A Verse For This Week

It shall be, if he call thee, that thou shalt say, Speak LORD, for thy servant heareth.—1 Sam. 3:9.

Youth At The Wheel

If your son and daughter has turned fifteen years of age they are pleading to be allowed to take a drivers license test that may secure a license to drive the family car.

A large number of these young people have already been issued licenses to drive. The test is fairly simple for a smart boy or girl. It consists of driving the family car around the court house block and crossing the intersection of the main streets at the traffic light. A State Patrolman is beside the applicant. The applicant is careful and attentive to the problem of passing the test.

When he passes the test and is issued his drivers license he becomes "A Youth At The Wheel," and at that moment he assumes the same responsibility as that of his father and mother and the mayor and the governor and the president.

If you have just assumed this responsibility this is addressed to you.

Nearly every automobile accident is caused either through ignorance or carelessness on the part of the driver. The number of accidents that occur as a result of mechanical failure is properly cared for, or of improperly constructed highways, is such a small part of the total that it is negligible.

The accident records show that drivers under the age of twenty are the most dangerous drivers on the American highways. Thirty-nine out of every thousand of them, licensed to drive, were involved in accidents in a single year, while licensed drivers between the ages of forty and forty-nine had only twenty accidents per thousand during the same period.

Veterans, Be Smart

To the Veterans:
During the early days of the assault on that Pacific Island, Guadalcanal, you were the fair headed child.

When you hit the shores of North Africa you were Democrats favorite.

When you met Hell at Salerno you were your nations heroes.

As you stormed up on one beach after another and pushed forward through all the Axis powers could throw at you you were acclaimed by the peoples of the United Nations.

When World War II ground to a standstill you were the most loved man in the world.

Take stock of yourself on the part after VE-Day and nearly a year after VJ-Day.

Are you still the most loved man in the world?

If the answer is "NO" have you tried to determine why this is so?

If the answer is "YES" then this is not to you.

The war is now over. You are a civilian. You are finding it so difficult to you now as you found the army difficult then. But you now are having to solve these difficulties just as you faced and solved them then.

Stick To The Record

Former Gov. Eugene Talmadge is a stickler for truth... in other words, he is forever berating "them lying newspapers" and holding "foul" most indignantly whenever one of his political opponents uses Gove's figures to show what he left the State—not out of debt, as claimed—but very far in the red.

Mr. Talmadge's record regard for the truth, however, is notably lacking in many of the charges which emanate from his own political headquarters.

This week, for instance, Mr. Talmadge got out a form letter to a carefully selected list of Georgians a letter calculated to elicit their support and contributions. In it, Mr. Talmadge made the charge that the Atlanta newspapers and "Communist CIO" had promised thousands of dollars to make the Governor's race.

That, of course, is a lie. Promised anything anything and does not intend to do so.

As for the CIO, Mr. Talmadge's son, Herman, was reportedly been around CIO Headquarters seeking help to get to work that organization has not yet pledge support to anybody. And that all indications now are the CIO will support the candidacy of Eulith Dickinson.

... But Don't Blame Us If the Almanac Is Wrong!

THERE COMES THE time when a man just has to have his hair trimmed. Of course some of us have less than others and when we get in the barber's chair we get a quick job and be on our way.

We found ourselves in that shape when we just had to give the little we have trimmed, so we hied our way to the tonsorial parlor. It was early Friday afternoon and there were working away at their thought an ideal time to catch the barbers taking it easy.

We were wrong. We looked in. We saw a place and all three chairs occupied. Roy Parker at chair no. 1, Frank Miller at chair no. 2, and Wiley at chair no. 3.

Three customers—Nickle Brown, age 8; Jimmy Brown, age 5, and Bobby Brown, age 3. Mrs. Bing Brown, their mother, was patiently sitting it out. We picked up a magazine and Mrs. Brown apologetically said, "When I get my family out you can get a chair."

The Browns were well behaved. We remember having used to squall to the rafters when the man went to work on our hair—those were the days when we had plenty of hair.

THE WAR'RE NOT OVER for us. Last Thursday we fought two pre-war tires all the way from Blithen to Savannah. Six times we changed the tires on one wheel!

It was rough. We are now qualified to change a tire. We are now qualified to change a tire.

THE ARMY IS STILL making it easy for the boys to get in. A

FARM LAND VALUES

Reports from throughout the Nation indicate that farm land and farm real estate values are continuing to rise. The Georgia Extension Service, advising prospective buyers to get proper consideration to the long term earning capacity of the land.

FARM LIVESTOCK INCOME

Cash farm income from the sale of farm livestock and livestock products in Georgia during the first ten months of 1945 was $88,000,000, an increase of ten percent over the same period in 1944, the Extension Service reveals.

FARM LABOR SUPPLY

The supply of farm labor continues short and farm wage rates are higher than ever before, the Extension Service points out, urging farmers to make the best possible use of all available farm labor.

Home demonstration work is an educational program for rural women and girls which is conducted in farm and rural homes instead of in classrooms.

Rivers, the most recent issue of the News-Digest having gone out of its way to present Mr. Carmichael's candidacy in an unfavorable light.

Mr. Talmadge is a worried man. But one would advise him, even in his desperation, to stick a little closer to the truth.

As we said on yesterday, The Constitution, pursuing an independent course, intends to call the record on each and every candidate.

—The Atlanta Constitution.

The Preacher Says

REV. CLAUDE G. PEPPER

I am glad that we observe Family Week in our country. Since the home in our fundamental social institution; since 1,327,000 people take the marriage vows in the United States each year; it is well that the people of America should observe a Family Week, that they should consider anew the home, and the things that make for happiness in the home.

There is no greater blessing on this earth than a happy home. Certainly if a man succeeds here he is a success even if he should fail elsewhere. If he fails here he fails all other points. However, we must realize that such a blessing does not come without effort. A happy home is no accident. We must constantly be reminded of the fact that the happy home is a creative achievement, and not only this, but also that it is a collective achievement in which every member of the family has a part. This is brought, and emphasized, by the Apostle Paul, who in his Letter to the Ephesians sets forth the duties of each member of the family. In Ephesians chapters 5 and 6 we read: "Wives submit yourselves unto your own husbands as unto the Lord... Husbands love your wives as Christ loved the Church and gave Himself for it... Children, obey your parents in the Lord: for this is the first commandment with promise... And, ye fathers, provoke not your children to wrath, but bring them up in the nurture and admonition of the Lord." In the setting forth of domestic duties, each member of the family is reminded of his responsibility.

Others playing were: Mrs. Julian Hodges, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Olliff, Miss Mary Sue Atkins, Henry Blitch, Mrs. Frank Hook, I. R. member Mama by John Van Druen, Soldier's Wife by Rose Frank, Dear Ruth by Norman Kras, Harvey by Philip Yordan and Polish Notion by Philip Barry.

first volume of a series planned to cover the background history of Europe from 1912 until today. This one deals with the family of Alexander Reuther, sixty-year-old newspaper owner and publisher of Prague, who has just cast off one love and ready for a new one. Against a background of political unrest and social decay, Alexander's granddaughter Wally plays around with a wealthy Croatian; Cousin Adrienne becomes a socialist, and the Austrian government goes to pieces. The book ends with the assassination of Arch-Duke Ferdinand. Filled with incident, sometimes violent, sometimes sentimental, rich in the color and charm of the period, Twilight on the Danube reminds us of Upton Sinclair's Lanny Budd stories.

A guide to the past-45 theatrical season on Broadway is Burns Mantle's latest volume, THE BEST PLAYS OF 1944-45 (Dodd, Mead). Beside the ten plays include in this book there is a host of information of other plays of the year, plots, cast, number of performances, etc. Among the plays chosen are The Glass Menagerie by Tennessee Williams; The Late George Apley by John P. Marquand; A Bell for Adano by John Hersey; The Heart by John Patrick; I Remember Mama by John Van Druen; Soldier's Wife by Rose Frank; Dear Ruth by Norman Kras; Harvey by Philip Yordan and Polish Notion by Philip Barry.
