A Verse For This Week

I thank God that the gospel is to be preached to every creature. There is no man so far gone, but the grace of God can reach him; no man so desperate or black, but He can forgive him—D. L. Moody.

Let No Seed Be Sown Here

So far there has been no recognition in Bulloch County of the right of the Klan to be represented by the Ku Klux Klan. But there are sections in Georgia, as well as other states—California, New York, Tennessee—where reorganization seeds are being sown.

At the same time Americans in official and unofficial positions are taking steps to prevent the revival of the collection of "K's." In New York State the attorney general will ask the Supreme Court this month for an order dissolving the Klan.

In California, the attorney general, striking at organized intolerance in the Far West, outlawed the Klan.

In Tennessee a fight is in progress to stem the organization. In Georgia, Governor Arnall, is moving against the men who would smear the name and progress of our State.

Ralph McGill in the Atlanta Constitution is aroused and has been calling spades, "spades" and has brought down the wrath of the hooded order on his head in his fight against it.

A copy of the Klan's membership includes the things for which the Klan purports to stand. These are revealed in a letter published in June 6 Constitution. They claim to uphold the constitution, to promote church and state, to promote law and order, to guarantee

"Let Me Lie Where I Fall"

The Congress of the United States has recently passed a bill authorizing the return and final burial of all personnel of the armed forces who died overseas since September 8, 1939.

The estimated cost is between $195,000,000 and $215,000,000 and will be paid by our government.

The bill provides that the remains of our dead may be returned to the United States or any possession or any territory of the U. S., for interment by next of kin in a private cemetery; or, may be returned to a foreign country, the homeland of the deceased fighter, for interment by next of kin in a private cemetery; or, the remains may be interred in a permanent American Military Cemetery overseas.

The family of every American who fought and died in World War II overseas has the right to request the Government to return the body for burial at home. And it is readily understandable why many will prefer to do so. But we believe that if your son had an opportunity to express his wishes before he fell he would have said, "Let me remain where I fall."

"We believe we know how your son felt about it. We used to talk about it before 'D-Day.' We reconciled ourselves with the possibilities of our 'getting it.' Without an exception if he was to be killed everyone wanted to be buried where they died, fighting. Those with combat experience had seen their friends buried beyond identification. They knew it could happen to them, and to avoid the curtain of doubt in the minds of their loved ones at home wanted to 'bury me where I fall'."

The $195,000,000 to $215,000,000 involved in the reburial program would be well worth expending if it would bring any ray of lasting comfort to bereaved relatives. But fastening of attention on the material body too often deprives one of the comfort and peace that comes with the realization of the spiritual aliveness of the one who has gone on. No Jap bullet, or German shell could put love, courage, and other endearing qualities that can never be snuffed out because they are eternal into the inexorable feet of earth. Surely loving hearts shouldn't attempt to do so.

He's A Neighbor of Ours

"What are you doing for your young people?" is a question that M. E. Thompson candidate for lieutenant governor of Georgia, has been asking for years.

He became interested in the answer to that question well before the war ended with particular emphasis on the problem of attracting veterans back to their home towns and counties to make their

Good Books Are True Friends

In the best books great men talk to us, give us their most precious thoughts, and pour their souls into ours—Channing.

Few marriages are successful and few men or women know why. HAWK'S FLIGHT by Helen Hull (Coward McCann) is a story of four marriages, a study of four different experiments made by men and women in the difficult task of living together. The characters are friends and neighbors but the Ridge in the hills of Connecticut where two of the families live and the others have summer homes. Ellen Hunter means to have everything: a good marriage, social position, wealth children and a successful career in advertising. Lawrence, the husband, is a well disposed but surely gentleman who really has no ambition beyond the satisfaction of his simple needs—love, children and peace. Adelaide identifies herself intensely with marriage, wishing nothing except her husband, her sons and her home. John Burchall a fine fellow and a first-rate architect keeps his equilibrium on the firm base of her approval. Genevieve Willett wishes to dominate her husband completely and choose the devious path to her goal. She is ill health to gain her jealous desire. Dexter, her husband is a sensitive intellectual academic man too sharp to be aware of responsibilities—wishes his marriage to sustain him against a formidable world. Carey Moore is ambitious, she intends to publish more of them. So, aiming to please our readers here is another batch. See how good you are. The answers are on the political page.

SAVING VETCH SEED

Indications are that both demand and prices for vetch seed will be good this year, according to the Georgia Extension Service reveal. Georgia farmers who have vetch which show prospects of good yields are urged to make every effort to save these valuable seed.

AGRONOMIST SAYS TESTS SHOW VALUE OF GEORGIA CLOVER

The superiority of a hard-seeded variety of crimson clover developed in Georgia is being proved in tests made in the southeast and as far north as Maryland, E. D. Alexander, agronomist of the State Agricultural Extension Service, reported this week.

"This variety was developed through long years of volunteer and the elimination by heat and drought of plants from seed that are volunteering each year should save all seed possible. We need all of our seed here in Georgia but as we extend our acreage we will be able to supply the out-of-State demand for this desirable variety of crimson clover."

SPECIALIST SAYS FLAME CULTIVATOR MAY AID FARMERS

Much of the high cost of hand labor required to control weeds and grass in cotton crops may be eliminated by flame cultivation, Candler C. Miller, cotton ginning specialist of the Georgia Agricultural Extension Service, predicted this week.

Production costs can be reduced materially through the use of the flame cultivator, Mr. Miller said. Cost of controlling weeds and grass in cotton can be reduced from three to five dollars per acre to between 50 and 75 cents per acre with flame cultivation.

Butane or propane gases or a blended mixture of 40% of each can be used as fuel for the cultivator.

FARM BUREAU FEDERATION MEMBERSHIP INCREASES

A report on membership just released by the state office of the Georgia Farm Bureau Federation in Macon shows that enrollment of farmers to date represents an increase of more than 2,000 over the same date in 1945, "which gives strong support to my hope of reaching a total of 50,000 members in the organization by the end of the fiscal year," stated President H. L. Wingate when he left his office for Washington to confer with members of the congressional delegation regarding matters of interest to Georgia agriculture.

"When our membership reaches 50,000," Mr. Wingate said, "we will then have a new appreciation for the value of combined efforts toward solving problems with which our farmers are faced."

In a recent issue of The Nation's Agriculture, official organ of the American Farm Bureau Federation published in Chicago, the Georgia Farm Bureau executive was quoted as having stated that "problems of Georgia farmers will be solved much more easily when our membership reaches 50,000," and he magnified the fact that "I hope each chapter in the state will bear this figure in mind when they make plans for the membership drive this year."

Mr. Wingate is highly optimistic over the outlook for reaching this new high in membership this year. He has appeared at many meetings over the state in the interest of the organization, and in each address he points out the fact that "achievements of the Georgia Farm Bureau are based on mem-

War Dead May Be Brought Home

WAR DEPARTMENT READY WITH PROGRAM FOR RETURN AND FINAL BURIAL OF WORLD WAR II DEAD

With the passage by Congress and the approval by the President recently of the bill authorizing the return and final burial of all personnel of the armed forces who died overseas since September 3, 1939, the date of the Limited National Emergency, the War Department announces that all next of kin will be asked to state their wishes about disposition of the remains. The program will be carried out by the office of the Quartermaster General.

The next legal of kin may express their desires within the following options:

1. The remains may be returned to the United States, or possession of territory thereof, for interment by next of kin in a private cemetery.
2. The remains may be returned to a foreign country, the homeland of the deceased, for interment by next of kin in a private cemetery. Shipment to a foreign country is dependent upon the ability of the United States Government to obtain entry there. If entry can be obtained, shipment will be made to city or town designated by next of kin.
3. The remains may be returned to the United States for final interment in a National Cemetery. This is restricted to burial of remains of members of the armed forces only. When this option is desired, the remains will be transported to the continental United States and interred in the National Cemetery selected by the next of kin.
4. The remains may be interred in a permanent American Military Cemetery overseas. The establishment of permanent American Military cemeteries overseas in the European area and the Philippine area is contemplated should the number of requests justify their establishment. If this be the choice, the remains will be interred in a permanent American Military cemetery abroad.

The wishes of Army next of kin will be sought by the Quartermaster General and the Navy will send out the inquiry to next of kin of Navy, Marine and Coast Guard deceased.

Return and final burial plans include civilians who died overseas and who were serving with the Red Cross and War Shipping Administration as well as newspaper correspondents and other civilians attached to the armed forces. Inquiries of their next of kin will be sent out by the office of the Quartermaster General.

The cost of return and final burial is estimated to be between $195,000,000 and $215,000,000. Congress requires that the task be completed within five years but Major General T. B. Lanier, the Quartermaster General anticipates that it can be completed in less time. All costs of burial overseas in an American Military cemetery or in a National Cemetery in the United States will be paid by the government. If burial is in a private cemetery in the United States the government will pay up to $50.00 of the interment expenses upon application to the office of the Quartermaster General.

Graves registration and complete verification of all records is now in progress both in overseas theaters and in the office of the Quartermaster General in Washington. In each theater there is a Command and control overseas the American Graves Registration Service is a responsibility of theater commanders. When a theater is closed, graves registration responsibility then will pass directly to the Quartermaster General.

Return of remains will be progressive which means that information on the final disposition of remains will be sought from next of kin only as the record of each cemetery is completely verified. Therefore, inquiries of next of kin will be mailed only as verification by cemeteries in different parts of the world is accomplished, which may mean that the next of kin of different deceased, who may live adjacent to each other may receive inquiries at widely separated times.

The War Department states that the remains of those who were recovered and identified and be asked to state their wishes. The first inquiries will be mailed within a few weeks.

It is pointed out that final disposition obviously involves only those remains which have been recovered and are buried either in temporary military cemeteries overseas or in isolated graves. Many thousands of military personnel were buried at sea or lost at sea when ships sank. Others were lost in beach landings and their bodies never recovered. Many files died in plane crashes over enemy territory and no trace of their bodies has been found but search for their graves is still going on and will continue, the War Department states. It is estimated that of the 328,000 reported dead of World War II there are approximately 75,000 whose bodies were not recoverable.

The War Department will make frequent announcements regarding all activities relating to return or burial overseas, so next of kin may be readily informed by all means.

Preston For Congress

I hereby announce my candidacy for Representative in Congress from the First District in Georgia in the Democratic primary to be held on July 17, 1946, and respectfully invite the support of the voters of this office.

Farming is the chief industry of the District, with its eighteen counties, stretching from Burke to McIntosh and from Chatham to Wheeler, and, if elected, I shall concern myself primarily with the interests of the agricultural producers, and promise that my first official act will be to introduce and work for the passage of a bill to utilize government credit to set up and maintain a minimum price schedule on all our agricultural products, including truck crops, such as the price of peanuts is now supported a price that will not be dependent on the fluctuations of the Commodity Credit Corporation.

I will support an effort designed to change the inauspicious rule in force for fixing parity prices on farm products, which denies to the farmer any credit for his labor, and that in the future it will be required that a reasonable allowance be added for the farmer's labor as an essential element in fixing parity prices.

I am a member of the Georgia Farm Bureau and believe in its principles and pledge my active support of all causes sponsored by it.

Because of my sincere interest in veterans' rights and affairs, I will be found ready and willing to further their cause at all times and will support legislation to pay them a bonus and grant them terminal leave pay.

I believe in freedom of enterprise with the least governmental control. I shall take a stand against restrictive measures which tend to retard reconversion and discourage investments.

Believing that a great responsibility rests on leadership in government to bring about a just, fair and proper solution of the labor-management problem, I pledge my best efforts towards bringing this about so that there may be a lasting and permanent relation of harmony established.

I will represent each of the counties of this district fairly and impartially and will earnestly strive to promote the welfare of its people.

Respectfully,
PRINCE H. PRESTON, JR.

Duties Of Your County Registrars

(Editor's Note: This is the third of a series of articles on requirements, rights and instructions for voters, registrars, etc.)

1. Section 34-401 requires the Board of Registrars to convene on April 20th, or Monday thereafter, if April 20th falls on Sunday, and to begin the work of perfecting a true and correct list of the qualified voters of their county. The list furnished by the tax collector is prima facie evidence of the right of the person whose name appears thereon to vote. This Section provides the manner and method by which the registrar shall perform their work of perfecting a list of voters.

2. Section 34-402 of the Code of 1933 provides that all names on the list taken from the voters' book and not appearing on the list of disqualified voters shall be entered on the list of registered voters unless withheld therefrom by the registrars. No name appearing on the disqualified voters' list shall be taken as a registered voter.

3. Section 34-403 of the Code of 1933 provides that the list of disqualified voters shall be entered on the list of registered voters when the registrars are convinced by sufficient proof that such person is, in fact, not qualified as an elector. A name appearing on the list of disqualified voters shall be entered on the list of registered voters when the name appears on the list taken from the voters' book and when, in addition thereto, the registrars are convinced by sufficient legal proof that such person was not disqualified, or that the disqualification has been removed. No name shall be entered on the list of registered voters unless it was signed in the voters' book as shown by the list taken therefrom.

4. Within five days after completing the list of voters, the registrars shall file with the clerk of the Superior Court a complete list of the registered voters of the county as prepared and determined by them. The list shall be alphabetically arranged by Militia districts, city wards, and shall be the list of voters to be used for the general election for that year and for the primaries or other elections held during the year. Sections 34-404 and 34-405, Code of 1933.

NOTE: Since the law requires the registrars to file the list of registered voters by June 1st, should the registrars file the list by June 1, 1946, it would be necessary for the registrars to make up and file a supplemental list of all persons who registered after filing of the 1946 list including all who registered up to and through July 5th. It would be the duty of the tax collector to furnish the registrars with the list of all persons registering after the filing of the 1946 list through July 5, 1946.

NOTE: I have not dealt with registration or supplemental list of voters for special elections. I will be glad to undertake to furnish such information as I may have.

5. Chapter 34-6 of the Code of 1933 provides that the list of registered voters shall be open to inspection by any applicant who had sought to register and was not permitted to do so or whose qualifications are being contested by anyone.

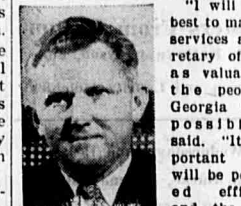

Any person whose name appears on the voters' book is entitled to a hearing after notice, before his name should be left off of the voters' list. Section 34-604, Code of 1933. The registrars have power of subpoenaing witnesses for such hearings. Section 34-602 of the Code of 1933.

6. The list from the voters' book furnished by the tax collector or to the registrars shall be open to public inspection, and any citizen of the county shall be allowed to contest the right of registration of any person whose name appears on the list of the qualification of

Ben W. Fortson Seeks Endorsement Term

Conducting a vigorous campaign for an endorsement term as Secretary of State of Georgia, Ben W. Fortson, Jr., pledges himself to efficient service in that important office.

"I will do my best to make my service as Secretary of State as valuable to the people of Georgia as is possible," he said. "It is an important duty which will be performed efficiently and the public will receive courteous and prompt attention to every request that comes to my office."

Fortson served four terms in the Georgia Assembly. During debates on important measures, his wheel chair always was "down front." As chairman of a House subcommittee, he handled legislation extending the franchise to 18-year-old Georgians and was the author of the Georgia Soldiers' Ballot Act, regarded as the best legislation of its kind in the Nation. He was a vigorous leader in the fight to establish a non-political penal system, and served as chairman of the committee on the University System and on Hygiene and Sanitation. Regarded by his colleagues in the legislature as one of the most energetic and valuable members, he is receiving assurances of widespread support in his campaign for an endorsement term as Secretary of State.
