, dark place to preserve its quality.

The insecticide, Malathion, has been approved for use in dairy barns but has not been cleared for use on cattle, says Dr. C. R. Jordan, Extension entomologist, College of Agriculture.

Bahia grass seed are maturing all over the county now, and it is time to get out the old combine and save those valuable seed. Henry Blitch of the West side community and supervisor of the Ogeechee River Soil Conservation District, says his seed are ripe and should have been combined last week for maximum yield.

Which brings up an important point to consider in combining bahia seed. Old hands in this game like Mr. Blitch know that you can't get all the seed ripe at the same time. Some will be shelled while others are still green when the majority of the seed will strip off the stems easily when pulled through the hand.

Besides Mr. Blitch, several farmers are preparing to combine bahia shortly. J. W. Brannen and Arthur Riggs in the Register community, Theron Neal of Stilson, and W. R. Almon of Statesboro, there are many other farmers who have bahia that could be combined for good profit. It would be well for them to investigate the possibility of getting their combined by custom operators. I will be glad to assist anyone who is interested.

A total of 7,271 head of graded lambs were sold at Georgia's six lamb pools this year, reports Harold Clum, livestock marketing specialist with the College of Agriculture Extension Service.

Which brings up an important point to consider in combining bahia seed. Old hands in this game like Mr. Blitch know that you can't get all the seed ripe at the same time. Some will be shelled while others are still green when the majority of the seed will strip off the stems easily when pulled through the hand.

Besides Mr. Blitch, several farmers are preparing to combine bahia shortly. J. W. Brannen and Arthur Riggs in the Register community, Theron Neal of Stilson, and W. R. Almon of Statesboro, there are many other farmers who have bahia that could be combined for good profit. It would be well for them to investigate the possibility of getting their combined by custom operators. I will be glad to assist anyone who is interested.

A total of 7,271 head of graded lambs were sold at Georgia's six lamb pools this year, reports Harold Clum, livestock marketing specialist with the College of Agriculture Extension Service.

Following their usual bountiful supper, a general discussion of problems came up and two short motion pictures of an entertaining nature were shown. Friday is always "the foulest or fairest" it seems and for the past few monthly meetings it has been a "foulest" one for Ivanhoe. At least the weather was too threatening for normal attendance.

Farm and Family Features

Farm Bureau

Middleground Farm Bureau holds annual Family Night; have big time

All happy families resemble one another, especially so at the Middleground Farm Bureau's annual family night meeting. The members of that organization always "put the big pot in the little one" for the family when they invite the rest of the household to dinner.

J. L. Deal, W. C. Hodges, Homer McGinnis, H. D. Deal and the others in charge of the supper brought in all the barbecued chicken, salad, apple tarts, etc., the group could consume Thursday evening.

Gary Barnes and Chucky Huiett entertained the gathering with their guitars and songs.

Everyone was happy. The feeling seemed to add and multiply as the various individuals divided with each other. J. Doy Akins, their president, expressed the feeling that such meetings were a source of exquisite and enduring delight and should be held more often than just once every year.

Mr. Akins held the meeting to fun and play. No business was important on such an evening.

IVANHOE MEETS
Ivanhoe met Friday night, and Sir Francis Bacon probably had such an event in mind when he wrote "He that hath wife and children hath given hostages to fortune, for they are impediments to great enterprises, either of virtue or mischief."

SAFETY HINTS from the Red Cross

Wishes of some members not present would have to be made before announcing such a move. In years gone by Ivanhoe held most of its summer meetings on the banks of the Ogeechee.

NEVILLS MEETS
The Nevills Farm Bureau will meet next Wednesday night and Register on Thursday night. Both will meet at their school lunch rooms.

Peanut processing companies are expressing a lot of concern over the damaged peanuts that have been offered for sale during recent years.

Some of them have made surveys on harvesting methods and the effect they have on quality. One concern came up with the recommendation "That the stack row be dug a week to ten days ahead of harvesting, which will be two rows. The stack poles be put deep in the ground. The cross pieces placed twenty inches above the ground and the two rows of the stack row be stacked. The remainder of the crop can be dug when ready, sun-dried for ten hours and stacked around the pole until the peanuts are ready to be shelled above 60 per cent.

The damage last year on such harvesting was less than one per

Georgia peaches to be hard to get

Special to The Bulloch Herald
By Everett Williams, delegate from Georgia at the National Democratic Convention at the International Amphitheater, Chicago.
CHICAGO, Ill., Aug. 14—Georgia peaches are hard to get. In this case there are thirty-two of them in the packet and they are the number of votes which the Cracker State will cast for somebody at this National Democratic Convention.

Nobody knows who will get them, and that includes the Georgia delegates themselves. They simply have not decided yet.

When the time comes, though, the nation undoubtedly will be hearing from Georgia in a loud strong voice. Many are suggesting that Governor Marvin Griffin nominate a favorite son or a darkhorse candidate. This maneuver would be made to gain twenty minutes speaking time which is allotted to every nomination speech on national television and radio networks. They would be used to present Georgia's views to the nation.
